ACCEPT BLAINE CHALLENGE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Charging that four prohibition agents, sponsored by Samuel S. Koenig, chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, failed to enforce the dry law in his district, Representative William I. Sirovich of New York today presented in the House a resolution calling for an investigation of the course of the Prohibition Administrator of New York and his agents to determine "why the law is being openly flaunted" in that city.

The four men named by Dr. Sirovich, who is a physician, were John J. Kerrigan, Samuel Kurzman, William Beneniki and one Engelberg. The Congressional district represented by Mr. Sirovich, the Fourteenth, runs from the East River to the Hudson below Fourteenth Street, and embraces Greenwich Village, as well as part of the lower east side.

Also Offers Modification Bill.

The resolution, which provides for a special investigating committee of seven House members, was presented, with a bill to modify the Volstead act to permit the sale and manufacture of beer and light wines, after Dr. Sirovich had denounced law enforcement in New York City and demanded a change in the government regulations which prescribe the use of poisons in the denaturing of alcohol

Leaders of the dry bloc stated they would not oppose a New York inquiry, and while the Republican chieftains are averse to such a move the belief here is that public sentiment will compel them to agree to it.

With this move in the House and the announcement of Representative La Guardia that he would move tomorrow to strike the appropriation for the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury Department bill because of alleged illegal ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The House granted today Mr. La Guardia's request that action be deferred until tomorrow on the section of the bill embodying an appropriation of $15,000,000 for prohibition enforcement.

Senate drys asserted that the time had come thoroughly to test prohibition sentiment in the country by action on the several pending resolutions.

Senator Borah and others favor action on Senator Blaine's resolution to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, and other drys feel that the resolutions to amend the Volstead act also should be voted on to silence agitation.

The prohibition question is becoming so intense in both houses, despite the desire of some leaders to stifle inquiries, that there are indications that the issue will become the dominant one after the passage of the tariff bill.

Began With Poison Alcohol.

Dr. Sirovich, had an hour in which to explain to the House the "evils" of denatured industrial alcohol. Before him as he spoke were bottles containing the different "poisons" used in denaturing processes and a chart purporting to show their effect on the human system. While he was appealing for a change in the method of denaturing alcohol he launched his attack on the New York enforcement situation and declared that prohibition had led to lawlessness and corruption of public officials.

"In my district the boss of the political organization which dominates the Republican side of New York appointed four Republican agents," he said. "One of them had his picture in Collier's Magazine as a former thief, as one arrested for carrying burglars' tools, as one who was accused of murder. He was appointed several years ago, but only last month the Department of Justice trailed him as he was following trucks of liquor. His wife sued him

Yale Housing Plan Means Five Quadrangles by 1933

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 17 (AP).—An idea of the size of the house plan gift of Edward A. Harkness, '97, to Yale University is given in the Yale Alumni Weekly, which tomorrow will comment at length on its scope. It will mean five new quadrangles, each accommodating from 200 to 250 men, with three more to be reconstructed from existing groups of dormitories. The university general funds will be added to give sufficient endowments to cover salaries and expenses of resident faculty heads in these quadrangles.

The new system will be ready during the university year of 1933-34.

WESTERNERS PLAN FIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—By a vote of 54 to 22, the Senate today defeated the amendment to the tariff bill offered by Senator Howell of Nebraska, providing for the payment of a bounty of 44/100ths of a cent a pound on sugar, 90 per cent to go to the beet and cane raisers and 10 per cent to the refiners. The Senate's stand, it was predicted by Western Senators, presages a bitter struggle to free the Philippines of American sovereignty, not on grounds of sentiment but to remove the competition of the more cheaply produced Philippine sugar.

Before the debate on the bounty Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee gave notice that when the sugar schedule is reconsidered for individual amendments he will make a motion to fix the rate on world sugar at 2.50 cents a pound, and on Cuban sugar at 2 cents a pound, in place of the existing duties of 2.20 cents a pound and 1.76 cents, as provided by the Harrison amendment adopted yesterday.

Senator Ransdell, Democrat, of Louisiana, who favors Philippine independence, said today that the next step would be an attempt to limit the importation of duty free sugar from the Philippines to 600,000 tons a year. His colleague, Senator Broussard, attempted to obtain consideration for such a proposal today, but was prevented by an objection made by Senator Borah.

Predicts Action on Philippines.

Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, author of the Philippine independence bill pending before the Senate Committee on Territories and Insular Possessions, predicted tonight that the measure would be passed by the Senate.

Meanwhile, friends of the administration in Congress are beginning to show concern over the agitation for Philippine independence because of its possible effect upon the London Naval Conference. They are appre-

Commissioner Says Bullet in Yale's Body Led to Clue, but He Refuses to Comment on Terranova Angle.

The first clue in the murder of Frankie Yale, gang leader and racketeer, who was shot down in a Brooklyn street eighteen months ago, was announced last night by Police Commissioner Whalen. In making the disclosure the Commissioner forged a link between underworld murders here and in Chicago.

The means by which the police obtained their clue was a bullet taken from the body of Yale. Enlisting the science of ballistics, and cooperating with the Chicago experts, detectives found that the bullet had been fired from a Thompson subcalibre machine gun found in the home of the notorious Frederick Burke, alias Dane. Other tests showed that the machine gun had been used in the St. Valentine's Day massacre of seven of the George (Bugs) Moran gang in a Chicago garage.

Burke is a fugitive with $100,000 in rewards posted for his capture. He was described by Mr. Whalen as the "most wanted man in the United States." In addition to the gangster massacre, he is charged with a murder in Detroit eight years ago and with the murder of Patrolman Charles Skelly on Dec. 14 last. Skelly halted Burke's car near the outlaw's home in St. Joseph, Mich., and was shot down without warning. Machine guns and an assortment of other weapons were found in Burke's home.

Traced to Chicago "Arsenal."

The rapid-fire weapon used to kill Yale and the Moran thugs has been traced to an "arsenal" in Chicago. According to the police, the "arsenal" was patronized by the gunmen led by Alphonse (Scarface) Capone. At the time Yale was murdered there were persistent reports that he had been slain on orders from Chicago. Capone at that time insisted that he had been a close friend of Yale.

The flattened leaden slug which accomplished results so sweeping was taken to Chicago several days ago by Detectives Stanley Gorman and Harry Butts, ballistic and small arms experts of the Police Department. They conferred with William Russell, Police Commissioner of Chicago, and he sent them to the ballistic laboratory of the Bureau of Crime Detection at Northwestern University. The director of the laboratory is Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard. Dr. Herman Bundesen, Chicago coroner, joined in the tests.

Bullet Completely Checked.

"Detectives Gorman and Butts are expected back tonight," said Commissioner Whalen, "but pending their return I telephoned to Commissioner Russell. He tells me that the bullet corresponded in markings to bullets fired from the weapon found in Burke's home in St. Joseph. Bullets extracted from the victims of the St. Valentine Day massacre in Chicago showed identical markings. The check-up of the Yale bullet was complete in every way, I was told.

"Wentworth's Love Nest," Built in Revolution, to Be Razed

KENILWORTH, N. J., Jan. 17.—The historic "Wentworth's love nest," the home built near Galloping Hill Golf Club here by a soldier in Washington's Army for his bride, who died on her wedding day, will be razed to make way for a real estate development.

The house was built shortly after the Revolution by Hiram Wentworth. After the death of his fiancée he lived alone in the house for years and died a bachelor.

WRONG MAN KILLED, BOY, 10, SHOT IN CHASE

NEIGHBORHOOD IN PANIC

A negro, believed to have been an ex-service man, was killed and a 10-year-old boy playing in front of his home was wounded, probably fatally, amid utter confusion yesterday afternoon precipitated by a hold-up that neither of them had witnessed. The hold-up took place in the barber shop of Carnello Martinez at 165 Columbia Street, Brooklyn, and the shootings occurred near by.

Martinez was putting the finishing touches on a shave of a customer at 4:15 o'clock in the afternoon. Two other customers lolled in chairs, one with his coat and collar off ready for a hair cut. They were reading newspapers and Martinez was intent on his razor when a low but determined voice muttered:

"Stick 'em up and make it snappy! Get up from them chairs!"

Martinez dropped his razor. His belathered customer scrambled up. The two others also complied. Two robbers herded them into a tiny rear room, where, while unsuspecting citizens hurried by outside, they were robbed of all their cash and jewelry.

Cash and Jewelry Stolen.

According to the police record Martinez surrendered $475 in cash, including what was in his cash register; a diamond ring valued at $300, a rare gold watch and chain valued at $500 and a diamond stickpin valued at $75. The three customers gave up $400 in cash and jewelry.

"Keep your traps shut if you don't want the daylight let through you," one thief ordered.

The door was locked from the outside. Bursting with anger, Martinez cast about for a way out. He picked up a tumbler and smashed the pane of a small window, the only egress from the room. Assisted by the other victims, he scrambled through the narrow opening, leaped down to a hallway and raced to Columbia Street. About twenty-five feet ahead the two thieves were striding toward Degraw Street.

Thief Turns and Opens Fire.

Martinez said he hesitated because he was unarmed. But he followed, keeping his distance, and glancing hither and yon in the hope of sighting a blue uniform. At the corner of Degraw Street, the thieves turned west, and as they did so one glanced back. He recognized Martinez, whipped out a pistol and fired at Martinez four times.

Martinez dropped to the pavement, but he was uninjured; and then he saw a small boy lying on the sidewalk. One of the gunman's bullets had entered the abdomen of Salvator Samerati, 10 years old, who a second before had been romping in front of his home at 106 Degraw Street. Later, it was said at Long Island College Hospital, where the boy was taken, that he was not expected to live.

Meanwhile, the shots had started a panic. Screams and shrieks mingled with the sound of hurrying feet as passersby ran for cover. Patrolman John F. Sullivan of the Butler Street station rushed down the street, pistol in hand. But the thieves seemed to have taken advantage of the confusion to disappear.

Sullivan, a police marksman, asked persons in the crowd if they had seen the gunmen. "They got into an automobile and drove off," said some. "They ran in opposite directions and hid in hallways," others were equally certain. Sullivan, with his right hand close to his hip, looked into hallway after hallway.

Girl Gives a "Clue."

At last, in the hallway of a building at 99 Degraw Street, he found a young woman who was obviously in a state of nervous apprehension. "Did any one come this way?" said Sullivan. The girl nodded, too breathless to speak. "Where did he go?" the policeman asked. The girl pointed down the hallway leading to a rear areaway.

Sullivan, pistol in hand, tiptoed down the hallway and into the cramped courtyard. It was stacked high with empty barrels, and in the

NON-PARTISAN PLAN TO ELECT JUDICIARY OFFERED AT ALBANY

PROMPTED BY SCANDALS

Union, Declaring Vital Need for Change, Calls Most of New Judges Unfit.

MAGISTRATES UNAFFECTED

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—With the cooperation of two Republican legislators from New York City the Citizens Union started a movement today to improve the quality of the judiciary by divorcing the election of judges from party campaigns and emblems. A bill to carry out this purpose of a non-partisan judicial ballot was dropped in the bill boxes by Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter and Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat for formal reading in each House on Monday.

At the same time the Citizens Union, through its secretary, R. E. McGahen, made an appeal for both public and legislative support of the measure as a means vitally needed to eliminate the unfit and misfit from the bench.

In a vigorous attack on the character of recent additions to the judiciary, Mr. McGahen declared that most new judges "have conspicuously failed to measure up to the standard that should prevail." Party obligations, trades and deals are ruling considerations in the elevation of men to the bench, he said, adding that the infrequent bipartisan endorsement of judicial candidates for re-election has not proved a much more successful system because it puts a premium upon a judge's deference to both major parties.

Although the measure is Statewide in effect, it was prompted by judicial scandals in New York City and by the campaign of last Fall. The resignation of Judge Francis X. Mancuso from the General Sessions bench under criticism for his part as director of the defunct City Trust Company, the present investigation of magistrates, the election to the bench of men criticized by the New York City Bar Association, and the defeat of former Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan in the Second Judicial District because he could not obtain the Brooklyn Democratic organization endorsement were matters considered by the Citizens Union in deciding to fight for a change.

Magistrates Not Affected.

In the present draft of the bill, however, magistrates would not be affected because they are appointive officers. It is the thought of Senator Hofstadter that if support develops for such a proposal another bill might be offered to make the magistrates elective and subject to the same elective method prescribed in today's measure.

There remains a strong possibility that discussion of both proposals will be largely academic, since all indications at the capitol point to the desire of the Democratic and Republican organizations to continue their hold over judicial candidacies in the respective districts where the parties are in power.

Under the Hofstadter-Moffat bill candidates for the bench would be nominated by designations signed by qualified voters, regardless of party, in number proportionate to the size of the political unit involved. Nominations would have to be filed by

LABORITE PRESSURE SEEN

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Although dispatches published today say that the American delegation to the London Naval Arms Conference was surprised over Prime Minister MacDonald's declaration for the abolition of battleships, the issue apparently is not causing concern here.

The surprise among the American delegates was due probably to their knowledge that the British Government was aware that the United States Government was not sympathetic to the total abolition of battleships, and that the declaration of the British Premier had been made in the face of that fact.

It has been understood here that great pressure was being brought to bear on the British Premier by a considerable number of members of the Labor party to declare for battleship abolition.

Behind this pressure was the desire to save the heavy cost of battleship construction and apply the money saved to coping with the unemployment situation in the United Kingdom through the construction of public works, which would give employment to many now idle. If battleship construction should be resumed, it is held it would not greatly improve British unemployment conditions.

Sentiment New Among Conservatives.

The Labor party pressure on the Prime Minister was augmented, curiously enough, from Conservative party sources. The sentiment of the Labor party for battleship abolition is not a new thing, but the same sentiment in the Conservative ranks is new and somewhat surprising.

Conservative London newspapers, like The London Times, The Morning Telegraph and The Morning Post, have been campaigning recently for battleship abolition. They are supposed to represent the views of many of those, including naval officials, who do not look complacently on proposals to lessen Britain's comparative naval strength.

One interpretation that might be given to their change of attitude is that with equivalent naval parity between the United States and Britain an almost certain outcome of the London conference, they see the opportunity to preserve a greater measure of British naval strength under parity if battleships are done away with. The basic argument for abolition from Conservative sources is that it will relieve the heavy burden of taxation.

The new attitude of these elements is coincident with the criticism which some of them have leveled at Prime Minister MacDonald for agreeing in advance of the conference to cut down British cruiser strength to fifty

Nearly 1,000 Experts to Aid 30 Arms Parley Delegates

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The delegates to the five-power naval arms conference, with their multitudinous experts and staffs, are rapidly gathering in London. Only thirty delegates will sit about the council table, but their advisers and staffs bring the number of those actively engaged in conference work to nearly 1,000. Among them are twenty-two admirals.

The steamship Duchess of Richmond, with J. I. Ralston, the Canadian Minister of Defense, and the Canadian delegation aboard, is due at Liverpool. The Italians began arriving this afternoon, and the French will come tomorrow. The Japanese, the first on the ground, have been working in London for several weeks and the Americans since early this afternoon.

In his study at Sandringham, Norfolk, King George is giving the last touches to the speech with which, on Thursday, he will declare the great international conference to be formally opened.

Dawes and Gibson Join Naval Group Led by Stimson on Train to London.

DISCUSS STAND AT PARLEY

Group Thinks Demand for Abolition of Battleships Will Not Go to Conference.

By L. C. SPEERS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The entire American delegation to the naval arms parley met for the first time today on the special train carrying them from Plymouth to London and discussed the whole conference situation.

It was the first meeting attended by Ambassador Dawes and Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, who were understood to have come prepared to give Secretary of State Stimson and his colleagues a full report on the happenings in London and other capitals during the eight days which Mr. Stimson and other members of the delegation spent at sea on the George Washington.

The American naval advisers, while not participating in the general discussion, were present singly or in groups when matters arising in the conference made their appearance necessary.

On arriving in England the position of the American delegation as to the battleship phase of the conference remains unchanged. While going into the conference with open minds, hopeful of a harmonious solution of all problems, the American delegates, broadly speaking, do not consider the time has come for abolition of the capital units.

The view of officers of the United States Navy and that of members of the delegation is that battleships are the front line of national defense and, such being the case, must be maintained at a standard necessary for the adequate and efficient defense of the nation.

The American delegates were considerably perturbed when Premier MacDonald's views on the elimination of battleships were wirelessed to their ship on Thursday. It is understood the question of abolition will not be brought up at this conference.

Just what the United States will propose when the matter of capital ships is reached is problematical. There is every reason to say the question has not been decided. In some usually informed quarters the opinion is that America will in due time be ready to discuss a reasonable reduction in the size of these units, and perhaps the number when the fleet is considered as a single unit.

The United States also is expected, when the time comes, to have a definite position on aircraft carriers, which may involve their size, armament and number. The maximum size of aircraft carriers was fixed at the Washington conference, but any signatory nation can build as many carriers of not more than 10,000 tons as it wants. Here a situation similar to the light cruiser problem may arise unless action is taken to limit the construction of aircraft carriers of less than 10,000 tons.

Mr. Stimson and other members of the American delegation will hold in the next week or ten days many important executive sessions with the LONDON, Jan. 17.—Full of hope for complete success, the American delegation to the five-power naval conference reached London today. Guarding its counsel as it approaches the opening meeting, the American group is losing no time in getting to work, for its head, Secretary of State Stimson, went direct from Paddington Station on his arrival to 10 Downing Street to confer three hours with Premier MacDonald.

That so much time was employed indicates the importance of the conversation, and the reticence on both sides indicates the delicacy of the conversation. It would be no surprise if the two statesmen touched the question of the abolition of capital ships, for, as the American contingent arrives, it becomes more and more apparent that an effort is going to be made to commit the conference to the principle of the abolition of the capital ship as a tool of war.

It is almost surprising to see how the European nations concerned have swung their attention from cruisers to capital ships. Only a few short weeks ago little attention was paid to battleships and most attention was paid to cruisers. Now it is being argued in London, Paris and Rome that the real road to naval economy lies in curtailing radically the most expensive warships.

America Demands Battleships.

Official and unofficial evidence points to the United States refusing to adopt the principle of the eventual wiping out of capital ships. It has been emphasized that America regards battleships as the backbone of the navy. While with possible modifications America would agree to the postponement of replacements until 1936, it seems there is little likelihood that Washington will accept the idea that the biggest warships of the future should be only about one-third the size of the capital ships of today.

No one will question the perfect right of America to oppose the suggestion for doing away with the majestic floating fortresses of her navy. That right is just as clear as the right of the French to oppose the abolition of the submarine. There can be no agreement at the five-power conference except by unanimous consent, and just as the submarine cannot be abolished except with French consent so the capital ship cannot be abolished even by implication without American assent.

It need be no surprise if the American position against the abolition of battleships is used politically in the conference. That would be only natural. The Americans will surely hear in response to their plea for reductions, which President Hoover has said could not be too drastic for the United States, the reply that the most profitable reduction would be in the category of the ships which cost most. European critics already are bringing forward the argument that the battleship is an essentially offensive weapon and that the conference, proceeding from the Kellogg pact, should turn its attention first to offensive ships because the anti-war pact justifies only wars in self-defense.

There is not the slightest doubt that, when the time comes, the American delegation, if it so chooses, can advance sufficient arguments, both technical and political, for retaining capital ships. It might work out that the United States delegation will decide it is wise to reveal its position on battleships at an early date to avoid any one drawing the deduction that America is not sincere in asking for drastic reductions while at the same time refusing to do away with capital ships and planning to build more cruisers.

It is entirely possible Mr. Stimson and his lieutenants have not yet figured on the results of the large propaganda certain to be carried on by some delegations, but as the situation develops it stands to reason

New York shivered yesterday in the first cold snap of the new year as the mercury sank to a low mark of 16 degrees at 5 A. M. Although it rose to 27 at 1:30 P. M. the average for the day was only 22, nine degrees below normal for the date. The Weather Bureau predicted snow for today with much colder weather tonight.

The mountain and prairie States were suffering from record-breaking low temperatures and snow-laden gales, according to The Associated Press. Two men were frozen to death near Pioche, Nev., while in Spokane a young woman, blinded by driving snow, walked into the path of a railroad train and was killed, bringing the death toll from the weather in the last three days to nine. More than a score of others were unaccounted for in Wyoming as the roads were almost completely blocked by snow.

The Oklahoma State Capitol at Oklahoma City was thrown open to the homeless last night as the Southwest suffered from unprecedentedly low temperatures. Eighteen below zero was reported in New Mexico, 10 below in the Texas Panhandle, and 12 below in Oklahoma, while in the Northwest the cold reached a low mark of 56 below at Basin, Mont.

Disaster threatened more than 600,000 sheep, left unprotected before the storm on the open plains of the grazing States, while in Northern California 8,000 head of cattle were threatened by starvation as snow blanketed their usual grazing places. Freezing of the water supply in many places carried another threat to the live stock.

Fifty men on horseback left Flagstaff, Ariz., to succor a party of seventeen road construction workers reported snowbound with little food in a cabin sixteen miles north of that town. A bus-load of passengers, stalled sixty-three miles from Caspar, Wyo., was saved from freezing by John R. Allen, Wyoming Commissioner of Law Enforcement, who battled his way two miles through the storm with the temperature 40 below to get firewood.

A blizzard which hit the Pacific Northwest wrecked a ferryboat at Tacoma and temporarily forced the cessation of inter-city water transportation there. The waning of the cold wave was reported from the Canadian Northwest, however, where it is usually most severe. In Alberta and Manitoba thermometers had risen yesterday to the relatively moderate neighborhood of 20 below zero.

American Girls With Stimson Startle London In Their Fur Coats and Sheer Silk Stockings

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—This is how one woman writer appraised "those startlingly different" American girls accompanying Secretary Stimson:

"Nearly all the typists wore beautiful fur coats. In England it is only actresses who look so smart and striking."

She writes in The Evening Standard:

"One girl wore a black sealskin coat, lined with clipped rabbit. Her small hat and high-heeled suede shoes were black, too, and her stocking of the sheerest silk. The English working typists would probably stride through them in half an hour. All the girls wore scarfs swathed gracefully inside their coats. English girls would have tied them into fussy knots. Thus far, the English girls have suffered by comparison.

"I admit we are less smart, less well groomed and less sure of ourselves than these attractive Americans. But I will say we still have our complexions. Every American typist I saw was made up as though for the stage. It was well done and it suited their amazing chic clothes, but it looked startling on the Paddington Station platform."

The writer holds that older American women are "charming." These middle-aged American women paint less than the middle-aged English. One with a huge collar of blue fox fur framing her dignified face had that attractive ivory tint that the skins of American women seem to develop."

that the world's leading advocates of open diplomacy will use the advantages that system contains.

It is a perfectly good guess that, within ten days from the opening of the conference next Tuesday, most of the delegations will be telling the world frankly all about their national positions, with many details. No delegation will be more able than the American delegation, and it contains excellent judges of public opinion. No one doubts it will be long before Mr. Stimson says much more in his press receptions than he saw fit to say today.

But, after all, if the delegations all approach the conference with emphasis on their national needs it will measure the sincerity of the meeting. No foreign policy, in conferences or out, is worth anything if it reposes on any other basis. If the French need submarines, if the English need cruisers, if Americans need capital ships, then they will all say so and firmly.

If there are no large reductions in sight as the result of the deliberations of the five-power conclave it is quite clear that if a limitation is placed on the national needs of the five nations, constituting a maximum beyond which they will not go for a fixed number of years, an immense stride toward stabilizing the international situation will have been made. Every nation concerned will have assurance of the position it deserves in relation to the positions of the other countries. There would be no more room for suspicion and distrust. The history of such movements indicates the changes of such an arrangement would be downward and not upward.

In a way the conference which King George will open on Tuesday represents a focusing of all the peace work done in the past ten years. If, after the League of Nations covenant, the Locarno pacts and the Kellogg pact, five of the most serious nations in the world could not agree on the limitation of their fleets, the situation would be one which no careful observer believes would come about. There certainly are difficulties, and many of them, but if there were none there would be no need for a conference.

There is every expectation among the Europeans that the delegation headed by Mr. Stimson will present a policy representing a careful and studied balance between the desire for international cooperation and the necessity for adequate defense.

AMERICANS TO MEET MACDONALD TODAY

Stimson Will Present Delegates Formally—To Call on Grandi and Tardieu Sunday.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Secretary Stimson, who devoted his first three hours in London this afternoon to a call at 10 Downing Street, will return there tomorrow at noon, accompanied by the entire American delegation, for a formal presentation of the members to the British Prime Minister. On Sunday Mr. Stimson has appointments with M. Tardieu, head of the French delegation, and Dino Grandi, chief of the Italian group.

No appointment has yet been arranged for Mr. Stimson's meeting with Reijiro Wakatsuki of the Japanese delegation, but there probably will be ample time for that Monday.

After his talk with Mr. MacDonald Mr. Stimson returned to the American headquarters at the Hotel Ritz in Piccadilly, where he saw the British and foreign press representatives. He made no bones of the fact that he was too tired after the hard storm at sea on the George Washington and the tedious and delayed journey from Plymouth to London to have much to say for publication. By contrast with the long, meaty naval talk which they had had from their own Prime Minister earlier in the week, the first appearance of Mr. Stimson on the scene of the conference was a distinct disappointment to the representatives of the London press, even after making due allowance for his travel weariness. He mentioned his visit to Downing Street but dismissed the subject of his three-hour talk with the Prime Minister merely by saying he had an excellent cup of tea with him.

No Word on Battleships.

In reply to a question about battleships Mr. Stimson said: "The only vessel I care to talk about is the George Washington. They made us very comfortable aboard her despite the bad weather. I think the fact that we landed at Plymouth, which port is so significant in American history, is a good omen."

Mr. Stimson then tried to end the parley with the remark that there would be no press conference tomorrow and that the only engagement he had tonight was to go to bed. But somebody asked if he would not say just a word about the American expectations as to the results of the conference. He said, "We are full of hope that the conference will be a success."

"May we say,' asked some one else, "that the American motto for the conference is faith, hope and parity?"

Mr. Stimson received that with a good-natured laugh but refused to commit himself by any comment of further reminders from his audience that "of these the greatest is parity" or that "parity covers a multitude of sins."

It is of course the fairest inference in the world that a good part of that three-hour talk over the excellent cup of tea in Downing Street consisted of comparing notes on the developments preliminary to the conferences which have taken place since the British Prime Minister and the American Secretary of State last saw each other in Washington and especially since Mr. Stimson set sail for England a week ago. It has been in this last week while the American delegation was at sea that greatly increased emphasis has been placed by the British Government on the matter of reduction in size and number of battleships and postponement of their replacement period. This is a phase of the general subject of armament reduction on which the Americans and English will probably need many talks before some sort of compromise between the desire of the United States for capital ships and Mr. MacDonald's frank avowal day before yesterday that he would like to see them eventually eliminated altogether.

Japan's New Request.

Another topic on which the leaders of the American and British delegations no doubt compared notes today was that of Japan's request for a greater tonnage ratio in cruisers than she is allowed for battleships by the Washington agreement of 1922. On this subject America and England are in complete accord, thinking that no promise of a concession to Japan should be made before the conference at any rate.

As fruitless as their negotiations were in Washington, the Japanese came away from the American capital with more hope of success later on than they have been able to derive from their conversations with Mr. MacDonald.

ENGLAND WELCOMES OUR NAVAL GROUP

HENDERSON GREETS THEM

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Hailed as a modern Mayflower bringing pilgrims of peace, the liner George Washington with the American delegates to the naval conference reached the shores of England today.

The ship dropped anchor in Plymouth Sound before dawn, and several hours later the American Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson, and the other members of the American party received a hearty official reception when they landed at Plymouth from tenders. Another warm welcome was accorded them when their special train reached Paddington Station here in the afternoon.

It was still dark, with the moon shining, when newspaper men boarded a tender which took them to the liner, ablaze with light, lying offshore. Despite the early hour all in the American party were up and ready for the last siege of their pilgrimage.

Happy That King Will Speak.

Secretary Stimson was found in the ship's lounge and gave the correspondents here their first interview with him, wherein he recalled that one of his ancestors and two of Mrs. Stimson's forebears had left the same port of Plymouth in 1636 aboard the Mayflower. His first message to England was an expression of delight that King George was sufficiently recovered to be able to open the naval conference.

The Lord Mayor of Plymouth, the Commander-in-Chief of the Navy Yard there; Ambassador Dawes, who had left London at midnight with Ray Atherton, counselor of the embassy, and Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium were among those waiting on the dock when the tender brought the delegates ashore. It was a colorful scene, with the Lord Mayor and the city officials wearing their bright robes and chains of office and flanked by four mace bearers.

Replying to the Lord Mayor's address of welcome, Secretary Stimson thanked him for the reception to the Americans at such an unseasonable hour. "This historic town," he said, "has a tender place in the heart of every American, and we deem it a happy augury that this delegation, coming to represent the United States at a conference, should take its first step on the soil of England at this spot."

It was nearly 10 o'clock when the special train left Plymouth to bring the party to London. There were no stops en route and it was noticed that the train aroused the attention of towns along the line, the people on station platforms and on the streets eagerly scanning the windows for a glimpse of the delegates.

Officials at Station in London.

A large crowd was at Paddington Station when the train arrived there to welcome the delegates after their four-hour journey from Plymouth. Among the welcomers at the London station were Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary; A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty; Sir Robert Vansittart, chief of the Foreign Office; Vice Admiral Sir Charles Madden, First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, and Malcolm MacDonald, representing his father, the Prime Minister, who was unable to be there because he had to address an agricultural meeting.

The crowd of people at the station was as interested in seeing the young women secretaries of the American delegates as in seeing the latter themselves. This was apparent in the amount of space given to those feminine members of the American party in the evening newspapers, nearly all the young women having been interviewed by British journalists, to whom they confided their bitterest disappointment that the Prince of Wales would be absent during their stay here.

One thing noticeable at Paddington Station was that the American wearers of top-hats far outnumbered the British wearers. There were scarcely half a dozen in the throng before the train arrived, and at least twenty of the American party delegates and experts stepped from the train with top-hats. This was a somewhat ironic touch, because it was learned that Secretary Stimson had provoked minor disputes when many of the Americans had started to leave the ship wearing ordinary soft hats.

TARDIEU WINS VICTORY ON EVE OF NAVY PARLEY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—On the eve of the London Naval Arms Conference the Tardieu Government obtained today in the Chamber of Deputies a significant success over the Opposition on an issue which had many elements of danger.

Several leaders of the Left groups, including Edouard Herriot and Leon Blum, had supported the Communist demand for a debate and vote on the position of those Communist Deputies who were in prison. Their arguments were that it was unjust to the electors and not liberal to keep men in prison whose place should be in Parliament.

Lucien Hubert, Minister of Justice, who in the absence of Premier Tardieu led the government, refused to accept the Communist motion and declared the vote to be one of confidence in the government. Despite the traditional attitude of leniency toward their colleagues the Deputies voted, 309 to 256, against the motion, giving the government an excellent majority of 53.

The session of the Chamber was opened by President Fernand Bouisson, who had been elected to that post for the fifth successive year.

ITALIANS OPTIMISTIC ON ARMS PROSPECTS

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP).—Despite the failure of France and Italy to reach a preliminary agreement for limitation of their naval armaments, optimism prevailed in the Italian delegation to the five-power naval conference tonight. It was inspired by the confidence of Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, who arrived today from Geneva.

The Foreign Minister, who is just over 30 years of age and the youngest of all the delegates assembled here, is full of hope that the cause supported by President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald ultimately will triumph and thus further strengthen the Kellogg anti-war pact, assure peace to the world and lighten the financial burdens of all countries.

Those conversant with Italian affairs know that the views of Signor Grandi are synonymous with those of Premier Mussolini, whose right-hand man he is. The Foreign Minister was one of the earliest Fascisti, having joined the movement soon after fighting in the World War as an officer of Alpine troops.

Mussolini discovered and appreciated his unusual ability as an orator and jurist and placed him at the head of the Foreign Ministry to complete the task, begun by Mussolini himself, of making it clear to all that Italy would not permit herself to be considered a satellite of any power or group of powers but had an independent policy aiming at resurrection of the nation both at home and abroad.

Italians believe that Signor Grandi, better than any one else, can convince the powers here that Italy wishes to achieve her national aspirations through a long period of peace and hard work.

Italians feel that ample proof of Italy's aspirations for peace is afforded by Signor Grandi's avowed willingness to reduce armaments to an extreme limit, placing only, the condition that other powers do so proportionately. This means that he is ready to accept limitation of Italian naval forces to any figure, however low, but will refuse to accept any solution which places Italy in a position of permanent inferiority to any other continental European power.

If an effort is made to do this, Italians aver that Mussolini would have no difficulty in obtaining the support of the whole nation for a policy aiming to place the army, navy and air force, as well as its 40,000,000 inhabitants, in the fittest condition to face any enemy whatever sacrifices might be entailed.

Signor Grandi would prefer that only total naval tonnage be fixed, leaving each country free to distribute it among the various classes of war craft as each thinks best. He is ready, however, to discuss limitation of each category of ships as well as suppression of submarines, provided all countries do the same.

Members of the Italian delegation do not find acceptable the recent suggestion of France that Italo-French parity apply only to the French Mediterranean fleet. They believe that if France were left free to develop forces in the Atlantic which could be rushed into the Mediterranean in time of need, Italy would have an equal claim to building up a force in the Adriatic to be used in the same way.

BATTLESHIP ABOLITION WINS WIDER FAVOR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The weekly political magazines here show a surprising unanimity in their views in support of the new British position in favor of the abolition of capital ships.

The New Statesmen says:

"To reduce the maximum size of battleships from 35,000 to 30,000 or 25,000 tons is not enough. If battleships cannot be abolished altogether they ought at any rate to be limited to 15,000 or even 10,000 tons. Abolition, we suppose, would not be accepted at present by America.

"But will America agree to Prime Minister MacDonald's proposal that for a certain period there shall be neither new building of battleships nor the replacements provided for by the Washington treaty? Such a holiday for five or ten years would be an immense gain. Not only would it save us many millions but it would probably end in nobody wanting to resuscitate these absurd monsters."

The Spectator observes:

"The sole function of battleships is to fight battleships. If they are abolished no country would be in a more dangerous position than it is now."

The Saturday Review says the two main questions before the conference will be the Mediterranean situation and battleships, and it repeats Sir Percy Scott's question, "What is the use of the battleship?" It adds:

"Battleships are simply what their name implies—ships to be used in battle. If no nation possessed them the situation would be exactly the same as if all nations possessed them. What is the use of the battleship? That is the question on which the powers will concentrate?

"The British taxpayer would rejoice if the conference were to come to the conclusion that the battleship could with safety be abolished. But the British Government has wisely laid it down that they can only effect reductions in concert with others. We cannot afford a sentimental gesture."

delegates of other nations in an effort to smooth the way for real results when the conference comes to writing the naval limitation treaty. The reports in some places that the situation is not so harmonious as painted are not borne out by the facts. The Americans are confident the conference can make great strides forward in the reduction of the naval burden. It may require much skillful navigating, but the Americans are convinced that the principal reforms so earnestly desired by President Hoover will be attained in the end.

WATCHFUL WAITING IS FRANCE'S POLICY

ASSUME DEFENSIVE STAND

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—There is every indication that at least during the first part of the London Naval Arms Conference the French delegation, headed by Premier Tardieu, will observe a policy of watchful waiting. In reality the French as invited guests to the conference feel that suggestions should come primarily from those who issued the invitation. Their position will be, first, one of defense of what they consider their legitimate interests, and second, one of active cooperation in the establishment of a formula of limitation which will conform to the world's interests and not to the interests of only one or two countries.

In this situation, in so far as France is affected, there has been little or no change since the French memorandum was issued. They have been satisfied and indeed reassured by the response given by England and the terms of Prime Minister MacDonald's public utterances. While it is admitted that the British and French viewpoints are still widely separated on many issues, it is felt that there is an underlying ground for agreement on the principle that the size of fleet which each country claims must be based on its own careful assessment of its needs for security and protection of its overseas possessions and its lines of communication. There is evidence, too, in Mr. MacDonald's statement that on several points of great importance the agreement in view may fairly easily be reached.

Hopeful on Italian Claim.

Actually the French are more perturbed over the differences which seem to exist between the other delegations than between themselves and any one else. For instance, here the Italian claim to parity with France is regarded as far more susceptible to arrangement if the conference proceeds on other than quite arbitrary principles than is the difference between the United States and Japan. It has been with surprise, too, that the French have read the reaction on the part of Washington and the United States delegation to Mr. MacDonald's suggestion with regard to the gradual obsolescence of capital ships. They have been at one time led to believe that an agreement between England and the United States was far closer and more complete than appears yet to have been obtained.

Naturally enough it is with the British and not with the American attitude in this respect that the French are inclined take sides. Thus Le Temps tonight, in discussing the incident, writes:

"It must be admitted that if consolidation of peace by reduction of armaments is sincerely desired Mr. MacDonald is in the right. Capital ships are the offensive weapon par excellence. It is this arm which in good logic must first be reduced or suppressed before a beginning is made in limiting the essential means of defense by which the nations desire merely to cover the needs of their security."

Other points of divergence between London and Washington, such as that on the maximum tonnage of battleships, is also being noted with some uneasiness about the results of the conference as an instrument toward the consolidation of good understanding and peace.

Japan's Demand Noted.

Japan's claim to a 70 per cent cruiser ratio is also being noted and the effect it may have on increasing rather than diminishing the cruiser strength of Anglo-Saxon countries.

Then there is a divergence of views between London and Tokio with regard to both battleships and submarines.

It is on these divergences rather than on their own position with regard to partners at the conference that the French are now concentrating their attention. For here the belief is very firmly established and supported that the French position with regard to its needs is better than any other and has a wider approval in the world than any other. The French delegation will not oppose the claims of any other country. Even the claim of Italy to parity is regarded as not a matter for French concern. If Italy desires it, regrettable as it may be for the cause of limitation of armaments, it is for her to decide. M. Tardieu and his colleagues will, however, be equally firm that neither must any other country seek to oppose or reduce her claims, for which she is ready at any moment to produce complete justification.

"France," says Le Temps, "will not oppose the justified pretensions of any country. She will be content to ask that her own needs, as she has established them on the basis of the length of her coast lines and the capital importance for her security of communications with her overseas possessions and the protection of her trade, should be really met. That for us is the sine qua non for any limitation of our naval forces. If the other powers base their claims in a similar fashion no one will have anything to say, for it is only on this principle that good, sincere and durable work can be done."

CRITICIZES JAPANESE VIEW.

Writer Hints Dominions, Not America, Rule British Attitude.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 18.—Hector C. Bywater, writing in The Daily Telegraph, says the Japanese delegates to the naval arms conference, in their disappointment, ascribe Premier MacDonald's unfavorable attitude toward Japan's 70 per cent cruiser demand to "a British desire to placate America."

It does not seem to have occurred to the Japanese, adds Mr. Bywater, that Mr. MacDonald, who on his own admission has not yet had an opportunity of informing himself regarding the views of the dominions, may have more cogent reasons for not committing his Majesty's Government to any new cruiser strength until the Australian, New Zealand and Canadian representatives have been consulted.

Mr. Bywater has received the impression that the Japanese intend to hold out firmly for 70 per cent, whatever tonnage in heavy cruisers may be fixed for the United States and Britain.

WILL ROGERS LOOKING ON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Among the naval conference arrivals interviewed today was Will Rogers, who says he is representing the perpetual minority party of the United States and is distinguished as the only American who has not served on any Hoover commission.

"I am looking on at the conference and Hell-and-Maria, but I won't wait for disarmament—I haven't enough money," he said.

FOR RESTRICTING TRIBUNAL.

Kean Says World Court Should Not Be Able to Force Us Into War.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP).—Senator Kean of New Jersey is opposed to the adherence of the United States to the World Court if that body obtains power to determine whether the country shall remain neutral in time of war.

Saying he still had an "open mind" on the subject, Senator Kean yesterday told New Jersey representatives of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War that he was unwilling to express himself in favor of the court until he made a further study.

"Whether or not the United States becomes a belligerent or remains a neutral in any strife should not be determined by a group unfamiliar with American customs and thought," Mr. Kean declared.

WASHINGTON DOUBTS BAN ON BATTLESHIPS

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

vessels. At the Geneva naval conference of 1927 the British delegates insisted that the needs of the empire required at least seventy cruisers.

In some competent quarters here the course of those who do not look with favor on the prospect of Britain losing command of the seas, although parity with the United States was accorded in principle as far back as the Washington naval conference, is attributed to the feeling that with no battleships maintained by any power the British would retain superiority in smaller war craft through being able to put guns on a preponderance of their merchant ships and through having naval bases for defense, repair and refueling throughout the world.

But the underlying reason for Mr. MacDonald's willingness to abolish battleships, according to other opinion, is to save the heavy cost of building and maintaining these expensive types in order to apply the money saved to meeting the general unemployment situation.

The abolition of battleships would cause a revision of naval values throughout the world. The Hoover Administration is opposed to abolition. It is probably not too much to say that the administration does not expect to see an agreement for abolition reached at London. Therefore, in the improbable event that abolition would be agreed to, new factors would have to be considered and worked out in determining the comparative naval strength of the participants in the conference.

Our Delegation Seeks Cuts.

The United States is heartily in favor of making some reduction in battleship strength, but its view inclines to extending the period within which battleships may be replaced and in reducing the permissible maximum size from the 35,000 tons fixed by the Washington naval treaty, although unwilling to come down to the maximum of 25,000 tons which the British are expected to propose if abolition cannot be accomplished.

The American delegation has been convinced of the soundness of the navy's view that a force of battleships is necessary for the naval needs of the United States and when the delegation left here there was every determination to adhere to that view.

Japan also is unwilling to abolish battleships, although conceding that she accepts the abolition proposal in principle. In the circumstances, although Britian, France and Italy will favor the idea of abolition, the expectation here is that the battleship issue will result in a compromise, probably along the lines of deferring the period of first replacements until 1936, though extending the life of battleships for five years, and in reducing the possible maximum tonnage. In addition, the United States might consent to further limiting the number of battleships to be maintained by the British and American navies.

At present the United States has eighteen battleships to sixteen battleships and four battle cruisers for Britain, the last named vessels being powerful first-line armored ships and much faster than a battleship. Under the Washington treaty parity between Britain and the United States in battleships would be ultimately attained through failure to replace old battleships until each navy had a force of fifteen.

The United States has four battleships which will reach the age of obsolence, when it will be permissible to replace them with new tonnage, before any British battleship reaches the age limit. Two of our battleships reach the age limit next year, but no British battleship until 1934.

Around the conference table in London the United States may bring up this fact with the purpose of using it as a trading point in seeking to obtain adoption of its own ideas as to how the battleship question and questions affecting other classes of naval vessels should be handled in the task of bringing about parity between the American and British fleets.

PEACE GROUP URGES BAN ON SUBMARINES

Conference on Cause and Cure of War Also Favors Abolition of Battleships.

MRS. CATT IS RE-ELECTED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Conference on the Cause and Cure of War today adopted a nine-point program to promote world peace. The conference adjourned its four-day meeting after re-electing Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt as chairman. The next meeting will be in Washington, Jan. 27-30, 1931.

The nine points, representing the general agreement reached by the discussion groups, are:

1. To promote understanding of the full implications of the general pact for the renunciation of war, and to study ways by which machinery can be built for making it effective.
2. To support the ratification by the Senate of the protocols for the accession of the United States to the World Court.
3. To promote education on the significance of the inter-American arbitration treaty, and to work for its ratification.
4. To study the position of the United States in relation to the League of Nations, and to work toward the strengthening of cooperation with it.
5. To carry on our efforts directed toward the greatest possible reduction of naval armaments at the London conference, and to continue the education for a reduction of all types of armaments.
6. To study the economic problems which endanger the relations of the nations, with especial emphasis on tariff policies and the competitive search for raw materials and for markets.
7. To study the problems which arise out of the intervention of the United States in weaker countries in its efforts to protect life and property.
8. To improve the methods of education used by our organizations, in order that we may intelligently and effectively meet efforts which seem to be directed toward the continuance of the traditional war system.
9. To study the extent and effects of military training in schools and colleges.

It was also resolved to develop more effective cooperation with similar women's groups in other countries.

After a lively debate on Article V, the original recommendation "to carry on our efforts to work for the success of the London naval conference" was changed to read "to carry on our efforts directed toward the greatest possible reduction of naval armaments at the London conference," and an additional resolution was adopted favoring not merely reduction of armament, but "immediate and total abolition of battleships and submarines, and substantial reductions in other classes of ships. Another resolution offered from the floor, urging adequate appropriations for the State Department, also was passed.

Foreign Delegates Speak.

Reviews of the work of women's groups abroad were given by Mme. Marie-Louise Puech of France, who said French teachers are using in the public schools textbooks stressing peace instead of war.

The German representative, Frau Dorothee Von Velsen, protested against the placing of responsibility for causing the World War on her country, and also made a plea for easier reparations terms for Germany, expressing her opinion that they were unjustly severe.

Speaking for Great Britain, Miss Kathleen Courtney urged women everywhere to be "innovators and initiators" and to thinks in terms of the future rather than of the present.

That Japan does not consider the immigration controversy of 1924 a closed incident was the message of Mrs. Tsuneo Gauntlett, who said "the wound so needlessly inflicted is still open," and called upon the women to "determine what are the obstacles to a settlement and we women of Japan will work to remove them."

"One great obstacle to world peace is the slowness of representative government," according to Miss Ruth Morgan of New York, spokesman for the United States. She said this slowness was inevitable, as the public has a right to make its views known on national and international issues, but added that "the great unpopularity of the United States in some foreign countries is partly due to the inability of foreign nations to understand these necessary delays."

The contending forces in the world today are economic rivalries, organized along national lines, and the machinery for peace, Professor Ernest M. Patterson of the University of Pennsylvania told the delegates.

"Success for peace is not easily secured, but is dependent upon two main influences, the shifting of the strain from an economic basis and the growth in number and influence of methods by which those differences that are still national can be adjusted," he said.

Trade rivalries as an obstacle to peace were discounted by Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who asserted that much of our foreign trade is in American specialties, which do not conflict with exports from other countries.

FRANCE AND SPAIN PLAN JOINT MOROCCAN RULE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Jan. 17.—After conferring with King Alfonso and Premier Primo de Rivera today, the High Commissioner of French Morocco, M. Lucien Saint, announced that he would leave Sunday for Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, to arrange with the Spanish High Commissioner, the Count of Jordana, to make a joint civil protectorate of the two Moroccos.

Leading financiers ofi Tetuan also will participate in the conference. It is understood that the two countries will work side by side in the development of roads, schools and other public improvements.

Both of the Moroccos have been military protectorates for several years, but since the Riffian trouble in 1925 Spain has adopted a policy of conciliation toward the natives.

PARIS SEES 'POOR RICHARD'

Benefit Performance Is Staged on Franklin Anniversary.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The 151st anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's arrival in France as the first United States Ambassador was celebrated tonight with a benefit performance at the old Odéon Théâtre of Louis Evans Shipman's "Poor Richard," which was attended by Ambassador Edge and representatives of the highest public officials in France.

All seats for the performance were sold out long in advance. The proceeds will go to a charitable foundation which cares for young mothers in distress and their children.

The Franklin Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars also observed the anniversary with a dinner at the Hotel Intetia.

HOLDS NAVY PARLEY IMPORTANT TO REICH

SKEPTICAL ON SUBMARINES

Admiral Hollweg Says Problems Have World-Wide Significance—Sees Might Dominating.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Though Germany is primarily interested in The Hague conference and the Young plan, the newspapers discuss the coming London Naval Arms Conference in a rather sullen attitude. Former Vice Admiral Hollweg voices the German sentiments regarding this conference in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung as follows:

"In London will meet representatives of the five nations which the Treaty of Versailles has designated as the 'principales puissances' [principal powers]. The principal powers today are the sea powers. They meet to grant to each other such measures of armament as correspond with their actual or imagined needs for home defense and protection of colonies. Germany, Russia and Austria are no longer major powers. This classification, of course, is not free from being arbitrary, but there it is, and we have to reckon with it because might is still the dominating factor in world politics.

"Concerning the surpassing importance of this conference we have said and written enough. Political, economic and military—geographical questions of world-wide significance will be discussed. Even the Americans, who never have time to spare, reckon the duration of this conference by months. Its result will influence disarmament on sea and land."

The Deutsche Zeitung, a Fascist organ, admonishes the German people not entirely to forget their geographical situation in their anxiety over the Young plan and Dr. Schacht.

"Has Germany any interest in the London conference?" the paper asks. "Apparently not," it adds, "but only apparently, because the freedom of the seas is one of the problems. The freedom of the seas means that the blockade of a country and the starvation of women and children is impossible. Ships carrying foodstuffs must no longer be stopped or sunk. Had the freedom of the seas been proclaimed before the war, we should have been spared the Versailles treaty. Whether the freedom of the seas—that is, President Hoover's humane proposition for the protection of women and children—will be accepted by the powers is certainly a question worth our close attention.

"Of the principal powers only Italy fights on America's side for the freedom of the seas, but the strong personalities of President Hoover and Senators Reed and Borah will not permit themselves to be swayed from their aim."

The writer is convinced that America is determined to maintain her position as a sea power to the fullest extent, but thinks that she may vote for the abolishment of submarines if the other powers will do the same. Unfortunately, he adds, neither France nor Italy favors abolishment, and Japan is equally reluctant.

SMUTS, IN FAREWELL, FORESEES A NEW ERA

INSPIRED BY HIS VISIT

REASSURES ZIONIST GROUP

Tells Jewish Leaders Britain Will Carry Out Pledge to Foster Palestine Homeland.

General Jan Christiaan Smuts sailed for England last night on the French liner Ile de France after hailing the dawn of a new day in history in a farewell address and assuring Zionists in another speech that Great Britain would carry out her pledge to foster the establishment of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine.

General Smuts's farewell to America was delivered at a meeting of the Students' International Union at the home of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2 East Ninety-first Street. Earlier in the day he was the principal speaker at a luncheon given in his honor by the Zionist Organization of America. Gratitude for the part he played in formulating the Palestine Mandate of the League of Nations was expressed by Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist Organization; Felix Warburg, chairman of the Jewish Agency; Morris Rothenberg, vice president of the Zionist Organization, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue.

Inspired by Visit.

Before he sailed General Smuts prepared a formal farewell statement to America in which he said he would be "ever grateful" for the welcome he received here. The statement failed to reach the ship in time for distribution and was given out by Charles G. Bauer, vice president of the League of Nations Association at his office, 1,115 Fifth Avenue.

"It was inspiring to me," said the General's statement, "to note everywhere the marked interest shown in my conviction, which I felt quite free to express, that America would continue its policy of cooperating with mankind everywhere to try to solve the difficult problems in the international field.

"Your country's contributions in the past have been far-reaching, the recent peace pact of Paris being one of the most noteworthy. To my mind, the next decade will see a continuance of the method of cooperation started eleven years ago, which must lead eventually to a united world. It is certain that hereafter conference and consultation among the nations must be the means for adjustment of international disputes. The minds of the people throughout the world have turned in this direction and their opinions must prevail."

Sure of Aid in Palestine.

As one of the original promulgators of the Balfour declaration by which England committed herself "before the history of the world," to aid the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine, General Smuts declared at the Zionist luncheon that he could say with certainty that the "promise will stand and be carried out, both in the letter and in the spirit." In his opinion, he said, the maintenance of law and order in Palestine and as unrestricted a policy on immigration as the resources of the country would stand were implied in the Balfour declaration and in the league mandate.

General Smuts pointed out that Great Britain never had contracted to "collect Jews from all over the world and place them in Palestine," nor was the promise of a Jewish homeland made with any thought of "hostility or antagonism to the Arabs." He foresaw an amicable settlement of the differences between Arab and Jew "within a generation," with the "wise guidance of the British Government and the strong hand necessary in the East," together with the help of the League of Nations. Jewish numbers, meanwhile, must be increased by immigration in order that the temptation to "the great majority" of Arabs to be "unfair and unjust" may be removed. He urged Zionists not to "adopt a policy of fault-finding" with the British Government, but to set their genius to work at solving problems which concerns them so vitally.

"The British Government will play the game with you," he said, and they will carry out their pledge. On the Jewish people rests the responsibility to be wise, to be statesmanlike, and to help in arriving at a settlement with the Arab people. I think it can be done with absolute consistency with the Balfour declaration. You can have Palestine as a national home without waving a red flag."

"What did the Balfour declaration pledge?" the speaker asked. "Not to bring all the Jews there, but to make a national homeland for those of the Jewish people who want to go there. To my mind the pledge carries two implied promises; it means that such conditions must be maintained there that those who wish to go there may do so without fear or restraint, and it means that no barriers should be placed in the way of Jews who want to go there. I think that was the undertaking, and that undertaking must be carried out. No pogroms under the British flag."

Favors Free Immigration.

Regarding the second phase of the Balfour pledge, General Smuts said:

"There should be early and free immigration into the country. You cannot talk of a national home if the Jewish people cannot get back to Palestine. Home is the place you come back to. If you are excluded from it by conditions which make a return impossible you cannot call it home, and to my mind the second point clearly implied in the Balfour declaration is limited to the extent which the resources of the Jewish people permit and the circumstances and resources in Palestine permit."

Turning to the future, General Smuts predicted that Palestine would reach "as high a destiny as it ever reached in Biblical times," and said:

"It is necessary that Jewish numbers should be increased. The disparity in number between Arabs and Jews is so great that there is a temptation to that great majority to be unjust and unfair to so small and so insignificant a minority. If Jewish numbers were largely increased, if immigration were given free and reasonable play, to my mind it won't take more than a generation before the balance of the numbers will be so largely increased that injustice could not be administered with impunity.

"It is one of the things that will have to be done. You will have to help more than ever with financial contributions in order to accelerate a reasonable pace of immigration to the national home. Not only will your material assistance be necessary, there will remain the problem of statesmanship and making peace with the Arabs. I do not despair. I think that with the wise guidance of the British Government and maintenance of law and order, and with the strong hand necessary in the East, I do not doubt that wisdom will be forthcoming and the initiative even of the Jewish people will be forthcoming to help in the solution of the problems that have arisen with the Arabs. There is a great responsibility on you."

Sees Dawn of Reason.

Describing his speech at the home of Mrs. Carnegie as his "parting words" to the American public, he declared that to him it seemed that "we are living in one of those dawn times of history, those dawn eras when you see the dawn coming. It has not broken yet, the sun has not appeared, but you feel it in your bones; you feel it in your soul that you are moving to a new era when there will be a new human outlook, when freedom and justice and reason will have a new chance, when the ideals of human conduct will come into their own."

He commended the "kindliness, heartiness, the human goodness and spontaneity," of Americans but said that he had found an impression here in many parts of the country which he wished to dispel. There is the impression here that the old world is decadent. On the contrary, today it is almost as if the forces of youth have been released in the Old World and everywhere you see the stirrings of new life.

"You see youth coming to the fore; you see youth movements springing up everywhere in the universities; you see a new life such as you never saw before, a new outlook, a new temper, much more human, much freer, more democratic than ever before."

The Old World, he contended, took "fresh courage from adversity." Holding that "suffering is good for one," he declared that "I often think that is what is wanting here in America." He said that we had "come in sight" of adversity "only once" and that this was during the Civil War.

The destruction wrought by the World War need not cause despair of Europe, he said, because "we are looking forward to the great constructive time of history." "And," he went on, "what would it be like to have a world constructed in the spirit of youth, the old destroyed, the old hatreds, the old despairs, the bonds which bound us and shackled us to the past severed, and a new world of youth, of hope, of faith, forward looking, a new vision such as youth only can feel and see, dawning before the eyes of mankind?

Urges Help for Youth.

"Perhaps I am dreaming, but we can work toward that; and we can give the helping hand to youth in our day to work forward and march forward to that newer day and that new vision of the future; and I think a movement such as you represent here today is very helpful in that respect.

"I feel this: That we have no reason in spite of all that has happened in our lifetime, in spite of all the sorrow that we have suffered, we have no reason to sit down in despair. There are signs of hope in the world today such as I have not known in my lifetime." He cited improvements over the Victorian era already achieved and declared that "we see equality being established between classes; we see all those barriers which meant human misery and human suffering and domination going or gone."

Urges Human Unity.

His "little message" to America, he said, was "the unity of the human family."

"To my mind, that is the ultimate meaning of the great war," he said. "It is the fact that has been hammered home to us through four years of the most dreadful carnage in history, that the human family is one. We are all members of the family and members of one another. If one suffers, the others will in the end be involved in the same common suffering, and if we can realize that fact through such agencies as you are establishing, through the other facts of economic development, industrial development, travel; if we can realize in the era to come this great unity of the human family, develop institutions which will express that unity, develop mechanisms which will maintain peace and good-will in that family, I think this earth will be a far happier place than it has even been before in the history of the world."

The gathering, of about 200 persons, met in the picture gallery of the Carnegie home. Mrs. Carnegie made a brief speech of welcome, following which Herbert S. Houston, a director of the union, introduced the principal speaker. Other speakers were Miss Sara S. Holmes and Mrs. Alexander M. Hadden.

Several friends were at the pier to see General Smuts away. They included Charles C. Bauer, president of the League of Nations Association, and Mrs. Bauer, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, whose guest General Smuts had been while here, drove him to the pier in their automobile and saw him safely to his cabin.

BUTLER STATEMENT IN LOBBY INQUIRY

Carnegie Peace Fund Tariff Data Were Obtained for Importers, Senators Are Told.

MERCHANTS WATCHED BILL

Philip Le Boutillier, for Importers and Retailers, Says Latter Worked for the Consumer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The use of a statement by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler to advance the tariff interests of the National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., which was issued by the Phoenix News Publicity Bureau of New York as coming from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, another of its clients, was indicated in documents inserted in the record of the Senate lobby investigating committee today, during the examination of Philip Le Boutillier, head of Best & Co. of New York.

Mr. Le Boutillier was testifying concerning activities of the publicity committee of the importers' council, of which he was chairman. He was also chairman of the tariff committee of the council and is president of the Retail Dry Goods Association of New York City.

The Phoenix bureau, which is headed by Mrs. Ruth Byers Heed, conducted a national campaign between June 12 and Nov. 1, 1929, for the council, which was working for a retention of foreign valuation of imports in the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

Tells of the Butler Statement.

For fees and expenses totaling $5,976, Mr. Le Boutillier said, the publicity bureau undertook to cover almost every avenue of publication, and its reports to the council showed the widespread method through which its material was selected.

Dr. Butler's statement was obtained early in the campaign. Mrs. Heed wrote a letter to the council in July, saying:

"The Phoenix bureau sent a representative to the Majestic on July 9 to meet Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The Carnegie endowment is one of the clients of the Phoenix bureau, and it is planned to get a statement from Dr. Butler to be sent out as a Carnegie endowment release on the tariff situation."

The statement was distributed, the letter added, to the news services and several newspapers. It was said to have been given out almost immediately after Dr. Butler's return from a trip abroad.

Among other persons from whom the agency reported having received material were Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Senator Royal S. Copeland, Senator Robert Wagner and Professor Charles H. Cunningham of New York University.

Sent Letters to Economists.

It also sent letters to 1,000 economists, asking for opinions on the "dangers" of a high tariff, and received some 300 replies. About 500 women's clubs were polled through questionnaires.

Numerous other well-known people were said to have been asked for helpful material, but Mr. Le Boutillier did not have a record of the responses. The bureau also was said to have worked with New York University and Smith College in preparing tariff surveys.

Senator Robinson, Republican, of Indiana, asked Mr. Le Boutillier for his views on the ethics involved.

"It all depends on the interpretation placed upon it," was the reply. "We were not interested in propaganda. I believe it was educational work."

Concerning Dr. Butler's statement, the witness said "his opinion is worth a good deal."

The material assembled by the Press Bureau, according to testimony and letters, was distributed through news releases, special articles and editorials where they were acceptable.

Senator Blaine asked the merchant about a report from the bureau that it had sent to 500 newspapers, as coming from the National Home Economics Association, a speech delivered before it in Boston on July 28.

"I never heard of it," said Mr. Le Boutillier.

"But they sent it out as news."

Publicity Firm Asked for Funds.

An indication that the publicity bureau had received additional funds was contained in one letter said to have been sent to retail merchants, asking for contributions, with the approval of the council. The funds were to be used to advance the work of a woman's committee.

Mr. Le Boutillier said he told the bureau that the council would not be responsible for this activity, but he gave to it the names of forty or fifty firms which might contribute. He himself gave $100, but he did not know the total raised, he added. Testifying concerning the activities of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, Mr. Le Boutillier said that its total tariff expenditures had amounted to $3,792 including traveling expenses and the preparation of four briefs.

"We represent the consumer," he added, "and, so far as I know, we are the only group that does."

The retailers, it was shown, also maintain an office in Washington, the expenses of which are $16,000 annually. Its activities have no relation to tariff affairs, but Mr. Le Boutillier stated that it "keeps an eye and ear open to what's going on that may affect retail trade."

Harold R. Young, manager of the Washington office, whose annual salary of $11,000 was included in the expense, testified that he had gathered some tariff data for the New York headquarters.

Velvet Companies' Expenditures.

Harry S. Radcliffe of Montclair, N. J., chariman of the velvet group of the Council of Importers and Traders, representing thirty-two business houses, testified that his group was one of the few which wanted a reduction in rates, instead of merely keeping administrative measures in their present form. He said his group had raised $17,500 and had spent $16,800 in the tariff fight.

Of this total, the witness stated, $11,000 had been paid to J. Raymond Tiffany, New York lawyer, for assistance in drawing up briefs. The rest was used for the expenses of members, he added, while Mr. Tiffany still has $4,000 coming under his contract.

Van Sweringens Get U. S. Trucking Control; Avoid Ban on Erie Freight Deliveries Here

Purchase by the Van Sweringen interests of Cleveland of the control of the United States Trucking Corporation, of which former Governor Alfred E. Smith was chairman of the board for two years, was announced yesterday. The acquisition was made through the Pittston Company, which was organized recently to take over the anthracite properties of the Erie Railroad. The Pittston Company acquired control by purchase of the control of the United States Distributing Corporation, which controls the trucking corporation. The price was not announced.

The Erie Railroad, which is controlled by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, began several years ago a large scale system of trucking deliveries which was followed by other railroads entering the New York City territory. Recently, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the railroads to cease such deliveries by truck. The Pittston Company is outside the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission and through the United States Trucking Corporation will be able to carry on an independent trucking business and make deliveries for the Erie along much the same line as before the decision.

Mr. Smith became chairman of the board of the United States Trucking Corporation in January, 1920, after his defeat for Governor by Nathan L. Miller the preceding November, and remained until he took office as Governor again on Jan. 1, 1923. He was brought to the trucking corporation by the late James J. Riordan, who organized the company and was its president at the time.

The formation of the Pittston Company places the Van Sweringens in control of extensive coal properties. In addition to the former Erie coal properties, the company comes into possession of extensive coal and warehouse properties controlled by the United States Distributing Corporation. The Pittston Company plans to raise $20,000,000 by the sale of its stock to Erie Railroad stockholders to pay for the Erie coal properties and control of the United States Distributing Corporation.

AGREE TO POSTPONE TRANSIT MEASURE

SEEK TO CLEAR OBSTACLES

Knight and McGinnies Promise to Aid in Framing Bill to Meet City's Needs.

Submission of the city's rapid transit unification bill to the Legislature, originally planned for this week, has been deferred pending further conferences with Republican legislative leaders, officials of the Transit Commission and the Board of Transportation announced yesterday. Present plans call for another conference with Senator John Knight and Assemblyman Joseph A. McGinnies, majority leaders, either next week or the week after, when they will be in this city.

The decision to postpone introduction of the bill was reached after a three-hour conference here Thursday afternoon. At that time Senator Knight and Speaker McGinnies went over the bill and the clarifying amendments proposed by Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission, with Chairman William G. Fullen of the Transit Commission, Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation, Transit Commissioners Charles C. Lockwood and Leon G. Godley and Andrew M. Williams and Leroy H. Harkness, special counsel for the B. M. T.

The legislative leaders were assured that the proposed amendments were intended merely to clarify powers already enumerated in the 1929 bill, and not to make any substantive changes in that measure. Senator Knight and Speaker McGinnies, it was learned, indicated their entire willingness to cooperate in framing a measure which would give full expression to the city's idea of proper unification legislation. They remained non-committal, however, regarding the attitude they would take toward the bill, whether introduced in the same form as last year or with the Untermyer amendments.

A delay of two weeks, Mr. Delaney said yesterday, would not imperil the bill's chances of passage. Chairman Fullen of the Transit Commission agreed with him that it would be wiser to wait and to submit a measure the form of which met with the approval of the majority leaders. Such procedure, they declared, would prevent any dispute in Albany regarding the wording of the bill and would leave the way clear for prompt action on its merits.

M'CORMICK ALIENIST OUSTED BY COURT

Wife Wins Over Former Chicagoan's Brother and Sister in California Suit.

MORE TRUSTEES ORDERED

Two Added to Board—Relatives of Afflicted Man Are Reconciled in Court.

Special to The New York Times.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Catherine Dexter McCormick won a partial victory today in her fight on treatment of her mentally incompetent husband, Stanley, involving his $50,000,000 estate, when Superior Judge William D. Dehy handed down his decision and failed to approve re-employment of Dr. E. J. Kempf, New York psychoanalyst and $120,000-a-year director of treatment for the court's ward.

Judge Dehy also ordered that two more members, not relatives, should be added to Mr. McCormick's board of personal care. One should be a physician and the other a layman.

The decision is the outcome of a petition of Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brother and sister of Stanley and members of the board of personal care, seeking to approve continuation of the psychoanalytical régime.

The judge based his decision to release Mr. McCormick from Dr. Kempf's psychoanalytic treatment upon the grounds that the patient has not maintained the high level he showed in 1927, and because of the exclusive nature of the psychoanalytic method.

"We do not know where hope lies for the ward; no one seems to know," the decision states. "At the present, it is evident that more careful and constant attention should be given to his physical health and well-being. All these things being equal, the best hope for restoration of soundness of mind lies in a body made and kept sound."

Declaring the board, as now made up, apparently cannot compose and harmonize its differences, the judge recommended selection of two more guardians, not related by blood or marriage to the ward.

The changes in the ward's treatment and the board's make-up are to be made within three weeks.

Harold McCormick and Mrs. Blaine, who were in the court room, shook hands with their sister-in-law after the decision and complimented her on winning the judge to her point of view.

It was the first reconciliation conference between the trio in a year and a half, during which time Mrs. McCormick had declined to attend conferences which her co-guardians suggested to her.

hensive that if the naval powers are led to believe that this country may shortly withdraw from the Far East the reaction might be such as to interfere with plans of Great Britain and other countries with possessions in the Pacific to bring about a reduction in naval strength.

As things are now progressing in the Senate Committee on Territories and Insular Possessions, a vote may be taken on the King bill in the midst of the London naval parley. As an alternative to the King bill, Senator Bingham of Connecticut, chairman of the committee, has proposed that a conference on the Philippine question shall be called by President Hoover to meet in Manila in September of this year.

Bingham Opposes Bounty Plan.

Senator Bingham opposed the bounty plan on the ground that the restriction of payments to growers in continental United States constituted a discrimination against Hawaii and the Philippines. He declared that this country was a guardian of the Philippines and had, if anything, a greater duty over these wards than if they had a different status.

He also read a letter from Under-Secretary Mills of the treasury stating that Hawaii paid more taxes into the Federal Treasury than many States of the Union.

"This is an unfair, unjust proposal, unworthy of the adult sisterhood of the States," Senator Bingham stated in criticism of the bounty plan.

Senator Borah suggested that Japanese labor was being imported into Hawaii for employment in the sugar fields. Senator Bingham denied that this was true, and said that the Japanese in Hawaii came in before annexation, or had been born in the islands, but conceded that Porto Ricans and Filipinos were brought in under contract. He expressed the opinion that when Hawaii came under the sovereignty of the United States it was with the expectation of ultimate statehood.

Senator Howell argued that the bounty was essential for the protection of Western beet raisers against Philippine sugar. He stressed a statement that his plan would cost the Treasury not to exceed $10,600,000 a year, whereas the increase entailed by the new proposal of Senator Smoot placing a duty of 2 cents a pound on Cuban sugar would add $29,769,000 to the country's sugar bill.

Smoot Points to Joy in Cuba.

"I want to call attention to the fact," said Senator Smoot in beginning today's debate, "that there was great joy in Cuba yesterday after the Senate voted. At the Cuban Embassy here a toast was drunk to the Senate. A statement was given out by Ambassador Ferrara in which he said the vote was 'the first step toward a more intimate relation between the United States and Cuba.'

"I want to call attention to the fact that there was no toast drunk by the people of the United States who are going to lose all they have invested in the sugar industry."

Senator Norris of Nebraska remarked that he understood the toast was drunk by some one representing the consumers, "who were glad that they had been relieved of the $54,000,000 tax which the Senate Finance Committee proposed."

"The Senator from Utah ought not to die so hard," Senator Harrison of Mississippi said, and suggested that Mr. Smoot should direct attention to editorials commending the Senate action.

"I am not dying hard at all, and the Senator from Mississippi knows it," replied Senator Smoot.

Molasses Amendment Beaten.

By a vote of 50 to 22 the Senate defeated an amendment to the sugar schedule offered by Senator Steck of Iowa levying a duty of 8 cents a gallon on blackstrap molasses. An amendment offered by Senator Broussard of Louisiana fixing the rate at 4 cents a gallon was defeated by a viva voce vote.

Suggestions made by Senator Steck and others from the West that the existing rate of one-sixth of a cent a gallon should continue on blackstrap used for stock feed, and the higher rate apply on the product used for the production of alcohol, made no headway. The Senate then approved the existing rate.

The Senate also approved the Finance Committee's rate of three-tenths of a cent a gallon on molasses and sugars, not especially provided for in the bill, which test not above 48 per cent total sugars, and thirty-three one-hundredths of a cent additional for each 1 per cent of total sugars and fractions of 1 per cent in proportion.

The Senate has concluded consideration of the sugar schedule for the present. The various rates will be reviewed when the schedule is taken up for individual amendments.

ADVISES CUBAN FORESIGHT.

Havana Newspaper Says Future Tariff Action Is Uncertain.

HAVANA, Jan. 17 (AP).—The newspaper El Mundo said in an editorial today:

"The American Senate has refused to approve now the proposed increase of sugar tariff, but who can assure us that it will do that in the future? Up to what moment will our industry be able to bear the actual situation of low prices?

"It is necessary, therefore, to look to diversification of our crops and industries and on the multiplication of our markets for the true solution of our economic problem, which is not, as many people believe, a post-war problem, but the problem of every small country that begins to live near powerful and rich countries."

BYRD'S FLAGSHIP NEARS ICE PACK RIM

ONLY THREE WEEKS LONGER

Expedition May Have to Curtail Load to Sail in Time—Missing Kites Found Out on Bay.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Jan. 17—The bark City of New York, Rear Admiral Byrd's sturdy little flagship which is coming to take the expedition home, was 444 miles north of Scott Island yesterday and should reach the ice pack in a few days.

What she will find then and whether she will be able to get through the ice is the major topic of conversation in camp. The unusually heavy ice pack this year has made us doubt many times whether the City of New York and the supply ship Eleanor Bolling can penetrate it. Everything depends on the rapidity with which the pack disintegrates in the next few days.

Ordinarily there would be no doubt of the ships coming through easily, but this year the pack was wider at the 180th meridian than any other time since the whales have been coming south.

Whales Scarred in Ice Passage.

This "Summer" the whales did not appear in any numbers south of the pack, and the few which were found were badly scarred by ice.

Admiral Byrd, however, is not at all concerned about the situation. The only disagreeable aspect of it is that the ships may arrive here so late that loading will be hurried and possibly curtailed to some extent in order to get out before the pack begins to consolidate and freeze again. That started soon after the middle of February last year.

The Summer season is short in the Antarctic. Already the days are a little cooler and the wind nips. Our stay here, we hope, is now only a matter of a little more than three weeks longer.

Weather Kites Found in Snow.

The meteorological kites which broke loose a few days ago and disappeared in the south have been found at the bottom of the bay about two miles southwest of Cape Manhead. They were found by Dr. Francis D. Coman, who has been helping in the making of a surface survey of the bay to check up with the aerial survey.

The kites were apparently uninjured, although they were half buried in the snow which had drifted over them in the strong winds since they were lost.

The meteorograph, which records temperature, humidity and pressure was brought back. The meteorologists were delighted to recover it, for it is their best instrument and is the one that was carried on the plane during the polar flight.

Much to their astonishment they found that the kite holding the meteorograph had flown for at least twenty-four hours after the wire snapped. The lower kite must have caught on the snow surface and held the upper one flying until it was brought down by snow or rime forming on it, or by the wind dropping.

It hit the surface of the frozen Bay with a bang which showed on the revolving record sheet, but the instrument was not injured.

The kites can now be re-covered, although it is doubtful if they will be flown much more because our departure is so near at hand.

Edward Hatch Stricken on Train.

ANTARCTIC VETERANS PAY TRIBUTE TO BYRD

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The survivors of ten British Antarctic expeditions, from 1899 to 1922, listened tonight while Major F. Debenham of the Scott expedition paid tribute to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his expeditions over the frozen continent.

"Byrd's men are doing extraordinarily good work in a scientific way," Major Debenham told his fellow explorers, all of whom had spent at least one Winter in the Antarctic and who now were reunited at a dinner at the Antarctic Club. "They are surveying unknown lands from the air and taking soundings through the great ice barrier, which has been a mystery ever since Antarctic explorations began."

Major Debenham also praised Sir Douglas Mawson for his recent discovery of new land south of the Indian Ocean and Sir Hubert Wilkins for flying down the coast to the west of Graham Land.

Tonight's dinner was a happy reunion of old comrades, but it had one moving moment. That was when all the guests stood and drank a silent toast to those who had gone to the Antarctic and had never come back. Foremost among those was Captain Robert Falcon Scott, who eighteen years ago today reached the South Pole only to find that Roald Amundsen had beaten him by a few days. Captain Scott was in every man's thoughts tonight, for he was one who never returned and he was one whom many of them had known and loved.

Half-way through the dinner Vice Admiral R. W. Skelton of the 1901 Discovery Expedition read a message from Admiral Byrd in the Antarctic, thanking the members of the Antarctic Club for their Christmas greetings and wishing all a happy new year. It had been wirelessed 10,000 miles from Little America to THE NEW YORK TIMES and then wirelessed across the ocean to the men who had endured the privations of the Antarctic completely isolated from the outside world.

At precisely 9 o'clock Admiral Skelton also "talked" to survivors of Antarctic expeditions in all parts of the world, who were drinking similar toasts in their own towns. The biggest gathering was in Australia, but others were in South Africa and Canada. All had agreed to greet one another at a given time, although none of the dinners was broadcast.

Captain A. B. Armitage of Scott's 1901 expedition was elected president of the club, succeeding Admiral Skelton.

"No matter for what reasons a man went to the Antarctic," Captain Armitage declared, "he became fascinated with it and always wanted to return."

BAR LEADERS SCORE LAW SCHOOLS' WORK

POUND URGES NEW SYSTEM

Tells State Association That Rebuilding of Preparatory Training Is Necessary.

HISCOCK ASKS FOR REFORM

Denounces Ambulance Chasing and Other Evils, but Finds Courts Are Just in the Main.

The standing of the legal profession is threatened by the large number and low quality of students who are being graduated from the law schools of the State, according to warnings sounded by speakers and committees in their reports yesterday at the fifty-third annual meeting of the New York State Bar Association in the Bar Association Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street. Ambulance chasing and other evils were attributed to an oversupply of lawyers.

In an address at the annual dinner to the president of the New York State Bar Association at the Hotel Astor in the evening, Judge Cuthbert W. Pound of the Court of Appeals asserted that the academic and legal education of the future lawyer would "rest in large measure on the standards of the bar itself," and that if the doors were opened to all, on the theory of the survival of the fittest, "debasement will result."

Ambulance Chasing Scored.

Attention was called to the evils of ambulance chasing at the opening session in the morning by Frank H. Hiscock, former presiding judge of the Court of Appeals, in his address as president of the association. Judge Hiscock, who has been nominated for re-election, said that the public had a right to expect the Bar Association to take action to eliminate the evils of ambulance chasing. He defended the courts against criticism of the law's delays, asserting that the tardy administration of justice more often was due to the incompetence of elected officials.

"And of course," added Judge Hiscock, "it is not to be charged against our system of criminal jurisprudence that a police force through incompetency or other causes fails to apprehend the perpetrator of a notorious murder."

State Senator Caleb H. Baumes explained that the severer punishment measured out under the so-called Baumes laws was designed to protect society rather than primarily to punish the criminal.

At the afternoon session the association adopted the report of its committee on the organization of the bar and cooperation between State and local bar associations. The local bar associations and judicial district federations of the bar associations are to be represented in the administration of the New York State Bar Association under a plan to be worked out by a committee which will report at the next annual meeting. A minority report submitted by William D. Guthrie, former president of the association, and Allan McCulloh, which held that inclusion of the local federations or bar associations was but a step toward "compulsory all-inclusive incorporation," was rejected by an overwhelming vote.

Pound Discusses Legal Training.

Judge Pound in his address said:

"Let it be said that in a democracy the bar will never be an aristocratic calling in the sense that any one worthy in character and learning may be unreasonably excluded from it. We as a people abhor privilege and class distinctions as such. The long and laborious course of preparation must justify itself by its works.

"The education and legal education of the future lawyer rest in a large measure on the standards of the bar itself. If it is disposed to open its doors to those of slight accomplishment in the belief that in the struggle for existence the best will survive, debasement will result. If, on the other hand, it is disposed to require too lofty standards of training, unessential to professional success, the democratic idea is likely to manifest itself in the halls of legislation to check that tendency.

"Leaders of the profession, by precept and example, encourage the best system of preparation and training, insist upon the good and discountenance the worst. Much may be accomplished for the individual lawyer, his clients and the community if the entire bar maintains such standards.

"The larger, ultimate objective in the education of the lawyer is participation in a noble field of human endeavor with a historical tradition of untold value. No lawyer can become truly great unless he is well-grounded in the fundamental principles of liberty and justice which are at the base of all our civil and political institutions. It is a profession in which a thorough training in technical law will not suffice without a sense of the high purpose of public service which is an essential part of the lawyer's calling.

"The successful lawyer, as the world counts success, is primarily the honorable conservator and champion of his client's rights. To do the day's work as the days come is the vocation of the active lawyer. The public services thereby rendered are the 'priceless by-products' of the practice of law rather than its direct aim and purpose."

Urges High Standards.

Judge Pound discussed the tendency to require more academic education as a basis for legal instruction, and told how the pre-legal education requirements in New York State had been raised. He said:

"It still remains for the schools and the bench and the bar to rebuild the system of preparatory training on modern lines; to eliminate that which is merely conventional, and to emphasize the necessity for training men to do rather than to criticize and to try rather than to aspire. What is the most desirable content for pre-legal academic education is still unsettled. The Association of American Law Schools has not yet been able or willing to answer that question.

"The pre-legal education required in New York helps to preserve the dignity of the profession and distinguish it from trades and callings which are open to all who can master their rudiments, and also to check the overproduction of lawyers by popular law schools with entrance requirements as low as the rules permit. Can it be said with assurance that more should be required in the way of preparation for the study of law? Should the systematic preliminary study of the origin, history and development of the structure of the State, the powers and relation of government, trade, finance and science, both social and physical, be encouraged, if not insisted upon, as a preliminary to the study of law? Or should the student be left to his own election as to the nature of his preliminary training? We need the aid of experience and statistics in arriving at correct conclusions.

"In some schools, I think that more is required than the average student can read and digest and that superficial work is tolerated to a certain extent. A required course of three years must omit or slight many specialized bodies of law of the utmost value, such as administrative law, industrial relations or trade regulations. An elective course fails to cover the entire field. To teach the student how to learn and how to think and to inspire him with a desire to learn, rather than to acquaint him with the entire corpus juris, must be the objective of the good school."

Discusses Results of Tests.

After asserting that improvements in legal education must be looked for in the improvement of law school courses, Judge Pound cited the divergent views of law school deans who discussed "Modern Movements in Legal Education" at the 1928 meeting of the Association of American Law Schools. Discussing the question as to whether the law schools should include in their courses "the philosophic contemplation of the totality of human experience," he said that the older and more conservative type represented by Professor Beale, Harvard veteran, should "think their problem through to a result which would be in accordance with that which other lawyers and particularly the judge should reach.

"The whole business of preparation is too often regarded by the student as a means of passing the required tests," he went on. "Immediate entrance upon practice by the easiest route rather than the mere beginning of laborious study of the application of principles to actual cases. The examination system is little better than an arbitrary test of a man's fitness to practice law. When all is done, the tests made and the bar examinations successfully passed, the step from knowledge to the ability to act is still a long one, even though it is a 'step from knowledge and not from ignorance.'

"I am advised that during seven years from 1922 to 1928, inclusive, twenty-one examinations were given and 23,598 students examined. Of this number, 13,544 tried both parts of the examination for the first time. A list running from forty to sixty students who received the highest marks each year totals 326 men, or 2 4-10 per cent of the whole number. They represent the top 2½ per cent of the class. Out of the whole number trying, 3,920 were college and law school graduates, and 148, or 3 8-10 per cent of them, were in the top 2½ per cent. There were 8,954 law school graduates, not college graduates, of whom 130, or 1½ per cent, were in the top 2½ per cent. There were 790 who were graduates of neither law school nor college, and forty-one of them, or 5 2-10 per cent of this group, were in the top 2½ per cent. The standing of the groups as a whole presents an interesting contrast with these figures.

"The two-degree men were 61½ per cent successful, whereas the men having neither law school nor college degree were only about half as successful as a group.

Treats of Moral Standards.

"I have not spoken of the moral education of the lawyer or of character requirements for admission to the bar. The law schools shrink from the task of character training, as such, although they are struggling with the problem. Men whose character, so far as formed, is found lacking in strength, should be excluded from the law schools and the bar. But character is shaped by the temptations of actual practice. An unobjectionable student may develop a tendency to sharp or dishonorable conduct.

"The Canons of Legal Ethics furnish a guide to those who are ethical by compulsion, but the true lawyer should be habitually and instinctively honest and fair and should do nothing to delay, hinder or deny justice for the purpose of gaining an unfair advantage over his opponent or for his own profit. The law is no namby-pamby game for weaklings to play, but neither is it a mere contest of wits where assurance, effrontery and a disregard of moral obligations may prevail over right principles presented by modest merit."

Report Assails Conditions.

In its report the executive committee among other things said:

"Many now believe and it is frequently stated when lawyers are met together that little can be accomplished for the betterment of conditions in the administration of the law until some means are found for improvement of the character and sound learning of those who are admitted to practice in this State."

The report said that while conditions in New York City were more disturbing than in other parts of the State, any effort to improve conditions must be general. It added:

"Last year 11,250 students were enrolled in the law schools of the State, 10,350 of these being enrolled in schools within the city of New York. This is a condition upon the existence of which only the commercialized law schools of the metropolis are to be congratulated. The existence in the city of New York and possibly elsewhere of so-called law schools, the chief purpose of which is money making, is a menace."

The committee recommended a bureau, with a salaried chief acting as "an aid to the executive and other committees in collecting data of all sorts and generally supplying material for achieving what is described in last year's resolution as a better administration of the law"; also the employment of a man of wide experience in such work.

Hiscock Urges Action.

"The evils disclosed within the membership of our profession in this field of claims and litigations were so enormous that this association cannot in my opinion overlook them or fail to take some action in respect of them.

"I do not overlook the undoubted fact that unscrupulous representatives of insurance and casualty companies have undoubtedly been guilty of just as reprehensible practices in procuring the settlement for an inadequate consideration of perfectly meritorious claims as have members of our profession been in prosecuting unmeritorious claims."

Referring to the popular criticism of the law's delays, he pointed out that the Court of Appeals and the Appellate Divisions were up with their work, and that in the Supreme, County and Probate Courts of the State outside of the metropolitan district, where special causes contributed to congestion of the calendars, there was no great and avoidable delay. He further said that the statement quite frequently repeated that our system of jurisprudence and rules of procedure favored the rich litigant as against the poor one was utterly without foundation; that while a person of means possessed some indirect advantages over one without such means in litigation as he did in all other matters, no fair-minded person would think of asserting that our courts favored one litigant as against the other, and that it was a matter of common observation that in jury trials the poor litigant possessed an advantage over a richer opponent.

Urges Reforms in Courts.

"But, of course, no one thinks that the administration of law in this State is perfect or that our rules or practice and procedure cannot be improved, or that some of our inferior courts, especially in New York City, may not be reorganized with much benefit," said Judge Hiscock. "Aside from special evils requiring correction which may develop from time to time in the administration of the law as recently in connection with negligence litigation and bankruptcy proceedings, there is need of constant supervision and scientific correction of defects which may develop in the body of our law or in methods of practice and procedure."

As an example Judge Hiscock suggested that there should be a change in the rule that no comment must be made on failure of a defendant to take the stand in his own behalf.

Judge Hiscock outlined the movement launched by the association to make a survey of the administration of justice, and disclosed that the survey had been handicapped by the inability of the committee, headed by William C. Breed, to obtain the necessary funds. Judge Hiscock estimated that at least $75,000 would be required for the survey. He referred to the Governor's veto of an appropriation of $60,000 for the survey on the ground that laymen were not represented on the commission, and suggested a new attempt to obtain the passage of a measure.

Baumes Defends His Measures.

Senator Baumes, in reporting that more stringent laws had been enacted "to keep step with the up-to-date operations of the modern criminal," made a plea for the author of the Baumes bills, saying:

"I have often been pictured as hard-hearted, but in reality I am one of the tenderest and most gentle of men. However, I believe that the public must protect itself from the criminal classes."

Among the reports adopted or submitted at the day's sessions were those of the Committees on Nominations, Uniform State Laws, and Grievances, the latter showing that of more than twenty-five complaints submitted in the year nearly all warranted no action. The Committee on International Arbitration heartily supported President Hoover's policy regarding membership of the United States in the Permanent Court of International Justice. The report of the Committee on Legal Aid Societies showed among other things that in Enoch Arden divorce cases in New York the cost of summons publication is $150 as against $15 in other States. The Committees on Cooperation with the American Law Institute on Legislation and on Legal Ethics also reported.

The association adopted the recommendations of the Committee on Legal Ethics that the association adopt and incorporate in its own code of professional ethics the American Bar Association's thirteen canons from 33 to 45, inclusive, also the preamble and canons of judicial ethics of the American Bar Association.

The session will continue this morning at 9:30 o'clock. At the annual dinner of the association at the Hotel Astor this evening the speakers scheduled are: Professor William Starr Meyers of Princeton, William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General; John W. Davis and Governor Roosevelt.

HAWKS'S PLANE WRECKED.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 17.—Captain Frank Hawks, holder of the transcontinental non-stop flight record, wrecked his airplane and smashed three other craft in an attempted take-off here this morning for New York.

He escaped injury, but Hal P. Henning of Houston, Southern representative of the Texas Oil Company, and P. J. Clausen, mechanic, were hurt. The former's arm was broken and the mechanic had several ribs fractured.

Captain Hawks was driving down the field between two rows of parked planes and had his craft a few feet in the air when a wheel hooked the wing of a stationary ship, hurling the machine into three others.

gloom of jutting buildings that hedged it in on all sides, he could see little. A barrel moved. "Come on out of that!" Sullivan ordered. The head of a negro appeared. "Come on, hurry up there!" said Sullivan. The negro stood up, and as he reached his full height his hand dropped back toward his hip, according to the policeman.

With deadly accuracy Sullivan fired three shots in rapid succession. Two entered the forehead, the third pierced the abdomen. Other policemen brought Martinez around to identify the man. The barber shook his head. "That's not him," he said. "Neither of those fellows was a negro."

On the negro the police found a slip from the United States Marine Hospital at Stapleton, S. I., which specified that a negro named Radnes Leandri, 27 years old, had been discharged from that institution on Dec. 10, 1929, after treatment for an infectious disease. Sullivan took the woman who had informed him into custody.

Taken before Inspector John J. Sullivan, she said that she lived in a furnished room near by on Sedgewick Street, that the negro had forced her to descend a rear fire escape and enter the courtyard by climbing over a wall that separated it from the courtyard abutting on the rear. The inspector declared that the girl's story might lead to important developments in investigation of a white slave ring which, he said, had been operating of late in Brooklyn.

Under further questioning last night, she gave her name as Mrs. Rene Costello Boukater, said she was 21 years old and had separated from her husband in Boston two weeks ago. She said that she and Leandri were in a house at 88 Sedgewick Street yesterday afternoon and that Leandri, hearing some one knocking, had become alarmed and jumped out of the window and that she followed. Both climbed a wall to the courtyard of the building in which she was found, she said.

NEWARK FINANCIER KILLED IN AIR CRASH

E. S. Margulies Meets Death in Plunge of His Own Plane at South Jacksonville, Fla.

ON LONG PRACTICE FLIGHT

His Instructor, Dazed by Impact, Was Piloting Craft—Widow Leaves Here for South.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 17.—E. Sinclair Margulies, 32 years old, of 25 South Munn Avenue, East Orange, N. J., a financier, was killed at 5 o'clock tonight when his Travel-air biplane crashed in South Jacksonville. Vernie E. Moon of Maplewood, N. J., who was with him, escaped with a severe shaking that left him dazed but without bodily injury.

Mr. Margulies held a pilot's license and only recently bought the airplane. Mr. Moon, a professional transport pilot employed at the Newark Airport, was his friend and instructor. They left Newark last week for Miami to see the air races and were returning to Newark when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Marguerite Zender Margulies, wife of the financier and a former musical star, left her home for Jacksonville after she had learned that her husband's plane had been wrecked. She is expected here tomorrow.

Both men were unconscious when spectators reached the ruined ship. Margulies lived three hours, but died without regaining consciousness. Moon recovered, but the shock left him speechless for hours. After being released from the hospital tonight he was able to state that he was piloting the plane.

Five other planes were delayed by mishaps east of Great Falls.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 17.—Emanuel Sinclair Margulies left Newark last week in his Travel-air plane to improve his cross-country flying and to take in the air races in Miami. Vernie E. Moon of Maplewood, his instructor, and a third man, whose name could not be learned here tonight, accompanied him.

Mr. Margulies was president of the Great Eastern Casualty Insurance Company, the New Jersey Realty Company, the New Jersey Mortgage Corporation and the Zender Investment Corporation, all of Newark. He was also head of the Marpol Airways Corporation.

The parents of the dead financier, who live in Newark, were not informed of the accident tonight because it was thought the news might be dangerous for the father, who is in a Newark hospital recovering from an operation. He is a retired merchant.

Mrs. Moon, wife of the aviator who flew with Margulies, was in New York tonight attending a musical comedy with friends when news of the crash was telephoned to her home.

"QUADRANGLE PLAN' HAILED BY DR. ANGELL

In Essex Talk, He Says Harkness Funds Will Help Restore Waning Scholastic Solidarity.

A belief that the new "quadrangle plan" at Yale University, as provided by the recent donation of funds by Edward Harkness, will go far toward renewing the fast-waning spirit of class sentiment and restoring the scholastic solidarity which has been declining during the past decade was voiced by President James R. Angell of the university last night at a meeting of the Yale Alumni Association of Essex County at the Essex County Country Club, West Orange, N. J.

Considering the reaction of the "new world" upon young college men, manifest in their unwillingness to remain at their universities over week-ends and an increasing propensity to "be on the move," Dr. Angell hailed the quadrangle system as a possible solution of the problems which now beset university executives as a result of "the airplane and the short skirt."

"The two main difficulties of this new system, whereby all students at Yale will eventually live and work in small distinct units, are the effect it may have upon the 'class system,' so characteristic in former generations and the source of Yale men's loyalty, and the effect it may have upon the large body of self-supporting students, for whom the new living expenses might be too great," said Dr. Angell.

"But the class system has been on the decline, has gone far toward disintegration, and the quadrangle plan can't make it any worse," he continued. "In fact, it may bring back the small and knowable number of classmates which was possible in the former days when the university was not so large and provide the same opportunity for a sentimental attachment to the 'quad' that was formerly given to the class as a whole."

Dr. Angell answered the second objection by pointing out that Mr. Harkness had created a special fund which would provide facilities for deserving men without sufficient financial means to live in the new buildings along with their friends. He said that the system, as such, would not be inaugurated until four or five of the quadrangular groups had been erected, which he expected by 1933.

TYRELL GETS DALY MEDAL.

Canadian Explorer Is Honored by American Geographical Society.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 17 (Canadian Press).—J. B. Tyrell of Toronto, noted Canadian explorer, received today the Daly Medal of the American Geographical Society for outstanding work in geography.

The presentation was made by Dr. Isaiah Bowman of New York, at a luncheon tendered Mr. Tyrell by Sir Francis Younghusband, the British explorer.

It was J. B. Tyrell who in 1884 discovered the first dinosaur bones in the Red Deer River Valley, which since has became one of the richest grounds in the world for the collection of fossils. Traveling thousands of miles in canoes and on snowshoes, he explored much of the Canada unknown in the last century. As a mining engineer he reported on a number of the important properties in the Klondike.

FOUR ARMY PLANES ARRIVE AT SPOKANE

END OF STORM AWAITED

First Group Cleared Continental Divide Before Fifty-five-Mile Wind Sprang Up.

Special to The New York Times.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 17.—Three pursuit planes and a trimotored transport plane of thearctic patrol, from Selfridge Field, Mich., landed at Newman Lake, near the Spokane Airport, at noon today from Kalispell, Mont., completing the flight from Michigan.

The pursuit planes were piloted by Lieut. Paul W. Wolf, Lieut. E. K. Warburton, and Lieut. D. L. Putt. Lieut. P. W. Shanahan was at the controls of the transport plane.

Thirteen pursuit planes, under Major Ralph Royce, remained at Great Falls, Mont., due to a fifty-five-mile wind and a temperature of 40 degrees below zero. They are awaiting favorable weather to clear the Continental Divide.

The group arriving today cleared the Divide before the storm. Due to lack of hangars en route, the fliers reported the air-cooled motors were easier to start in sub-zero weather than the solution-cooled engines.

After the arrival of the remaining planes here the group plans to start the return flight to Selfridge Field.

Thirteen Planes at Great Falls.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Jan. 17 (AP).—Lack of equipment to combat sub-zero weather and a 40-mile wind, which whipped snow about so violently as to make work on motors virtually impossible, for the fourth consecutive day delayed the departure today of thirteen pursuit planes of the army's arctic patrol from the municipal airport.

Twenty-two planes left Selfridge Field more than a week ago on the projected 3,700-mile flight to Spokane and return.

The unsuccessful attempt to continue the flight from Great Falls today caused Major Boyce to express the opinion that ships isolated by Rocky Mountain weather were in a worse predicament than probably would prevail in actual warfare.

Electrical heating devices no doubt would solve the problem of warming the motors, in the opinion of Major Royce. Thus far, a boiler furnished by city officials has been used to warm motors here, and considerable time is required.

As on four previous nights, Major Royce tonight said good-bye and expressed the hope that the ships would start for Spokane via Kalispell tomorrow. It was understood, however, that should the Continental Divide continue to prove too much of an obstacle the ships might fly to Spokane via Helena and Missoula.

SHOUSE SEES PARTY CONTROLLING HOUSE

Democratic Leader Predicts Gain of 30 Seats There and 5 in the Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 17.—The Democratic party has very largely recovered from the disorganization which followed the election of President Hoover and is today such a live fighting organization that it will gain five seats in the Senate and thirty in the House, according to Jouett Shouse, chairmna of the National Democratic Executive Committee, who is in Omaha visiting his sister.

"The Democratic party for the first time in its history is on a business basis," he said. "That does not mean that the party is controlled by big business, but that for the first time the years between Presidential elections will be used to build up a well-organized, nation-wide machine.

"The South is again solid following Hoover's inroads. Note the recent election in Virginia.

"In the 1928 election the party lost thirty-one Congressmen. We will regain all of those seats in the coming elections, and in addition will capture several other districts. Also we will gain five new United States Senators.

"It is entirely possible that the Democrats will control the next House, due to the state of agriculture and the performance of the Republican party on the tariff."

Expressing admiration for Senator Norris as one who "maps out his course and goes through without fear of the consequences," Mr. Shouse said that it would take a "strong man" to defeat him.

Though he declined to discuss party leaders for the 1932 campaign, Mr. Shouse declared that former Governor Smith would never again be a candidate for public office.

HOFFMAN BECOMES WARDEN AT AUBURN

New Head of Prison Aims to Make It a Model Without Welfare League.

AUBURN, Jan. 17 (AP).—A new warden today was in control of Auburn prison. The administration of Warden John L. Hoffman, who was assistant superintendent of the State institution for mental delinquents at Napanoch, has for its announced purpose the transformation of this century-old prison. Captain Hoffmann arrived late yesterday to receive the keys from Acting Warden Frank L. Christian, who had been in control since the second riot at the prison.

"My job," said Captain Hoffman, "is to carry on the good work Dr. Christian has started. It is a big job. I may not be able to do it, but I'm going to try."

The incoming warden refused to discuss the Mutual Welfare League which was blamed by Colonel George F. Chandler as principally responsible for the disturbances.

"They never had a league where I was stationed," he said.

SOVIET ASKS CREDIT ON CONTRACTS HERE

Seeks Six-Month Terms on New Awards—Move Seen by Some as Sign of Strength.

OTHERS DESCRY WEAKNESS

Next Crop Held Crucial Factor in Russian Finances—Debt Settlement With Us Again Raised.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—The Soviet seems to be trying to introduce a new departure in its business relations with Americans, and the effort is looked upon by some interested Americans here as an indication of strength, while others see in it a sign of weakness.

It appears that not only the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet agency in New York, but the Soviet departments negotiating directly with representatives of American companies in Moscow have recently begun to ask for a full six months of credit for orders placed. In the past important contracts, such as those awarded to the Ford Motor Company and the General Electric Company, have involved certain cash payments of from 15 to 25 per cent of the amount involved, payable immediately or upon the first delivery of goods, and such payments were followed by others at regular intervals.

Would Pay After Harvest.

Thus American companies were able to limit their risks very considerably. In fact, your correspondent has been informed that if the worst came to the worst neither of the contracts mentioned above could cause much more serious damage than loss of profits. Now, however, the Soviet declares its readiness to place $5,000,000 worth of orders for tractors, automobiles or other machinery for immediate delivery, the first payment for which would be made in November.

The question is, does this mean that the Russians are so short of money that they are totally unable to pay cash until after the harvest or that they believe their situation now sufficiently strong to insist upon such terms with a fair hope of success? The theory generally advanced in the Soviet press that the Wall Street slump was due to overproduction, especially in the automobile industry, indicates that the Soviet believes Americans are so eager to market surplus production as to be ready to accept the terms now proposed.

Aside from the problem of financing such transactions in America, there is the obvious fact that the Soviet financial and economic position is extremely tense at present. Everything depends on the harvest. If the crop is good, or even medium, there is little doubt that any obligations which the Soviet might now contract would be met regularly as heretofore. Should the crop fail badly the consequences might be disastrous.

Holds Debt Question Fundamental.

Your correspondent discussed the matter with a representative of the Soviet Economic Department who had spent some time in the United States. He said rather unexpectedly:

"The real difficulty at present is not so much the uncertainty about the harvest as the fundamental obstacle to the development of Russo-American business—the debt question."

"Then why don't you settle the debts?" was the obvious reply, to which the official could only answer that that was a political matter which did not concern his department.

Some Americans here, however, have a different theory. "Why," they ask, "should not the Soviet Supreme Industrial Council instruct the Amtorg Corporation to begin negotiations with American finance and business on the following basis:

"The Amtorg concern would issue bonds guaranteed by it and by the State bank and, say, by any Soviet enterprise likely to show considerable profits in the near future—the Grosni oil trust, for instance—on condition that one bond out of three be handed over to the American Federal Reserve System for payment of American debt claims.

"Suppose the first bond issue were $75,000,000, carrying interest of 8 per cent. About $50,000,000 would be spent in America for the purchase of machinery. The remaining $25,000,000 would be a nucleus for a debt settlement fund to be apportioned later by an American or a mixed commission.

"We quite understand that both Washington and Wall Street might look askance at such a proposition, but at least it would show from the Russian side good-will and an understanding of the practical facts of the case."

Seen as Mere Bookkeeping.

To your correspondent it seems probable that the Soviet also would hesitate to consider such a proposal, but inquiries in an authoritative quarter indicate that this country still adheres to the position stated by M. Stalin two years ago, when he said that the Soviet would decline to admit the principle of debt recognition, but was willing to regard the money spent in settlement of debt claims as supplementary interest on a loan or a bond issue. This means that the Soviet regards debt settlement as only a question of bookkeeping if a loan or a bond issue could be floated.

As matters stand now, long-term credits to the Soviet are rendered almost impossible by the difficulty encountered by industrial firms in getting Soviet bills discounted, even for three months, except at exorbitant rates. This difficulty applies in Europe as well as in the United States, and the "supplementary interest" which the Soviet might accept in the process of debt settlement would be amply recompensed by the reduction of the discount rate on bills, now at 20 or 30 per cent, to normal figures.

Acts to Halt Sales by Peasants.

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 (AP).—The Central Executive Committee of the Soviet Union today issued a decree providing severe punishment for Kulaks (rich peasants), or others who practice wholesale killing or sale of their cattle, pigs and horses, to prevent their being taken by the new collective state farms.

Government authorities throughout the country are empowered under this decree to expel from the district those found guilty of such acts, or to imprison them for a period up to two years and to confiscate their cattle and other property.

Under the same decree agricultural credit institutions receive the right to collect immediately all outstanding debts or loans advanced to peasant households that sell their farming equipment, cattle, horses and seeds, and to bring to court those who refuse to pay such debts.

The credit institutions are also empowered to refuse credits or loans to those collective farms and agricultural units which allow their members to sell such property or purchase it.

Miner Buried for Two Days Rescued Only Slightly Hurt

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—One of three miners who were buried alive in a coal drift at the Heinitz mine near Breslau that suddenly collapsed two days ago was rescued after having been pinned between heavy coal blocks more than thirty hours.

The man's cries were heard Thursday all day long. When he was finally located it was found the rescue party had been on the wrong track and had to begin work over again from another side. After two hours of strenuous efforts the man was extracted. It was found he had only slight bruises on his hands and legs.

There are still two miners missing who may have been killed by the collapse.

Mrs. Henry Leonard, Sister of Mrs. Garrett, Has Knee Cap Broken in Auto Crash.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Henry Leonard of Washington, D. C., a sister of Mrs. Garret, wife of the American Ambassador to Italy, suffered a broken knee cap in a motor accident yesterday while driving from Naples to Pompeii. Her daughter, Miss Thoron, escaped injury. Mrs. Leonard and her daughter arrived in Naples three days ago for a visit with Mrs. Garrett in Rome. They hired a car in Naples for a trip to Pompeii to see the new excavations. Their chauffeur ran into a truck standing in the road.

Both women were taken to Rome, Mrs. Leonard to the clinic of Professor Bastianelli, personal physician of Premier Mussolini. She was operated on successfully this morning and the surgeon says she will be completely recovered within a month.

Leaping From Automobile, Man Steals Two Bags Said to Contain Confidential Reports.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Two mail bags containing letters for the Air Ministry, and possibly, it is said, reports on the performance of new airplanes and other confidential information, were stolen today as a hand truck, loaded with bags, was being wheeled into the Air Ministry building on Kingsway.

Police describe the theft as the most audacious of the seventy mail robberies reported during the last fifteen months. The bags had been delivered by postal officials and were being wheeled on the truck to another doorway when an automobile drew up by the curbside. A man leaped out, snatched two bags marked with blue to denote they contained registered mail, and in a moment the car was lost to view amid the maze of traffic.

The most important political documents are delivered to the Air Ministry by hand, but many confidential reports from airdromes and government contractors are passed through the mails.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 17.—Johann Wolfgang von Goethe finished a poor second to Erich Maria Remarque in a straw vote among senior college students here on the issue of determining the character of literature now being favored by the more mature school youth. The author of "All Quiet on the Western Front" received 218 votes against 220 cast for the author of "Faust." Friedrich von Schiller, one of the idols of the German school youth, scored 181 votes in this particular contest.

The academic authorities are becoming restive over the threatening "death of the classics" in the German upper school grades, recent statistics indicating a growing preference for post-war writers, among whom John Galsworthy, Theodore Dreiser and Edgar Wallace continue in steady demand, along with all war diaries and memoirs and works on economic subjects.

Premier Says Article in Paris Paper Injured Spain's Credit.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Jan. 17.—A long and dignified note, published in all Madrid papers repremanding Le Temps of Paris for publishing "news written by impassioned and interested pens leading to an unjustified offensive against Spain, with grave injury to the national credit and economy," was called forth by a special article in Le Temps.

It is regarded as lamentable in Madrid that Premier Primo de Rivera is forced to defend his rule in this manner.

AGREE AT THE HAGUE ON BOND ISSUE PLAN

REICH ACCEPTS LOAN BAN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 17.—Preparing a way for the signing on Monday of the protocol adopting the Young plan for the settlement of reparations, the French and German delegations tonight reached an accord on the mobilization of the Reich payments and the launching of loans on international markets through the Bank for International Settlements.

In accordance with the agreement, the first slice of the bonds will be issued simultaneously on all international markets immediately after ratification of The Hague protocol by the governments.

It is expected the issue will be completed before May, but in any case considerably in advance of the dates mentioned in the Franco-German accord.

Today's agreement, reached after an arduous discussion occupying most of the day, provides an ingenious solution to the difficulties raised by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht and the Reich delegation. It assures advantages to Germany and at the same time provides for France guarantees of German interest in the operation of floating the first bond issue on international markets. Its acceptance by the other nations, to whom it will be submitted at a late night sitting, appears certain.

Germans Stress Loan Needs.

The principal difficulty advanced by the Germans was the possibility of Germany's need for issuing other loans, notably for railways and post-offices, and the fact that there had already been arranged another issue with the Swedish Kruger interests amounting to 500,000,000 gold marks (about $120,000,000). To these arguments, the Allies objected that loans by the Reich issued on international markets might prejudice the facilities for the reparations mobilization.

Today's agreement provides for the increase of the total amount of the first slice for mobilization by the Bank for International Settlements to $300,000,000, instead of $200,000,000. Up to Oct. 1, 1930, Germany agrees not to issue long-term bonds on international markets. If the first slice of the international bank loan should not be covered before October, 1930, a delay of one year would be permitted from the theoretical date when the debt certificates would be given to the bank. But in any event, this delay is not to be extended beyond March 31, 1931.

During this period, if Germany shall require to float bonds for national uses on international markets, she shall be obliged to float them through the international bank by the increase in the slice issued, Germany to have for herself one-third of the slice, the other two-thirds being consecrated to the execution of the young plan. Thus, by increasing the first slice to $300,000,000, Germany can secure a bond issue through the international bank to the extent of $100,000,000 for her railroads and communication systems.

Will Not Charge Commission

As regards the Kruger issue, Germany agrees to grant priority of guarantee to the international bank bonds. The great advantage offered to Germany by the agreement lies in the provision that the German part in this bond issue will be made without commission, which gives her facilities in launching the loan through the international bank such as could be granted by no other banking institution. For the Allies, it gives security in the feeling that Germany, having a direct interest of her own in the success of the entire operation, since her own part will be integrally bound with the share of her creditors, will cooperate to the utmost extent.

The text of the accord puts in form the facilities Germany will receive for her needs which can be continued after the date set. Thus, Germany is not forced to adopt this system in case she decides not to issue any bonds.

It affords her the possibility of obtaining authorization to issue bonds on the international market when all other doors to such a transaction would have been closed by her special promises.

One important consideration concerning the agreement from the American angle is that if many loans should be issued in this manner, Germany would greatly augment the amount of bonds to be placed on the markets by the international bank. It may be said, however, that the American representatives at this conference are favorable to this form of procedure.

Snowden Stirs Little Entente.

The negotiations of The Hague conference committee on Eastern European reparations negotiations took a decisive form owing to an outburst of impatience by Philip Snowden. Weary of discussions which, he said, were impeded, every time a solution appeared, by new claims, Mr. Snowden arose and advocated that the Little Entente delegates should be locked in a room without food or drink until they came to an agreement upon the power to pay.

"There are only two courses open," said the British delegate. "Either that, or postponing this conference till Judgment Day."

Following this, the Eastern European delegates went into a session which they said would continue until the text of a plan for procedure had been unanimously adopted.

If acceptable, the plan can be framed so that all the powers can sign the protocol, probably on Monday. In any case, Premier Tardieu will go to London for the naval arms conference tomorrow night, leaving M. Loucheur and M. Chéron in charge here. Mr. Snowden will remain at The Hague.

Eastern Discussion Fails.

THE HAGUE, Saturday, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Little Entente powers failed to come to an agreement with Austria, Bulgaria and Hungary on Eastern reparations early this morning. It was agreed to continue the negotiations in Paris at once.

Following their failure to agree, the delegates of the Little Entente powers discussed at length whether it would be possible for them to accept the Young plan on Monday without any agreement with their reparations debtors.

It is understood that 20 per cent of the first issue of reparation bonds will be offered to American subscribers. France will take 40 per cent and Germany and Great Britain each 20 per cent. The countries subscribing have the right to place part of their allotments in other countries. The bonds will be issued to bear from 5 to 6 per cent interest.

Representatives of the delegations tonight were scurrying about to make reservations on trains and steamers leaving on Monday.

LEARN NAME OF LADY PRINCE WOULD MARRY

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 17.—The lady who has so intrigued the affections of Prince Nicholas of Rumania that recently he has only with difficulty been persuaded not to renounce his position in the Regency Council at last has been revealed to a curious public as Lucia Dumitresch-Tahon, divorced wife of Radu Saveanu, whose father, Nicholas Saveanu, was President of the Rumanian Chamber two years ago.

Although beautiful and charming Lucia Dumitrescu-Tahon, like Mme. Lupuescu, for whom Prince Nicholas's brother, the former Crown Prince Carol, gave up his fight to the throne, is not sufficiently highly placed socially to be acceptable as the wife of a Prince, who is not only a regent, but as long as the boy King Michael remains without issue is heir apparent.

Unlike Prince Carol, Prince Nicholas is unmarried. On the other hand, it is believed that Mme. Dumitrescu is not willing to stand in any other relation to Prince Nicholas than as his lawful wife. It was to comply with this stipulation that Prince Nicholas recently contemplated renouncing his regal dignities, a desire which his friends believe he may yet carry into effect.

REPUBLICAN GROUP NAMED.

Lumbard Announces Committee to Act With Advisory Body.

J. Edward Lumbard Jr., president of the New York Young Republican Club, announced yesterday the appointment of a committee of twelve to cooperate with the proposed advisory committee of the New York County Republican Committee and similar advisory committees to be appointed by other Republican county organizations for the upbuilding of the party in New York City. The members of the committee follow:

Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d, Sanford H. Cohen, Frederic R. Coudert JJr., Archie O. Dawson, Hubert T. Delany, Herman Forster, William C. Hecht Jr., Assemblyman Louis J. Lefkowitz, J. Edward Lumbard, Phelps Phelps, Arthur H. Schwartz and Lowell Wadmond.

Mr. Lumbard said that the average age of the committee members was 31 years. "It is the feeling of most young Republicans that those high in the party's councils have not always sought the young man's point of view," he added. "The fact is that the Republican party today is becoming less and less attractive to the young voter and the new voter. The name 'Grand Old Party' is being taken too literally. There is too much paternalism from the party 'high hats' and too little consideration of the real needs and the real interests of the people of our city. That is the reason why Tammany stays in the saddle."

MOSCOW CAUTIOUS ON EIELSON STORY

NANUK AIRMEN ALSO TO GO

BY WALTER DURANTY

MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—The Soviet Arctic Commission expressed some doubt today of the credibility of the story that Carl Ben Eilson and Earl Borland, the missing American airmen, had been located by Siberian natives of Chuckchei at the mouth of the Amguen River, between Vankarem and North Cape, inasmuch as the Soviet's offer of a reward of 2,000 rubles [about $1,000] might have encouraged native imagination.

On the other hand, the Arctic Commission was pleased to note that the locality specified was just about where it expected that Eielson and his companion would come down, and it has instructed Chuknoffsky and the leaders of other rescue expeditions to investigate that region.

The Osoakiakhim [the Soviet aviation organization] has by no means given up hope for the American fliers. It believes that they have been traveling afoot through what is described as "the most desolate section of the whole Siberian coast," maintaining life by shooting wolf, fox or, with luck, a hibernating bear.

Chuknoffsky's departure from Krasnoyarsk, which was scheduled for today, was postponed because of bad weather, according to a report from Yakutsk. A blizzard has also compelled the return of the Stavropol's dog team to the vessel without finding any trace of the missing fliers. Meanwhile a second Soviet flying expedition, headed by Gromoff, is on its way to Havarovsk, whence it is expected to fly tomorrow or Sunday toward North Cape.

If the report that Eielson and Borland landed on the Amguen River is correct, it is believed here that they are most likely to be found by the Soviet aviators Slepneff and Gladisheff, flying from their base on Providence Bay. They would be able to investigate the authenticity of the story at Cape Wellen, from which point Kyrillenko, the radio operator at Tinkignea, stated that he received it.

One member of the Arctic commission said today that he expected a message from Slepneff on this angle within two or three days, but the general opinion here is that there will be no further news for a week or more, owing to the difficulty of communication and the fact that Kyrillenko's station can send messages only under the most favorable atmospheric conditions.

The Moscow public is paying little attention to the whole business, having other preoccupations, but the arrival at North Cape of Chuknoffsky, who has been something of a popular hero since his part in the rescue of General Nobile's crew, will doubtless stimulate interest.

The satirical weekly Chudak treats the subject from a political angle, with a full-page cartoon showing the lost fliers standing beside their overturned airplane waving a big American flag at the approaching Soviet plane. The caption reads:

"The fact that we Americans do not recognize the Soviet Republic—that is nothing. But if they do not recognize us on account of the fog—that will be bad."

Crosson Told to Fly to Amguem.

By ALFRED J. LOMEN,

Director of Aviation Corporation's Eielson Relief Operations.

Special to The New York Times.

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 17.—With the reported finding of Eielson and Borland broadcast along the coasts of Alaska and Siberia, the North country was in a state of feverish excitement today. While many place no faith in the Moscow advices that the American aviators had been located on the Amguem River, others believed it entirely possible that the men may have shown up at some trappers cabin and had word of their safety carried by dog team to the radio station at Tinkignea, whose operator sent the message to Moscow.

I informed Joe Crosson, the aviator at the motor ship Nanuk, of the Moscow report and told him that if the men were found in the locality reported they likely would come out by way of a trapper's cabin at Teagit, at the smaller mouth of the Amguem, which is fifty-three miles southeast of the Nanuk. I advised Joe to fly there and report to me at the earliest possible moment. If the weather is favorable today he will proceed at once to that spot.

The Amguem is a wide stream flowing through a broad valley which runs a long distance south and east from the coast line. The region is sparsely settled and men could be lost for a long time there without finding help.

We are all praying that the report is true, but we have had our hopes dashed so many times since this search began that we are naturally a bit skeptical now.

Pilots Ed Young and Pat Reid will get away for the Nanuk tomorrow. Repairs to Reid's plane are almost finished. Young flew to Teller with a load of gasoline this morning and he and Reid will take off from there for North Cape.

Region Already Searched.

By MARION SWENSON.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD THE MOTORSHIP NANUK, NORTH CAPE, Siberia, Jan. 17.—The region where Moscow reports the locating of Eilson and Borland has been covered thoroughly by dogs and airplanes and it seems hardly possible that the two men could be there without some one finding them.

Natives inland and all along the coast know that the men have been missing for more than two months and all have been constantly on the alert. The natives are also aware that the Soviet Government has offered a reward of 2,000 rubles.

However, we are running down every report that comes to the ship, and Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam are planning to take off for the Amguem River delta and Cape Serdze by plane as soon as they can get away.

The name of the Amguem River near, which the two men are reported down, is pronounced "Omawam" in the local Russian dialect. In the Chuchoska tribal language it means "Wide River." It empties into the Arctic Ocean sixty miles east ofg North Cape.

ACT ON JEWISH RELIEF.

Joint Committee and Agency Agree on Most Points in $6,000,000 Drive.

An understanding on all of the important elements of a proposed agreement for a campaign to raise $6,000,000 this year for Jewish relief and reconstruction work in Eastern Europe and Palestine was announced to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency yesterday by Felix M. Warburg, following a conference of representatives of the joint distribution committee and representatives of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and its constituent bodies in this country.

The joint distribution committee, of which Mr. Warburg is chairman, and the Jewish Agency for Palestine will combine forces in the drive. Of the $6,000,000 to be raised, $3,500,000 will be given to the joint distribution committee and $2,500,000 to the Jewish Agency for the program it adopted at Zurich last Summer. The understanding reached yesterday is subject to the formal approval of the executive committee of the joint distribution committee.

THE *SACKVILLE $37.50 OVERCOAT can stand this "party" treatment

CRAMPED-FOR-SPACE Manhattan apartments don't usually offer a closet to hold all the gentlemen's coats even for a small informal party. So they're thrown on the bed, or on the sofa, or over a chair! Then, people thoughtlessly sit on them, and jump on them, and scramble them all up. Strange, how yours always seems to be at the bottom of the heap!

Of course overcoats get a lot of this. They aren't meant to be hung up carefully every time they are taken off. And a well-made coat can assimilate this abuse without getting a tired, run down look. At least we think the Sackville can.

A Macy salesman will be glad to point out to you the details of fine workmanship which gives the Sackville its strain resisting qualities. They are little details like the hand sewing in the collar and the quality of thread used,—but they might be called the iron in the blood of an overcoat.

ADMITS POISONING SON AND HUSBAND

ANOTHER DEFENDANT ANGRY

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SZOLONOK, Hungary, Jan. 17.—The trial of forty alleged poisoners of the little Hungarian hamlets of Mahyrev and Tizakurt reached its highest point of dramatic interest today when Maria Kardos was accused of the murder of her own son and husband and the attempted murder of the husband of her friend, Juliana Foldvari, and Juliana Foldvari was charged with poisoning her husband, lover and mother.

These two women, known in their youth as the belles of the district, are still among its wealthiest inhabitants. In contrast with the half dozen peasant women already tried they exhibited in their more intelligent features, more correct accents and more fashionable garb a degree of refinement and culture which threw into stronger relief the medieval crudity of the crimes of which they are accused. That the accusations are well-founded, however, was shown by the admission of Mme. Kardos under the strain of today's cross-examination of her responsibility for poisoning her husband and son.

Mme. Kardos appeared in court in black with silk stockings and patent leather shoes. She was depicted by police accounts as a vital, passionate figure who combined a certain longing for city refinements with rural coarseness in the indulgence of unbridled desires.

After marrying and divorcing two husbands Mme. Kardos found herself, at the age of 40, with a 23-year-old son. As his bad health made him a burden whose existence interfered with the mother's pleasures, she enlisted for $500 the services of "Aunt Susi," the midwife who is alleged to have been the inspiration for most of the sixty poisonings supposed to have occurred.

After a first dose of poison the son grew ill. Mme. Kardos had his bed moved outside one fine Autumn day. Then, in her own words, "I gave him more poison in his medicine. Suddenly I remembered how splendidly my boy used to sing in church so I said 'Sing, my boy! Sing me my favorite song!' He sang it with his lovely, clear voice, then suddenly he cried out, gripped his stomach, gasped and was dead."

Mme. Kardos then remarried, but on being threatened with divorce by her husband she obtained another dose of arsenic from the midwife, who charged her nothing this time, as she herself was eager for revenge against the husband, who had once been her own lover, and get rid of him by more summary means. This murder she also admitted in court today.

Other Woman Denies Charges.

Juliana Foldvari, who is 49 years old, four years younger than Mme. Kardos, flatly denied today the three charges against her. The first is that she poisoned her old mother, from whom she had large property expectations, but with whom she lived in none too friendly relations, by inducing her to eat cookies filled with arsenic. The old woman died in great agony.

After providing an imposing funeral the daughter erected a gravestone with the epitaph "Here lies she whom I most loved."

Two years later Mme. Foldvari's first husband died suddenly. On exhumation traces of arsenic were found in his body. Another two years and another victim followed, this time Ladislaus Toth, with whom she had lived as common-law wife.

After partaking of soup which Mme. Foldvari had sent him when he was at work in the fields, Toth died in great agony. His exhumation also revealed the presence of arsenic.

In today's hearing Mme. Foldvari denied all previous admissions. When reminded by the prosecutor that a Mrs. Krek, a neighbor, had heard Mme. Foldvari's mother cry just before her death, "The devil fly away with these cookies my daughter made me. They made me ill," Mme. Foldvari's reply was:

"She lies. She lies out of the depths of her dirty soul. She hates me because once, when she wanted to buy a house from me, I would not give her back her deposit money."

Films Dating Back to 1895 to Be Offered in England.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—An unparalleled collection of historical films compiled by Will Day is soon to be offered for sale with specimens of films, equipment, documents and curios connected with the early history of motion pictures.

The history of the past thirty-five years is covered in Mr. Day's remarkable news reels. Among the incidents recorded are Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee in 1897, King Edward's coronation in 1902 and stirring war-time scenes outside of Buckingham Palace from 1914 to 1918.

There also are films of the investiture of the Prince of Wales at Carnarvon and the weddings of Princess Mary and the Duke of York. The collection includes some of the earliest movies taken. One shows M. Trewey doing his hat manipulation trick, the first film trick ever publicly exhibited. Another is a film of the first Gordon Bennett balloon race, and others show the Henley regattas of 1895 and 1896, the Derby of 1896, which was won by King Edward's horse Parsommon, and British troops leaving for the Boer War.

Their Passage Into the Black Sea Upsets Naval Balance There.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 17.—Two large Russian warships, disregarding the International Straits Commission, passed unannounced through the Bosporus to the Black Sea today. Their appearance here occasioned great surprise.

If this is a permanent assignment to Sebastopol, their presence will disturb the naval equilibrium of the Black Sea, as no other neighboring nation possesses any vessels approaching their size. The vessels are believed to have been the dreadnought Parischkaja Koman, 26,000 tons, and the cruiser Profintern, formerly in the Baltic.

Vienna Sleeps Apprehensively As Gasoline Fills Its Sewers

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 17.—Vienna slept last night as though over a powder magazine as a result of the leakage of 400 gallons of gasoline from the concrete tank of a municipal garage into the city drains and its distribution through the sewage system of the whole metropolis.

That no disaster resulted was due more to good fortune than to precautions taken by the fire brigade and other city authorities, who warned the citizens by radio not to investigate fumes in cellars or bathrooms with lighted candles. One careless person in Lethringer Street sought to establish the source of a gasoline odor by holding a lighted match over the drain of the kitchen sink. A long tongue of flame shot out from the drain and singed his eyebrows. It was quickly extinguished by turning on the tap.

Fire Chief Wagner explained that a similar occurrence over a larger drain probably would have caused an explosion which would have shattered streets and houses, as happened nearly two years ago in London.

By this morning all the gasoline had found its way into the Danube and the danger was over, leaving only the memory of an unpleasant odor and several columns in today's Vienna newspapers.

NEWFOUNDLAND SHIP BLOWN ACROSS OCEAN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Blown across the wild Atlantic against their will, the crew of the three-masted British schooner Neptune II of St. John's, Newfoundland, have navigated their storm-battered vessel into Tobermory Bay, on the west coast of Scotland.

One woman was among the five passengers who embarked at St. John's Nov. 29 on a voyage of 100 miles to Newtown, Bonavista Bay, Newfoundland. Within thirty miles of their intended port Captain J. K. Barker was forced by contrary winds into the open Atlantic, and for forty-eight days gale after gale drove the little wooden vessel of 126 tons toward Northern Europe. Mountainous waves swept over her, smashing her bulwarks and splintering two lifeboats, which would have been the only means of escape had she foundered.

The emaciated features of the crew and passengers reflected their severe ordeal when the lighthouse steamer Hesperus found them anchored near Ardnamurchan Lighthouse last night and towed them to Tobermory. Luckily the Neptune had ample provisions, but water was short and a system of rationing had been adopted.

Captain Barker had a crew of only four—Percy Barber, mate; Peter Humphreys, who was injured; John N. H. Keats and Baxter Barber. The Neptune was built in 1920 in Denmark.

CONSTANTINOPLE FEARS FIRE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 17.—Officials are blaming negligence of the water company for the destruction of twelve buildings in Pera in two simultaneous fires Wednesday night. Investigation showed that not a drop of water was available to fight the blazes, and newspapers declare that unless the municipality remedies the situation Constantinople eventually will be in ashes.

A violent earthquake was felt in Central Anatolia last night, but there was no damage.

FRENCH AUTO TARIFF VIRTUALLY DOUBLED

AMERICANS GET HEARING

Embassy Obtains Permission for Them to State Their Case to Chamber Commission.

BY CARLISLE MACDONALD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The committee of defense of the American automobile interests in France has completed its study of the bills for high French tariffs on imported motor cars and parts introduced in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon. In a statement reviewing the provisions of the project it is set forth that the proposed duties constitute increases varying from 42 to 123 per cent, thereby aiming at the destruction of the American automobile industry in France.

Thus all doubt regarding the purpose of the project to effect the prohibition of the importation of American automobiles and their parts has been removed from the minds of the Americans by the expert examination they have just applied to the governmentally supported measures.

As explained yesterday, "stay of execution" has been obtained in that the Deputies, instead of rushing the rates through in advance of other business, will take no undue haste in bringing them to a final vote. Meanwhile, the Americans, through the good offices of the American Embassy, have obtained permission to state their case to the tariff commission of the Chamber, to which body the two new projects have been referred. The hearing probably will take place early next week.

No one seems to know just how long the delay will be, but there is an impression in well-informed quarters that Premier Tardieu has advised against adoption until the French Government is able to gain an accurate estimate of the final provisions in the new American tariff bill. If such is the case, then the Americans will have gained considerable ground, since the intervening period will give them time to inform the Deputies and Senators of the full economic consequences in the passage of the proposed measures.

American Statement.

The American statement, in part, reads:

"The bill just placed before the Chamber in the name of the government provides for the substitution of specific duties on completed automobiles in place of the present 45 per cent ad valorem duty. In the explanation of the objects of the bill it is stated that the measure has been proposed because of the impossibility of applying the present tariff in a satisfactory manner.

"The legislators responsible for the bill have adopted a scale which, it is declared, will assure to the French industry protection approaching on an average that which should result from the normal application of the present duty. But it has been considered necessary as an additional measure to stipulate that the minimum tariff collected shall be equal to the ad valorem duties provided in the old tariff because of the exceptionally low-weight value of certain types of automobiles. The framing of the bill, the French assert, has been arranged to render its application easy and to avoid serious inconvenience of the tariff now in force.

"On passenger-carrying automobiles weighing less than 950 kilograms (about 2,000 pounds) the minimum rates are 850 francs ($34) a hundred kilos (220 pounds). From this basis the rates increase with weight until 1,750 francs ($70) a hundred kilos is reached for automobiles weighing less than 1,850 kilograms (3,885 pounds) and above.

Rates Practically Double.

"The new rate on cars weighing less than 950 kilograms represents an increase of about 100 per cent over the present tariff. On the more popular American cars the increase over the present rates ranges from 65 to 123 per cent, while even in the most advantageous case the increase is 42 per cent over the existing ad valorem duty."

So far as parts are concerned, the American statement gives these examples of the new rates in francs:

Ford Model T, general parts, present 605 francs, proposed 2,886 francs; Chevrolet cylinder block, present 169, proposed 513; complete set of parts for Ford or Chevrolet truck, present 4,150, proposed 8,000; Buick cylinders, present 240, proposed 450; Ford chassis frame, present 55, proposed 550.

Finally, the Americans suggest that inasmuch as the French Government gives as the chief reason for the new measures the inability of its customs officials to obtain a clear definition of the value of imported cars to serve as a basis for computing the present ad valorem tariff, they may overcome this difficulty by sending French customs agents to America to verify the customs declarations made by American exporters. This right was clearly granted to France in a recent Franco-American agreement for the exchange of customs or treasury representatives. United States Treasury agents are now operating in France under the terms of this accord, which was reciprocal in character.

HALT AVERESCU'S MARCH.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 17.—The closing of all clubs where gambling was carried on, recently ordered by the government, resulted in the padlocking of the Central Club, which is headquarters for the Averescu political party.

The former Premier, General Averescu, demanded its reopening, which Premier Maniu granted on condition that M. Averescu personally guarantee that none but veritable members should participate in games of hazard. M. Averescu refused and instead organized a demonstration. Speeches were delivered from the club balconies and a procession formed which marched to the King's palace shouting, "Hurrah for the King, down with the government."

Police broke up the procession and closed the club.

MEXICANS PLAN PARADE TO GREET ORTIZ RUBIO

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17—A tremendous demonstration Sunday to welcome President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio home from the United States is being prepared by leaders of the National Revolutionary party. It is expected that 30,000 persons will join in a parade in his honor when he arrives Sunday morning.

Mexico is greatly pleased by the attention of the United States in providing the president-elect with a large military escort when he crossed the border at Nogales, Ariz., yesterday.

After his arrival Señor Ortiz Rubio is expected to take a well-earned rest before his inauguration in Mexico City's big stadium on Feb. 5, and it is thought in high quarters that his main occupation for the next few weeks will be consultations with his party leaders in regard to Cabinet appointments. His Cabinet probably will be announced on the day of his inauguration.

The appointment of Reuben Clark, former Under-Secretary of State, as special United States ambassador for the inauguration ceremonies is approved in all quarters here. Mr. Clark's close and most helpful cooperation with Ambassador Morrow in settling the oil question brought him into intimate contact with Mexican and foreign authorities of this capital and his sterling qualities are appreciated.

One hundred and fifty journalists, many with their families, arrived here today from California. They will remain for five days, sight-seeing and studying local conditions. They will be fêted both officially and by numerous private individuals. On their journey to Mexico City they were recipients of many attentions and courtesies.

Following the very serious corn production shortage of last year in Mexico, a petition has been sent to the National Chamber of Commerce urging it to ask the government to issue a decree allowing the free importation of foreign corn, also that railway enterprises be requested to cooperate in alleviating the situation by placing in force the lowest possible rates for foodstuffs from border points and the seacoast. It is proposed that a further request be made to the railways for a decrease in rates to large consuming centres from those points where Mexican corn is still available.

A campaign is afoot here against talking motion pictures in English, the opponents of these films arguing that such films are "de-Mexicanizing" the Mexicans. The remedy suggested is government aid in developing a Mexican film industry.

SANDINO DENIES CHARGE.

Assails Story That $60,000 Was Paid to Him to Leave Nicaragua.

Augusto Cesar Sandino, leader of the Nicaraguan insurgents who fought the United States Marines and the troops of the Nicaraguan Government for many months and is now a refugee in Mexico, sends to THE NEW YORK TIMES a copy of a letter he wrote in Merida, Yucatan, on Jan. 8, denying a report printed in El Universal of Mexico City on Dec. 25 that $60,000 had been paid to him to abandon his struggle and leave his country.

In this letter, addressed to Hernan Laborde, Secretary General of the Communist party of Mexico, in Mexico City, General Sandino attributes the Universal story to enemies, whom he qualifies with many picturesque Spanish adjectives. He says he does not believe that the Communist party, the Anti-Imperialist League of the Americas or the "hands-off-Nicaragua committee" had anything to do with starting the charge. He demands an immediate answer from Señor Laborde and informs him that he is about to send a commission to Mexico City to investigate the whole affair and to arrive at a clear understanding with the anti-imperialist organizations regarding the struggle for the restoration of national sovereignty in Nicaragua, which he declares has not been given up.

MADRID, Jan. 17.—Henry Ford has raised the minimum pay in his Barcelona plant to 19 pesetas a day, an increase of nearly a dollar.

The increase at Barcelona is in line with the Ford policy of bringing the wages in all plants, as measured by purchasing power, up to the level of $7 a day minimum established last December in the company's American and Canadian plants.

GOVERNMENT FIGHTS PACKERS' PETITION

SENATE ASKS PARTICULARS

Nye Resolution Calls on Attorney General for Statement — Hoover Letter of 1918 Read by Senator.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—An answer to the petitions which Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. filed last August in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia asking for a modification of the consent decree of 1920 against the five leading meat packers was filed in that court today by the Department of Justice and demanded that the petitioners establish their case in all particulars.

Soon after the government's answer was filed, Senator Nye, Republican Progressive, offered a resolution in the Senate asking Attorney General Mitchell to inform the Senate whether the Swift and Armour concerns had obeyed the decree and also the nature of the department's inquiries into the matter. Although Senator Fess and Chairman Norris of the Judiciary Committee urged adoption of the resolution, it was referred to that committee when Senator Deneen objected to its immediate consideration.

No indication was given in the reply to the packers' petition of the ultimate attitude of the government, the department stating that this would be determined after the evidence was heard in court. The packers had hoped for a modification arrangement by mutual consent. The government's reply was signed by John Lord O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney General, and H. B. Teegarden, special assistant.

Department to Press Hearing

Great interest centres in the case as it has been stated that modification of the decree would mean the entrance of the packers into competition with chain store systems. F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., stated in the August petition that the development of the chain stores had made the decree useless because the systems were permitted to do what the packers were prevented from doing, and that unfair competition was now created against the packers.

The position of the Department of Justice was indicated in this announcement:

"The department has made a careful preliminary investigation into the facts involved in the application, but the questions presented are of grave importance as affecting the public interest and the matter must be dealt with by the courts. It is expected that the petitioners will present their case and that the Department of Justice will also present at the proper time such additional facts as it deems pertinent in order that the court may finally make a disposition of the applications which will take due account of the needs of the public, the purpose of the decree and the policy of the law. The attitude of the department toward these applications will be determined at the conclusion of the hearings upon the evidence presented to the court."

Hoover Letter Put in Record.

When the matter came up in the Senate, on motion of Senator Nye, a letter written by Herbert Hoover in September, 1918, in his capacity as Food Administrator and addressed to President Wilson, was printed in the record.

In the letter Mr. Hoover stated that the "five big packers" dominated the interstate business in several different food lines, and that it was a matter of contention whether there was competition among them. Mr. Hoover went on to say that the five firms, closely paralleling each other's business, "must at least have coincident lines of action and must naturally refrain from persistent, sharp, competitive action against each other," and recommended that the situation should be directed to the attention of Congress for its consideration.

Senator Norris declared that at the time the decree was entered bills were pending designed to break up the packers' "merger." He suggested that Mr. Mitchell should report all the facts to Congress "and say that it is a matter of legislation and that if Congress is willing to legislate on it he will act accordingly."

Senator Fess thought the Senate should be officially informed of the exact status of the case. Senator Deneen urged delay until the packers had replied to the answer filed today.

Asks Report by Attorney General.

Senator Nye's resolution read as follows:

"Resolved that the Attorney General be requested to report to the Senate

1—All information in his possession as to whether or not Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. have obeyed the provisions of the decree requiring them to cease handling the so-called unrelated commodities and to divest themselves of ownership in stock yards and stock-yard terminal railroads and plants for making or processing the unrelated lines, and if Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. have not obeyed such provisions what progress up to the present time have they made toward such obedience.

2—What, if any, investigation he is making into whether or not the facts alleged by the packers in their petitions for modification of the decree are or are not true, and whether or not such facts constitute sufficient ground for modification of the decree; and

3—What, if any, information he has as to whether or not these packers have disobeyed the restraint of trade provisions of the decree since the decree was entered, and what investigation he is making into whether or not the packers have disobeyed such provisions and to what extent such investigations have progressed."

The decree of 1920 was intended to dissolve the so-called combination composed of Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Morris & Co., Cudahy Packing Company, Wilson & Co., Inc., and their principal subsidiaries. It required the packers to disassociate themselves from the retail meat business and from all "unrelated lines."

I. C. C. WILL BACK ITS MERGER PLAN

B., R. & P. Would Be Part of the New York-Chicago Trunk Line, Commission Is Told.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Broad intimations that the Interstate Commerce Commission purposes to support its plan for rail consolidation with vigor were given repeatedly by members of the commission today during the hearing of final oral arguments on the application of the Baltimore & Ohio to acquire stock control of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway.

Under the commission's consolidation plan, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, an important coal carrier, is allocated to the Baltimore & Ohio, and for this reason the decision on the application, while not looked upon as a test, will be watched closely by railroad officials.

The Pennsylvania and the Delaware & Hudson actively opposed the granting of the application through oral arguments by counsel before the commission. Counsel for the Pennsylvania flatly went on record as opposed to the commission's rail plan, in so far as it allotted the coal road to the Baltimore & Ohio.

Opposition to the application, filed prior to the announcement of the commission's consolidation plan, was withdrawn today by both the Wabash and the Pittsburgh & West Virginia, both of which based their action upon the understanding that the commission, in its rail plan, would allocate the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh to the Baltimore & Ohio.

It was while H. T. Newcomb, counsel for the Delaware & Hudson, was arguing against the Baltimore & Ohio's application that the commissioners' determination to uphold their plan became apparent. Mr. Newcomb declared that if permitted to acquire the coal road, the Baltimore & Ohio would use it only for southbound traffic, whereas he asserted the Delaware & Hudson, if permitted to take over the road, would make it a complementary carrier, utilizing it for traffic both north and south.

Both Commissioners Eastman and Meyer challenged these assertions and questioned statements by Mr. Newcomb that the Baltimore & Ohio would shut off northbound movement of coal over the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh.

Commissioner Woodlock asked Mr. Newcomb whether he "attached any importance" to the commission's rail consolidation plan. The Loree road's counsel replied in the affirmative, but said it would require revision. He urged the commission to defer action on the application until the Baltimore & Ohio could carry out its plans for acquiring control of the Reading and the Jersey Central.

Stressing the fact that the rail plan had not been announced and therefore under consideration when testimony in the application was taken before the examiner, Mr. Newcomb obtained permission to file within ten days a memorandum on the legality of permitting the plan to be considered in the decision upon the application.

Would Be Part of Trunk Line.

Colonel Henry W. Anderson and Luther M. Walter presented the arguments in behalf of the Baltimore & Ohio. Declaring the two roads virtually interdependent now as a result of years of close relations, Mr. Walter asserted that important economies in operation could be effected were the Baltimore & Ohio permitted to acquire the coal road.

Both also emphasized the importance to the Baltimore & Ohio of acquisition of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh as part of its plan for development of a new short, low-grade trunk between New York and Chicago, which also would be routed via the Jersey Central and Reading lines through Northern Pennsylvania.

Colonel Anderson insisted the Pennsylvania had no authority to object to the allocation unless it came formally before the commission with an application for reopening the entire rail plan.

He insisted that to grant control of the road to the Baltimore & Ohio would stimulate competition in shipments to New York over that road, the New York Central and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

Representatives of the city of Rochester supported the Baltimore & Ohio application on the ground it would benefit the city, which is heavily interested in a marginal railroad. Officials of the Mount Jewett, Kinzua & Ritersville, a small feeder road, asked to be included in the unification.

Opposition of the Pennsylvania was presented by C. H. Heiserman, vice president, who declared the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh should not be disposed of except in a general proceeding in which all lines were under consideration.

FLOOD IN INDIANA TRAPS 20 FAMILIES

VINCENNES IS THREATENED

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 17.—Twenty families of Decker Chapel were marooned, the entire village was flooded from six to ten feet deep and all of Decker Township inundated tonight when a quarter-mile break occurred in the main levee on White River, west of Decker.

The Wabash, at the highest stage in its history and still rising, was threatening to inundate Vincennes, a city of 10,000 people.

Threats of further damage have become so great that Federal and State authorities have taken a hand at Vincennes, Evansville and Terre Haute, and United States troops at Fort Harrison, Indianapolis, are being held in readiness for possible duty.

The Wabash here stood at 25.25 feet tonight, a record level, with the flood crest not yet arrived here. Lowering temperatures and snowstorms in Northern and Central Indiana today forced the Wabash lower at Logansport, Terre Haute and Clinton. The Ohio River at Evansville, however, is above the forty-foot stage and still rising.

Despite warnings which had cleared the area of most inhabitants, at least twenty families were marooned by the levee break. Attempts were being made to rescue them tonight by boats.

In Decker Chapel, fifteen families fled to the second story of the brick schoolhouse. Others got out on the roofs of their homes in the near-zero weather.

The levee at Decker, a community of nearly 1,000, was threatened.

No value was found for a mass of newspaper clippings, dealing mainly with the foreign aristocracy, upon which the Cunliffe-Owens relied to a large extent in writing articles.

Emil Silverman, who died June 10, 1928, left an estate appraised at $828,539, of which $743,452 was in mortgages. His widow, Esther Silverman of 98 Riverside Drive, received $403,197 as half the estate. BILLER IS CLEARED IN ROTHSTEIN DEATH

WARRANTS ARE CANCELED

Prosecutor Tells Court He Has No Evidence the Three Had Part in Shooting.

Indictments charging Hyman (Gillie) Biller and the mythical John Doe and Richard Roe of connection with the shooting of Arnold Rothstein on the night of Nov. 4, 1928, were quashed yesterday by Judge Nott in General Sessions. The court acted on the recommendation of District Attorney Crain, who had conducted an investigation of the shooting since he took office on Jan. 1 and found no evidence had been obtained that Biller had any part in the shooting or that Doe and Roe were anything but imaginary characters in the murder.

Judge Nott not only dismissed the indictments but on further request from the District Attorney also canceled the bench warrants which were issued for the three when the indictments were handed up on Dec. 4, 1928.

Mr. Crain read the recommendation to Judge Nott after Assistant District Attorney Brothers, who was the chief prosecutor at the recent trial before Judge Nott which resulted in the acquittal of George A. McManus, the race track bookmaker, announced to the court his chief was ready to proceed with his request for the quashing of the Biller indictment.

No New Evidence, Crain Says.

In his recommendation Mr. Crain referred to the outcome of the McManus trial, said that all the evidence in his possession had been submitted at that trial and that no further evidence had been obtained against Biller or "Doe" or "Roe."

He said, however, that "there was evidence to justify the belief that Rothstein was shot on the third floor of the Park Central Hotel," but there was no actual witness to the killing. This belief, he said, was based on the fact a shot was heard on the third floor shortly after Rothstein had received word in Lindy's restaurant in midtown Broadway that there had been a telephone message for him to come to the room on the third floor that McManus occupied. A man fitting Rothstein's description was seen on the third floor after the shot, he said, and Rothstein a little later was found dying of a bullet wound at the service entrance to the hotel, but would not tell who had shot him.

No evidence ever had been uncovered that Miller or anybody else was involved in a conspiracy to shoot Rothstein, Mr. Crain said. Biller was brought into the case because he had been a "pay-off" man for McManus at race tracks. He had a room on the fourteenth floor of the hotel and disappeared about two hours after the shooting, after telling a patrolman and a brother of McManus on Broadway, that, although he was stopping at the hotel, Rothstein had been shot without his knowing anything about it.

Mrs. Ruth Keyes of Chicago, a transient guest at the hotel, Mr. Crain went on, had identified a picture of Biller as the man whom she had seen in McManus's room at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the shooting. Mrs. Bridget Farry, a servant in the hotel, was unable to identify the picture, however, as that of the man she had seen in the room on the afternoon and the evening of the shooting. The prosecutor pointed out that at the McManus trial she repudiated her grand jury testimony that McManus was in the room that day.

No Evidence of Conspiracy.

"There is no evidence of any conspiracy or concerted act on the part of any one to cause the death of Rothstein," Mr. Crain said. "There is no evidence that Biller shot Rothstein or in any wise aided or abetted, counseled or advised said shooting. It is apparent from the above recital of the testimony that the prosecution could not establish a prima face case against Biller."

There was no evidence in the possession of the District Attorney's office that Biller, Doe and Roe were present at the shooting, Mr. Crain concluded.

Before dismissing the indictments, which leaves the Rothstein case now without a defendant, Judge Nott said:

"As far as the evidence adduced at the McManus trial is concerned, I know of my own knowledge that no evidence would have justified the submission of the case against Biller to a jury. The facts stated at that trial disclosed no evidence Biller was in the McManus room later than the afternoon of the day of the murder.

"There is no reason why these indictments should stand, and the motion of the District Attorney for the dismissal of the indictment is granted, with leave to resubmit the case to the grand jury if any additional evidence is secured."

HAILS WALSKA'S VICTORY.

National Woman's Party, However, Urges Equal Rights Amendment.

The National Woman's party hailed the victory of Mme. Ganna Walska in getting the United States Customs Court to concede that a wife legally could have a domicile separate from that of her husband, with a statement yesterday declaring that the decision is "in line with public opinion of the twentieth century, but like a great many of such decisions, it reflects current opinion rather than the law."

The statement went on to congratulate Justice Genevieve R. Cline, a member of the court, saying that, "Her stand is an illustration of the advantage to women of having women in strategic positions in public office—women who can reflect the growing demands of women for complete equality before the law. The laws of no State in the Union recognize the wife as 'a distinct legal entity,' nor does she 'stand upon terms of equality with her husband in respect to property, torts, contracts and civil rights,'" as the decision of the court asserted.

The statement maintained that, on the contrary, "there are more than 1,000 discriminations against women in the laws of the United States," and urged the passage of an "equal rights amendment."

Students Give Professor Red Apple.

GUN THAT SLEW YALE TRACED TO CHICAGO

bullets as well as bullets fired from a machine gun. At the time of his murder there was much talk that he had been slain by machine-gunners only. This is not so. Revolvers as well as machine guns were used to kill the seven members of the Moran gang.

"I have assigned detectives to work with the Chicago authorities in an effort to pursue the Yale case there. We have not found anything as yet to link the murder of Frank Marlow to the intercity gang wars or to Yale's death, but we are also investigating that angle."

Asked About Terranova.

The commissioner was asked if the name of Ciro Terranova had figured in the investigation. Terranova, formerly the "artichoke king," was named by Inspector Joseph Donovan, in testimony at the police trial of Detective Arthur C. Johnson, as having entered into a contract with a "Chicago gunman" for the murder of Yale and Marlow.

This came out as an aftermath of the hold-up of the testimonial dinner to Magistrate Albert H. Vitale on Dec. 8 in the Bronx Roman Gardens restaurant, Southern Boulevard and [illegible] Street. Terranova was portrayed as having engineered the hold-up to gain possession of the "murder contract."

The document called for a payment of $20,000 for the double assassination, but only $5,000 had been paid, according to the reports of the police secret service squad to Donovan. The gunman—who apparently may have been Burke—was threatening to give the contract to the police unless the balance was paid to him.

"I cannot make any statement on Terranova now," said Mr. Whalen. "I probably will have more to say on the Yale case in the morning after I have had a report directly from Gorman and Butts."

Terranova was arrested last Wednesday and was released in $10,000 bail when arraigned on a charge of acting in concert with the seven hold-up men. He went away from his Pelham Manor home late yesterday and it was reported that he and his family planned a trip to the South in the near future. He has denied the "contract" story.

Part of Burke's Record.

A partial record of Burke was made known at headquarters by Commissioner Whalen. The murder in Detroit was committed on Dec. 15, [illegible]. He is also wanted by the Detroit police for a hold-up committed on April 20, 1927. In addition to the murder of Skelly and the Moran murders Burke is wanted for the robbery of the Portland Bank in Louisville, Ky., on April 3, 1925. Of the [illegible] in rewards offered for his arrest $41,500 was put up in Chicago.

Yale was killed July 1, 1928. He was driving his new sedan along a quiet street near his home in Brooklyn. A car containing several men drove up behind Yale's machine and the occupants opened fire. The bullets were sprayed through the rear window of the gangster's car and Yale when found had four bullet wounds in the back of the head.

After the gunman had been buried with ceremonies said to have cost [illegible], the detectives took up the task of finding his slayer. In some way they received information that Chicago held the solution of the murder. Capone was then enjoying himself in his villa at Miami Beach, and he issued denials that he had had any part in the crime.

Several months later Parker A. Henderson Jr., son of an official in Miami Beach, told the police that he had purchased several weapons for Capone. The guns were never connected with the death of Yale, a Sicilian whose right name was Uale.

Gang Links Traced.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The murder in St. Joseph of Policeman Charles Skelly on Dec. 14 made Frederick Burke the champion of outlaws. The machine-gun slaying of seven members of George Moran's followers on St. Valentine's Day nearly a year ago in Chicago revealed Burke as an ordinary gang gunman, but the Skelly killing disclosed him as an extraordinary robber of banks, though his killing proclivities assumed first importance.

The Chicago police theory at the time of the Moran killings was that Burke and his companions in police uniforms were hired by Alphonse (Scarface) Capone to kill the north side liquor runners, there being no other apparent reason for their participation. The theory was that the others who accompanied them were used to identify the man killed—"Pull the finger on them," as Chicago gangsters put it.

See Connection With Burke.

Assuming that theory to be correct, the police could see a connection because one of the Capone followers, who was known to have had difficulty with Moran over his invasion of north side alcohol territory, had formerly been a member of the Egan's Rats of St. Louis and East St. Louis, Ill. Burke grew up with that gang, which acquired political power and prestige with the advent of prohibition.

Frankie Yale had been slain in the Summer of 1928, and when Burke's name cropped out of the Chicago massacre investigation there were assertions that he was one of Yale's assassins. That killing, too, was presumed to be a hired job, and Capone was generally said to have paid for it.

An accepted version was that Yale would send his killers into Chicago on odd jobs, and the Chicagoans with whom he was affiliated would reciprocate, but that Yale had gone too far when he despatched the slayers of Tony Lombardo, ruler of another Chicago gang. Lombardo was shot to death at Dearborn and Madison Streets, in the heart of the loop district, in mid-afternoon, and the killers had only to merge with the thousands of passers-by to become untraceable.

Heard Burke Killed Yale.

Yale was marked for death supposedly because of Lombardo's murder, and the Chicago police were told that Burke was Yale's executioner. That killing was supposed to have given Burke standing with the Chicago gangsters, and resulted in his being employed for the job of dispatching Moran and his lieutenants.

But whether for money or revenge or for strictly business reasons, Burke became recognized as the man who gave the signal to fire and who also emptied his machine gun into the backs of the seven men whose faces were to the garage wall. His picture was again sent to every police headquarters in the country, with the announcement that $41,000 was offered as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the slayers.

WINS FEE IN FIGHT ON ROTHSTEIN WILL

LANGER TRIAL RESUMED

Handwriting Expert Says Signature on Note to Betting Agent May Have Been Forged.

Testimony that Mrs. Carolyn Rothstein Beha, who was the widow of Arnold Rothstein and now is the wife of Robert Beha, British banker and antique rug expert, knew many of the slain gambler's underworld associates and could aid in collecting many of the debts owed his estate, was given in Supreme Court yesterday by Abraham I. Smolens, lawyer, in the trial of his suit against Mrs. Beha for $20,750 counsel fees for representing her in the contest over the Rothstein will. At the close of the trial, Justice Walsh, sitting without a jury, awarded Smolens $6,750. The lawyer had admitted receiving $5,000 for his work from the widow.

Mr. Smolens testified that the former Mrs. Rothstein dismissed him and retained John J. Glynn, nephew of former Governor Smith, just before the will suit was settled and the gambler's first will, leaving to his widow half of his estate, was admitted to probate. He said she had agreed to pay him $25,000 for his services.

Mr. Smolens declared that he was the first person to receive Rothstein's mysterious "little black books," whose contents have not been publicly revealed but which are said to contain detailed information regarding the gambler's business transactions. The lawyer said he turned the books over to Nathan Burkan, counsel for the temporary administrators, who considered retaining Isiah Leebove, another attorney, to collect various loans listed in the notebook. Mr. Smolens testified that he dissuaded Mr. Burkan from "wasting any money" for that purpose, as he could get the necessary information as to the identity of the debtors from the former Mrs. Rothstein.

When Mr. Glynn asked the plaintiff if he meant that the defendant had "connections with the underworld," Smolens replied:

"Oh, no. She was married to Arnold for nineteen years and knew them and their financial condition. Mrs. Rothstein associated only with the best people."

Mr. Glynn's motion that this be expunged from the record was granted, but if the case is appealed it will be sent to the Appellate Division.

Smolens's statement as to the promised fee of $25,000 was corroborated by his partner, Charles Sinsheimer.

Although the witness had previously said that the six disputed notes were apparently copied from a genuine note for $6,500, which Rothstein gave to Charles Friedman, betting commissioner, he admitted under cross-examination yesterday that the signature on the Friedman note also might be a forgery.

Isaac N. Jacobson, counsel for Langer, announced that he would call witnesses on Monday to prove that Rothstein was in desperate financial straits when the notes were made, a month before his murder, and that he disguised his handwriting so that he could contend later that they were forgeries.

South Seas Expedition to Sail.

Several scientific societies have asked the cooperation of Anton E. Walbridge, broker, who will lead an expedition into the South Seas in search of rare deep sea specimens. Business associates of Mr. Walbridge said yesterday that he has not decided on the disposition of the specimens. They have been sought by the Smithsonian Institution, the New York Aquarium, the New York Museum of Natural History, the Buffalo Society of Sciences and other organizations. Mr. Walbridge is in Miami, where the expedition will set sail today or tomorrow aboard the newly equipped yacht Raider.

LIEUTENANT TRIED IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

NO EXCUSE, SAYS WHALEN

Commissioner Holds News Must Have Reached Him by the "Grapevine Telegraph."

Further light on the activity or inactivity of the police in the hours immediately after Arnold Rothstein was wounded on the night of Nov. 4, 1928, was shed yesterday when Acting Lieutenant Samuel Dribben went on trial before Police Commissioner Whalen for alleged neglect of duty in the murder investigation.

Dribben was represented by James I. Cuff, the attorney who conducted the defense of Detective Sergeant John H. F. Cordes, who was tried several weeks ago. The accused lieutenant scored when Deputy Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney testified that Dribben, whose tour of duty ended at midnight on Nov. 4, had not been notified of the shooting in the Park Central Hotel.

Commissioner Whalen held that this was no excuse. He pointed out that an interested police officer would initiate his own inquiries in order to keep posted on what was happening in his precinct or district. Dribben's defense was that the telegraph bureau of the department had not flashed the news of the wounding of the gambler.

Patrolman Patrick Flood, who was tried and demoted from the rank of first-grade detective for his work on the case, was a witness for Dribben. Flood testified that no superior officer appeared on the scene of the shooting until four hours after Rothstein had been wounded. The former dectective said that fifteen minutes after he reached the hotel Assistant District Attorney P. Francis Marro had telephoned him.

"What conversation did you have with Mr. Marro?" asked the commissioner.

"He asked the circumstances of the shooting," said Flood, "and I told him and explained the details and he asked me if he (Rothstein) would talk to me, and I said no. He said 'there is no use of me going there. If he won't talk to you, he won't talk to me.' I said to him that I thought it would be advisable for him to come up because the papers would probably have a lot of news about it and he said, 'If he didn't talk to you, he won't talk to me.' He left a phone number to get in touch with him at any time during the night."

Mr. Whalen, at one point in the trial, observed that "there was too much sleeping on the Rothstein case." At another he remarked, "The big point in this whole inquiry is, of course, to know to just what extent, if any, the commanding officers of the detective division ducked their responsibility in the Rothstein shooting."

The commissioner insisted that he was skeptical of Dribben's defense that he had not learned of the shooting before he went off duty. Mr. Whalen suggested that the news had spread fast over the "grapevine telegraph system, the fastest in the world."

When Inspector Joseph Donovan of the Criminal Identification Bureau took the stand the commissioner asked him to hazard a guess, based on his years in the department, of the time it took the news of Rothstein's fatal wounding to spread to the police stations. Inspector Donovan said he thought twenty minutes after the shot was fired every station in Manhattan knew it.

The trial of Dribben will be resumed on Monday at 10:30 A. M. The trials of Captains Henry Duane and John Lagarenne, on similar charges, will be held when Dribben's case is ended.

ROOSEVELT PLEADS FOR WELFARE AID

DEFENDS BUDGET INCREASE

Predicts Rise of 18,000 in Mental Defectives in Five Years and Stresses Prison Program.

Governor Roosevelt, addressing the annual meeting of the State Charities Aid Association in the Biltmore last night, emphasized the importance of the work of the State Department of Public Welfare and asked support in placing the department on a level with the State Department of Education.

"The most striking and important difference between the civilization of today and the civilization of yesterday," he said, "is the universal recognition that the first duty of a State, and by that I mean a government, is to protect the welfare of the citizens of that State. It is no longer sufficient to protect them from invasion, from lawless and criminal acts, from injustice and persecution, but the State must protect them, so far as lies in its power, from disease, from ignorance, from physical injury and from old age want.

Sees Need of Public Interest.

"It is easy to say that the State must look after the welfare of its citizens, but to translate that into terms of law and to create additional agencies of government to make such laws effective is not an easy matter and can be expedited only by the rousing of public attention and the wise direction of public interest on the part of unselfish organizations such as yours.

"I want particularly tonight to stress my belief that the time has now arrived to elevate our State Department of Public Welfare to the position of importance and independence which it deserves in our State machinery. It has been the Cinderella of our government household. It has been trusted haphazardly, with all sorts of odds and ends of things which involve hard work and little glory.

"I believe it should be given far more important duties and far more support and dignity than has yet been accorded it. And I want to ask your powerful aid, not only for myself but for those Governors who will succeed me, and who, I feel sure, will be equally impressed with the importance of its work, in eventually, by carefully considered and not too hasty legislation, raising the Department of Public Welfare more nearly to a level with its proud sister, the Department of Education."

Commends Work for Children.

The Governor commended the association for its work in connection with neglected or dependent children and its cooperation with county commissioners of public welfare, judges of the children's courts and boards of child welfare. He noted that there were only four counties where the association's county children's committees did not exist and expressed the hope that such committees would soon be functioning throughout the State.

Governor Roosevelt urged the support of the association in his efforts to aid the dependent aged. He said a commission was now working out a plan to aid this class, and he asked the association to study its recommendations. Concerning public health, he said he hoped that a centralized system of county health units would become a recognized part of county government.

He saw the problem of the mentally defective becoming more serious "under the stress of our swiftly moving civilization" and urged that it be approached with a view to curing the mentally diseased instead of merely confining them. The facilities for caring for this class, he said, "are still woefully inadequate," declaring that large expenditures required by the State for this year were made necessary by "our past neglect to enlarge these facilities."

"The third step," the Governor concluded, "which is something that must be undertaken in each case, is the prevention of both insanity and crime. This has just begun. Money spent for prevention represents many times that amount saved by the State in the future. As a State we have done practically nothing toward the prevention of crime and insanity. It is something I hope we will seriously take up immediately."

Maps Housing Needs.

At the conclusion of his prepared address the Governor diverted somewhat from his subject to defend the $46,000,000 rise in the new State budget. He attributed the increase and present size to a lack of foresight in past years in providing adequate facilities for housing and caring for criminals and the insane.

He predicted that five years hence there would be 18,000 more mentally defective persons than could be accommodated with the present bed capacity in institutions for the insane, and that there would be also 3,000 more inmates in the prisons than could be cared for in the present number of cells. The program of new construction is planned for completion in 1935, he said.

In justification of the budget rise he pointed out that $85,000,000 to $90,000,000 of the amount would be spent in social welfare.

"And we might just as well make up our minds that we are going to spend more in the years to come," he said. "There is no question of who was responsible in the past, but who is responsible in the future, and we propose to take that upon our shoulders."

The administration of relief to the aged, as relief and not as a pension, under direct State auspices and at State expense, Homer Folks, secretary of the association, said offers the greatest hope of meeting that need. Mr. Folks said that the most important social service advance in New York State during the past year was the repeal of the poor law and the enactment of the public welfare law, and the greatest welfare need for the immediate future was the adoption of a new policy of relief for the aged.

INSPECTOR TESTIFIES ON PATHE PLANT VISIT

Estimates 40,000 Feet of Film Were Stored in Studio a Month Before Fire.

John A. Lynch, assistant inspector of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, testified yesterday at the hearing in Municipal Term Court before Magistrate Simpson of John C. Flinn and Henry P. Lalley, officials of Pathé Sound Studios, Inc., who are charged with illegally storing films in the studio at 1,990 Park Avenue, where several persons lost their lives in a fire on Dec. 10. He declared he had found between forty and fifty cans, each containing about 1,000 feet of film, when he made his last official inspection of the premises on Nov. 7.

No action was taken against the studio at that time, Lynch said, because an order issued by Fire Commissioner Dorman requiring the installation of automatic sprinklers had been appealed to the Board of Standards and Appeals.

On cross-examination by Nathan Burkan, counsel for the defendants, Lynch read from the records of the bureau that permits for the storage of film had been granted to occupants of the building at various times from 1917 until 1921. After 1921 no more permits were issued.

In 1919, Lynch said, an order by the then Fire Commissioner for the installation of a sprinkler system had been rescinded by the Board of Standards and Appeals on the ground that the building was fireproof. The board permitted the storage of films "used in the production of pictures in the studio," but there was no mention made of the amount of film allowed. Lynch, replying to a question, said it would have been within the limits of the board's provision if 200,000 feet of film were stored, provided a picture of that length had been in the course of production.

The inspector testified that the purpose of his surveys at the studio had been to determine whether Mr. Dorman's order for the installation of a sprinkler system made in 1929 had been complied with. When Lalley told him that this order had been appealed, Lynch said, he was satisfied.

Upon motion of defense counsel the hearing was adjourned until Feb. 10.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY BEGINS BAIL INQUIRY

Tuttle Hopes It Will Result in Legislation to Correct Overcharging and Other Evils.

The inquiry before the Federal grand jury into the bail-bond business as conducted in all the courts in this jurisdiction which United States Attorney Tuttle said he would institute began yesterday and continued for two hours. Fifteen witnesses had been called, but only three were questioned. The others, it was said, would be asked to testify on Monday and another dozen will be examined next week.

While it has been alleged that extortion is practiced in the Federal courts at the expense of poor persons who find themselves in the toils of the law, many of them for minor offenses, nothing can be done about it because of the lack of power to prosecute. Asked directly what end he was seeking, Mr. Tuttle replied that the investigation was for constructive purposes and that he hoped it would result in legislation that would correct the present evils.

There is no Federal law limiting the charges for bail bonds, but there is a State law fixing the rate at 3 per cent, which, it is alleged, is frequently violated. It is generally admitted by lawyers and others that the 3 per cent is not sufficient compensation for those engaged in the business. An attempt is being made by Mr. Tuttle and his assistant, Lowell Wadmond, to discover just how prevalent the overcharging is in the courts.

NEW COURSES AT HUNTER.

Designed to Meet "Professional Alertness" Required of Teachers.

Courses to meet the "professional alertness" requirement of the Board of Education for city teachers are to be introduced in the Evening and Extension Division of Hunter College in the Spring semester. The courses are to be in the fields of education, science art, English and Biblical literature, languages, economics, mathematics and statistics, music and short-hand.

The educational department will give a course in teacher-clerk methods, in preparation for the Board of Education examination in August. In the cultural field there will be a course in the literary appreciation of the Old Testament.

Other courses are: Seneca, Roman literature, persistent problems in philosophy, contemporary psychology, investments, for graduates, selected practical problems in statistical methods, aural harmony, advanced counterpoint, for graduates, introduction to research in the classical period, for graduates.

The courses will be given at the main building, Sixty-eighth Street and Lexington Avenue, the Brooklyn branch at 66 Court Street, Girls Commercial High School and twenty-three other centres. Registration will be accepted Jan. 27, 28, 29 and 30. Recitations will begin Feb. 3.

HONOR SYSTEM EXTENDED.

Two Hunter Classes Called Upon to Report Examination Violations.

A test of the honor system of Hunter College will take place during the January examinations, when the junior and senior classes will be called upon for the first time to redeem their pledge of compulsory reporting of violations. Student supervision during examinations has been practiced for six years at Hunter, but measures have been largely preventive and reporting optional.

"During the past term," said Miss Alva Critchley, senior president of the honor board, "only one honor board failure went down against a student's record. Yet every bit of academic work is subject to the honor system." Non-examination situations, according to Miss Critchley, include interlinear translations, notebooks involving original work and use of the school libraries and book rooms.

"Make Hunter and honor synonomous," is the slogan of the drive for a perfect record in the examinations next week.

SEES 'PRESUMPTION' IN ROOSEVELT PLANS

Senator Mastick Declares the Governor Has No Business to Recommend Legislation.

CHARGES BAD GOVERNMENT

State Senator Seabury C. Mastick, Westchester Republican, charged Governor Roosevelt yesterday with being "presumptuous" in proposing what the Senator termed the Governor's own legislative plan. Senator Mastick spoke at a meeting of the Women's National Republican Club, 6 East Thirty-seventh Street.

"The Governor has no business to interfere with legislation and make recommendations," he said. "The sooner we face the fact the better."

He explained that the legislative and administrative functions of the State were separate, and added that it was just as much "presumption" for the Governor to offer a legislative program as it would be "presumption" for the Legislature to interfere in administrative matters.

Attacking the administration in the State generally and specifically criticizing the budget of $311,000,000 proposed this year, he declared that the past eight years had proved that good government was more a matter of administration than of legislation. The State budget has been increased because of poor administration, resulting in part, at least, from the men in the Executive chair being too "ambitious for something more than the welfare of the State," he said.

Discussing specifically the amount provided in the budget for education, he said that while it has apparently become lèse-majesté for a member of the Legislature to criticize provisions for education, "it is a fact that education costs the State twice as much today as it did ten years ago." He would suggest "research" for a reorganization of the State educational system so an efficient but more economical system might be worked out, he said.

He declared that he could see no reason why the Legislature should become "hysterical" over the condition of hospitals in the State, "as the conditions are the same today as they were during Governor Whitman's Administration." Prison reform and reform in institutions for the insane should not be attempted without a comprehensive program, he said, adding that these fields were examples of poor administration in the use made of funds already appropriated for their improvement.

On the matter of a prohibition enforcement bill, he declared that he was opposed to a caucus among Republicans as being unfair to down-State Republican members of the Legislature. The constituents in many of the districts do not want enforcement and Senators and Assemblymen should not be forced into a caucus until the constituents have been convinced that enforcement is desirable, he said.

Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat of Manhattan, speaking at the same meeting, asked that the State provide immediately for new vehicular tunnels to New Jersey under the Hudson River, and urged specifically a tunnel to connect with the proposed crosstown and East River tunnel in New York. Even if work is started at once, the Holland Tunnel will be overcrowded before a new structure can be completed, he said.

DISCUSS SOCIAL HYGIENE.

175 Delegates From Many States Attend National Meeting Here.

Problems of social hygiene were discussed yesterday at the opening session of the two-day meeting of the American Social Hygiene Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. More than 175 representatives of societies and health departments from many States are attending the sessions.

Dr. Neva Deardorf, of the New York City Welfare Council, told of studies by the seamen's section of the council. S. M. Auerbach, of the association's staff told of steps proposed for the elimination of undesirable advertising in foreign language publications. The relation of health and police departments to social hygiene work was discussed by Bascom Johnson, director of the association's division of legal measures. Dr. Walter Clarke, director of the division of medical measures, told of studies made on Indian reservations.

Other speakers were Dr. Maurice A. Bigelow of Teachers College, and Dr. Jessie Marshall of the association's staff. Dr. Valeria H. Parker, director of field extension, presided.

Stimson's Parrot Is Banished for Cursing; British Press Fails in Appeal for Mercy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP).—"The Old Soak," Secretary Stimson's parrot, has gone into retirement and disgrace, but not because he has psittacosis, or "parrot's fever." The explanation for his misfortune is that he talked too much.

"The Old Soak" was moved to the patio of the Pan-American Building when Mr. Stimson left for London. Already a linguist of parts, speaking Chinese and Spanish, the parrot picked up English rapidly and began to yell to visitors:

"Good morning! Good morning!"

For a few days he was a special attraction, but he gradually fell from public favor.

Instead of talking less, he talked more, and it is rumored that he began to use profanity he picked up during his days in the Philippines. Guides complained that "The Old Soak's" ranting drowned out their voices as they ushered tourists through the building.

So he was moved today to the basement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A dispatch from Washington tonight sent newspaper men rushing to Secretary Stimson's hotel to inform him that his parrot had broken the pledge not to swear.

All efforts of the reporters to obtain a reprieve for the bird from his banishment to the basement of the Pan-American Building failed tonight.

Captain Eugene Regnier, barring the way to Secretary Stimson's bedroom, vigorously defended "The Old Soak's" honor. Personally, he said, he knew him as a perfect mannered bird which never did swear—unless, possibly, he had been questioned all day long by reporters.

MAN, 76, AIMS AT 100 WITH AID OF FLYING

W. H. Gannett Leaves for Air Tour of South America—He Has Flown 30,000 Miles.

William H. Gannett, 76-year-old retired newspaper publisher of Portland, Me., left by train last night for an air tour of South America over the lines of the Pan American Airways. Mr. Gannett has made flights over most of the important airlines of this country and Europe and has covered more than 30,000 miles by air in the last few years. He said last night on his departure that in his opinion flying would enable him to live to be 100 or more, due to the stimulation of interest and the lack of fatigue which the new method of travel makes possible.

Mr. Gannett is a relative of Frank E. Gannett, who owns another chain of newspapers in New York and New England. He will leave Miami by air for the first part of the tour, which will take him through the West Indies to Cristobal, C. Z., over the route opened last February by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. From Cristobal he will travel on one of the first passenger trips over the new extension of the Pan American-Grace Line to Arica, Chile. Here he will take the newly opened line of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires line through Santiago, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janiero on the east coast.

It is expected that the latter line will have its passenger service operating northward from Rio by the time Mr. Gannett reaches there, and he will continue on to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, from where he will fly over the Windward and Leeward Islands to Havana and Miami over the reverse route opened by Colonel Lindburgh on his most recent southern trip.

FOUR EMPLOYERS JAILED.

Plead Guilty to Failing to Carry Compensation Insurance.

Three employers who pleaded guilty to charges of failing to carry compensation insurance for their employes, as required under the State labor law, accepted thirty-day jail sentencense in default of $100 fines in municipal term magistrate's court yesterday. A fourth defendant on a similar charge was sentenced to five days in jail.

The three were Ralph Campbell, barber shop proprietor, of 433 Lenox Avenue; Louis Welcher, laundry owner, of 259 West 160th Street, and Abe Quaker, laundry owner, of 107 East Thirty-fourth Street. Charles Nestel, also a laundry owner, received the five-day sentence.

A total of twenty-eight similar cases were on the calendar for the day. The others were adjourned until next week, after about half of the list had been heard.

RECKLESS DRIVER JAILED.

Nearly Hit Policeman in Times Square—Gets 15 Days, $100 Fine.

Mortimer Cunningham, worker in a garage at Convent Avenue and 130th Street, was sentenced to fifteen days' imprisonment and fined $100 for reckless driving in Times Square by Magistrate McAndrews in traffic court yesterday. Cunningham had no money to pay his fine, and unless it is forthcoming before the jail sentence is served, another fifteen days will be added.

Patrolman Houghton of Traffic B said the defandant had knocked over a stanchion at Seventh Avenue and Forty-second Street, and had almost run down the policeman himself. It was also alleged that Cunningham had borrowed a car from the garage without permission.

Convict 15 in Liquor Plot.

TELL OF STOCK LOSSES IN MAIL FRAUDS CASE

Witnesses Say They Were Induced to Buy Utah Lead by Long-Distance Phone Calls.

Several alleged victims of deals in stock of the Utah Lead Company of Delaware testified for the government yesterday at the mail frauds trial of that organization, Charles Beadon and six other defendants. The trial is before Federal Judge John M. Woolsey and a jury.

With respect to methods used to induce persons to buy Utah Lead, Russell H. Harlow of Plymouth, Mass., testified that, shortly after he had subscribed for the "Stock Market Reporter," he received a telephone call from a man who said he was George Wright, a nom de plume, alleged to have been used by Beadon in Stock Market Reporter articles. Harlow said the man asked if he had benefited from his subscription, and when informed that he had not purchased any stock, urged him to buy Utah Lead.

As a result of that and other telephone talks, Harlow declared, he had invested a total of $1,212.93 in Utah Lead, brokerage included. Assistant United States Attorney Irving Spieler introduced records of the company which showed that only 50 shares had been carried as having been sold to Harlow at 9 Market Street, Worcester, Mass., and 9 Market Street, Boston. The witness testified he had never lived at either of these addresses.

M. W. Allen, a ranch owner of Eureka, Kan., said he had received six long-distance telephone calls about Utah Lead, one of which cost the caller $40, before he was persuaded to buy some of it at $5 a share, on the assurance it would reach $15 a share.

Walter Kocheiser, a farmer of Lexington, Ohio, said articles in Trend of the Market and Boosts had caused him to buy fifty shares of the stock for $310. After saying he had never purchased stock of any kind before, he was asked if he had made any purchases since.

"Not so you could notice it," he replied.

William C. Winclow of Newton, Mass., said he had bought 1,100 shares at $3 to $6 a share. Later, he testified, he came here and met Dr. Joseph Morris, associate editor of The Stock Market Reporter, who told him the crash of the stock had been caused by the Better Business Bureau, which had circularized all purchasers of the stock with disastrous results to investors.

The trial will be resumed Monday.

CHARGES POLICE BRUTALITY

The International Labor Defense issued a statement yesterday protesting against "police brutality" in the case of Steve Katovis, 40-year-old striking market clerk, who was shot in the back Thursday night by Patrolman Harry Kiritz of the Morrisania station when the detective and Detective Donald Clarey had trouble with pickets at 161st Street and Union Avenue, the Bronx.

Katovis, who is charged with felonious assault, is in a critical condition at Lincoln Hospital, where a blood transfusion was resorted to yesterday morning. Twenty fellow-strikers reported to the organization that they were willing to volunteer if further transfusions were needed. A mass meeting of protest will be held by the organization tomorrow at 2 P. M. at 896 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx.

The shooting "crowns the reign of brutality that Walker's police have created in this city against strikers," the statement declared, adding that the police "assailed the strikers with their clubs," forcing them to defend themselves. Patrolman Kiritz, continued the statement, "placed his gun to the picket's back and fired."

ANCIENT COINS RESTORED.

Roman and Egyptian coins which were buried under the accumulated rust of twenty centuries have been restored to their original form and lustre by Professor William Campbell of the Mining Engineering Laboratories of Columbia University, it was learned yesterday.

The coins were unearthed among the ruins of Eastern cities which flourished under the Ptolemies and Caesars. Most of them were of copper and had been disfigured by the chemical processes of prolonged exposure.

When cleaned the coins proved similar in shape and size to our own dime. They are slightly larger and thicker and crudely designed, but on both sides carry the imprint of ancient celebrities.

Most of the coins were subjected to a chemical process of oxidation for almost a year before they assumed their original state.

NON-PARTISAN PLAN TO ELECT JUDICIARY

the eighth Tuesday preceding the election, leaving two months for consideration of candidates and for their campaign.

On election day the names of the judicial candidates would appear in a separate section of the ballot or voting machine without party names or emblems. Their order on the ballot would be determined by lot.

Maximum Freedom Sought.

"The Citizens Union believes the time is ripe for the initiation of a non-partisan system of electing judges," Mr. McGahen said. "It offers this simple plan, believing that it could be easily adapted to serve the purpose of all those who believe our judges should enter office under conditions tending toward maximum freedom in official action.

"Every one familiar with conditions in our courts is eager to find a way to encourage men of the highest character and legal attainments to seek election to judicial office. With rare exceptions, those who have recently been elevated to the bench have conspicuously failed to measure up to the standard that should prevail.

"Judges are human beings—we want them to be—but so long as they are and so long as, in most cases, they owe their original designation, as well as their continuance in office, to political party leaders under laws that regulate party nominations and elections for other offices they are clearly not elected under the system most likely to encourage independent, fearless judicial conduct. Nor is this system the one most likely to attract to judicial office the best type of men."

Mr. McGahen contended that in order to get qualified candidates they must be assured they will be tested on individual merit.

Cites Loss of Able Jurists.

"Voters are encouraged, in fact exhorted, by the judicial candidates themselves," he said, "to vote for all the party candidates simply because they are the party candidates.

"Frequently we have been deprived of the services of capable, independent and experienced judges merely because in their early years they happened to affiliate themselves with a political party that is not the dominant party when the time comes for them to stand for re-election.

"These tragedies have been avoided when there has been a willingness of party leaders to avert them through bipartisan trades or deals. But such agreements frequently are consummated under circumstances humiliating to the beneficiaries and, too, they tend to encourage still further lack of discrimination on the part of the electorate.

'Furthermore, when a judge feels that, in order to be sure of re-election, he must keep in the good graces of both major parties, his course is likely to become complicated, with much of his attention distracted from the pathway of unhampered duty."

FEAR TOMBS PRISON MIGHT COLLAPSE

OPINION SHARED BY WARDEN

ALBANY, Jan. 17.—A possibility that the Tombs prison at Centre and Franklin Streets, Manhattan, is settling was disclosed in a report made by the State Commission of Correction today.

Sam A. Lewisohn and John S. Kennedy, commissioners who inspected the prison on Jan. 3, based their report on personal observations and a talk with Warden Robert Barr.

"The warden called attention to the fact," the report stated, "that in his opinion the building is slowly sinking and that this is the cause of the breakage in toilet plumbing. This may develop a very serious situation and it is recommended that the commissioner of correction promptly arrange for competent engineers to make an examination of this situation to determine whether or not there is any possible danger of the building collapsing."

Offices here are without information as to whether Richard C. Patterson Jr., the New York City Commissioner of correction, has taken steps toward an investigation. A collapse of the structure would endanger keepers and prisoners who usually number between 500 and 750.

Without criticizing the prison administration, the report condemns overcrowding in Tombs cells, due to limited facilities. On the date of inspection, when there were 631 prisoners, there were 136 cells with two prisoners in each. In seven of the eight tiers of cells, the law prohibiting the placing of convicted and unconvicted prisoners in the same tier was violated.

"Attention is called to the fact," the report added, "that only one keeper is assigned on two tiers. We believe that this is a very dangerous situation. Eight additional keepers should be provided for this place, so that there may be reasonable supervision on every tier throughout the night."

Conditions in the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital were condemned by Commissioner Kennedy in another report. Describing the ward of two rooms, one of which has only one window, he reported:

"There is no segregation of minors, adults and witnesses and many of each type are held here constantly.

"A bad situation exists in the male psychopathic ward, where there are only thirty-eight beds. The number of patients held here this morning (Dec. 27) was sixty-six and offtimes runs over seventy. Because of the lack of beds many of the patients are obliged to sleep on the floor, some even without mattresses. Here those charged with crime are commingled indiscriminately with other unfortunate mental cases under observation."

MR. ZERO FEEDS JOBLESS.

Also Distributes Clothing—Puts Number of Idle at 5,000,000.

Urbain Ledoux, philanthropist, who is better known as "Mr. Zero," yesterday at his "Tub," 33 St. Mark's Place, distributed clothing and food to men out of employment. He said this was the worst period of unemployment since 1921.

Mr. Zero distributed during the day 100 overcoats, 25 dozen pairs of socks, 5 dozen mufflers, 4 dozen sweaters and 10 dozen pairs of gloves. To one large man who could not be fitted with the garments for distribution Mr. Ledoux gave his own overcoat.

Mr. Ledoux said he would continue to distribute clothing and to serve five-cent meals during the period of depression. He asserted that the estimate of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that 3,000,000 men are out of work was too conservative and that the number would be nearer 5,000,000.

FIGHT 'BLANK DAY' CALENDAR

The Rev. Dr. Moses Hyamson and Isaac Rosengarten, president and secretary, respectively, of the League for Safeguarding the Fixity of the Sabbath, which is said to represent practically all the national Jewish organizations in the United States, have written the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives opposing plans for calendar simplification, which destroy the fixed periodicity of the Sabbath.

Particular opposition to the "blank day" device is expressed in the letter. The plan, it is said, is favored by the National Committee on Calendar Simplification, although there are other schemes embracing the thirteen month idea which would not interfere with the fixity of the Sabbath.

CONTRACTORS TO SHUT SHOPS IN DRESS STRIKE

Decision to Cease Making Garments Is Aimed Against Jobbers Rather Than Union.

The submanufacturers or contractors in the dress business have decided to close their shops and cease making garments when the dressmakers' strike is called by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, it was reported yesterday, following a membership meeting of the contractors organized as the Association of Dress Manufacturers, Inc.

The move is to be directed not so much against the union as against the jobbers for whom the submanufacturers work. The jobbers, with no shops of their own, sell in quantities to the retail trade and contend that they are in no way responsible for labor standards. The submanufacturers assert that the jobbers force prices of garments so low that the only way to turn out orders is to force more onerous conditions on labor.

Failure of the Wholesale Dress Manufacturers' Association, the jobbers, to reply to friendly overtures for a meeting with the submanufacturers hastened the decision to produce no goods for the jobbers when the strike is called.

The submanufacturers hold that the entire trade must work out a program to raise the working standards of the industry. They hope to induce the jobbers to agree to limit their orders to the shops of those in the submanufacturers' association. Refusal of the jobbers to order garments from submanufacturers who do not employ union help would, it is believed by the association members, help to stabilize the industry. Such a clause is in the agreement governing the cloak industry.

MOVIE TRUST DENIED IN FOX REPLY TO SUIT

Answer to Government Action Says Purchase of Loew's, Inc., Killed No Competition.

Fox Securities Corporation Flotation for Refunding Is Endorsed by Subsidiaries.

Averring that Fox Theatres Corporation, which purchased all the stock bought by any Fox interests in Loew's, Inc., is not engaged in interstate commerce and therefore is not amenable to the Clayton act, the Fox Film Corporation and the Fox Theatres Corporation filed an answer yesterday in Federal court to the government's suit to force them to divest themselves of their holdings in Loew's, Inc. A motion to dismiss the suit as far as William Fox personally is concerned was also filed on the ground that the government makes no allegations against him and, even if it did, the Clayton act, which prohibits one corporation from buying stock in another which may lessen competition, does not apply to an individual.

Another development in the working out of the financial problems confronting the Fox Film Corporation and the Fox Theatres Corporation was the endorsement of the plan of the Fox Securities Corporation to offer $35,000,000 three-year 7 per cent debentures to take care of short-term maturities of the two companies, by thirteen representatives of motion picture chains, controlling 233 theatres through the country, at a meeting last night in the Hotel Ambassador.

Aside from the legal points raised, the answer filed in Federal court discloses for the first time that William Fox, president of both corporations, owns only a trifle more than 5 per cent of the outstanding stock of Fox Film Corporation and just 10 per cent of that of Fox Theatres Corporation. It had been popularly supposed that he owned the entire voting control of Fox Film Corporation, but the answer shows that of the 100,000 shares of the B stock, the only class of stock that has voting power, Mr. Fox owns only 50,100 shares. In the Theatres Corporation the answer affirms that Mr. Fox owns 100 per cent of the voting stock.

Hughes Aids Among Counsel.

Ralph S. Harris appears as solicitor for all three of the defendants in the suit, and George W. Schurman and Richard E. Dwight appear as of counsel. The last two named are partners of Charles Evans Hughes, former justice of the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Harris is chief of the legal staff of the same office, that of Hughes, Schurman & Dwight at 100 Broadway.

The answer of the Fox Theatres Corporation avers that the company purchased all of the Loew's, Inc., stock that figures in the government suit and that the corporation has violated no section of the Clayton act because it is not engaged in interstate commerce. Using the language of the answer, it states:

"Fox Theatres Corporation is engaged almost exclusively in holding the stocks of other corporations and it neither owns nor leases nor operates any theatres, except that it leases and operates one theatre each in Brooklyn, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; Atlanta, Ga., and San Francisco, Cal.; Loew's, Inc., upon information and belief, is engaged solely in the business of holding the stocks of other corporations and does not own, lease or operate any theatres whatsoever.

"Fox Theatres Corporation owns some or all of the capital stock of approximately twenty-one corporations, which, in turn, own or lease approximately 175 theatres, located (with the exception of the one theatre in St. Louis, Mo.; Detroit, Mich., and Denver, Col.) in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut. All of these theatre-operating corporations are separately operated.

"Loew's, Inc., upon information, owns some or all the capital stock of corporations which, in turn, own, operate or control through other corporations between 125 and 200 theatres located in New York, Tennessee, Massachusetts, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Virginia, California, Rhode Island, Kentucky, New Jersey, Texas, Georgia, Utah, Washington, Louisiana, Connecticut, Alabama, Michigan and the District of Columbia. Upon information and belief all of these theatre-owning corporations are separately operated."

Competition Is Denied.

The answer goes on to state that for the most part the theatres operated by subsidiaries of the two companies are not in the same section and that, therefore, Fox Theatres Corporation is not in competition with Loew's, Inc. The answer avers also that neither of the companies is engaged in interstate commerce.

The answer discloses that the Fox Theatres Corporation purchased at various times between Feb. 26, 1929, and Sept. 30, 1929, two separate blocks of the common stock of Loew's, Inc., in all totaling 660,000 shares, and that while Fox Film Corporation lent a substantial sum of money to Fox Theatres Corporation to use in part payment for such purchases, it did not guarantee any obligation of the Fox Theatres Corporation in connection with the purchase of the stock nor did it acquire any interest of any kind in the stock purchased.

The answer states also that Fox Film Corporation has not since acquired any interest in the stock, and the Fox Film Corporation and Fox Theatres Corporation are not operated as one enterprise, nor are they a part of one organization as complementary parts of the same business. A history of the two companies is gone into to prove where the development of each was entirely distinct from the other.

In regard to the organization of Fox Film Corporation, the answer states that, about 1913, Mr. Fox organized an attraction known as "Box Office Attractions Film Rental Company, Inc.," to distribute motion pictures. The rights to the pictures were acquired from independent producers. Two years later he organized the Fox Film Corporation to carry on this business with a capital stock of $500,000 in preferred shares and $1,000,000 in common shares. The preferred shares were entirely subscribed for, according to the answer, by friends of Mr. Fox living in New Jersey, and when Mr. Fox acquired all of the common shares of the corporation, due to turning over the business of the Box Office Attractions Film Rental Company, Inc., he gave these friends one-half of the common stock which he held.

Fox Theatre Corporation is set forth as being a development of several separate enterprises in which William Fox was the only personal factor connected with each. The answer avers that Mr. Fox interested several separate groups of persons in the operation of separate theatres, and that many of these were in operation when Mr. Fox decided to consolidate the interests in the many separate theatres into the Fox Theatres Corporation.

It states that this corporation was formed in 1925 and took in theatres which Mr. Fox had been engaged in operating since 1909, either alone or associated with groups of other people. Following the incorporation of Fox Theatres Corporation, stock of this company was exchanged for a substantial part of the capital stock of the several enterprises in which he was interested. The answer further sets forth that Mr. Fox is the owner of about 75,000 shares of the Class A common stock of the Fox Theatres Corporation and that the rest is held by various other people throughout the United States. Fox Theatres has authorized 3,900,000 shares of the Class A stock and 100,000 of the Class B voting stock. The answer says that, in addition to its holdings of the Class A stock of this corporation, Mr. Fox holds all Class B stock.

First as a Film Distributor.

The Fox Film Corporation took up the business of distribution of film and later started into the production of motion pictures. By 1919, all preferred stock had been retired and, at some time or other, not disclosed in the answer, the treasury of Fox Film Corporation became possessed of 100 shares of the class B stock. At present this leaves Mr. Fox in possession of 50,000 shares of the class B stock, the only stock that has voting power; with 49,000 shares being held by other people. According to the answer, this is the margin by which Mr. Fox holds control of Fox Film Corporation which, during 1929, earned more than $13,000,000 from operations and $6,000,000 from a nonrecurring profit due to the sale of this interest in First National Pictures, Inc., by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.

After setting forth this history of the two companies, the answer for the Fox Theatres Corporation "avers that it is independently operated and wholly separate and distinct from Fox Film Corporation, that it is operated for its own corporate purpose and profit; that Fox Film Corporation is operated for the corporate purposes and profits of Fox Film Corporation; that approximately 90 per cent of the equity in Fox Theatres Corporation as represented by its common stock is held in hands other than those of William Fox and approximately 95 per cent of the equity of the Fox Film Corporation as represented by its common stock is held in hands other than those of William Fox; that the holders of said 90 per cent of the common stock of Fox Theatres Corporation are not acting jointly or in accord with the holders of said 95 per cent of the common stock of Fox Film Corporation for the purpose of operating said two companies as a unit or as complementary parts of one business."

The answer then goes into detail as to the purposes of the purchase of the 660,900 shares of the common stock of Loew's, Inc. The answer says that it "was not for the purpose of lessening any competition which might exist between them and that the defendant has not exerted any influence upon the corporate management of Loew's, Inc., or any of the Loew group companies."

The answer then states that it had no agreement with the management of either Loew's, Inc., or Fox Film Corporation in regard to the plan of consolidation of interest at the time it made the purchase of stock, and that it does not believe that any such consolidation could have been put into effect except with the consent of at least 80 per cent of the holders of the common shares of both of these corporations, and that it had no influence sufficient to force such a consolidation by either of the companies.

The answer ends with the usual legal paragraph that, in view of the facts set forth, the suit of the government does not set forth sufficient facts to constitute a valid cause of action.

The answer of the Fox Film Corporation is practically a repetition of that of the Fox Theatres Corporation, except in so far as it lays out its own operation as a distributer of motion pictures, but it avers that it owns no interest in Loew's, Inc., and therefore is not a proper defendant in the action.

Argument for Fox Personally.

The motion which takes the place of an answer by William Fox personally as one of the defendants in the government action asks for a dismissal of the government petition against him because of "an insufficiency of facts averred in said petition to constitute a valid cause of action in equity against him."

In addition to the attorneys Harris, Sherman and Dwight, Saul E. Rogers, who is chief counsel for the two Fox companies, and James Francis Burke appear on the answers as counsel for the defendant.

Thirteen motion picture exhibitors, representing 233 theatres throughout the United States with a total seating capacity of 300,000, met yesterday with officials of the Fox Securities Corporation and William Fox and endorsed the plan to make an offering of $35,000,000 7 per cent three-year debentures. The Fox Securities Corporation was organized to help finance the present obligations of the Fox Film Corporation and the Fox Theatres Corporation.

David A. Brown, chairman of the Broadway National Bank and Trust Company and president of the Fox Securities Corporation, was present with Mr. Fox. At the conclusion of the meeting the thirteen representatives signed a four-page statement saying the published earning capacities of the Fox interests are correct and concluded the statement with:

Those who signed the statement were: William Benton, Saratoga Springs, representing thirteen theatres; Samuel Bendheim, Richmond, Va., three theatres; Chris H. Buckley, Albany, three theatres; Sidney S. Cohen, New York City, former president of Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, two theatres; Fred Dolle, Louisville, twenty-five theatres; William C. DRY LAW ASSAILED AT CIVIC FORUM

Mrs. M. B. Kelley Declares That Prohibition Is "Breeder of Crime and Corruption."

Says Act Is Unenforceable—Professor Erskine Favors Change in Statute.

The "wet" side of a discussion of the Eighteenth Amendment, held at Town Hall last night under the auspices of the Civic Forum, brought forth bristling criticisms of prohibition as a "breeder of syndicated crime, legalized murder, corruption of public officials" and as a "total and disastrous failure" after ten years of exorbitant cost and unusual effort.

The speakers were Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley, chairman of the speakers' committee of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, vice president of the American Women's Association and chairman of the legislation committee of the New York and New Jersey branch of the National Civic Federation; Joseph H. Choate Jr., member of the executive committee and board of managers of the volunteer committee of lawyers; Captain W. H. Stayton, founder of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and John Erskine of Columbia University, author and educator.

Mrs. Kelley, who delivered her first public address against the prohibition law, listed as results of ten years of prohibition, "increase of crime, crowding of prisons, syndicated crime, arrests for drunkenness, drinking in homes, the effect on the youth, saloon followed by speakeasy, increase of stills in the South and liquor all over the country, legalized murder and corruption of public officials."

Mrs. Kelley said women had need of an impartial viewpoint, that they should see the problem as a whole, not from personal relationship, but with perspective.

Calling prohibition a "total and disastrous failure," Mr. Choate said that, to a lawyer, the case against it was based on three things:

"1. That, as a rule of conduct, it has no place in our Constitution.

"2. That, as an unenforceable statute, it breeds infectious corruption.

"3. That even as national legislation it violates the first principle of freedom—local self-government.

"The Wickersham commission has stated," he went on, "that 80,000 arrests within the year in every part of the country show a staggering number of 'focal points of infection.' If after ten years' work of thousands of enforcement agents, with untold millions of expenditure, nearly one in a thousand of our whole population—men, women, cripples and babes in arms—are arrested in a single year, it is plainly idle to assert that the law is now generally observed."

Mr. Choate declared no one had a right to expect improvement in enforcement in the face of a "mounting sea of country-wide sentiment" against it.

Captain Stayton, who has spoken against prohibition many times, offered criticisms of the amendment and the enforcement methods now indulged in. Professor Erskine also expressed the opinion that there should be a change in the law.

At the close of the addresses, each of which was applauded by an audience that occupied almost every seat in the hall, questions were permitted from the floor. A man asked those in favor of a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to raise their hands. The number of hands that went up made it seem that the vote was practically unanimous, but in answer to a question as to how many were against repeal, about thirty hands were raised.

In answer to a question as to whether the States had ever had a chance to vote on the amendment, Captain Stayton said only Ohio had voted on it and that State had voted against it.

Mr. Erskine said at one time that he had drunk liquor with prominent drys and with Supreme Court Justices, but would go to jail rather than to give their names on the stand.

To one of the final questions asked by a woman who wanted to know whether Mr. Choate considered ten years of prohibition a fair test, he replied:

"Without the least progress—yes."

On Jan. 24 the "dry" side of the discussion will be put forth by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran, Mrs. Louis F. Slade, Dr. Charles Stelzle and Dr. E. N. Cherrington.

RULES HAVING LIQUOR IS NOT LAW VIOLATION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 17 (AP).—Mere possession of intoxicating liquor is not a violation of the national prohibition law, Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry declared in court today in discussing the sufficiency of indictments returned by the grand jury.

"The Eighteenth Amendment was not directed against possession of liquor," Judge Fitzhenry declared. "The liquor must be possessed for some particular purpose in violation of the amendment.

"By virtue of the second section of the amendment there is no question but that Congress has power to prohibit possession for purposes in violation of the amendment, but that is purely an enforcement proposition. In order to properly allege possession the indictment must be so specific as to charge a crime."

Judge Fitzhenry added, however, that no purpose need be shown in chargin gmanufacturing, sale, transportation or importation of liquor.

Arrest of Seven of Lake Forces Linked With Bribery Story.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP).—Three of seven Coast Guardsmen arrested last December in connection with a story of the distribution by bootleggers of $25,000 in bribes at Port Clinton, Ohio, are being held as military prisoners in Erie County jail, it was revealed today.

Although Commander Martin W. Rasmussen of the Buffalo Coast Guard district refused to name the exact charges, he admitted that the prisoners were to face court-martial for alleged "collusion with rum-runners."

Commander Rasmussen tonight admitted that one of the three men held on charges of accepting bribes had confessed. He declined to reveal who it was or to disclose the substance of the confession.

DORAN BACKS GUNS TO ENFORCE LAW

HOOVER'S PLANS APPROVED

Resolutions, Endorsing Proposals for New Enforcement Machinery, Passed After Militant Speeches.

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—Dr. J. W. Doran, Prohibition Commissioner, told the Anti-Saloon League Convention here today that all the agencies of the government entrusted with the duty of enforcing the dry laws would continue to use armed force whenever necessary, regardless of the sacrifices involved, and he added that he had full confidence that the government would back up its men in this policy.

Stirred by Dr. Doran's address and other militant speeches, the convention adopted a resolution in which it demanded that Congress supply forthwith whatever men and money may be necessary to carry out the recommendations of President Hoover and obtain "the effective enforcement of the prohibition law."

The resolution was coupled with one approving the President's prohibition policy, as expressed in his inaugural address, his appointment of the law enforcement commission, his recent messages to Congress and his declared purpose to make Washington "the model city of the nation in the matter of law enforcement."

Prolonged cheers greeted Commissioner Doran's advice "not to lose very much time" mourning over those killed by prohibition agents.

"Let us not lose very much time over these poor, unfortunate fellows," he said. "They are unfortunate, and I deeply deplore that these men, when the officers were exercising their full duty, lost their lives.

"But let us not lose very much time over that. I want to say with all the emphasis at my command that the Coast Guard, the customs and the bureau of prohibition will use arms whenever necessary in self-defense to carry out the duties under which they have taken their oaths of office. There is no government worthy to exist that will refuse to properly back up its officers. That time will never come."

Dry Forces Praised by Chief.

"The period in which national prohibition has been in effect covers about one-third of a generation, and yet habits and customs of dozens of generations have been materially modified in that short period of time," Dr. Doran said.

"It is difficult for us in the immediate centre of these changes to get a fair view of the situation and to calmly assess the broad effects of this policy.

"The Federal Government has made great strides in ten years. The record of accomplishment is one of which nobody need be ashamed and criticized. All should be fair enough to consider the improvement from year to year and bear with the Federal Government in strengthening control.

"The human element is not infallible even when it is connected with prohibition enforcement and errors of judgment and action have been made, are being made and will continue to be made. That is not the point so much as to progress by error in future action. I will not agree with anybody that prohibition is not well enforced," Dr. Doran said. "It is well enforced. We have made great and notable progress."

Tells of "Great Social Change."

Dr. Doran pointed with pride to the 50,000 convictions for violation of the liquor laws obtained last year, and said that the percentage of convictions was higher than ever before. He gave the number of last year's arrests as between 67,000 and 68,000, saying that the 77 per cent of convictions compared very favorably with the 60 per cent of convictions three years ago.

"There has been a greater social change in the last ten years in the lives of the American people than at any time in the history of the country," Dr. Doran said. "Had it not been for prohibition we would have slaughtered 150,000 instead of 30,000 on our highways last year." He attributed what he said was a much higher percentage of automobile accidents and deaths in England to the supposed greater amount of drinking done in that country. Dr. Doran also took occasion to defend President Hoover's method, criticized recently in and out of Congress, of appointing commissions for the study and solution of important problems, notably the Wickersham Commission for Crime Observance and Law Enforcement.

Sounds Industrial Alcohol Warning.

Discussing the question of industrial alcohol and the permit system, in which it was believed he was replying to recent criticism of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Dr. Doran said that "exhaustive inquiries show a diversion of not more than 2,750,000 gallons, less than 3 per cent of the entire production and less than one-fifth of the diversion of three years ago.

"For every gallon of industrial alcohol diverted, there were at least seven or eight gallons of high proof alcohol produced illicitly from corn sugar and put on the bootleg market in the form of alcohol, gin and alleged imported whisky.

"If, under the lash of extremists and politicians, harsh and restrictive measures are adopted toward scientific and industrial groups before the facts are discerned, we will witness a terrific blow to scientific and commercial progress in the United States," Dr. Doran warned in dealing with the question of control of industrial alcohol.

"The crippling of our scientific and educational institutions, our medical arts and our commercial organizations dependent on the efficient and rapid movement and procurement of essential alcohol supplies is too big a price to pay for this extreme brand of prohibition."

Stresses Education Need.

Dr. Doran warned the league that its duty was "to devote not so much time to tinkering with what is at the top as with educating the people."

"The ultimate success or failure of prohibition rests with the young generation," he said.

The only note of what might have been interpreted as doubt was that struck by Edward B. Dunford, counsel for the league and successor to Wayne B. Wheeler.

"We are facing in this fight an organized opposition and the temperance forces must remain united if our gains are to be preserved," Mr. Dunford warned.

James J. Britt, attorney for the Prohibition Bureau, declared that the number of persons killed in prohibition enforcement has been grossly exaggerated, instead of the 1,300 given by some, only 206 have lost their lives, he said. Of these, he said, fifty-six were prohibition agents. He estimated the average annual appropriation for the Prohibition Bureau in the past ten years as $8,800,000 and the number of enforcement officers at its disposal as 1,800.

"Within the last ten years our little force of agents made 550,000 arrests, seized 245,000 illicit distilleries, 9,000,000 gallons of spirituous liquors, 45,000 automobiles, 1,400 boats and much miscellaneous property, all of which had a forfeiture value of $136,000,000," he reported. Fines to the amount of $57,000,000, with a total imprisonment of 34,000 years, were imposed, he said.

Other resolutions adopted by the convention reaffirmed the Anti-Saloon League's opposition to any referenda on the prohibition question and called on the Federal Government to inaugurate a program of education on the liquor question similar to those pursued in their respective fields by the Agricultural Department and Health Bureau of the government.

Resolutions were also adopted commending the work of Commissioner Doran, Attorney General Mitchell and Aaron S. Youngquist, head of the legal branch of the prohibition unit.

Offers Rangers to Dry New York.

Assailing the people of New York and other "wet" communities as "aliens" flaunting the Constitution and laws of the land, and declaring that "the time has come for us to join in mopping up the wet places and to clear out all disloyal citizens or send them to prison," Atticus Webb, State Superintendent of the Anti-Sallon League of Texas, suggested in an address that the Texas Rangers be sent North to perform this task.

"Texas is willing to furnish a whole regiment of such rangers to mop up the west places of New York, Maryland, Wisconsin and Chicago," Mr. Webb said.

DEBATE ON DRY LAW SET.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17 (AP).—Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa and Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York will debate here on Feb. 7 on the subject of prohibition enforcement, the Cleveland Advertising Club announced today. Mr. Brookhart will take the affirmative and Mr. La Guardia the negative on the subject: "Resolved, that prohibition can be enforced."

The debate will be public.

for divorce and he was found to be the possessor of a quarter of a million dollars.

"Another man was appointed in my district. He was ill and had no means to pay a hospital for an operation. He was my patient. He was appointed to a position on the prohibition force later and subsequently transferred. He went with me to one of the largest newspapers in New York, where he was willing to make confession if immunity was granted him, but it was not.

"Another one riding in a fancy car became a bootlegger and was carrying liquor to supply speakeasies in New York. Another went around with a gun threatening the voters of the district and pulled down the pictures of myself and other candidates of the party to which I belong."

Refers to Dr. Butler's Views.

"The question is, what are we going to do about this situation?" Dr. Sirovich went on. "I say that when men like Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. Lambert and others—when they cry out in indignation, I say we must do something. So long as this law is on the statute books it should be rigidly enforced in every part of the country.

"You can't go to any function such as those where I speak year after year, to dinners, to banquets, where everybody is not suffering from some form of 'hip disease.' As long as men will do that because they want to be regular fellows what can you do? You can never repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, but what we ought to do is to modify the Volstead act so that the beers and light wines can be had legally.

"I am going to introduce a resolution for the appointment of a committee of seven to investigate conditions in New York City where Representative La Guardia said there were 32,000 speakeasies. I think there are 100,000, and the men who sell liquor to these speakeasies are prohibition agents or former prohibition agents.

"I want this committee to go there and see whether you can enforce a law which, in my opinion, cannot be properly interpreted. So in my resolution I propose to investigate the prohibition administrator and all his agents in New York City, in order to find out why the law is being openly flaunted.

Liquor in Polling Place.

"I believe it is your privilege and duty to do something at this session of Congress which will once and for all abolish the principle of prohibition and adopt something which will receive the respect and consideration of our people if rightly enforced. If you do this you will be instrumental in stopping rebellion and revolution."

Dr. Sirovich said he complained to the Department of Justice on the activities of one of the agents.

"I went with him to the places around the city and gave him affidavits showing the corruption and the liquor that had been given by the prohibition agents. In the very store where the voting was taking place liquor was in the basement and it was given to the voters. But did they remove that prohibition agent before election? They did not. They let him continue to work as captain, but three weeks later he was dismissed.

"Looking back over the pages of history I find George Washington brewed his own beer and Thomas Jefferson imported his own wines. It was the great philosopher of democracy who drank them both. What was good enough for George Washington, the Father of His Country, Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson ought to be good enough for the people of the United States.

Depicts Nation as Patient.

"The United States as an individual is at the present time suffering from a contagious, infectious and communicable disease that in the beginning was sporadic, later became epidemic and finally, has become pandemic throughout our land, and the disease that this country is suffering from is prohibition.

"What are the symptoms of prohibition? Discontent and dissatisfaction, collusion, corruption, graft, and we find executive commissions, judicial hysteria and confusion, legislative insanity and last, but not least, governmental poisoning of citizens through the use of poisons in denatured alcohol."

When the prohibition law was enacted, the speaker continued, thousands and thousands of mushroom industries sprung up overnight for the purpose of using industrial alcohol.

"There is not an industry in this country that would not die tomorrow if you deprived it of industrial alcohol," he declared. "Industrial alcohol bears the same relationship to business that oxygen does to the human body.

"These went on with their work, and the greatest corruptionists, the greatest thieves, went into the industry. What was the consequence? In 1907 the consumption of industrial alcohol was 1,500,000 gallons. In 1921, when prohibition became effective, it jumped to 28,000,000 gallons and today over 100,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol are being used each year throughout the country.

"What is the result? Bootleggers, thieves and gangsters are today in industrial plants. They are diverting this alcohol for bootlegging purposes, which is poisoning the people of the United States."

He urged the United States to adopt the method of England, France and Germany, where obnoxious drugs which cause nausea are used to denature industrial alcohol.

After ending his remarks, Dr. Sirovich received permission to insert the names of the four men he accused in the record of his speech. He said the first, whose picture appeared in Collier's magazine, was John J. Kerrigan. The second was Samuel Kurzman, the third William Beneniki and the fourth Engleberg. The House accepted the identification as if made in the original speech.

Resolution for Investigation.

For the purpose of this resolution, the committee is authorized to sit and act at such times and places during sessions and recesses of the Congress, to employ such stenographic services to report its hearings, to compel the attendance of such witnesses and production of such documents, papers, checks and books, to have such printing and binding done and to make such expenditures (including expenditures for travel) as it may deem necessary. All expenses shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House on vouchers authorized by the committee, signed by the chairman thereof, and approved by the Committee on Accounts.

Bill to Amend Dry Act.

His bill to amend the Volstead act read:

Be it enacted, that Title II, section one of the National Prohibition Act is hereby amended by the addition after the words "beverage purposes" on line eight of said section of the following:

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House appoint a select committee to consist of seven members, which committee is authorized and directed to make a complete investigation of the Prohibition Bureau in the city of New York, such investigation to include the present prohibition administrator stationed in New York City, his predecessors and all persons coming under the Prohibition Bureau of New York City.

The committee shall report its findings to the House on or before Dec. 1, 1930, with such recommendations as it may deem advisable. Upon the filing of such report, the committee shall cease to exist.

Dry leaders in the Senate, including Senators Borah and Norris, today expressed themselves as willing to accept Senator Blaine's challenge for a test on the prohibition question and have a vote of the Senate on the Wisconsin Senator's resolution to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. The same views were expressed by House leaders, although members in both houses asserted that it would be only a "futile move."

'Provided, that from and after the passage of this act any beverage obtained by the alcoholic fermentation of an infusion or decoction of barley, malt, cereal and hops in drinkable water, or by the natural fermentation of apple or other fruit, vegetable or herb juices containing not more than 2.75 per centum of alcohol by volume may be manufactured, sold or transported for sale in original packages for consumption in homes and places other than the place of sale.'

"I am ready to vote on the Blaine resolution," Senator Borah said. "I think it might well to have Congress go on record and make clear that this amendment is here to stay."

Senator Norris said he would not oppose the Senate taking a vote upon the repeal resolution although, in his opinion, the Judiciary Committee would adversely report it. The committee will meet Monday to consider this and the President's recommendations.

Senator James of Washington, another dry, said that voting on the repeal would be a courageous way to meet the issue.

"I think it would be well to have a test," he said. "I am willing to see Congress vote on this as well as bills to modify the Volstead act."

Senator Sheppard of Texas said that a resolution of repeal would never pass either house.

AGENTS OUT OF THE SERVICE.

Campbell Confines His Remarks on Sirovich to That Statement.

Major Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator for this district, under whom the dry agents mentioned by Representative Sirovich in Congress would work, confined his comment last night to the remark:

He said that he did not care to discuss the manner of their departure from the service, but said that they went during his incumbency as chief.

Prohibition Agent John J. Kerrigan, records show, was arrested on Oct. 5, 1925, and charged with acting in concert with Patrolman Francis P. Dugan in the shooting of Owen Boyle. Dugan was acquitted at his trial for manslaughter and Kerrigan was released a few days after his arrest.

A year later Kerrigan and another prohibition agent were arrested for possessing burglar tools, but were discharged in magistrate's court, contending that the tools were used to demolish stills and were part of their equipment as prohibition agents.

In November, 1926, Kerrigan, with five other agents, was dismissed by Prohibition Administrator Mills for "inefficiency and lack of initiative." He was reappointed the following year, and remained in the service, although he had not passed the civil service examination because of a ruling that ex-service men were to be retained even though they had not passed the examination.

Kerrigan was arrested last July for acting as a convoy for a liquor-running syndicate, but was acquitted when tried in Federal Court in Brooklyn on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

Last November, Kerrigan appeared in court to fight his wife's claim for alimony in her suit for divorce. He maintained that he was without funds, but she said that he owned a town and country house, two automobiles, a speedboat and several parcels of real estate, although his maximum salary and been $2,500 a year.

Miss Jean Cochran, daughter of Princess Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst of 1,130 Park Avenue, and George J. Atwell Jr., of 19 East Sixty-fifth Street were married at 6 P. M. Thursday in the rectory of St. Patrick's Cathedral, it was learned yesterday. They sailed at 7 o'clock last night on the Ile de France for a two months' honeymoon trip to Europe.

The wedding was simple, and it was understood last night that only the witnesses and members of the bridegroom's family attended. Mr. Atwell is a Roman Catholic, but the bride is not. The ceremony was performed in the rectory by the Rev. H. F. Hammer.

ACTORS' FUND SHOW TAKES IN $20,000

PROGRAM LONG AND VARIED

The Actors' Fund of America gave its forty-eighth annual New York benefit performance at the New Amsterdam Theatre yesterday afternoon. Daniel Frohman, president of the fund for many years, said after the performance that the gross receipts would approximate $20,000 and that the charity, which expends more than $250,000 annually, would realize a profit of between $15,000 and $18,000. Several hundred orchestra seats were sold at $25 each, according to Mr. Frohman, while $250 was obtained for each of the boxes.

A long and varied program of entertainment held the New Amsterdam stage until almost 6 o'clock. Among the ensemble features were the appearance of Leslie Howard, Mary Nash and a company in a scene from Shakespeare's "Richard III" and the New York Athletic Club Minstrels in a first part of minstrelsy which presented, among its entertainers, Victor Moore, Donald Meek, John Hazzard and Robert Pitkin.

Evelyn Laye, star of "Bitter Sweet," and Gertrude Lawrence were among the English players who appeared. Frances Alda sang and Ruth Draper gave one of her character sketches, which had to do with a débutante. Donald Brian and Pat O'Brien appeared in Chester Erskin's sketch, "My Mistake"; Jack Whiting and Barbara Newberry presented one of their numbers from "Heads Up!"; Bill Robinson danced; Marion Kerby and John J. Niles gave some "negro exaltations," and George Jessel, who wandered on the stage arm-in-arm with Mr. Frohman, told a story or two. Other specialties were provided by the Three Sailors, Fanny Ward, Will Mahoney and Albert Carroll. John Hazzard and Herbert Rawlinson were masters of ceremonies.

The first number after the intermission was provided by Austin Strong; Edith Barrett and the women who sold the souvenir programs. Mr. Strong attempted, by a liberal interpretation of the theory of relativity, to transport his auditors back to the Broadway of twenty-five years ago, when "Humpty Dumpty" was playing at the New Amsterdam, Maude Adams was starring at the Empire in "The Little Minister," Ethel Barrymore was appearing at the Hudson in "Sunday" and George M. Cohan at the New York Theatre in "Little Johnny Jones."

In the elaborate souvenir program was a facsimile of the amusement page of THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sunday, Jan. 15, 1905, which provided some interesting recollections for the older members of the audience.

In his speech during the performance Mr. Frohman introduced Mrs. Pat Campbell, who was sitting in an upper box, and told several anecdotes concerning current theatrical conditions and past days of the stage. The benefit was staged for the fund under the direction of Walter Hartwig.

RARE PAINTED FANS OFFERED AT ART SALE

A collection of fine fans is on view at the Rains Galleries, 3 East Fifty-third Street, and will be auctioned there next week together with many other objects from the residence of the late Mrs. George A. Kessler of Paris.

These fans were bought by Mr. Kessler at the sale of the effects of the late Alexander Blumenstiel. It took the latter ten years to collect them. There are twenty-one blades to each fan and on each a picture by a celebrated artist has been painted. Many of the artists have died, among them Casin, Henner, Bejamin Constant, Gerome, Marais, Boudin, Vibert, Mesdag, Minor and Vollon. Madrazo made suggestions for the mountings, which were executed by Tiffany, and these are carved and finished in gold with sprays, flowers, foliage and ovals.

The "Cardinal Fishing" fan has a semi-circular insert painted by J. G. Vibert. On the sticks are a Cazin gem, a nude by Henner with dark greenish landscape tints accentuating the figure.

There is also a landscape by Corot bought from Arthur Tooth Sons, London, and a portrait by Vigee Lebrun of the Viscountess De Vandreuil, signed and recorded; three pastels by John Russell, oil paintings, engravings, bronze groups, tapestries and furniture.

Miles Flown Per Accident Increased in Six Months of 1929.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A marked increase in the number of miles flown without accident by civilian aircraft from January to June, 1929, over the first six months of 1928, was reported today by Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics. He said that 59.04 per cent of the accidents were laid to personnel.

One fatal accident occurred during the first half of 1929 for every 442,530 miles flown. Fatal accidents during this period numbered 127, while the total of miles flown was more than 56,201,338.

For the corresponding period of 1928 the number of fatal accidents in all classes of operations was ninety-seven and the miles flown 16,484,612, giving a total mileage of 169,944 for each fatality.

In air transport operations, 9,201,338 miles were flown, and there were nine fatal accidents. In the six months of 1928, 4,484,612 miles were flown and five fatal accidents occurred, or 896,922 miles per fatal accident.

WILL AID CRIME BUREAU.

Children's Society Offers to Help New Police Agency.

The Children's Aid Society has volunteered to utilize all its facilities for the benefit of Police Commissioner Whalen's crime prevention commission and to cooperate generally with that organization, according to a letter which Owen R. Lovejoy, secretary of the society, has written to Edward F. Hutton, chairman of the commission.

"Not only is the Children's Aid Society anxious to cooperate with the crime prevention bureau," Mr. Lovejoy wrote, "but it believes it is singularly fitted to act as laison officer between the boy and the bureau. Already carrying on health and recreational centres in twelve different congested sections of the city its work deals especially with the problem boys of these neghborhoods.

"The problem boy or girl has always been the peculiar concern of the Children's Aid Society."

R. C. A. SUES ON PATENTS.

Seeks Injunction Against De Forest and Universal Companies.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 17 (AP).—An action was begun in the United States District Court here today by the Radio Corporation of America and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company against the Universal Wireless Communications Company, Inc., and the De Forest Radio Company, in which infringements of two patents used in radio and wireless communication are alleged.

The bill states that two De Forest patents obtained prior to 1914 were adjudicated valid in the case of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company against the Westinghouse Company and that the Radio Corporation has exclusive rights under each of the patents.

FOR SYNCHRONIZING RADIO BROADCASTS

Dr. Conrad of the Westinghouse Company Urges Simultaneous Use of Wave Lengths.

OTHERS DOUBT FEASIBILITY

Engineer, at Commission Hearing, Also Suggests Means of Strengthening Local Signals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — The synchronization of two or more broadcasting stations on a single wave length was urged on the Federal Radio Commission by Dr. Frank Conrad, assistant chief engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, as a means of improving the radio situation.

Dr. Conrad offered his plan at an engineering conference called by the commission to consider recommendations regarding broadcasting operation. He also suggested the use of a new antenna system to increase the strength of local signals and minimize that of distant signals.

"This system," he said, "will make it possible for a cleared channel station to broadcast with high power without blanketing the surrounding area. The system can also be used so that a local station can send out a strong signal in its own territory without interfering with distant stations."

Dr. Conrad said the new antenna could increase the strength of a local signal and at the same time minimize the amount sent to a distance, or decrease the local and increase the distance signal.

"Synchronization," said Dr. Conrad, "has the advantage of making it possible to increase the service area of a program furnished identically to two or more stations, without increasing the number of channels. It also reduces fading. A third advantage claimed is that a small booster station can be erected to give service in a 'dead spot' area where the parent station is not received."

About 200 radio engineers from all parts of the country attended the conference. General Charles M. Saltzman of the commission asked the engineers to consider the possibility of a greater use of existing channels.

Edward E. Nelson of the Bell Telephone Laboratories told of experiments conducted by that laboratory with directional antennae and a balloon. The experiments, he said, had checked very well with theoretical work along the same lines. He did not believe many directional antennae would be used until the experimental work has been completed.

Stanley E. Hubbard of KSTP, St. Paul, said that synchronization at this time is a failure. His station operates on the same channel as WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., and the service range of KSTP consequently has been very materially cut down, he said.

John V. L. Hogan, radio engineer, of New York, discussed the advantages and difficulties of synchronization. Synchronization by wire had been quite successful, but synchronization by radio not so successful, he said.

DAVIS TO TALK IN WELSH.

Labor Secretary Will Greet Welsh Members of Antarctic Expeditions.

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor of the United States, is to personally send messages tonight over KDKA to Rear Admiral Byrd at Little America, to Frank T. Davies, physicist of the Byrd expedition, and its other Welsh members, and to Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, who is also in the Antarctic region. The broadcast will begin at 11:05 o'clock with a special musical program by the Braddock (Pa.) Rotary Male Quartet and a male chorus of fifty voices. Welsh songs are to be sung. The messages by the Secretary of Labor to the Welsh members of the Byrd party, spoken in the Welsh language, are to begin on the radio about 11:30 o'clock.

Notice of the broadcast has been transmitted to Mr. Davies's mother in South Wales so that she may listen to the program, which will be transmitted on waves to reach Europe as well as regions near the South Pole. KDKA's 306 meter broadcast wave will carry the program for local listeners.

Following this, KDKA's various wave lengths are to operate simultaneously while more than 200 other messages are transmitted to members of the Byrd and Wilkins parties.

The only other speaker on the radio program will be Walter W. Head, president of the Boy Scouts, who will introduce Mr. Hoover.

LICENSEE ASSAILS RADIO ROYALTIES

URGES PATENT INTERCHANGE

Manufacturer Asserts That After Paying for Use of Devices He Is Being Sued by Patentees.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Charges that the royalties demanded by the Radio Corporation of America are out of proportion to the value of the patents on which its license agreements are based, and that the practice of the "radio combination" in forcing licensees to deal with them as a group and take all patents controlled by them is a violation of the anti-monopoly laws, were made before the Senate Commerce Committee today by B. J. Grigsby, president of the Grigsby-Grunow Company of Chicago, manufacturer of Majestic receiving sets.

"We are licensees under the receiving set patents of the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, sometimes known as the 'radio trust,'" he said, "and in the year and a half in which we have made radio sets we have paid that 'mopopoly' $5,302,879.15 in royalties."

Mr. Grigsby declared the patent situation in the radio industry "intolerable" and suggested as the only solution an interchange of patent rights by the various companies, as was done in the automobile industry.

Afraid to Handle "Unlicensed" Sets.

"We did not pay this royalty because we considered these patents worth such a royalty," he continued. "We did not believe we needed these patents, and none of them had been adjudicated. But the radio combine had so terrorized the industry and had so intimidated the dealers and jobbers everywhere that they were afraid to handle what they called 'unlicensed' sets.

"Our bankers said they would not finance us unless we took out a license. They said they would not finance a patent fight against such a monopoly, and there was nothing left for us to do but to sign the license agreement. The merits of the patents were never examined by the bankers."

Originally, the witness explained, the license contract with the Radio Corporation called for a royalty of 7½ per cent on gross receipts, not only on the radio apparatus involved but on the cabinets and even the packing cases in which they were sold. Last April the royalty on cabinets was abolished, Mr. Grigsby said, "because we served notice on the radio 'trust' that unless it changed its policy we would manufacture our cabinets through a separate company.

Patentees Sue His Company.

"When the Radio Corporation fixed its royalty rate of 7½ per cent," Mr. Grigsby declared, "it did so on the pretense that it had a complete monopoly of the radio patent situation and that its patents covered every part of the radio-receiving set. This is not true. We are now paying royalties to three other patent owners, and have been sued by five additional companies claiming infringement of seven patents. In no case has the Radio Corporation protected us against these patentees or helped us in the suits which have been filed against us."

Mr. Grigsby said his company had been obliged to take out, among others, a license under the Lektophone patent on the loud-speaker cone, and later, on the same loud-speaker, was threatened by the Magnavox Company, "who brought suit against us, but not against the Radio Corporation, although the construction of the speakers is identical."

"Further, to show that the members of the radio combine, individually or as a group, do not own patents covering even the standard type of sets," he continued, "we are also being sued by the Hazeltine Corporation on two patents, La Tour Corporation on two patents, Federal Telegraph Company on a Kolster patent, and Edelman & De Forest. Besides this, we have been threatened by at least a dozen owners of other patents."

AMBULANCE PLAN AIMS AT 24-HOUR SERVICE

City 'Not Getting It at Present,' Says Donahoe—Details of the Scheme Still to Be Fixed.

The city will take over the ambulance system of the private hospitals in Brooklyn, now operated under an allowance from the city, to get a twenty-four-hour emergency service, "which we are not getting at present," Deputy Commissioner of Hospitals James E. Donahoe explained yesterday. Details of the proposed plan are still to be worked out, Mr. Donahoe said.

The proposal as outlined so far is that the city own and repair the ambulances and provide chauffeurs, while the hospitals provide medical supplies and internes and house the machines and drivers. When the boards of the sixteen hospitals act on the recommendation of the council that the plan be accepted conferences will be held to discuss details of the transfer.

Replying to the objections of the City Club to the disadvantages of administration in a system of joint control, Commissioner Donahoe said:

He had previously made public a letter from the superintendent of that hospital expressing satisfaction with the operation of the plan.

"The city will receive service which the hospitals are not willing to furnish under the present arrangement," Mr. Donahoe explained in answer to a question as to what benefits the new plan offers. "It will make it possible for us to maintain emergency service every hour of the day and night, something we are not getting at the present time. The hospitals will benefit by the savings in operation, particularly in the question of liability for damage, which will be cared for by the city. The city will pay insurance charges."

Pension for Banton Approved.

The Board of Estimate yesterday approved the pension application made by former District Attorney Joab H. Banton, which he filed on Dec. 26, a few days before he left that office. The amount to be received by him will be fixed later by the board, according to the records. He entered the service of the city in 1920 and is now 60 years old.

ITALY INAUGURATES STRONGEST RADIO

Program Can Be Heard 500 Miles Away, Sometimes 2,000 to 3,000.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 17.—What is said to be the biggest and most powerful broadcasting station in Europe was formally inaugurated this morning by Minister of Communications Constanza Ciano. This station, which has power equal to that of Hartford, Conn., and the one at Cleveland, Ohio, was designed, manufactured and installed by Edmund A. Laport of the Radio Corporation of America for Ente Italiano Audizioni Radiofinoche, which has a monopoly on broadcasting in Italy. It is situated at the little village of Santa Palomba, about fourteen miles south of Rome, and is eighteen times stronger than the former broadcasting station at Rome. Its rating is fifty kilowatts in the antennae but is due to use 100 per cent modulation. The maximum output during transmission may reach 200 kilowatts.

This increase is one of the features of radio engineering. This is the first radio transmitter to use a vacuum tube of 100 kilowatts, also the first station to us mercury vapor rectifier tubes for high voltage rectification. The wave length of the station is 441.8 meters.

The station has been in test operation for three weeks with excellent results. Under average conditions a program can be heard at a distance of 500 miles, while under good conditions the radius may reach 2,000 or 3,000 miles. The antennae are 358 feet high. The total cost of the installation is calculated at three quarters of a million dollars.

The station, which is fed by an electrical generating station at San Paolo, Rome, is connected with its Rome studio by cable. It is proposed to give a daily program lasting between five and six hours, with news bulletins three times a day.

Letters threatening the life of George Palmer Putnam, director and treasurer of the publishing firm of G. P. Putnam's Sons, if he publishes the book by Francesco Nitti, who was the first man to escape from the Fascist penal colony on Lipari Island in the Mediterranean, have been turned over to the New York police, it was learned yesterday.

Several threatening letters were received by Mr. Putnam before he left England, the first of this month. One, signed "The Fascists of Paris," warned him that an attempt would be made upon his life and that his New York office would be blown up if he published the book, exposing Italian prison conditions. Another called Nitti's work the propaganda of a traitor.

Two letters which he received several days ago at his office at 2 West Forty-fifth Street prompted the publisher to notify the police. They were written, one in French and one in Italian, from Paris. One contained the sketch of a black hand, decorated with fasces, a dagger, a pistol and a coffin and the inscription: "Warning to the pig who publishes the book of the other pig, Francesco Nitti, against Italy and the great man Mussolini."

Mr. Putnam said that the threats would not stop publication of the book. The author is a nephew of former Prime Minister Nitti, who refused to adopt the Fascist creed and is now a refugee in France.

300 CRAFT ARE ON VIEW

By VERNON VAN NESS.

The twenty-sixth annual Motor Boat Show began its silver jubilee week last night in Grand Central Palace, and before the doors were closed at 10:30 o'clock 27,000 persons had passed by the exhibits, which covered four floors, and had, for the most part, stood in wonderment at the progress of motor boating.

This crowd was the largest opening night throng in the history of the show and it presaged a record-breaking attendance for the week.

This throng looked upon more than 300 hulls of various lengths, depths and breadths, powered by motors that could be lifted into place to function, or those that required heavy hoists to place them aboard and the equivalent of a large-sized room to house them.

The largest boat was a fifty-five-footer, a black-hulled craft that glistened in the high lights of the first-floor showroom and over which white-coated painters sprawled and climbed to give its finishing touches of paint, and in size the craft ranged on down to the little ten-foot outboard, without motor, but ready and willing to receive one.

Costliest Priced at $36,000.

The costliest of the boats was priced at $36,000, a palatial mahogany, nickled trimmed yacht capable of going twenty miles an hour, housing twenty or more guests and a crew of ten; a craft that would speed through the water wherever one wanted to go short of invading the high seas.

But for one whose purse was not quite so large there was the other extreme, an outboard which, with boat and motor assembled by the buyer, would cost him no more than $200. And in between these two extremes one could shop around for a craft of almost any price, any size, any power.

The first motor boat was a naphtha launch with upstanding engine, hardly more than a row boat with a power plant, a crude affair that would hardly have dared the open coast. The first show was held in 1905. Twenty-five years later the show presents real marvels of boat building, not alone in size or in power equipment, but in comfort. It now is possible to leave one's comfortable and thoroughly modernly equipped home, step aboard almost any of the craft displayed and enjoy the sense of still being at home.

And of course there are new things. The most noteworthy of the innovations is the inboard boat. This is the mean between the runabout with its trend toward huge lines and the outboard motor boat. The inboard differs chiefly from the outboard in that its engine is stationary. In size and in price it differs very little, excepting that for the creature comforts one may desire to add the accessories.

Inboard's Future Promising.

The inboard is the coming competitor of both the outboard and the runabout. The cheapest of these is priced at $940, a trim craft that is built of mahogany, powered by a speedy four-cylinder motor. The boat is steered with a wheel, has an instrument panel, leather-covered seats, nickel-girded prow and a bright, shining searchlight mounted on the dainty prow cowl.

According to the manufacturers, here is the boat that is expected to bring new and bigger and better business to the world of motor boats. Its cheapness, its beauty, its power, say the manufacturers, will attract the multitude much as did the Model T Ford in the automobile world.

The inboards, of course, range upward from $940. There is more luxury as one delves deeper into one's pocketbook. But the idea is that it marks a place between the costlier runabout and the less costly outboard.

The outboard motor, as well as the new inboard motor, marks progress from last year. For the first time these little motors have electric starters. Now gone are the days of the hand-cranking, the skinned knuckles, the barked shins. As the self-starter advanced the automobile and made it adaptable for the woman driver, so, it is prophesied, the electric starter for the outboard motor, especially, means the advent of the day when women will take to motor boating and bring it into great popularity.

An Important Innovation.

Not many years ago when the outboard was more or less in its infancy, the starter idea was a dream of the builders. Now it is a reality. The builders say that it is the most important innovation in motor-boatdom. In any event, it was around these outboards on the fourth floor that the greatest crowds gathered. Things of beauty were the craft. Things of wonder were the engines. One company even offers an outboard boat especially designed to house its own particular outboard motor, a step forward, it is pointed out.

No motor boat show, of course, would be complete without its mystery boat or engine. This year it is an engine. The mystery in it, so the experts say, is how so much power can be built into so light a motor. It is a sixteen-cylinder Diesel, capable of developing 650 horsepower, and it weighs only 18,500 pounds.

The relationship between horsepower and poundage in this engine appears all the more remarkable by comparison with another huge engine, a Goliath that it seems hardly would fail a man in any kind of rough going. This later also is a Diesel. But it weighs 30,000 pounds and it develops only 300 horsepower. So that the first-named engine is pointed to by all the experts as something to conjure with.

These two engines, incidentally, stood stolidly on the first floor in grave defiance of the order of things, which decrees that boats of a type must occupy a certain floor and engines another. But there is a limit to moving huge machines of this sort so that they hug the pillars and the stanchest parts of the floor.

There they catch the eye of the incoming spectator and keep him in a state of bewilderment, especially if the gaze wanders a little further along to the old naphtha launch, the granddaddy of motorboat engines, which came into being before the days of internal combustion.

The bigger boats, the monsters that look down upon one on the first floor, also have something new. Some are equipped with twin screws for the first time. Inside these bigger boats one may find the home comforts. Hidden beds, electric refrigerators and electric cook stoves are among the many devices.

The trend, according to the manufacturers' representatives, is toward beauty of design and speed of engine and the ability of the craft to attract the entire family. No longer does father go alone to the seashore to tinker with his motor boat and then to hie himself forth alone. Now he takes the family with him in a craft no larger than he had before and very little more expensive.

The prospects of sales interested every one. From all sides it was apparent this show was to be a barometer of business. Thus all representatives of the 225 exhibitors were watching carefully the reception of the new and the larger, and the cheaper and the novel, among the craft. According to Ira Hand, manager of the show, there was every indication that business would be brisk.

No Pessimists on Hand.

The first night crowd, of course, was the critical one. The builders each saw then for the first time what the other builders have produced. But naturally chief interest among the builders was to see to which type the multitude turned.

With the exhibits passing the first night test, and imbuing the crowd with something more than curiosity, it was expected that the business angle would develop. But there were no pessimists. Some thought that the trend would be to the less expensive craft, stepping forth as they were in new and charming clothes.

Others, of course, hoped that the higher-priced boats would win wider approval than ever before, and few there were among the builders of these boats but could point with some directness to signs that this hope would be fulfilled. There certainly was no outward sign of depression or financial stringency in the enthusiasm with which the crowds inspected the boats of all types and sizes.

Last year a total of 220,000 persons attended the show. It is expected that 250,000 will see this year's exhibits before the curtain is rung down a week from tonight.

ALEKHINE SCORES IN SAN REMO CHESS

Conquers Yates in 66 Moves for Second Straight Triumph and Leads in Tourney.

SAN REMO, Italy, Jan. 17.—Thanks to a hard-earned victory over F. D. Yates of England, which was drawn out to sixty-six moves before resignation was forced, Dr. Alexander Alekhine of Paris, the world's chess champion, today scored his second triumph in succession and now heads the list of sixteen experts in the international chess masters' tournament, the second round of which was contested today at the Municipal Casino. At the close of the day's play A Rubinstein of Poland, Dr. S. Tartakower of France and Dr. M. Vidmar of Yoguslavia were tied for second place.

Other winners today were Rubinstein and E. Colle of Belgium, who supplied the surprise by winning a brilliant game from E. D. Bogoljubow of Germany. Five of the eight games were drawn, showing that the players were steadying down to the work.

Rubinstein, after winning a pawn, defeated Romi of Italy in a queen's gambit declined after thirty-five moves. Grau of Argentina and Ahues of Germany had a lively encounter in a queen's pawn opening. Grau won his opponent's queen for two rooks, but Ahues had no difficulty in drawing after thirty-six moves. Monticelli, Italy, and Dr. Tartakower, France, also drew a queen's gambit, declined in thirty-three moves.

Nimzowitsch, Denmark, drew an even game with Spielmann, Austria, in thirty-six moves. The longest game of the day was a draw in seventy-two moves between Dr. Vidmar, Yugoslavia, and Maroczy, Hungary, the latter having the black side of a queen's gambit declined. A perpetual check brought about a draw in thirty moves between Kmoch, Austria, and Araiza, Mexico. Kmoch played the queen's pawn opening.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 17.—Representatives of New York and Florida will clash tomorrow in the final of the national amateur tournament of golf club champions. The Empire State standard-bearer will be Howard A. Tryon, youthful club champion of the Elmira Country Club, while his opponent will be the winner of last year's tournament, Carl Morris Dann Jr., 19-year-old Rollins College student.

Dann, titleholder at the Mount Plymouth Country Club of Orlando, advanced today in the competition for the Walter J. Travis Memorial Trophy by winning his 36-hole semi-final match from A. A. Manucy of the St. Augustine Country Club, 5 up and 4 to play. Tryon had less trouble in his match with Robert H. James, champion of the Aloma Country Club of Winter Park, Fla., the Elmira player's margin being 7 and 6.

Tryon Is Out in 37.

Tryon, a scratch player at his club, took a 37 on the first nine against James's 42, yet the former was only 1 up at the turn. This was due to a 6 James took against Tryon's birdie 3 on the 380-yard third, and to another 6 on the par 4 sixth hole. James was ineffectual with his putter on this march, taking three putts on the first, third, sixth and ninth holes. On the short eighth, however, James chipped into the cup for a deuce, the only two-stroke hole of the entire day's play.

Tryon dropped the second hole when he was trapped after his drive and also took three putts on the fifth and eighth. The New York star won the first three holes coming back, James again three-putting on the tenth and being trapped from the tee on the eleventh. Tryon overputted his third and lost the thirteenth, James reaching the green in 2. Tryon's drive on the seventeenth found the woods, but he increased his lead to 2 up on the eighteenth when James dubbed his second shot.

Wins Four Holes in Row.

After halving the first hole in the afternoon, Tryon won the next four in succession, due to his splendid work with the irons. Playing into the wind on this round, the New York entry collected three pars and a birdie to boost his margin to 6 up. He also took the twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth and ended the match with a par 4 on the thirtieth.

Dann Drops First Two.

Dann started inauspiciously against Manucy, who previously had eliminated the medalist, Albert R. Hakes of the Shorewood C. C. at Dunkirk, N. Y. The defending champion dropped the first two holes, when he was trapped on his iron seconds, but he squared matters by taking the fourth and fifth. Manucy lost the fifth when his ball moved on the green. He also yielded the seventh by taking two approaches and two putts and was stymied for a loss on the eighth.

Dann was 2 up at the turn, but lost the thirteenth when his second settled in a trap. Dann won the fourteenth, fifteenth and eighteenth.

In the afternoon Manucy continued to be unsteady on the greens and Dann was 5 up at the turn. An average of 4s on the next five holes permitted Dann to close it out on the thirty-fourth green.

The match was played on the Miami Country Club course, and West's margin was 2 and 1.

Brice and West finished the morning session all square, but the former gained a lead of 2 up at the turn in the afternoon. The latter, however, staged a brilliant rally.

On the fourteenth Brice sank his forty-foot chip shot for a birdie 3, but West offset this by taking the fifteenth when he dropped his second shot dead to the pin.

BERG IS WINNER OVER CANZONERI

CONTEST IS HARD-FOUGHT

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Jack (Kid) Berg, tireless little English fighter, pounded his way to the front ranks of lightweights last night in Madison Square Garden where, before a crowd of about 20,000 fight fans, he conquered Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion. For action, excitement and savage, determined fighting the bout has not been excelled here in recent years.

Fighting the most important ring struggle of his career, Berg rose to the occasion by giving Canzoneri one of the worst beatings he ever has experienced and winning the decision to the complete satisfaction of the crowd which jammed the Garden.

However, the official verdict was not unanimous. Referee Mike Hylas voted for Canzoneri, a minority vote which was outweighed by the ballots of Judges Patrick and Le Cron, carrying the victory for Berg.

Berg Clearly the Victor.

The decision, however, should have been unanimous, for Berg clearly established his right to the award by carrying five of the ten rounds against three for Canzoneri. Two sessions were even.

Berg, a tornado in action, survived a dangerous first round to come back fighting fearlessly and tirelessly and at a strength-sapping pace, flailing away with both hands in a ceaseless fire to win the second, fifth, seventh, eighth and ninth rounds beyond shadow of a doubt.

Tony, meeting his rival's rushes with well directed, solidly placed jarring lefts and rights to the head and jaw, and painful stabs to the body, took the first session, and in rallies against the human windmill he was battling garnered also the fourth and sixth. In the third and in an exciting tenth, Tony held his foe even only by a superhuman effort.

Berg Overwhelms Rival.

Courage and grim determination won for Berg in the final analysis. A light hitting fighter of the mauling type, who swarms all over a rival, driving and delivering punishing but not painful blows from all angles and in an unending stream, Berg simply overwhelmed his foe and overcame the best that Canzoneri had to offer. In the end Tony looked the beaten fighter he was in a battle which was an upset, for Canzoneri entered the ring a favorite in the betting at odds of 3-1.

The Brooklyn lad, cut over the right eye in a collision in the first round, over the left with an overhand right in the third, staggered under a right to the jaw whose impact was increased by Tony's forward momentum in an exchange in the seventh. Canzoneri left the ring showing the marks of battle. Berg, on the other hand, was unmarked. Berg weighed 134½ pounds and Canzoneri 133. The paid attendance was 18,885 and the gross receipts $60,084.

Sammy Dorfman, east side stable mate of Berg's, won the decision over Harry Carlton, Jersey City lightweight, in the semi-final of ten rounds. Dorfman proved too fast, shifty and clever for Carlton and won quite handily. Dorfman weighed 132½, Carlton 135½.

Herman Perlick Beats Zeramby.

A spirited rally over the last few rounds earned Herman Perlick of Kalamazoo the decision over Jake Zeramby, Boston, in the first ten-round struggle. Perlick's consistency on the attack overcame a poor start. Perlick weighed 137½ pounds and Zeramby 135½.

Henry Perlick, one of Kalamazoo's lightweight fighting twins, received a draw with Eduardo Cordi, Argentine lad, in their six-round bout, but quite a few of the onlookers held the conviction the award was complimentary to Cordi. Perlick weighed 135 pounds and Cordi 134½.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY.

New Utrecht High School's track and field athletes, upholding the tradition of victory set by their predecessors, romped off with the team trophy for the fifth consecutive year in the P. S. A. L. indoor championship meet at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory in Brooklyn last night. The triumph in the twenty-eighth annual meet was the sixth in seven seasons for the Bensonhurst team.

Coach Barney Hyman's youngsters were closer pressed for the title than had been expected, Coach Carl Reed's George Washington combination tallying 15 points to 21 for New Utrecht. Clinton was third with 12, and Flushing, Manual, Morris and Erasmus each tallied 8, with more points distributed down the line.

The only new record made at the games fell to the credit of George Spitz of Flushing High School. The greatest height ever achieved indoors by a schoolboy high jumper spun beneath the outstretched form of the 17-year-old holder of the P. S. A. L. outdoor and metropolitan junior outdoor records as he skimmed over the bar at 6 feet 3 1-16 inches to furnish the outstanding performance of the championship meet.

First jogging nervously in front of the frail bamboo rod and then approaching it directly before swerving into the scissor kick that was to lift him over the bar, Spitz swung up and over as the pole teetered precariously and then came to rest. This tremendous jump entirely erased Morris Muslin's old standard of 6 feet ⅝ inch and marked the highest flight a local schoolboy ever made. The previous best was Spitz's own P. S. A. L. outdoor figure of 6 feet 2½ inches.

Takes Three Individual Titles.

In winning, New Utrecht annexed three individual crowns, the 100 by Bernie Krosney, the 220 by Arthur Katz and the shot-put by Emil Bonavita. Most startling of these victories was the furlong by Katz in 0:23 3-5, to come within one-fifth of a second of the mark set last year by his team-mate, Mike Andursky.

Katz accomplished more than the mere matter-of-fact feat of approaching Andursky's time. He was entirely buried in the pack at the bark of Johnny McHugh's gun and only by a superhuman effort did he win at all. He fairly battered his way to the second place at the turn and then thundered down the straightaway to the tape a step in back of Oscar Schlessberg of Erasmus and then broke clear to the front in the last twenty yards to win by a stride.

Two other unusual accomplishments were the century by Krosney in the time of 0:10 2-5, one-fifth of a second behind Frank Hussey's 6-year-old record, and the 1,200-yard relay race of the De Witt Clinton four of Dominick Pace, Morton Silverman, Jim O'Toole and Fred Holz, which traversed the distance in 2:17 2-5, just one-fifth of a second slower than the previous record.

In a bitterly fought battle right down to the tape, Eugene Brown of George Washington, the P. S. A. L. outdoor half-mile champion, extended his reign into the indoor realm by barely defeating John Bianchi of Manual in the 880-yard title test with a gallant effort in the last two yards. Rounding the last turn, Brown was running a losing race. The husky Manual youth had snatched away the lead that Brown had held for the first three laps and had converted it into a formidable five-yard advantage in the backstretch.

Match Stride for Stride.

But a fighting heart can afford to give odds and again them. Bianchi made the fatal mistake of thinking his margin too secure. He turned his head. But just at that precise moment Brown chose to come up on the outside and then they matched stride for stride in a smashing duel to the wire. Giving every ounce of his strength in a last heart-breaking leap at the thin red worsted, Brown pounded by Bianchi and won by the thickness of his jersey. His winning time of 2:05 3-5 was four and four-fifths seconds slower than Otto Rosner's record.

Although not one of last year's titleholders was at hand to repeat, Spitz in the high jump, Brown in the 880 and Dave Twomey of Erasmus in the mile were outdoor champions who won again indoors. Twomey sped the distance in the slow time of 4:44, but easily dominated the field and won by twelve yards without being too closely pressed.

U. S. TENNIS BODY WILL MEET FEB. 15

Call Issued for 49th Annual Session in St. Louis—Dailey Named for Presidency.

The call for the forty-ninth annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, to be held on Feb. 15 at the Coronado Hotel in St. Louis, Mo., was announced yesterday in a circular sent out from the central office of the organization in New York City.

The meeting, which will be preceded by a session of the U. S. L. T. A. executive committee, promises to be one of the most important in recent years, and action will be taken on several of the International Lawn Tennis Federation regulations in the form of amendments.

One of the amendments to be proposed will have a bearing on the much-discussed question of open tournaments, and is looked upon as a medium through which amateurs can avail themselves of an opportunity to meet professionals in tournament competition.

It is planned to deal with the amateur-professional question by revoking the strict clauses now in the International Lawn Tennis Federation regulations enjoining amateurs from meeting professionals under any circumstances, and substituting a clause which would allow a member of a recognized tennis association to enter a tournament which includes professionals, with the distinct understanding that to participate in such a tournament the amateur must have the written permission of his national association.

A new rule will be presented at the meeting by the British Lawn Tennis Association delegates, who will submit an amendment giving permission to every affiliated nation to conduct one tournament annually in which amateurs and professionals may compete on level terms for prizes.

Louis B. Dailey of New York City has been nominated for the office of president to succeed Samuel H. Collom of Philadelphia, the retiring president. Louis J. Swim Meets in Sites From Atlantic to Hawaii On Extensive Program of the A. A. U. This Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP).—From the Atlantic coast to Hawaii the Amateur Athletic Union has planned a program for an active swimming year for 1930, Frank W. Blankley, chairman of the swimming committee of the A. A. U., announced today. The four major events are the men's and women's indoor and outdoor swimming and diving championships.

The women's indoor championships will be held March 13, 14, 15 and 16 in Miami, Fla., and the men's indoors will be decided in the Lake Shore A. C. pool, Chicago, April 2, 3, 4 and 5. Both the men's and women's outdoors will be held in Los Angeles, probably in August, the dates yet to be selected.

In addition to these major events, forty-four individual junior championships will be scattered in Hawaii and various parts of this country, including New York, Detroit, Boston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Omaha, Portland, Ore., Chicago and New Haven.

The men's long-distance championship will be held in St. Louis and the women's long-distance in New York.

"Interest at this time is focused on the women's championships at Miami," Mr. Blankley says. "All of last year's champions will be on hand to defend their titles. Albina Osipowitch of Worcester, Mass., 1928 Olympic champion at 100 meters, has two titles to defend, the 100-yard and 220-yard events.

"Miss Ethel McGary of the Women's Swimming Association of New York will defend her 500-yard championship, but Josephine McKim, who is now attending the University of Southern California, will enter, and if she swims as well as she did in Hawaii last Summer, when she won three championships, her chances of victory are good."

Others who will compete are Miss Eleanor Holm of New York; Miss Joan McSheehy, Whittinsville, Mass.; Miss Lisa Lindstrom of New York, Miss Kathryn Mearles of Boston, Miss Margaret Hoffman of Scranton, Pa., and Miss Agnes Geraghty of New York.

Brooklyn Quintet Defeats P. S. 6 of the Bronx, 13-12, in Two Extra Periods.

As the score indicates, the junior game, for players weighing 95 pounds or less, was a closely waged contest, and the senior game, which brought together schoolboys scaling 120 pounds or less, was featured by a spirited rally by Public School 83 in the last two minutes, which netted three field goals and fell just one field basket short of tying the count.

ROSTER OF GIANTS LISTS 38 PLAYERS

McGraw to Carry 16 Pitchers, 4 Catchers, 10 Infielders and 8 Outfielders.

NINE HURLERS ARE ROOKIES

By JOHN DREBINGER.

A squad of thirty-eight players, consisting of sixteen pitchers, four catchers, ten infielders and eight outfielders, will form the working material with which Manager John McGraw hopes to mould a winning team for the Giants this year. The roster, which was released yesterday by Secretary Jim Tierney, also includes the name of Dave Bancroft, who, though signed as head coach, likewise is listed as an active player. It is not likely, however, that the veteran Banny will se much active service unless some mishap should befall Travis Jackson at short.

Nine of the sixteen pitchers are rookies acquired either during the past winter or recalled toward the close of last season.

The first squad of pitchers and catchers will report in San Antonio on Feb. 15 to begin preliminary exercises, which will be supervised by Bancroft, assisted by Irish Meusel, until the arrival of McGraw. The remainder of the players will report two weeks later.

Con tracts of all Giant players also were mailed yesterday, according to announcement by Tierney, but whether these documents contained any substantial increases for the deserving and decreases for the less deserving was not revealed. There being no longer any holdover contracts, the last to expire being that of Eddie Roush, all the players will have to be signed this Spring.

Bengough Signs Contract.

Babe Ruth and possibly a few others of the Yankee cast may not be at all satisfied with the figures Colonel Jacob Ruppert has offered them for this year, but among these is not to be included Benny Bengough, doughty catcher, who bobbed up in Secretary Ed Barrow's office yesterday and at once affixed his signature to his contract.

PLAN AT MINNESOTA WOULD LIMIT GAMES

Curtailment of Intercollegiate Competition, Naming Alumni as Coaches Proposed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 17 (AP).—Hard on the heels of the threatened resignation of Dr. Clarence Spears as head football coach at the University of Minnesota, reports of extensive and drastic changes in the athletic system of the school gained circulation today.

A high authority at the school revealed that officials are considering changes similar to the policy adopted by Harvard four years ago and virtually revolutionizing the present system.

The proposed changes would institute a compulsory sports system for all able-bodied students, limit intercollegiate competition and provide for engagement of Minnesota Alumni only in all branches of coaching.

Under the tentative plan, as announced by the unnamed authority, intercollegiate competition in athletic contests would be limited to Michigan and Wisconsin and to universities in the East and the Far West. It also called for relief from dependence on the Big Ten for games of any sort.

Minnesota would continue in competition with Michigan and Wisconsin, traditional gridiron rivals, through contests between several teams of the school, matched according to agreed standards.

HERTZ PAIR WINS AT POULTRY SHOW

Two of the most luxuriously handled exhibits among the thousands at the Madison Square Garden Poultry Show yesterday justified the lavish care bestowed upon them by winning the first prizes for their owners, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz.

The poultry pair are a Buff Orpington cock and hen from the Leona Farms of the Hertzes at Cary, Ill. The cock bears the name of the great race horse, Reigh Count, while the hen is called Golden Beauty. These two birds, according to the Hertz manager, Frank Conway, were brought here singly under special shipping and insurance arrangements which cost several thousand dollars.

A total of thirty-four Hertz entries, including the two stars, were in the show and thrity-three of them placed among the winners, a fact which brought a congratulatory telegram to Conway from the Hertzes at Miami Beach.

The outstanding winner of the show and one that is considered the best bird (although there is no such official designation) is a Black Langshan cockerel, owner by George John Lewell, Cliftondale, Mass., whose hen of the same strain also took the blue ribbon. The Asiatic cockerel's picture will get the place of honor on the cover of next year's catalogue. Last year's similar honor went to a barred Plymouth Rock cockerel, owned by Bradley Brothers, Lee, Mass.

Yesterday T. A. Havemeyer, who is president of the Poultry Association, made almost a clean sweep with his fantail pigeons by taking twenty-six first, twenty-nine second and a large number of third and fourth prizes. His entries comprised white, black, yellow, blue, silver, A. O. C.'s, red or yellow saddle, blue or silver saddle and A. O. C. saddle pigeons.

The grand poultry award, which is made for the best young pen from the variety that has the greatest number of young pens, went to Fred H. Stillwagen, Bethlehem, Pa., for his group of Rhode Island Reds. The award, a cup, is known as the New York Trophy.

Marcy Farms, managed by U. G. Meloney, Matawan, N. J., received the first and only prize for dressed poultry—the first of such exhibits at a poultry show. Meloney displayed seventeen Black Jersey Giants, weighing a total of 211 pounds dressed. The heaviest five tipped the scales at sixty-five pounds.

RAWLINS SCORES IN SQUASH RACQUETS

DEBEVOISE ALSO TRIUMPHS

Harvard Club Star Conquers De Vos—Victors Will Play for Met Championship Today.

Herbert N. Rawlins Jr. of the Racquet and Tennis Club advanced one more step in the defense of his crown when he reached the final round of the metropolitan squash racquet championship tournament at the University Club last night.

Rawlins, who has held the title since 1928, conquered Perry R. Pease of the Harvard Club in his semi-final struggle, 15—11, 15—6, 15—3, and will oppose George B. Debevoise, also of the Harvard Club, in the final match of the tourney today. Debevoise survived the semi-final at the expense of Raymond F. De Vos, hard-hitting University Club representative, whom he defeated, 15—8, 15—11, 15—11.

The defending titleholder gave a fine exhibition in turning back his harder hitting rival. Taking the lead at the start and holding it all the way through the encounter, Rawlins proved master of the situation at every stage. Pease essayed to dazzle the champion with his blinding speed at the start and succeeded to the extent of forcing Rawlins to adopt the defensive for the greater part of the first game. But the latter soon solved his rival's delivery and managed to wrest the offensive from the Harvard Club star before the match was well under way.

Rawlins met Pease's hard drives capably, and returned the latter's shots with consummate steadiness. Pease never desisted in his efforts to break through Rawlins's defense with his powerful strokes, but the champion turned back the greater part of these with easy dexterity, and was rarely hard pressed.

In the other semi-final, Debevoise realized a four-year-old ambition when he survived the round to qualify as a finalist rival for Rawlins. Debevoise has reached the quarter-final round in every metropolitan championship tournament for the past four years, but never until yesterday succeeded in getting into the final.

The Harvard Club player minimized his opponent's power by returning a softly stroked ball, forcing the latter to hit directly back at him frequently. Debevoise also employed a change of pace to good effect.

WACKET TRIUMPHS IN JUNETIME PURSE

LIGHT FOOT DON, 15-1, WINS

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17.—The weather cleared for the second day's racing of the Miami Jockey Club's meeting at Hialeah Park today. The racing strip, however, was heavy, contributing to some extent to the downfall of four of the favorites and no less to the victory of Wacket, one of the two public choices to get home first.

Wacket's victory came in the Junetime Purse, a five and a half furlong effort confined to 3-year-olds. Against the colt were matched six others, including St. Prisca, to which Wacket had bowed in the next to his last outing. Both were supported in the early betting, but the margin finally went to Wacket and the confidence was deserved. Prisca finished out of the money.

Sand Fiddler Sets Pace.

Sand Fiddler, off with a rush, outran Wacket for four furlongs and then began to wilt in the heavy going. Wacket, apparently at home on the heavy track, moved up fast in the stretch and won going away by three lengths from Sand Fiddler. West Park was third. Wacket was held at 9 to 5.

Light Foot Don, at 15 to 1, took the fifth race to mark the fourth outsider to score, while Essie, an odds-on choice at 4 to 5, won the sixth race eased up.

In the opening race, considerable late betting rallied the public to Cleora. On the other hand Focus and Eleven Sixty attracted the early attention and then slumped off in favor, with the result that Cleora closed the 7-to-2 favorite. Cleora nearly made it, but at the finish Focus was in front by a head, with Cleora leading home Miss Onine by half a length over the six furlongs.

Brave Knight was the second favorite to bite the dust, finishing fourth in the six furlongs of the second race, while Weenie was the winner.

Triumphs by Five Lengths.

The race was for three-year-old maidens. Brave Knight closed at 9 to 5 but was never a factor. Weenie proved much the best of the twelve starters and led all the way to score by five lengths over Chatmore, with Sugar Heart third.

Marlboro, at 7 to 5, was the public choice in the third race at a mile and he was a contender for six furlongs when he faded out of the picture. Blessfield, the winner, was never in much danger, set the pace throughout and was four lengths ahead of Griffin at the end. Boris was third. Blessfield was the 11-to-5 second choice.

To Urge Province of Ontario To Establish Own Turf Body

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 17 (Canadian Press).—Appointment of a racing commission to govern horseracing in the province is to be again urged upon the Ontario Government during the forthcoming session, it was learned at the Parliament buildings today.

J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, stated the question would be before the Cabinet again this session. Such a commission would entirely control racing in Ontario, setting dates, governing the tracks, jockeys and appointing officials, thus removing jurisdiction from the Canadian Racing Association.

PAGE'S KLINGSTONE BEATS ON THE AIR

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 17 (AP).—In a driving finish Klingstone, four-year-old gelding carrying the silks of F. S. Page, led a field of three-year-olds and upward over the mile route at the Fair Grounds today in the fourth race which was the feature.

With C. Landolt in the saddle, Klingstone, which was a lukewarm favorite, was rated back of the pace-setting Harry Payne Whitney colt, On The Air, till the stretch. Given the word, he moved up fast, went into a lead and won by a half length. The Whitney colt just managed to beat George Collins's Earl of Warwick by a head for the place. The time for the mile of slow going was 1:39 4-5 and the winner paid $7.20 to win, $4.60 to place and $3.30 to show in the mutuels.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

IF Jack Elder toes the mark and runs to form in the Brooklyn College track meet this evening, the spectators will have a clear idea of how the Army came to lose that football game to Notre Dame on a frigid day in November. You often hear about "ten-second" men in baseball, football, basketball and other sports, but most of these speedsters must have set their records in taxicabs.

Almost any big league baseball team has its quota of "ten-second" men. However, the managers are careful to leave out the details of how much ground that covers. They produce no affidavits and as yet not a single one of them has wagered his gold watch and chain that any ball player of his could actually cover 100 yards in 10 seconds under his own steam. Real "ten-second" men are practically monopolized by the track game and even there the supply runs far behind the demand.

But Harvard had one "ten-second" football man in Al Miller, and Notre Dame has another in Jack Elder. Their marks were clocked with stop watches on the track and not estimated by rooters, managers or coaches along the sidelines. They are pedigreed sprinters, so to speak. They can produce medals to prove that it isn't a joke.

Wrong Number.

College football teams are a bit luckier than big league baseball teams in that respect. They are closer to the track teams and can borrow real sprinters much more easily. As a rule this causes the track coach to go off in a corner and gnash his teeth rapidly, but football must be served. Paul Scull played football for Penn. Ray Barbuti played football for Syracuse. Jack Elder played football for Notre Dame. Al Miller played football for Harvard. That's only a start on the list.

Back in 1921 Notre Dame came to the Polo Grounds on election day to play Rutgers. The previous Saturday the South Bend boys had played the Army, and the regulars were doubtless a bit the worse for wear and tear. When Notre Dame had piled up something of a score, Castner, Mohardt, Kiley, Anderson and other regulars were hauled out and subs went in to relieve them.

Then the fun began. A ball carrier with the number "11" on his jersey began dashing across and down the field at a bewildering gait. The program indicated that the name was Cotton. Few in the stands ever heard the name before. But there was "Cotton" taking the ball, and the best the whole Rutgers team could do was to try to surround him and cut him off before he gained more than thirty yards at a clip.

After the game was over, an investigation disclosed that the ball carrier had been wearing the wrong number. The fast-stepping lad was Gus Desch. That explained everything, for Desch was a member of our Olympic team and one of the fastest 440 hurdlers in the world.

The High Spots.

Jack Elder must know something about picking his spots. As a sprinter he was an uncertain performer, something like Jimmy Quinn, late of Holy Cross. He might run in record time, and he might run yards behind it. But when Percy Williams, double sprint winner at the Olympic games, came to Madison Square Garden last Winter, Elder decided to have one of his good performances. So the Notre Dame lad led the Olympic champion to the tape in a short dash, this being the only defeat Williams suffered on the whole tour.

He timed his runs cleverly through the football campaign last Autumn and brought his performance to a climax with his great run against the Army. He couldn't have picked a better time or place if he had spent the whole Summer figuring it out. His ability to start fast decided the jolly football game. In half a dozen strides he was in the clear, and after that it was just too bad for the Army.

Some Army player came chasing across to try to cut him down, but Elder, simply breezing, cast a glance of pity at the hapless wight. Cagle was criticized for tossing a forward pass in the territory that Elder was guarding, but that's all in the game. Instead of placing the blame on Cagle's tactics, it would be better to give the credit to Elder's speed afoot.

Among the Sprinters.

Elder expects to graduate from Notre Dame in a few weeks. If he gives up competing in track events and stands on his record, he can hardly be ranked with other sprinters who are just as fast, perhaps a trifle faster, and certainly more regular in their strides.

For instance, there are Simpson, Tolan, Borah, Wykoff and Bracey. Elder might beat any one of them in a short dash here and there, but their records are more formidable. They have run closer to top form on a greater number of occasions. From that group and other younger sprinters who are sure to come along, this country will have to pick its sprinters for the Olympic program at Los Angeles in 1932.

But Elder can rest on his laurels quite comfortably. He beat Percy Williams on the track, and he defeated the Army on the football field. Any one else with a double-barreled record like that is invited to stand up and declare himself. Otherwise the nominations are herewith closed.

Chalk Up an Error.

A Yankee fan weighs in with a claim that Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics was erroneously placed above Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees in the official batting averages of the American League. They are both credited with averages of .354, but Foxx's name is above Lazzeri's, and that ordinarily indicates that the front runner leads by a fractional margin.

Unless there is a mistake in the times at bat and the hits credited to each player, the objection raised by the Yankee rooter is based on simple mathematics and easily demonstrated. Foxx, according to the statistics as issued, went to bat officially 517 times and made 183 hits. That would give him an average of .3539 or approximately .354, his official mark. But Lazzeri went to bat 545 times and made 193 hits for an average of .3541, which should place him above Foxx on the list.

It doesn't mean anything in particular, but the faithful fans insist that their favorite players must have justice. The official statistician is entitled to be heard in rebuttal, but in the meanwhile, the objection is sustained.

Blessefield handled his weight well, opened a wide lead going around the first turn, galloped in front and won eased up. Griffin was well up from the start and finished gamely. Boris, badly outrun the first half mile, moved up fast and was running strongly at the end. Marlboro ran a miserable race. He quit to a walk after showing early speed.

Wacket was much the best. He broke well, but was outrun the first half mile, moved up fast, raced Sand Fiddler into defeat, then drew away to win easily. Sand Fiddler displayed a world of speed and was next best. West Park was well up all the way and ran a good race. St. Prisca could not untrack himself in the going. Pauly was outrun.

Lightfoot Don broke slowly, was lucky all the way. He got through on the inside and rushed into the lead in the stretch, drew out and won easily. Morsnuff moved up fast on the turn and was next best. Calamity had good speed, but ran out on the turn. She ran a good race but for that. Pike's Peak, well up, was carried out on the stretch turn by Calamity. Big Tee closed a big gap.

OPTIMISTS-P. M. C. TO CLASH TONIGHT

STARS IN BROOKLYN GAME

Harriman and Both Hoppings Will Play for Riding Club Against Brooklyn Riding and Driving.

Two of the most interesting games of the present season of indoor polo are to be played tonight, one in the ring of Squadron A Armory on Madison Avenue and the other at the 101st Cavalry Armory in Brooklyn. In Manhattan the undefeated Pennsylvania Military College team meets Winston Guest's Optimists in a Metropolitan Circuit game, and in Brooklyn three outdoor internationalists will appear for the Riding Club against the champion Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club trio.

The Squadron A game brings two favored teams into action in the new circuit. The Pennsylvania collegians have won all three of their circuit games and have been playing sensationally after a slow preliminary season. Guest's team, the Optimists, made its circuit début last week and smothered the Squadron A team, playing very impressive polo, with Guest performing brilliantly. The line-up is: Raymond Guest at No. 1, Winston Guest at No. 2 and Lieutenant McDonald Jones at back. The collegians have Harry Teitel, Jack Pickering and Bill Nicholls. The game is the most promising yet planned for circuit competition.

In Brooklyn, Averill Harriman, Earl W. Hopping and E. A. S. Hopping are to play against Carl Pflug, Gerard Smith and Warren Sackman, a trio that has three times won the national open indoor title.

There will be two preliminary games at both places. At Squadron A, Governors Island is to play against a picked team and Fort Hamilton is to play Squadron A, and in Brooklyn two 101st teams play against other Brooklyn and Riding Club teams.

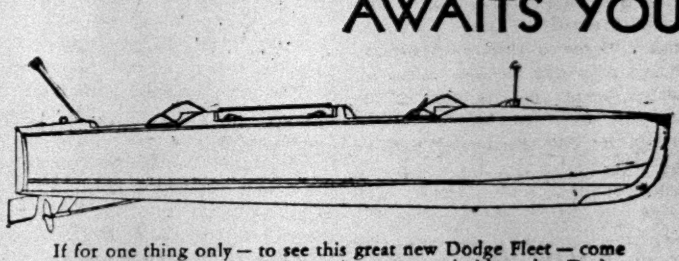
A REVELATION IN LOW COST BOATING LUXURY AWAITS YOU



If for one thing only — to see this great new Dodge Fleet — come to the Motor Boat Show. Learn how at one bold stroke, Dodge has cut the cost of boating luxury.

The sixteen-foot Dodge Runabout alone is worth your whole attention. Genuine mahogany, with bottoms double-planked; a speed of 25 miles an hour with five passengers; with all the expected Dodge essentials such as self-starter and electric lights — this gem of production at $945 costs little if any more than outboard boating.

The same great value is in every boat. The 21-footer shown here at $2100, makes 35 miles an hour. The 25-footer at $2500, the 28-footer at $3700, and a 45-miles-an-hour luxurious runabout—all are values thought impossible until Dodge brought mass production to the boating industry.

REPUBLICAN REORGANIZATION.

Many years ago JOHN HAY said that "the American mind runs naturally to committees when great "men fall." So it does when a great party falls. Ever since the New York municipal election, plans and programs for reassembling the disjected members of the Republican party in this city have swarmed. They all agree that the salvation or re-creation is to be attained through committees and a leader. This is the essential substance of the latest scheme. Let us give it our sympathy and our hopes. How could they be denied to good, some not so good, men in adversity? The Democratic party here is much too big. It needs a strong check and an occasional defeat.

The Republicans by themselves alone can never accomplish this. They need the help of "all independent groups and citizens who "are interested in good government," to quote the tenth of Dr. BUTLER'S fourteen points. Can an effective permanent municipal organization of these be secured? Nothing to rival Tammany can be expected. Tammany is essentially united in its aims and methods. The present Republican organization, the present Republican chiefs, must suffer an entire change of heart before the Municipal Government can be bettered, if it is to be bettered, by the harmony of all those opposed to it. That opposition arises from different reasons. The organization seeks power and patronage. The wise and good, the silk-stocking Republicans, have little use for the official and organization Republicans.

The former will be glad to combine with Independents and reform Democrats. By what wonder-working system of committees are the two sects of Republicans to be united with each other, and the Independents, always inclined to "hang off," to be kept in line? That Republican City Chairman is likely to have a hard time. Dr. BUTLER adroitly instanced the fluidity and division in both parties; but the divisions of the Republicans here are not all of them due to matters of policy. Doubtless it would be possible to "define the "policies and principles of the Republican party of the City of New "York," though that description, if applied to prohibition, would differ from the one given at Washington and Albany.

The New York Republicans had to swallow their medicine in 1929. Another dose may be offered and accepted in 1931. Do such inconsistencies appeal to the younger voters? Dr. BUTLER would not "beat the old tomtoms." He is less conservative than the old masters of the unreformed Republican organization. The experiment, however difficult, will be interesting to make and to watch, but is it by change or elaboration of machinery that an exhausted, dispirited and copiously split party can come to vigor and unity?

BRINGING THREE TOGETHER.

Governor ROOSEVELT'S plan to consolidate the New York and New Jersey Bridge and Tunnel Commissions with the Port Authority has everything to commend it. The twin commissions were first in the field. They built the Holland Tunnel, successfully surmounting the engineering obstacles in that pioneer enterprise. At the time they were allotted that task there existed no common agency of the two States like the Port Authority, with its wide powers and ample means. When it was given the job of building the interstate bridges it embarked on an enterprise which was bound to bring it sooner or later into conflict with the old commissions. The two are now working side by side, tunnel commissions managing the vehicular tubes and the Port Authority operating the Staten Island bridges and building the great span over the Hudson. To allow them to carry on independently during the years that lie ahead would inevitably result in duplication, friction and competition.

While the "wedding" between the old and new boards which Governor ROOSEVELT suggests is clearly in order, it would be awkward if either bride or groom had to be dragged to the altar. The Governor smooths the way to a marriage of convenience by proposing simply to combine the two agencies, preserving the existing engineering staffs. It would make an unwieldy organization if all twenty present commissioners were retained. Some of them would have to be dropped at the outset, and it could be understood that others would not be reappointed when they had served out their present terms. A single commission of eight or ten men, aided by engineering talent drawn from both present staffs and armed with the money-raising powers of the Port Authority, should be well equipped to build whatever new crossings may be required, whether over or under the Hudson.

Any surplus of tolls could then go into a fund to finance new bridges and tunnels. There has been some apprehension lest the Port Authority, if left to its own devices, use the proceeds from these tolls to bolster its other port enterprises. Such fears could easily be allayed by setting up a separate bridge and tunnel fund. If at any time in the future it should show a surplus not required for new crossings, it could be devoted to the reduction of tolls on those already in operation. Here is a set-up to be commended to the earnest consideration of the Governor of New Jersey and the Legislatures of the two States.

HE STOOD UP FOR HIS RIGHTS.

In the late WILLIAM M. BENNETT fighting qualities of a high order were chiefly directed, in the political sphere, against the leadership of his own party. His most notable achievement was, of course, the defeat of JOHN PURROY MITCHEL for the Mayoralty nomination in the Republican primaries in 1917 and the consequent easy victory for JOHN F. HYLAN in the election.

This outstanding exploit had its predecessors. Within half a dozen years after his entry into politics in 1905 as Assemblyman from the Fifteenth District Mr. BENNETT had wrested the leadership of that district from its incumbent. In 1914 he was elected State Senator in the face of hostile Republican leadership. He was a permanent contender in the Republican primaries for Mayor, and against Congressman LA GUARDIA last year he displayed much of his former energy, though the result showed a notable decline in his personal following. This support seems to have come in considerable measure from the rank and file, conservative, church-going element in the Republican party.

That ambition and a spirit of factionalism may not entirely explain Mr. BENNETT'S predilection for civil war is suggested by the beginnings of his business career. He waged a successful fight to recover an inherited fortune lost through questionable manipulation by the management of the corporation concerned, and thereafter became a specialist in representing minority rights. From corporations he seems to have carried over into politics a violent distrust of majority control.

ANOTHER FAMINE IN CHINA.

The latest reports from the Chinese famine districts are the more appalling because there is no likelihood that effective help can be given by outsiders. Now, as before, the difficulty lies primarily in the lack of transportation facilities. Except along the few railroad lines and the canals, the mass of the Chinese people can be reached only on foot or by slow-moving carts or wheelbarrows. There are few highways in China suitable for transportation on a large scale. The difficulty of distribution of food throughout most of the famine districts is almost insurmountable.

There is one encouraging new factor in the situation. From Nanking comes the report that a set of "Hooverizing" orders have been promulgated whereby it is hoped to save food for the use of the famine sufferers. While it is true that spreading the knowledge of such an order is a hard task, and that carrying it into practical effect is even harder—since they have never known that sort of self-denial in the interest of the community in China—it is an indication that the Nationalist Government realizes the basic truth in the statement of the American Red Cross investigators last Summer to the effect that the most effective relief can come only from within—by Chinese working in the interests of their own people, rather than by foreigners using their own funds.

To Americans and Europeans the thought that they are powerless to alleviate the suffering of China's starving millions is most depressing. Nor is it made any the less awful by realizing that for at least forty centuries China has been swept by periodic famines which have carried away millions of people within a few months, and that throughout this period a large proportion—today probably more than half—of the population of China has lived on what to us of the West would be a starvation diet.

Those who have studied the problem on the spot agree that the only permanent relief must come from a change in present conditions. This is why some of the charitable organizations have in the past devoted their money to the building of roads and the damming of rivers. In this way they hope at the same time to prevent some of the causes of famine—of which floods in certain sections are the most important—and to make it possible to send supplies quickly and readily into the smitten districts. This work is, however, rightly that of the Chinese Government. So also is the actual organization of lasting relief measures. There is plenty of money in China to be devoted to such purposes. In the past it has rarely been forthcoming in adequate amounts.

VETERANS' LOANS.

A few days ago it occurred to Senator WALSH of Massachusetts to attempt to discover the effect, if any, of the stock market crash and resulting unemployment and business contraction on veterans of the World War. He wrote to General HINES, Director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, for what statistics on war service certificate loan applications there might be. The figures submitted by General HINES showed that the economic situation which arose in the last three months of 1929 quickly penetrated to those with adjusted-service certificates. The number of loans for November and December, 1929, was found to be twice those of the corresponding months in the preceding year. And the amount of the loans had doubled. From Jan. 1 to Jan. 9 of this year approximately 170,000 applications had come in, for an amount aggregating $15,000,000. Not even in one entire month before had there been such a number or such an aggregate.

Mr. WALSH naturally thinks that the figures "reflect somewhat the "extent of unemployment and the "financial distress now prevailing "throughout the country among "those of meager incomes." Certainly they reflect a changed economic condition. And they also convey to those whose hopes for boom times again impel them to vociferous utterances the suggestion that they go slow. Much has been done to cure the conditions which followed the drop in stocks. The business outlook, while more restricted than at the beginning of 1929, is still that of a prosperous nation. In fact, had there been no statistics of 1929 to throw the business charts out of balance, the prospects of 1930 would seem more than satisfactory. But it is well for all who are charged with the country's industry and finance to be reminded by such statistics as those from the Veterans' Bureau that the crash was not simply a "quotation panic."

BYRD'S METEOROLOGISTS.

Admiral BYRD, acknowledging his indebtedness to his weather observers HAINES and HARRISON for forecasts that encouraged him to make flights to the South Pole and into and beyond King Edward VII Land, says in a radio dispatch to the National Geographic Society that "it "is remarkable that the weather "predictions have been made so "very accurately with so few facts "available." Comparisons with the Amundsen and Scott expeditions show that BYRD'S observers had advantages in apparatus made necessary by the use of airplanes for exploration. Some way had to be found to indicate weather conditions beyond the immediate locality of Little America. AMUNDSEN admitted that "on account of the improvised character of the South Polar Expedi"tion the meteorological department "on the Fram was not so complete "as it ought to have been," but with mercury barometers, aneroid barometers, mercury thermometers, registering instruments like barographs, thermographs and hydrographs, and a cup and cross anemometer for measuring the wind's velocity, good surface work was regularly done. SCOTT'S meteorologists in his first discovery expeditions were well equipped with instruments and made better records. The smoking summit of Erebus was a great help. There is this significant entry in the diary: "We soon "saw that the direction of move"ment of its vapor afforded us the "most excellent indication of the "upper air currents, and few days "passed without some recorded ob"servations of this fine beacon."

For the Byrd expedition surface observations have been made "every "hour, day and night, over a period "of thirteen months." But HAINES and HARRISON used pilot balloons constantly to obtain the velocity and direction of the wind. "Many of these balloons," says Admiral BYRD, "have given wind data as high as 30,000 feet." Moreover, "upper air "humidity, pressure and tempera"ture have been obtained by kite or "airplane on forty days over a period "of three months." It was by comparison of these observations that opinions were formed of changes and stability. No data from localities distant from Little America were available. When the meteorological record of the expedition is published it should be invaluable to future explorers.

NO REFORM AUTOMATIC.

Among the grounds casually alleged by the Albany Republicans for an investigation of New York City is the state of affairs in our magistrates' courts. In two or three of them scandalous conditions have come to light. The city authorities appear to be doing their duty in looking into these matters carefully, as is the Bar Association, and undoubtedly the Appellate Division is ready to act under its lawful jurisdiction whenever a specific case is laid before it. That it is necessary to invoke the power of the Legislature in these premises few but politicians would argue. The Republican proposal to ask Governor ROOSEVELT to appoint an investigating commission of his own can hardly be meant seriously. If it is a political snare, doubtless the Governor will soon make it plain that in vain is it spread in the sight of the bird.

Dissatisfaction with New York City magistrates is not so great today as it was years ago, when law reformers set out to make them appointive rather than elective. A long struggle was necessary to bring about the establishment of the new system. But when it was finally successful, everybody felt that a great improvement had been effected. Responsibility had been centred in the Mayor for the selection of magistrates. For a time their calibre appeared to be distinctly improved over what it had been. But before long the City Hall grew too careless about the magistrates' courts. Mayors began to let down the standards of appointment. More and more men of meager ability and a few of dubious character became magistrates. Some of the results of this let-down in the severity of selection we see about us today.

The point especially to bear in mind is that the system is not at fault, but the men who work it. It was a correct principle for which the law reformers contended in abolishing the plan of electing magistrates and causing their appointment to be made by the responsible head of the City Government. The same sort of argument is being made today in favor of centralizing the magistrates' courts themselves. But it ought to be understood in this city by now that no political or judicial reform is a piece of automatic machinery. It may have a self-starter and run well for a time, but unless it has constant supervision by skilled and honest mechanics, and is kept in good repair, it will sooner or later break down. Very much that sort of thing is what has happened to the magistrates' courts.

The responsibility remains where it always has been, fixed upon the Mayor. That fact, indeed, gives us hope that the demoralization will go no further. Mayor WALKER has had these disagreeable reminders of what may take place when any of the magistrates' courts get out of hand, and may be expected to exercise great care in any appointments to them which he may be soon called upon to make. He has, in fact, allowed it to be known that he has been much troubled by the disclosures, and is going to do his best to prevent a recurrence of them. This he ought to do, because he is the one man expected and even designated by law to make this judicial reform successful, and it rests with him, more than with anybody else, to do it.

ENGLAND'S INDUSTRIAL EFFORT.

As a cure for British trade depression such eminent representatives of the "capitalist" order as Lords ROTHERMERE and BEAVERBROOK are looking to the magic formulas of imperial free-trade. It remains for a Socialist like J. H. THOMAS to stress the old capitalist virtues of improved organization, improved equipment and improved salesmanship. Mr. MACDONALD'S Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment apparently believes that he has done all that is possible in the way of emergency measures for reducing unemployment. When announcing his detailed program of public works relief, Mr. THOMAS insisted that everything was makeshift which did not direct itself to improving the country's foreign trade. That in turn is conditioned by British industrial reorganization. Mr. THOMAS now announces that the leading financial powers in London have agreed to help British industry in bringing itself thoroughly up to date.

The facts do not quite justify the picture of British finance surrendering to Mr. THOMAS'S blandishments and proceeding to wave a magic wand over British industry. The approach has been somewhat more gradual. It is more than a year ago that the Lancashire cotton industry began to talk "rationalization." Various schemes arose, dealing with the amalgamation of separate mills, the cooperation of merchants, manufacturers, bleachers and dyers for the purpose of consigning goods abroad under joint auspices—an experiment which as applied to China turned out "eminently successful"—as well as the more specific modernization of the mills through the introduction of automatic looms, the two-shift system and other devices. It is yet too early to say whether predictions that Lancashire might be entering upon a revolution in cloth-making have been justified. But apparently enough progress has been registered to encourage the extension of the rationalization movement. The banks are now rallying to the support of an effort that is not only patriotism but promises to be good business.

British industry is thus moving to make itself more up to date in a fast-moving economic world. On the production side we have, after cotton reorganization, and coal reorganization by the new government bill, the attack just announced by Mr. THOMAS along the whole front. His confidence with regard to the Canadian market for British coal and steel is exaggerated but is nevertheless a sign of the new aggressive temper. In Argentina a British diplomatic mission is considered to have secured many advantages for British trade. Cheap money, following upon the collapse of stock speculation, is expected to be of help in financing industrial reconstruction. The unemployment figures are not cheerful, but it is scarcely fair to charge up against the Labor Government the regular Winter drop in employment. At the beginning of 1929 with Mr. BALDWIN in power, the number of unemployed was 1,565,000, which is considerably higher than the figures today.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Warden Risen From the Ranks.

If experience is a criterion of fitness for the post of prison warden, the new warden at Auburn should make a conspicuous success of his job.

JOHN L. HOFFMAN entered the service as a guard at Elmira Reformatory in 1902 at the modest salary of thirty dollars a month. In 1904 he was transferred to Napanoch. For twenty-five years he remained at that institution, rising step by step to positions of increasing responsibility. He was captain of the guard when the war broke out and resigned to enter the army.

Returning to Napanoch a few months later, at the close of hostilities, he was appointed assistant superintendent in 1923 at a salary of $1,800. He was getting $3,000 a year when he was recently promoted to succeed General EDGAR S. JENNINGS at the seat of the recent disturbances in Auburn.

Governor ROOSEVELT had been under considerable political pressure to appoint a warden from outside the service. His selection of Captain HOFFMAN is a tribute not only to the man but to the merit system which produced him. If that system can put at the disposal of the State a man equal to such an emergency, why abandon it in favor of an untried independent "Guard Corps"?

The Miracle Never Palls.

To the trained technical mind, or to the strictly logical mind, there is presumably no appreciable difference between the tap-tap of the wireless telegraph, or the spoken words of the broadcaster or wireless telephone user, and any other form of radio transmission. It is all wave-length conveying energy and registering in the human sense apparatus.

Most of us, however, are not technically trained or strictly logical, and despite the daily records of the miracle of radio, there is a new thrill when Rear Admiral BYRD in the Antarctic presses a key and radio oscillations turn on an electric light in Philadelphia. We ought not to be greatly impressed. Among the probabilities of a not distant future seriously discussed is the wireless transmission of electric power. Nevertheless, the imagination throbs to the thought of somebody in Schenectady pressing a button and turning on or off a hundred thousand lights in Buenos Aires.

Perhaps not all of the war methods of an ultra-scientific future will be those of horror. Instead of raining down bombs, or tubes of deadly microbes, or even death rays, it may be that an invader will mercifully content himself with throwing a switch and plunging London or Berlin into total darkness.

Harmonizing Dress and Furniture.

In the past ten or twenty years fashions in women's dress appear to have exerted no little influence on styles of furniture and home decoration. From the fussiness of the fin de siécle, furnishings have veered toward simplicity. As frocks became plainer, more tailored, and adopted the straight line, so did tables and chairs and divans. The last word now in modernistic furniture is stark angularity. Steel and glass and unadorned wood are in favor, and plain walls maintain the note.

All this was a perfect setting for last year's mannish fashions. But now that fashions have gone extravagantly feminine, modernistic furniture is out of tune. If there is to be harmony between frocks and furniture, one or the other must change.

Reports of the Autumn Salon in Paris mention only two exhibitors who showed signs of being influenced by the new dress styles. LALIQUE sponsored a room lined with light wood, decorated with cascades of small crystal balls set into the walls, a setting not unsuitable for a crinoline.

Another exhibit showed a room which, by a few gestures, could be changed from a drawing room into a dining room. This is old stuff to New Yorkers, and evidently a relic of the remote days of 1929 when a woman could wear a straight, one-piece frock for any and all occasions. Still its designer may argue that it is a perfect foil for the latest dinner dresses which, upon the removal of a lace jacket, become décolletée evening gowns.

A Happy Ministry.

DR. GEORGE ALEXANDER has come as near to being beatified as it is possible for one to be in life. He has been sixty years in the ministry, and though he has lived even beyond the fourscore his "strength" is not "labor and sorrow." No one in all the churches speaks with greater helpfulness and grace. His wisdom is above riches and he has found the serene place of understanding.

In describing the wise man he has unconsciously described himself—one who has learned to cherish good memories and to burn as rubbish old wrongs and grudges and enmities which poison life. And the freshness of youth may be carried into age, as he himself has demonstrated as well as taught, by shunning the pessimistic philosophy that "withers the great loyalties to home, to country and to God." Life continues to be more abundant for him with the passing years.

It is not alone in and through the Church that his benign and wholesome influence is felt. The educational and civic life of the community has been touched and benefited by his gentle spirit and his sage counsels. He does not know that he ever had enemies, nor does any one else. Yet he has maintained his convictions fearlessly, though without malice, and with all tenderness for those in need and with charity for human frailties.

OUR STAND ON THE LEAGUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In speaking about the League of Nations it has long been much easier to provoke wrath than to provoke thought.

From the moment of its birth the League has so often been the subject of heated controversy in the United States that the mere mention of it has normally caused the partisans of Woodrow Wilson and the partisans of Henry Cabot Lodge to bristle with indignation and to reach for their cudgels of argument. The time has now arrived, however, when even the most hardened partisan should be able to see that the quarrels and misunderstandings of parties and leaders in the past about this matter are far less significant than clear-headed planning for the future. Whether Wilson was right, or Lodge was right, or each was partly right and partly wrong, does not, after all, matter so tremendously as does the formation of a right judgment as to how the League of Nations of today and tomorrow should stand in relation to what we call the Kellogg anti-war pact, and how the United States should henceforth stand in relation to both these peace-preserving establishments.

In their relation to the maintenance of world peace, both the League and the United States seem to be turning a corner at this time. The League is evidently moving away from a reliance upon coercion toward a reliance upon conference. The United States, as chief sponsor of the pact, is evidently moving away from a reliance upon aloofness, and, in its search for "implements" for the pact, toward conference.

The League and the United States are being drawn together by the pact. The League is now considering amendments to the covenant to close the "gap" in its terms under which war was permissible in certain cases, so that the covenant and the pact will be completely harmonious in prohibiting all wars except for defense. The United States is now considering adherence to the World Court, influenced thereto by the pact. Like her co-signatories, she has just lost war as an instrument of national policy and must find a substitute for it, partly no doubt in judicial settlements. Furthermore, since all existing international law is based upon the legality of war, must it not now be largely rewritten, since war is no longer legal? And if it is to be rewritten, shall not the United States wish to have her full share in the re-writing? And shall she not be able to exert more influence in this as a member of the World Court than as an outsider? And still more as a regular member of the League?

In the light of such present-day facts and problems, we may well re-examine our ancient opinions about the League of Nations to see whether they look toward the past or toward the future.

COMFORTED.

There are no more. The very founts are dry
From which those salty streams we know as tears
Were poured so readily in tender years.
The seasons turn, and as they pass us by
The circle closer draws, tie after tie
Is severed by the inevitable shears,
And when the last friend's loved face disappears
We cannot weep, but only for him sigh.

I saw a writing: "He that runs may read,"
But who is there that, Life's course having run,
Can say at end the riddle he has read?
Yet there is One with hand held out to lead,
Omnipotent to rule each whirling sun.
So am I, just an atom, comforted.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The last "procedural" formality required of the Interstate Commerce Commission under the act of 1920 as respects railroad consolidation has recently been fulfilled by the publication of "a plan." This makes allocation of every railroad property in the country to twenty-one systems, five of them in trunk-line territory. Thus the ground is cleared for the first moves in a great game of chess, big with possibilities economically and socially, touching the welfare of every business and community throughout the land. Peculiar significance attaches, therefore, to the first subsequent order of the commission, just issued, directing that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad shall divest itself of its recently acquired stock ownership in the Western Maryland Railway. This act concerns in itself the whole grand strategy of such realignment of all these properties as may take place.

There are now in trunk-line territory four major systems, the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio and the properties recently brought together by the Van Sweringens under the headship of the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Erie. Outside these four groups, there are a number of lesser roads, the Wabash, the Western Maryland and others mostly in the neighborhood of Pittsburgh. Grand strategy for the future, broadly considered, may take either one of two forms. The first is that which would result from a bestowal of all these odds and ends upon the four existing systems, building up the two weaker ones to a size and proficiency which would enable them all to compete on even terms broadly throughout the region east of Chicago and north of the Ohio. At present, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, as a result of slow growth and wise planning through many years, greatly overshadow the other two both in reach and in resources. It is the aim of the Baltimore & Ohio and of the Van Sweringen group that they should be built up and strengthened to meet the requirement of the law, that there should be even-handed rivalry so that the public may be better served thereby. And these two companies now have applications for consolidation pending before the commission to this end. Specifically, the Western Maryland is needed by the Baltimore & Ohio to bring about this result. It was bought for that purpose. It would seem to be in consonance with the general spirit of the act.

The other plan for trunk-line consolidation would provide for five systems instead of four. This is the "procedural" plan of the commission. The odds and ends, such as this Western Maryland line, would be set apart to the formation of the fifth unit, which would be headed by the Wabash. Roughly, this proposal is also embodied in an application by the Wabash for permission to assume control of the necessary properties, adding thereto the Norfolk & Western, which would thus be taken out of the hands of the Pennsylvania. At first sight, this weakening of the Pennsylvania would seem to make for equalization of opportunity all around. But it would accomplish this, not by building up the lesser units but by diminution of the major one, the Pennsylvania. Furthermore, an outstanding objection would seem to be that these membra disjecta, when put together, constitute but an ill-assorted and subnormal competitive unit as compared with the other four. It would be but a string-line system at best, held together in the middle by mere trackage rights instead of ownership, not strong at strategic centres through weakness of terminals and otherwise. And lastly, in order to produce sufficient magnitude under the commission's plan, it comprehends properties far beyond the confines of trunk-line territory. For it stretches clear to Kansas City on the west, and down into Florida on the south over the rails of the Seaboard Air Line. Query: Can such a sprawling, ramshackle nondescript be expected to hold its own in rivalry? Or would it be a race in service between a turtle and four carrier pigeons? No race at all, in fact!

The temporary disposition of this Western Maryland line, therefore, assumes an importance far greater than would at first appear. If the Baltimore & Ohio is compelled by this order to dispose once and for all of its ownership, such action would be in line with the commission's plan and the pending application of the Wabash. But it would utterly lose sight of the important fact that the Baltimore & Ohio and the Western Maryland, running side by side for miles on end, worked harmoniously as a unit under a Federal administrator, and most effectively at that. Surely the perpetuation of such an operating advantage making for efficiency, so clearly demonstrated during the war, should not be lightly set aside—quite apart from the bearing which this all might have upon the final choice between a four-party or a five-party plan for the territory as a whole. Would it not be preferable, therefore, to treat the Western Maryland as was done recently with the Wheeling & Lake Erie in a similar case? That stock was trusteed by order of the commission to be thus held until the consummation of a final plan. Surely, in view of its bearing upon the ultimate decision, so big in consequences to all concerned, this precedent should be followed at the present time. The door should be held open for economic statesmanship along the broadest lines, not prejudiced at the outset by a false move. The case is strengthened, furthermore, since doubt exists whether as a matter of fact the Clayton anti-trust law has actually been violated at all. It is a matter of transcendent importance, not only for the entire East, but, through precedent, in its bearing upon the future course of consolidation throughout the West and South.

FRIENDS ARE BLESSINGS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The revolt against the Federal regulation permitting physicians to prescribe not more than one pint of alcohol in ten days for each patient is easily understandable, especially in the case of those who have personally suffered from such limitation. May I cite a recent experience of my own?

During a prolonged illness of a member of my household the physician in charge prescribed for the patient a dosage of whisky three times a day. The local druggist supplied the regulation pint bottle, which was exhausted within five days. The physician, himself a total abstainer, suggested that, as he was estopped under the law from signing a second order, I should apply to some of my friends to provide a further supply, presumably of a bootleg character. This I demurred to doing on the ground that I did not like to ask my friends to do what I knew was contrary to the Eighteenth Amendment and opposed to my own respect for it. I suggested if it was not repugnant to his professional ethics that it would be easy for the prescription to be made out in my name or in that of some other member of the household.

While we were debating this nice question in morals some good angel who must have esoterically divined my needs sent me an ample supply of what was required and henceforth it was unnecessary to make further application to the druggist. I confess I felt no moral qualms whatsoever in accepting what was so providentially offered, taking St. Paul's advice in a similar dilemma and "asking no question for conscience' sake."

Perhaps some of those skilled in the casuistry of prohibition may take issue with my attitude and hold that it would have been better to deprive the patient of the remedy than to indulge in an infraction of the law by so much as a jot or tittle. Whether in an extremity I should have availed myself of the services of a friendly bootlegger had I known where to apply is a question that happily I was not called upon to decide. Whether St. Paul would have admonished Timothy to drink no longer water, but to take a little wine for his stomach's sake and his oft infirmities, had the "noble experiment" of prohibition prevailed in his day, is another question to which we shall never know the answer.

WHAT IS A GIRL TO DO?

The State Makes Her Too Muscular to Marry and Then Is Sorry.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Frederick Rand Rogers, director of health education of the State Department of Education, laments that "physical training for women along masculine lines developed ugly muscles and destroyed feminine attractiveness, so that girls of today found it increasingly difficult to attract worthy men for husbands."

Having gone so far, fair play demands that Dr. Rogers go the whole way. As one poor working girl on the outlook for a worthy husband, I rise to demand what are the specifications in muscular development which can be guaranteed to attract said desirable consorts. They must be made known.

I find the greatest inspiration in the adverb "increasingly." As every working girl knows, it is difficult enough to attract a man anyway, to the point of having him pay the rent and turn over his weekly pay envelope; and now, with the State Department of Education admitting it has itself made it "increasingly difficult" by its own program of physical training for a girl to achieve this result, something must be done and at once.

Do not we girls who have lost out in this difficult struggle for worthy husbands have a strong claim for action against the State? I'll say we do! Action for damages, money indemnity, assault and battery. It is time the working girl knew where to place the blame for her staggering defeats in her matrimonial aspirations, all along this line.

Mrs. Holt Arranging Shaw Dinner.

My attention has been called to the paragraph in today's issue of THE TIMES relating to the forthcoming dinner in tribute to George Bernard Shaw, to be given by the Town Hall Club. In its closing sentence this paragraph refers to the "dinner which has been arranged by Professor Henry Pratt Fairchild of New York University."

While it is true that this dinner has been planned with the full knowledge and enthusiastic approval of the club's standing dinner committee, of which I happen to be chairman, all the details have been worked out and all the arrangements made by Mrs. Roland Holt, chairman of a special committee on the Shaw dinner.

J. E. BERWIND LEFT $12,033,469 ESTATE

$300,000 WILLED TO CLINIC

John E. Berwind, coal operator, who died on May 23, 1928, left an estate appraised yesterday by Deputy Tax Commissioner Stephenson at $13,122,614 gross and $12,033,469 net, of which $11,858,887 was in securities. His largest holding, 12,662 shares of the 100,000 shares of the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company, was valued at $4,307,615.

The appraisal of the coal company's stock was based in part on a report by Cecil D. Giles, an accountant, who made a survey of the entire bituminous industry and of the Berwind-White Company in particular. Pointing out that for years the company had a virtual monopoly of furnishing coal to steamships in New York harbor, but that recently the use of oil has forced the company to seek other markets, where it met keen competition and got little or no profits, he said:

"The bituminous coal industry in this country is in a deplorable condition. With an inflation of production and lack of cooperation among coal producers, the industry has received an economic setback. This is not only confined to the past, but the future looks ominous. Modern inventions have speeded up withdrawals of coal from the mines, and consumption cannot keep pace with it. Steamships and railroads have supplanted coal with oil, thereby eliminating a vast outlet. It is an acknowledged fact, even among laymen, that the coal industry, not only in this country but in others, is pauperized."

Coal Company's Profits Shrink.

Mr. Giles showed that the capital invested in the Berwind-White Company at the time of Mr. Berwind's death was $34,181,559, while the average net annual income for five years was only $969,231, or 2.80 per cent, and the average income of the company and its subsidiaries was only 1.88 per cent. The Berwind executors put a value of $2,205,350 on his stock.

The appraisal shows that the only public gift made by Mr. Berwind was $300,000 to the John E. Berwind Free Maternity Clinic, at 125 East 103d Street, which is connected with Cornell Medical College. His debts included pledges of $10,000 to the Church of St. John the Baptist of San Juan, Porto Rico, and $5,000 to the Polytechnic Institute of Porto Rico, due to his interest in the development of the island.

Mr. Berwind's will provided that his brothers, Edward J. and Harry A. Berwind, were to have the right to buy his stock in the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company and the Eureka Stores, Inc., at prices fixed by him, which were so far below the appraised value of the stocks that the options represented a gift to Edward J. Berwind of $955,899 and to Harry A. Berwind of $908,160. Other gifts were:

Six nephews and nieces received $10,000 each, three months' wages were left to several employes, and $2,500 went to Mrs. Annie O'Donnell.

The gross estate was reduced by debts of $132,748, funeral and administration expenses of $206,242, including $175,000 attorneys' fees to White & Case, and $761,696 commissions to three executors.

Realty Valued at $305,000.

Mr. Berwind's realty was valued at $305,000, consisting of the Bridgehampton property and his residence, 76 Park Avenue, worth $155,000. The valuation of $123,644 for his personal effects, included china, porcelains, paintings, rugs and art furniture. He had $240,033 in cash, $864,954 in notes and mortgages and $10,560 insurance.

A month's salary, $2,917, as vice president of the Berwind White Company, was due, as was three months' salary, $3,750, as vice president of the New River and Pocahontas Coal Company. His seat on the New York Produce Exchange, of which he was a director, was valued at $17,700.

Mr. Berwind's largest bond holdings were $908,000 San Juan Hotels Corporation, valued at $454,000, and $1,000,000 First Liberty Loan, $1,002,031. The most valuable blocks of securities other than the Berwind-White stock were the following:

1,800	American Can common	$162,000

REOPEN LAREDO CONSULATE

Mexicans and Local Business People Join in Ceremony.

LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 17 (AP).—In the presence of a large number of customs brokers and business men Rafael de la Colina, Mexican Consul, reopened the consulate here today.

The consulate was closed by the Mexican Government several weeks ago, resulting in diversion of traffic and business to other border cities and causing serious loss to Laredo merchants.

The reopening followed assurances from Governor Dan Moody of Texas and Laredo officials that Mexican citizens coming here would not be unlawfully molested.

The Mexican Government withdrew its consular officials after District Attorney John A. Valls had threatened to arrest former President Calles of Mexico on a charge growing out of the killing of two Mexican Army officers eight years ago. Señor Calles was traveling on a diplomatic passport, which prevented his arrest.

TAVORMINA ON STAND DENIES CASHING CHECK

But Testifies He Drafted It at Ferrari's Order—Case Likely to Go to Jury Today.

Louis Tavormina, former vice president of the Atlantic State Bank in Brooklyn, denied on the witness stand yesterday that he cashed and kept the proceeds of a check for $11,545 drawn to the order of Louis Cohen, although he admitted that he drafted the check at the order of the late Francesco Ferrari, head of the City Trust Company.

Tavormina and J. Vincent Labate, another official of the bank, are on trial before Supreme Court Justice Mullan and a jury in Brooklyn, charged with grand larceny in connection with the check transaction, which the State contends was ostensibly made to pay for bank furniture, but was actually diverted by the defendants and used to cover up other peculations.

The defense rested yesterday without putting Labate on the stand. Today the lawyers will sum up, and the cases are expected to go to the jury this afternoon. After resting their case, Robert Elder, counsel for Labate, and Thomas Hughes, counsel for Tavormina, moved for the dismissal of the indictment. Assistant District Attorney Samuel Goldstein, in opposing the motion, declared the prosecution had made out a prima facie case, and stressed the contention that the account of "L. Garidi," which witnesses testified was a fictitious account maintained by the defendants, was swelled by more than $4,000 just after the $11,545 check had been cashed. Justice Mullan adjourned the trial for a short time to determine several points involved and finally denied the motion.

Tavormina testified under direct examination that on Oct. 25, 1926, he was called into Ferrari's office and told to draw a check for $11,545 to Louis Cohen as payment for alterations at the Williamsburg branch. He said that Cohen, a contractor and depositor, who was characterized by the prosecution as "a dupe" in the transactions, was present at the time, but there was nothing said to Cohen about "favors" nor any request that he endorse the check. Tavormina denied virtually all of the conversation to which Cohen had testified.

Tavormina denied that he cashed the check, that he received any of the proceeds, or that he disposed of any money in the manner which witnesses for the prosecution testified to earlier in the trial.

ALLENBY OFFICER SAYS WE BOLSTER PALESTINE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Major Daniel Hopkin, a member of the British Parliament and an officer under General Allenby in the Palestine campaign, assured a number of members of Congress today that the support given to the establishment of a national Jewish homeland in Palestine by the United States constituted a strong factor in assuring reorganization of the administration of Palestine to prevent recurrences of the recent disorders there.

The luncheon was given in the Speaker's dining room at the Capitol by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York, member of the Foreign Affairs Committee. Included among the guests were Senator Watson, majority leader of the Senate; Representative Tilson, majority leader of the House; Senators Moses, King, Wheeler, Capper, and Representatives Florence Kahn and Ruth Bryan Owen.

Before the luncheon Major Hopkin outlined the Palestine situation to President Hoover, to whom he was presented by Secretary of Labor Davis.

Major Hopkin expressed assurance that the British Government, irrespective of the party in power, will continue to adhere to the Balfour declaration and the mandate.

"We Britishers are pledged to the establishment of the Jewish homeland up to our eyebrows," he asserted, "and the question of withdrawing from the mandate is simply absurd, in view of our acceptance of it under international sanction. We cannot give the mandate to any other country."

Major Hopkin was hopeful regarding the future of Arab-Jewish relations, saying that complete friendship will be ultimately restored if remedial steps are taken by the British Government to "frustrate the evil conspiracies of the effendis."

KATHLEEN KERSTING HAILED

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Miss Kathleen Kersting, 21-year-old opera star, who was discovered nine years ago by Mme. Emma Calvé, famous French diva, made her American grand opera début as Marzellina in Beethoven's "Fidelio" at the Chicago Civic Opera House here tonight. She is a native of Wichita, Kan., and her studies in Europe were financed by the Rotary Club there.

"There was a special interest in Miss Kersting, who would seem to have accomplished a début and a success at the same time. * * *

"In the audience were her father and mother and several other Wichita citizens waiting to see what had happened to her.

"A good deal had happened. With all the ease and certainty in the world she disclosed a voice of uncommonly agreeable quality, of fine, rather light texture, flexible and even in development. With the voice there was a personality, also agreeable, of the kind that ought to take her quite a distance into the world that is called opera."

CURTIS IN CALL TO YOUTH.

Writes for Yale Daily News of Limitless Openings for Careers.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 17 (AP).—Vice President Charles Curtis, writing for Yale Daily News, the undergraduate paper, today expressed the opinion that opportunities for youth on the threshold of their careers are unlimited and that the world is calling for leaders.

"I have no patience," he wrote, "with those who say: 'Everything worth while seems to have been done—what's left for the young man of today?' Never have opportunities so literally crowded themselves upon youth at the threshold of a career as today. Youth is at a high premium; its courage and zest is a priceless asset, and the world so appraises it.

"America's interests are now world-wide. They offer many opportunities for service in industry, government and foreign relations, but they also impose upon us, both as individuals and as a nation, new and increasing responsibilities.

"Leadership of the highest order is demanded by the accelerated changes of today in business, government, in science, and in the field of human relations. The continuance of the present high levels of national prosperity and international comity rests upon the quality of leadership which is being developed and sponsored in the youth of today—the leaders of tomorrow."

ARCHIE GUNN DIES; NOTED ILLUSTRATOR

He Designed Magazine Covers, Calendars, Miniatures and Many Pastels for Reproduction.

Archie Gunn, painter, illustrator and designer of magazine covers, died on Thursday in a sanitarium at 154th Street and Broadway after a long period of failing health. He was 66 years old. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Marie Higgins Gunn, and two daughters, Miss Elaine Gunn and Mrs. Marian Mallet of 38 Morton Avenue, East Rockaway, L. I. After private funeral services burial will take place in the Lawrence Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The artist was a native of England, born on Oct. 11, 1863, at Taunton, Somersetshire. He was the son of Archibald Gunn, a painter well known in his day, and he received his first lessons in drawing from his father. He attended Tettenham College in Staffordshire and the Calderon Art Academy in London. His talent manifested itself early, for he was only 17 when he painted a portrait of Lord Beaconsfield for the latter's secretary, Lord Rowton, who gave it to Queen Victoria.

Yet portrait painting did not prove wholly to his taste and he soon began to design posters for London theatres, a sort of work in which the bold, free lines that always distinguished his drawing were particularly effective. At 25 he came to the United States.

Early in his career here Mr. Gunn was an illustrator for The New York World, later for the magazine Truth. He became best known to the general public, however, as the creator of pictures, many of them pastels, of beautiful girls. Twenty years or so ago these "Archie Gunn girls" were to be found in framed reproductions in every city in the United States. In later years Mr. Gunn turned to magazine covers. He also did miniatures, calendar designing, portrait painting, and various kinds of decorations. His studio had been for several years at 120 West Forty-ninth Street. His health did not permit of much work recently.

On March 9, 1910, Mr. Gunn's mother died in a dramatic manner. She was seated at the window of her room at Arlington, N. J., waiting for him to come to her in response to a telegram. She heard the whistle of an approaching train, exclaimed, "There's the train, but he's too late," and died almost instantly. Her son, who was not on the train, arrived several hours afterward.

DENY PARROT FEVER AFFECTS HUMANS

THEY DEBATE WITH WYNNE

With actual developments in the psittacosis situation in this city practically at a standstill yesterday, a debate broke forth between a newly formed organization of bird dealers and Health Commissioner Wynne.

In reply to the contentions of the Bird Dealers' Association of America that psittacosis in a human being has never been bacteriologically established and that the scare over "parrot fever" had been chiefly brought about by the active imagination of a Baltimore newspaper man, Dr. Wynne said that "there is not only a considerable mass of scientific evidence to show that an epizootic of parrots is the cause of an infectious disease in humans which often causes death, but the evidence now accumulating indicates very strongly that the present cases and deaths among humans are chargeable to infected parrots which reached this port some time before Christmas."

The dealers' association, organized yesterday at a meeting in the Hotel Commodore, has appointed an executive committee which has been instructed to engage a physician of high standing, who in turn will engage a bacteriologist to determine whether psittacosis actually exists in human beings, and whether the disease can be transmitted from a bird to a human. A preliminary canvass of medical opinion by members of the association, it was asserted, indicated a negative answer to this question.

Six of the country's leading pet dealers were represented at the meeting in the Commodore. They were the Odenwald Bird Company, Henry Bartels, Louis Ruhe, Imperial Pet Shop, and the Max Geisler Company, all of this city, and the Dahle Bird Company of Philadelphia. The six import $5,000,000 worth of birds yearly.

In addition to deciding to obtain the services of a physician and a bacteriologist, the association appointed a committee to confer with officials of the American Medical Association to urge that members of the medical profession be positive in their diagnosis before calling a case psittacosis. The committee was also instructed to seek the cooperation of the Rockefeller Institute in the investigation.

The association points out that, so far as it is aware, no bird dealers, whose hourly contact with feathered pets presumably would render them likely to contract psittacosis if it is communicable to humans, have been affected. It is further contended that any one putting his face near enough to a newly imported parrot to catch a disease would be sure to be bitten by the untrained bird.

The parrot suffering from psittacosis, discovered in a Bowery pet shop on Thursday by a Health Department inspector, was imported into the United States with a shipment of more than 500 birds, Dr. Charles F. Boldman, head of the Bureau of Health Education, said yesterday. The shipment, he said, had arrived on the Ecuador, of the Panama Mail Line, from Venezuela.

BAVARIA PUTS BAN ON PARROT IMPORTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—At a meeting of physicians for an exchange of experiences gathered during the recent psittacosis outbreak, Doctor Erkeles of the Bacteriological Institute at Charlottenburg said all the cases were traced back to a single shipment of parrots, which arrived in Hamburg near the end of 1929.

Regrets were expressed that all the infected birds were killed before any experiments for the discovery of the bacillus could be made. Attempts to infect sound birds by placing corpses in their cages were fruitless.

Doctor Arendsee of the Zoological Garden at Berlin pointed out that all parrots bought from Hagenbeck or the Berlin zoo had been found healthy. He proposed that in the future, quarantine stations for exotic birds should be erected in German harbors.

The assembly agreed that the ban put on the importation of parrots was going too far, as a majority of such birds were raised on the Riviera in Southern France, where not a single case of psittacosis had occurred.

MUNICH, Jan. 17 (AP).—Bavaria today placed an embargo on the importation of parrots in an effort to prevent the spread of psittacosis.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17 (AP).—Dr. George T. Parrish, city health officer, reported yesterday that Mrs. Emma Surrey, negro maid, apparently was ill with parrot fever. Mrs. Surrey attended a parrot owned by Mrs. Lena Pepperdine, who is ill with psittacosis in Honolulu.

Dr. Parrish said all cases reported here and that of Mrs. Pepperdine were traceable to parrots bought recently in South America by passengers on a steamship on tour.

Some of the 200 birds brought here were sold to dealers, and a large number went to Fresno. Health authorities in that city have been warned to watch them.

Proceedings in the five parts of the Court of General Sessions were suspended for a time yesterday while tributes were paid to the late Charles A. Perkins, former District Attorney, who died on Thursday at his home in Suffern, N. Y.

Among those who praised the career and character of Mr. Perkins were District Attorney Crain and Judge Otto A. Rosalsky. The latter traced Mr. Perkins's work since he began work under District Attorney Olcott, and praised in particular his skill in drafting intricate indictments which were "uniformly sustained by appellate tribunals."

Funeral services for Mr. Perkins will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

How Shall We Get Anywhere in Being Good?

The simplest answer is to let our minds be full of good thoughts, and endeavor to carry them out, and the ways will be consciously and unconsciously opened to do the good deeds we want to do. Sincerity is the first step upward, and the way to good doing follows.

MISS PARKS ON STAND DENIES TWO MURDERS

CALM, WEEPS ONLY ONCE

CORIO IN SWEEPING DENIAL

Judge Mentioned in Case Testifies He Never Visited Woman and Gives Alibi, Backed by Others.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 17.—Gladys May Parks took the witness stand in her own defense here today. She explained that, contrary to the charges of the State, she had not murdered her two young wards, Dorothy and Timothy Rogers, last August. The former had died following a spanking, she said, and the latter after he had tumbled down a short flight of stairs. At the end of three hours of questioning neither her composure nor her story had been changed.

In returning to her plea of coincidence rather than crime, Miss Parks abandoned several statements that had been made by her. The chief one was that which charged Common Pleas Justice Joseph A. Corio of Atlantic City with having strangled Timothy, under the impression that it was his child. Miss Parks calmly explained today that "Judge Corio had nothing to do with it," and that she had told the story in order to give the prosecutor something to think about.

"Why did you tell all that about Corio?" she was asked.

"I had been tired and I didn't care what happened to me. I knew that he was prominent and that he could easily clear himself."

"Well, have they [the prosecutor's office] bothered you since?"

Just "Made the Story Good."

Later, in cross-examination, Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin again asked her why she mentioned Corio. She said that "I just made the story good so that you people could have something good to work on." She added that her brother-in-law, Earl Farr, had not taken her to Absecon the night she buried Timothy's body there. That statement had also been credited to her during yesterday's testimony.

Earlier in the day the jury hearing the case before Supreme Court Justice Frank Lloyd in the Camden County Court of Oyer and Terminer had heard Judge Corio deny that he had even visited the defendant. Following his testimony a number of other witnesses, including his niece and brother, told in minute detail where he had been on the day in question, Aug. 22, 1929.

Miss Parks took the stand early in the afternoon, as soon as the opening talk had been made by her attorney. She sat calmly in the witness box, her composure broken only once. That was when she cried as a picture of "my dead mother" was shown to her. She asked the prosecutor not to "let the newspapers get that." A moment later she was deftly and calmly replying to his questions. She spoke so swiftly that the stenographer asked her several times to go slower.

Has Given Six Versions.

In all, six different stories had been credited to her. The first of these was her explanation that she had given the children to the late Eugene Swinghammer of Atlantic City in order that he could put them in a home. Miss Parks said today that she made that statement at the Newark police station so that Anthony Baka, her common-law husband, "would not get incriminated with me." As soon as Baka left the room she told and signed the story she amplified today. The two following stories were to the same effect as the second; the last two dealt with Judge Corio.

She was asked to look over the written statement, and after she had examined it for some time she announced rather naïvely that "yes, here's an error. It says here that it was a Yellow cab I took, but I'm not sure now that it was a Yellow cab. But the rest of this seems to be right. Yes, it's right."

Tells Again of Deaths.

The explanation of Dorothy's death as she gave it was:

"We slept late that day. After a while Dorothy got up, and in a minute she began to cry. I thought she had hurt herself or had run a pin in her foot or something. I found what she had done, so I whipped her a little. I didn't hit any harder than usual, but she kind of wabbled and fell on the floor. She had done that before and I thought she was trying to get away, so I didn't pay any attention to her. I went away for a while and when I came back she was still lying there on the floor. I became frightened."

After a time, she said, she found that Dorothy was dead. She "didn't know what to do, for Dad was coming home and I didn't want the neighbors to know." She then put the child's body on the bed and went out and bought a suitcase. She put the body in that and took it to the house in Burns Street, Camden, that she had rented just before. Eventually she dug a hole in the cellar and buried it and then took it out and to National Park, where it was found.

Timothy died Aug. 23, she said, in this manner:

"I took him upstairs with me while I was sorting some clothes. A little later I heard a commotion. He hollered—cried like. He was lying at the bottom. His arm was hurt. His little arm was bent clear around. His head was bleeding a little. I washed his head in the sink. Then I carried him to the kitchen, where I had a bed made up on the floor. He died there."

The same night, she said, she put Timothy's body in the suitcase that had carried Dorothy's to Burns Street, and took it to Absecon.

Seeks to Blame Prosecutor.

At one time in the examination Carl Kisselman, who conducted it for the defense, tried to show that Miss Parks had made the later series of statements because the police and the prosecutor's office had not allowed her to get any sleep. She said that "I offered to sign anything they liked if they would just let me alone." Asked if she had said anything about being willing to go to the electric chair, she replied:

"Yes, I said that I would much rather go to the electric chair than get a life sentence—and I would."

"Why did you try to implicate Farr?" the prosecutor asked on cross-examination.

"I wanted sleep. I knew you would leave me alone to get after him."

"No, I'm sorry for Rogers. I never tried to get him into this."

"And you say that Judge Corio had nothing to do with the death of Timothy?"

"Judge Corio certainly did not do this thing. No. I knew he was prominent, though, and you would have something else to work on. You didn't put him in jail, but you did Farr, right away."

"Did Farr take you to Absecon, as you said?"

"No, he did not."

At the conclusion of the cross-examination, Judge Lloyd asked the defendant a few questions.

Q.—Why didn't you report Dorothy's death as "natural death" to the authorities? A.—Well, I had whipped her. Not very much.

Q.—You had no reason to believe that any one would suspect you, had you? A.—Well, no. That was my mistake. I became frightened.

Q.—You weren't responsible for Timmy's death? A.—No.

Q.—Why didn't you report it? A.—Because Dotty's body was still there.

Judge Corio's Testimony.

Judge Corio was the first witness of the day. He explained, in answer to questions by Prosecutor Baldwin, that he had never visited Gladys Parks; did not know where Burns Street in Camden was nor any other streets except those immediately adjacent to the court house, and said that the last time he had seen Miss Parks before entering the court room today was in April, 1926. He saw her at no time last year, he asserted. He then gave an alibi for the entire day and evening of Aug. 22.

Mr. Kisselman asked Justice Lloyd to direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty at this stage of the trial, relieving the defense of the necessity of taking up the court's time. The justice denied the motion.

It is expected that the case will go to the jury tomorrow. The defense may call Farr, Miss Parks's brother-in-law, but there will be no more witnesses after that.

BUTTON WORKERS WIN DEMANDS IN STRIKE

Industry That Went to a Decline With Advent of Short Skirt Has Been Revived by New Style.

Seven years ago the button fashioning industry was a flourishing business in which about 1,000 men and women in New York earned a fairly good livelihood making buttons for women's skirts. Almost overnight, with the introduction of the short skirt, buttons went out and the industry fell on hard times.

Recently, the advent of the styles calling for the longer skirt restored buttons to the skirt and the industry revived. Yesterday Morris Greenglass, organizer of the union of button and novelty workers, announced that 500 of his members had won a substantial victory after a four days' strike against fifty-four concerns.

The new minimum wage, according to Greenglass, will average $36 a week, or about $10 a week above the previous scale. In addition, the employes gained the closed shop, equal division of work in the slack season and the 44-hour week instead of 50 hours. As soon as the 40-hour, five-day week is introduced in the dress industry, the demand of the button union for the shorter work period will go to arbitration.

The strike will continue against eight independent firms. The trade was organized with the assistance of Jacob Halperin, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

When the union was in its heyday seven years ago it had a charter as local 132 of the international union. It was reported that the union probably would receive another charter as local 132.

The strike meetings, which were held in the auditorium of the garment union building, 3 West Sixteenth Street, were addressed by Norman Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Panken and August Claessens.

DEATH SIGN GIVEN IN COURT

What was believed by attendants in the Federal Building in Brooklyn to have been the Sicilian death sign was passed by a man in the court room of Commissioner Edward E. Fay yesterday while Giuseppe Sutera of 2,046 Second Avenue, Manhattan, was testifying against Antonio De Stefano of 100 Willoughby Avenue.

Sutera told the court that on March 4, 1923, at Gipellina, near Palermo, Sicily, he was crossing a bridge when five men fired sawed-off shotguns at him. He identified De Stefano as one of them. At this point a man in the audience placed the knuckle of his right hand in his mouth and made a grimace at Sutera.

Sutera grew pale and slumped back in his chair. Commissioner Fay ordered the man to keep his hands by his side and an attendant walked toward him. The man speedily left the court room. Later Sutera asserted that his brother, Francisco, was killed at the same spot on Feb. 14, 1923.

A representative of the Italian Consul's office said that the Italian Government had started removal proceedings against De Stefano through the State Department. He said that De Stefano had been convicted in Palermo and sentenced to fifty-four years in prison, but escaped en route to prison and came to America. Commissioner Fay adjourned the hearing until Feb. 5 and held De Stefano without bail, pending the arrival of the papers from Italy.

SUES FOR $1,000,000 OVER BEHA LETTER

REVIEWS DEFUNCT VENTURE

Defendants Are Germanic Trust Co. and Its 28 Directors, Who Deny Such Letter Ever Was Written.

A $1,000,000 libel suit has been started against the International Germanic Trust Company, 26 Broadway, and its twenty-eight directors, by J. Maxwell Gordon of 61 Grand Street, Mount Vernon, N. Y., organizer and first president of the Bankexposition, Ltd., which closed its doors Nov. 15, 1929, eight weeks after it had been opened for the second time. Mr. Gordon's complaint asserts that he was forced to resign as president as a result of a letter written by James A. Beha, chairman of the International Germanic board. Mr. Beha accused Gordon of being unfit to hold the office of chairman, according to the complaint.

Mr. Gordon, who says he has been associated with bankers for more than twenty years and originated the Christmas Club saving plan, declares he realized that a permanent exposition of products used by banking concerns would be a profitable venture to himself, and a great convenience to banking officials, who could centralize their purchases there. Unable to finance the proposition himself, he offered an interest in the company to Milton W. Harrison, trustee of the Bowery Savings Bank, he declared, with the proviso that Mr. Harrison raise the necessary capital. Mr. Harrison and some friends got loans from the International Germanic Trust Company, according to the complaint, and the exposition was opened to the public in April, 1928, in the Salmon Tower, at 11 West Forty-secord Street, where it occupied an entire floor. A rental of $70,000 was paid, Mr. Gordon asserts.

In April, 1929, Mr. Beha wrote the letter of which Mr. Gordon complains, according to the plantiff's attorneys, Murphy, Makepiece & Paley, 27 William Street. In the letter, Mr. Gordon declares, Mr. Beha said that the plaintiff was not a fit man to be head of the Bankexposition, Ltd., and that unless he was removed the trust company would be forced to call its loans. Mr. Gordon says he resigned July 2, 1929.

The Bankexposition, Ltd., was then reorganized, according to Mr. Gordon, with Mr. Harrison as chairman of a board of directors which included many bankers and brokers. It was officially reopened Sept. 9, 1929, but was closed two months later, Mr. Harrison attributing the failure to the stock market crash, and Mr. Gordon asserting that it was caused by ineffective exploitation. Mr. Harrison immediately became president of the Bancindustrial Service, Inc. At a dinner, at which he was guest of honor, he was praised by Harold G. Aron, an official of the defendant company, who was the Republican-fusion candidate for Controller.

The defendants, through their attorneys, Wise, Shepard & Houghton of 7 Dey Street, deny that the letter in question was ever written. They assert that they were financially interested in the defunct corporation and therefore had every right to protect it as they saw fit. They deny that any loans were made to Mr. Harrison and declare that the sums were advanced to the Bankexposition, Ltd. Mr. Gordon says that his company was never indebted to the defendant bank.

A motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that it failed to state a cause of action was denied by Justice Morschauser in the White Plains Supreme Court, where the trial will be held. An amended complaint, however, was ordered served on the defendants.

Mr. Gordon declared yesterday that under his direction the enterprise was meeting with great favor among bankers when he was forced to resign, and that if he had continued as its head it would have become a permanent institution.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP).—There is no telling how badly Alfred E. Smith and George Herman Ruth would have beaten their opponents in an 18-hole golf match today if the Babe had not developed cramps.

As it was, Bob Shawkey, new manager of the New York Yankees, and Billy Klem, major league umpire, breezed in with an 8 and 7 victory.

"If you can hit a golf ball like you can a baseball, we're all set," he told the Babe.

To prove his confidence, Al stepped up to the tee and smacked the ball straight down the fairway, and followed soon after with a twenty-foot putt that gave him a par 4 and put the Babe-Al combination one up.

It was just as well, for it was the only time during the match that Babe and Al were up.

A cold drink around, and a hot sun bearing down, had its effect on the stomach that holds the major league record by its capacity for hot dogs and pop.

Babe complained of the cramps, but after a short rest he resumed play.

There is little more to tell, except that the Babe's medal score soared to 95, and his partner, affected no doubt, by Ruth's collapse, turned in 119. Shawkey had 91 and Klem 95.

Asked by newspaper men to comment on his new salary contract, Ruth said:

"They've got to come see me. I set the price, and there's been no response to my suggestion." The suggestion was $85,000 yearly on a three year contract.

It was a big day for the ex-Governor. He started it off by driving a fire truck from the Coral Cables department station to a call box, where he smilingly doffed his brown derby to the photographers.

"Fire fighting isn't what it used to be when they used horses," he said.

$230,000 Raised in This Country to Establish American History Chair in London University

The fund for the establishment of a Chair in American History at the University of London has been completed, it was announced yesterday by Major George Haven Putnam.

"The subscriptions from this side of the Atlantic aggregate something over $230,000," Major Putnam said. "The substantial subscription which completed the American obligation was for $200,000, which, under the direction of Edward S. Harkness, is given by the Commonwealth Fund, of which Mr. Harkness is the president."

Major Putnam accepted the chairmanship a year and a half ago of the American committee organized to obtain cooperation in this country for the project. Since then he has been active in obtaining subscriptions and sent about 1,500 letters to prominent Americans.

"It is a great satisfaction to be able to report that American cooperation has now made practicable the institution of the chair," Major Putnam said at his office, 2 West Forty-fifth Street. "I assume that the university authorities have now under consideration the selection of an incumbent."

He told of the work of the American and English committees in raising funds for the chair and stressed the importance of such a chair in developing friendly relations between the English speaking peoples.

"The Chair of American History, which was established seven years back in Oxford," said Major Putnam, "and which is now held by Professor McElroy, recently of Princeton, has been very successful in its work. Professor McElroy has been called upon to speak on the subject of the relations of America and England in many places throughout Great Britain."

A similar lectureship established in London will now give information to students, he said, and through the students to the public, in regard to the American Constitution, the development on this continent of representative government, and the relations during the past two centuries of the United States with Europe.

The American committee was instituted at the instance of Lord Loch. John W. Davis is the honorary chairman; Otto H. Kahn, treasurer, and William H. Baldwin, secretary.

The Commonwealth Fund, in 1925, established twenty annual fellowships for British students at American universities, similar to the Rhodes scholarships for American students.

28 WOMEN REDS SEIZED BY POLICE

GET SUSPENDED SENTENCES

Twenty-eight women who were arrested yesterday in a Communist demonstration in front of the Women's Trade Union League at 247 Lexington Avenue were found guilty of disorderly conduct and freed on suspended sentences by Magistrate Capshaw in Yorkville court.

Carrying placards with slogans such as "The Women's Trade Union League Is a Tool of Capitalism" and "Join the Communist Party," the women walked to and fro in front of the league's offices until dispersed by the police, who made twenty-eight arrests.

Harriet Silverman, one of the leaders, told reporters that the demonstration was directed also against the Women's Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, now being held in Washington.

Rose Schneiderman, president of the Women's Trade Union League, forwarded to her offices from the Washington conference a statement in which she said:

"The Women's Trade Union League has been supporting the claims and advancing the condition of women workers for twenty-six years. We have 60,000 members in New York City, all working women, governed by an executive committee made up of working women. Our platform is as follows: Organization of workers into trade unions, equal pay for equal work regardless of sex or race, the eight-hour day and forty-four-hour week, an American standard of living, full citizenship for women, outlawry of war, closer affiliation of women workers in all countries.

"We believe in securing these things in an orderly manner. The condition of working women can be advanced, we believe, by educating the workers as to a correct and helpful use of such leisure time as they have.

"We have reason to be proud of the accomplishment of the past twenty-six years. As an organization of working women we have materially aided the progress and condition of working women. We have brought about a better understanding between workers and employers and educated the public on industrial conditions affecting women.

"The demonstration of the Communist party with placards accusing us of capitalism is amusing when addressed to 60,000 workers."

While the women were attending a dinner of the Kentucky Branch of the English-Speaking Union, where Mrs. Lyttleton was the guest of honor, burglars entered the Doolan residence and stole all their apparel except the clothes they were wearing.

HAGUE WOULD QUIT TO AID CITY FUSIONS

WOULD HELP HIS SUBWAY

Tells Larson Commission Each Town Should Decide on Union by Balloting.

Persistent reports that Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City is planning to retire from politics received a somewhat official foundation yesterday when he spoke in behalf of consolidation of Hudson County municipalities before Governor Larson's county municipal commission in the court house in Jersey City.

Mr. Hague said he was concerned with consolidation only for the good of Jersey City and the county as a whole. He added:

"I'll probably be charged with politics for favoring the plan, but so far as I am concerned there is no politics in it. I am willing to say that I never will be Mayor of the consolidated city. I would be willing to go further and state publicly that if it were necessary for consolidation I would divorce myself from politics."

In political circles the statement was described as the first admission of its kind in Mayor Hague's political career of eighteen years.

Speaking to the committee appointed to suggest better methods of cooperation between county and municipal governments, the Mayor said he believed each community had the right to vote whether it wished to consolidate and with which municipalities the consolidation should be effected.

The Mayor outlined his recently unfolded plan for a subway from Bergen Point in Bayonne to the Bergen County line in North Bergen, with a link at the Bayonne end under the Kill Van Kull to Staten Island, connecting with a possible New York subway. The proposed subway, he said, would benefit 150,000,000 people who annually use the Hudson & Manhattan tubes and the Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken ferries.

General William C. Heppenheimer, president of the Trust Company of New Jersey and a close friend of Mayor Hague, read a prepared statement into the commission's record, which in part read:

"There is no more reason for Hudson County not consolidating than there was for the boroughs composing Greater New York not to consolidate in 1898. By virtue of inadequate planning, mistakes are being made in laying out public services which will cost the people millions to rectify in the next twenty-five years unless abrogated immediately by political consolidation. Local prejudices, accentuated by gross misrepresentation and a regrettable failure to consider the bigger phase of the question, have made the most important project a political football.

"The time has come when the problem should be approached as an economic necessity and when the politicians of both parties should efface themselves at least long enough to permit a thorough study of the problem, not as it may affect the political parties but the business, professional, residential and industrial interests of the greatest number of our citizens."

County Counsel J. Emil Walscheid, County Supervisor John F. O'Neill and officers of the Jersey City Chamber of Commerce also favored the project. Peter A. Smith of South Orange, presided.

VITALE WILL FACE BAR AGAIN TODAY

BRAVATE'S TRIAL THURSDAY

Restaurant Man Denies He Made Complaint Against Terranova in Dinner Hold-Up.

Magistrate Albert H. Vitale will appear today before the subcommittee of the Bar Association which is investigating his fitness to continue on the bench. It will mark the third time the magistrate has been questioned by the committee.

The session today will open at 9:15 A. M. Former Detective Arthur C. Johnson, who was demoted and tried by Commissioner Whalen, probably will be a witness, as will Dr. Joseph Feraci, a Bronx physician.

Johnson and the doctor were fellow guests of the magistrate at the dinner in the Bronx Roman Gardens restaurant on Dec. 8. They were victims of the seven hold-up men who took $5,000 and Johnson's service revolver, the loot subsequently being returned. Magistrate Vitale personally returned the revolver, saying that Dr. Feraci had given it to him after finding it lying beside his car parked outside the restaurant.

Bravate Goes on Trial Thursday.

The trial of Joseph Bravate, 25 years old, of 185 Chrystie Street, indicted as one of the seven robbers, will start on Thursday in the Bronx County Court. This was announced yesterday by District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin. County Judge James M. Barrett probably will be the trial judge and the prosecution will be in the hands of Assistant District Attorney Sylvester Ryan. Edward Darragh of 299 Broadway, is counsel for Bravate.

Gaetano di Somma, proprietor of the Roman Gardens restaurant, denied yesterday that he had made the complaint upon which Ciro Terranova, retired artichoke dealer, was arrested and released in $10,000 bail as instigating the hold-up. Terranova, according to the police, staged the robbery to get a "murder contract" with a Chicago gunman calling for $20,000 as payment for the murders of Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow.

"I do not know Terranova," said di Somma, "and I made no complaint against him."

The restaurant owner was named by the police as complainant against John (Zacci) Savino, Joseph Catania and Daniel J. Iamascia, three of the guests whom Mr. Whalen charged had acted in concert in the robbery. The men were later released, and di Somma then said that he had not complained to the police about them.

Many View Terranova Mansion.

Terranova spent most of yesterday at his $50,000 home in Pelham Manor and then, late in the afternoon, had his chauffeur drive him away. He had nothing further to say about the dinner hold-up and appeared to be cheerful as he played with his youngsters in the front yard. It was reported that the Terranova family planned a Southern trip within a few weeks.

The police of Pelham Manor reported many inquiries from motorists as to the location of the Terranova residence, and a stream of cars passes the house daily, with the occupants craning necks to see the mansion.

Two police lieutenants and a sergeant are to face departmental trials as the result of the bail bond agitation which has developed out of the Vitale dinner and investigation, Police Commissioner Whalen so announced at headquarters. The policemen are Lieutenants Patrick S. Hickey and James Quinlan and Sergeant Timothy Lynch.

Chief Inspector John O'Brien said that the officers had accepted insufficient securities on bail bonds tendered by William Bowen, a professional bondsman operating in the Morrisania court in the Bronx. On one day Bowen pledged a tenement property in which his clear equity was $11,000 for bonds totalling $11,500. The police regulations prescribed that the security for bonds of that sum should have been at least $23,000.

Rudich Bar Inquiry Meets.

The grievance committee of the Brooklyn Bar Association held its third meeting yesterday in its investigation of Magistrate Mark Rudich's eligibility for reappointment. Conrad Saxe Keys, chairman, announced that the committee had made no decision and that the next meeting would be held next Tuesday.

Mr. Keyes said that the committee had not yet definitely determined whether it would broaden the scope of its investigation to include Magistrate Rudich's entire record on the bench. A definite decision would be made next Tuesday, he said. If the committee does not broaden the scope of the inquiry, the investigation will end next week, it is believed, and the committee's report on the shoplifters' case will be forwarded to Mayor Walker, at whose request the inquiry is being conducted.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE FOR HOLD-UP MURDER

Special to The New York Times.

FREEHOLD, N. J., Jan. 17.—Robert Tully, 32 years old, of Audubon, N. J., was sentenced to jail for life at hard labor tonight for the murder of George F. Danielson, 68, messenger of the Bradley Beach National Bank, on Aug. 3. The jury returned the verdict at 7:25 after deliberating for two hours. Judge Jabor L. Steinbach Jr. imposed sentence at once.

Tully was one of the four men indicted for the slaying, which occurred while Danielson was carrying a payroll of $7,280 to the Steiner & Son factory. The others indicted were Frank McGrien, now on trial in Newark for a similar crime; Francis ("Lefty") Long, held in pail here for trial, and James Sargert, still free.

Capt. Dinger Left $15,000 to Widow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The will of Captain Harry Arden Dinger, pilot of the plane which crashed at Bolling Field on Dec. 20, killing Dinger, Representative Kaynor of Massachusetts and several others, was filed today for probate. The entire estate, estimated at $15,000, goes to his widow, Zelma F. Dinger.

Impressions by Will Rogers Of the "Sinking Conference"

To the Editor of The New York Times:

LONDON, England, Jan. 17.—Say, this sinking conference is already a success. The American delegation arrived this afternoon and went into conference at once at the American bar and sunk a fleet of schooners without warning.

They brought eighteen young typewriters with 'em. That's four and a half blondes to the delegate, and I can write in long-hand, left-handed, everything that will be done here in the next month.

But say, the blondes cleaned up, nobody looked at a delegate.

They even brought some marines on the boat to show it was a peace conference.

Tomorrow I lunch at the embassy with Mr. Dawes, and we will see if we can dig out some clothes so Joe Robinson can get in.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

TWO ART GROUPS ACT ON MODEL CONTRACT

Dealers and Artists Seek to Define Terms on Which to Base Relationship.

TO END VERBAL AGREEMENT

Commissions to Painters, Prices and Provisions for Exhibitions Are Among Questions Weighed.

American artists promise to disprove the proverb that artists are unbusinesslike, it was learned yesterday. Artists and art dealers here have set out to clear up and define for their mutual benefit the terms on which to do business—terms which hitherto have been somewhat nebulous and frequently have given rise to misunderstanding.

Committees of the American Artists Professional League and the American Art Dealers Association, Inc., are now at work formulating a model contract covering the relationship between the artist and the dealer.

Many times the effort has been made in the past but has not met with success. The present undertaking, which was started by the artists, is already well under way and bids fair to reach a solution of the old difficulty, representatives of the two organizations said yesterday.

A legal committee of the American Artists Professional League, headed by W. Sherman Potts, is advising an attorney as to the terms which the artists believe the model contract should include. The attorney is receiving similar information about the opinions of the American Art Dealers Association, including twenty-four galleries, from a committee composed of Frederic Newlin Price, Walter M. Grant, and Robert Macbeth. Through the attorney each organization is informed of the opinions of the other, with the result, it was said here yesterday, that a solution of the problem seems probable.

For many years there have been only verbal understandings—"verbal misunderstandings," one artist said yesterday—between artist and dealer in regard to exhibitions. The former Anderson Galleries here were one of the few organizations which required a written contract with the exhibiting artist, defining the liabilities and obligations of each party. This contract is being studied by artists and dealers in the formulation of the proposed arrangement.

The probable terms of the contract were not obtainable yesterday, but it is said that the new document will define, among other things, the commissions to be charged by dealers, fixing and maintenance of prices by artists, commissions of dealers on reorders of paintings by clients from exhibiting artists, provisions about framing pictures, liability of dealer in the event client defaults in payments, and similar matters.

WASHBURN DEMURRER DENIED BY COURT

Special to The New York Times

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Justice Philip J. McCook, presiding over the extraordinary trial term of the Supreme Court in Westchester County, denied today the motion of former Supreme Court Justice Humphrey J. Lynch to inspect the minutes of the grand jury which returned indictments against Supervisor Howard R. Washburn and four of his business associates in a land deal with the town of Newcastle. He also disallowed the demurrers of Lee Parsons Davis on the charges in the indictments against his clients.

Mr. Lynch represents L. Ward Prince, Charles Fenno and A. H. Atwood, while Mr. Davis is counsel for Washburn and Frank T. Bailey. The extraordinary grand jury returned indictments against Washburn for misconduct in office and against the other four for aiding and abetting him in his alleged misconduct. Mr. Lynch moved to review the grand jury minutes when he appeared to plead for his clients last Monday and Mr. Davis demurred for Washburn and Bailey.

Justice McCook set Monday morning at 10 o'clock as the time for the hearing of pleas. The trial of the five is scheduled for the following Monday, Jan. 27. Special Deputy Attorney General Sydney A. Syme announced today that he would be prepared at that time to start the trial of Washburn. The others will be tried as soon as possible thereafter.

Lynch this afternoon obtained an order to show cause why the indictments against his clients should not be dismissed. The order was signed by Justice George H. Taylor Jr. and is returnable Monday before Justice McCook. The move is considered technical, and it is understood that the court will deny the motion for the same reason that Mr. Lynch's motion to inspect the minutes was denied.

Mr. Davis announced tonight that he probably would move on Monday to strike out portions of the indictments against his clients. Both Lynch and Davis contended in arguments on their preliminary moves that the indictments were insufficient because they failed to state specifically the time of the alleged wrongful act, putting the time over a period of four years in some instances.

WHALEN REBUFFED ON POLICE PAY RISE

TOLD TO CUT SCHEDULES

DORMAN FIGURES GRANTED

Fire Department Head Not Asked to Revise Plea for $3,000,000 to Increase Salaries.

Police Commissioner Whalen's $10,000,000 request for sweeping salary increases in the Police Department has been rejected by a special committee of the Board of Estimate, it was learned last night, and the Police Commissioner, in the hope that he may save a part of what he originally asked for, has submitted a reduced schedule of his requirements.

Mayor Walker, the Controller and their principal financial advisers conferred for two hours yesterday behind closed doors in the Controller's office. The main purpose of the meeting was to determine how much, if any, of the reduced requisitions for the Police Department the city could afford to grant. It had been determined in a conference several days ago that the original schedules were too costly for serious consideration, and Mr. Whalen then had been directed to scale them down and resubmit them in revised form.

Controller Berry has begun a study of the revised figures and it was announced after yesterday's conference that he is expected to report to the board next week. The schedules submitted, on Dec. 12, by Commissioner John J. Dorman, calling for salary readjustments in the Fire Department for officers and men, was regarded as less subject to criticism. He was not asked to revise them.

Berry Admits Difficulties.

Controller Berry was unusually reticent after the conference. He gave no intimation of what the character of his report might be, but indicated that the administration had found grave difficulties in the way of conceding the Police Department demands. In attendance at the conference, in addition to the Mayor and the Controller, were Joseph V. McKee, President of the Board of Aldermen and third member of the special committee; Charles L. Kohler, director of the budget; Duncan MacInnes, chief accountant of the Finance Department; Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to the Mayor, and Arthur J. W. Hilly, Corporation Counsel.

The problem confronting the administration, as indicated in these columns last Wednesday, was to provide from the city's credit funds, not included in the 1930 budget, to the amount of between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, if the two departments were to receive all they originally had asked.

What Mr. Whalen wanted was salary and pay increases for the entire personnel of the uniformed force, from Chief Inspector, down to "rookie" policeman. He explained at the time that the purpose of the proposed increases was to equalize the ratio as between men in the various grades, and the officers of the department, who, while not included in the referendum vote last Fall which gave better pay to first-grade men, were "equally deserving of a raise in their pay." One difficulty in the present situation is that the first-grade patrolmen are now receiving $3,000 a year, which is identical with the present pay of the sergeants.

Only $5,000,000 Put in Budget.

If the Board of Estimate had approved Mr. Whalen's requests in their entirety the cost of the department personnel for 1930, as compared with 1929, would have been increased by nearly $10,00,000. Only $5,000,000 has been apportioned in the 1930 budget to meet the mandatory increases in both the Police and Fire Departments.

In the Police Department there are now seven grades of patrolmen, patrolwomen and policewomen, and the referendum provided increases in pay specifically only to those of the first grade. The commissioner's schedules would have given proportionate increases to the personnel of all the other six grades, bringing the total amount needed to meet the increases in the ranks to $7,837,283. But Commissioner Whalen also asked $1,289,340 with which to increase the pay of all officers of the force, from sergeants up to chief inspector.

The highest increase asked in the original schedule was a rise of $1,500 a year for Chief Inspector John O'Brien, whose present salary is $8,000. Other increases asked by Mr. Whalen were:

Deputy chief inspector, $5,800 to $6,800; inspectors, $5,400 to $6,000; deputy inspectors, $5,000 to $5,500; captains, $4,500 to $5,000; lieutenants, $3,500 to $4,000, and sergeants, $3,000 to $3,500.

Increases originally recommended by him for men and women in the ranks were:

First grade (mandatory because of popular vote), $2,500 to $3,000; second grade, $2,100 to $2,900; third grade, $2,040 to $2,700; fourth grade, $1,920 to $2,500; fifth grade, $1,769 to $2,000; seventh grade (rookie patrolmen), $1,769 to $2,000.

In addition to all this, Commissioner Whalen asked $812,300 to defray the cost of additional officers of the uniformed force made necessary by the 800 additional patrolmen granted to the Police Department when the 1930 budget was made, and $6,300 for increases for police chaplains' pay from $1,980 to $2,480 each. The increases originally requested by Commissioner Whalen aggregated $9,945,223. Those asked later for the Fire Department would have added approximately another $3,000,000 to that total. To meet this demand for upward of $12,000,000 for the present year there is available in the 1930 budget only $5,000,000.

GENIUS OF L'ENFANT PRAISED BY CLAUDEL

MALL MONUMENT PLANNED

Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, likened the city of Washington yesterday to Versailles and lauded Major Pierre Charles L'Enfant, the French military engineer, American Revolutionary veteran and friend of General Washington, who was the chief designer of the plans now being used for the capital's beautification, for having possessed the genius to plan a democratic city from a monarchic model.

The Ambassador spoke at a noon breakfast of the L'Enfant Memorial Association in Fraunces Tavern, Broad and Pearl Streets, the Revolutionary landmark and headquarters of the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York. The meeting was the association's first in New York and was held to arouse interest in the campaign for a Congressional appropriation for the erection of a monument to L'Enfant on the Washington Mall.

Many Groups Represented.

Representatives of fifty patriotic societies and architectural and engineering groups from Washington and New York attended the breakfast, which was given by George A. Zabriskie, former president of the State Sons of the Revolution. The presentation of a bronze statuette of L'Enfant by the association to the society preceded the breakfast. Winslow Warren, president general of the Society of the Cincinnati and president of the association, made the presentation speech. The statuette is the work of W. Clark Noble and was accepted by Major John Vernou Bouvier Jr., president of the State Sons of the Revolution, who presided at the breakfast meeting.

M. Claudel made the trip from Washington especially to attend the meeting. He deplored the dearth of condign memorials of French heroes of the American Revolution in this country such as De Grasse, d'Estaing and D'Estraes, but said he was pleased with the universal prevalence of mementos of Lafayette and Rochambeau.

Significant at Inauguration.

"The explanation of Washington," he said, after praising the beauty and magnitude of the city, "is that day of March every four years when the President from the grand tribune of the Capitol at the hour of his inauguration addresses the whole nation in the four corners of this big country.

"I was there myself last year at the side of your President and as I saw him speaking, erect and bareheaded, I understood very well that he was addressing not only those few thousand people who were, after all, not only a self-chosen delegation of a mighty nation but the whole nation itself. On that day I understood the work of L'Enfant."

At the conclusion of the Ambassador's address Major Bouvier proposed a toast to him, which was drunk in water. Other speakers included:

Dr. WILLIAM G. THOMAS, vice president, Society of the Cincinnati, New York State.

Competition for Design.

Mr. Wilkinson announced after the meeting that the competition for the design of the L'Enfant monument has been under way for a month and is open to all members of the American Sculptors' Society, the American Institute of Architecture and the American Landscape Architects' Society. The competition, he said, will be closed in the Spring of 1932, when the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be celebrated.

The winning design, he said, will be chosen by a committee including a member of Congress, representatives of the three technical societies and the thirty patriotic and engineering societies cooperating with the association and then will be presented to Congress. There will be no cost or architectural limitation other than the general admonition to design the monument in keeping with the Washington Monument, also on the Mall. The association and its cooperating societies will pay for the assembling of the models, he said.

Bills recently were introduced in the Senate and the House by Senator Hale of Maine and Representative Fish of New York asking an appropriation of $200,000 for the memorial. In addition to the societies a national committee of 350 prominent persons is aiding the association's plans.

AD MEN MEET MAY 18 TO 21.

The annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America will be held in Washington, D. C., May 18 to 21, it was announced yesterday by C. C. Younggreen, president of the federation, at headquarters of the organization, 420 Lexington Avenue.

Mr. Younggreen said the interest shown by European government officials in the convention of the International Advertising Association in Berlin last year had prompted officials of the Advertising Federation to hold a similar convention for American advertisers.

"With the assurance of the cooperation of the various branches of the government service, the business interests of Washington and the advertising club of that city," he said, "we have an ideal setting for a convention to which leaders in the field of distribution will be drawn."

The federation includes the affiliated advertising clubs throughout the country and about twenty national organizations representing various branches of advertising.

$69,000 BUDGET VOTED BY LUTHERAN COUNCIL

$50,000 for Relief of Church in Russia—Board of Missions to Spend $545,000 in 1930.

A budget of $69,000 for continued world service and emergency relief in 1930 was adopted yesterday by the National Lutheran Council in convention at the Hotel Vanderbilt. A gift of $15,000 a year for three years to the executive committee of the Lutheran World Convention for the salary of its president, office work and administrative expenses was voted by the council.

The council allocated $50,000 for relief, encouragement and maintenance of the Lutheran Church in Russia, the assistance of weak and struggling Lutheran churches in the smaller countries of Europe, the support of students for the ministry in European theological seminaries and to meet financial emergencies in foreign mission fields. The Rev. Dr. Ralph D. Long of Columbus, Ohio, stewardship secretary of the Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio, was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation on Thursday of the Rev. Dr. John A. Morehead, executive director.

Proposals to move the headquarters of the National Lutheran Council from New York to Chicago or to Washington were tabled for consideration at the 1931 convention.

The Rev. Dr. C. C. HEIN of Columbus, Ohio, vice president.

The Rev. N. C. CARLSEN of Royal, Iowa, secretary.

E. F. EILERT of New York, treasurer.

At sessions of the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America, held simultaneously at the Hotel Astor, the Rev. Dr. Franklin F. Fry, executive secretary, was authorized to leave Thursday on the steamship San Lorenzo for Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. He will visit mission stations and confer with Governor Theodore Roosevelt and Waldo Evans on religious education and relief work.

The board adopted a budget of $545,000 for the support of its mission work for 1930, an increase of $25,000 over the 1929 budget.

SCIENCE INSTITUTE FACES ELECTION FIGHT

Conservative Faction Likely to Name Ticket Against Committee's Selections.

A list of candidates for offices in the American Institute of New York, the oldest scientific body in the State, was issued last night by the nominating committee chosen at a stormy meeting of the institute on Nov. 7, when the progressive and conservative groups engaged in oral battle for seven hours.

On the slate issued last night are the names of the men favored by the progressive group. Only two of them now hold office. A. Cressy Morrison, executive of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company, is the nominee for president. During the controversy he was neutral.

The conservative group, it is understood, is ready to offer stiff opposition to the slate made public last night. It is probable that its members will meet tonight in the institute quarters, 250 West Fifty-seventh Street, to put up an opposition slate. If this is done the election meeting on Feb. 13 may develop into a warm session, members predicted.

Those nominated for the board of trustees were:

A. CRESSY MORRISON, executive of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company, president.

OTIS W. CALDWELL, director of Institute of School Experimentation, Columbia University, vice president.

WILLIAM CROCKER, director of Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, secretary.

H. H. SHELDON, Washington Square College, New York University.

JUSTUS RUPERTI, importer and exporter.

F. M. BECKET, president of Union Carbide and Carbon Research Laboratories.

MAURICE HOLLAND, director of Division of Engineering and Industrial Research of the National Research Council.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA OFFERS RESEARCH AID

UNIVERSITY, Va., Jan. 17.—Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, announced today that the university is prepared to offer aid in the preservation, study, interpretation and publication of old letters, books, newspapers and documents, both public and private, that tell of the past social, industrial, political and intellectual life of the commonwealth.

The south wing of the rotunda has been made fireproof as a storehouse for these memorials. A staff of young scholars from the faculty and the graduate school are now ready to study these materials for the cultural history of the Old Dominion.

Already more than 2,000 manuscripts have been catalogued and placed in fireproof cases. These include letters to and from Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, Richard Henry Lee and many others. Many of these are of historic interest and importance.

A good start has also been made in collecting books relating to Virginia. The university has long been in possession of one of the finest collections of material relating to Edgar Allan Poe.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE CHURCHGOER

Cardinal Hayes Will Arrive on Vulcania Tuesday, but Has Requested No Demonstration.

DR. KEIGWIN TO BE HONORED

The Vulcania of the Cosulich Line, bearing Cardinal Hayes, is expected to arrive here Tuesday. In compliance with his wishes, there have been no elaborate arrangements made to welcome him home. The Cardinal has been abroad since last October, having gone to make his "ad limina" visit to Pipe Pius XI and to felicitate him on his golden jubilee in the priesthood. When Cardinal Hayes departed he expected to be back here in time to preside at the Christmas ceremonies in St. Patrick's Cathedral. But on the occasion of his first audience the Pope requested him to remain in Rome for the jubilee celebration during Christmas week. The intervening time Cardinal Hayes spent on a Mediterranean cruise on the private yacht of Sir George MacDonald.

The Vulcania will dock at the West Forty-fourth Street pier. Cardinal Hayes will be met by Mgr. Joseph F. Delany, pastor of the Church of the Incarnation, who is the temporary administrator of the archdiocese, as Bishop Dunn is on his way on a trip around the world. The diocesan consultors will also be at the pier. The Cardinal will be motored to his home, 452 Madison Avenue. Soon after his arrival he will enter St. Patrick's Cathedral to offer a prayer of thanksgiving for the safe return of the members of the party and himself.

It is expected that many lay friends of Mr. MacDonald will be at the steam ship to welcome him as he returns with the added title of Papal Marquis with hereditary right, which means that his only son, Byrnes, will in time become a Papal Marquis, too. Sir George was already a Knight Commander of St. Gregory and a Papal Chamberlain of Cape and Sword.

One of the first functions to be given in honor of Cardinal Hayes after his return will be a luncheon by the Alumnae Auxiliary Association of the Catholic Summer School of America, which will take place at the Hotel Astor on Feb. 1.

The Rev. Dr. A. Edwin Keigwin will complete 25 years of service as pastor of the West End Presbyterian Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 105th Street, next month. Last Sunday he completed seven years as radio preacher, his morning sermons being broadcast by stations WABC and WX2E. A testimonial dinner at the Hotel Pennsylvania will be given in his honor on Feb. 17. By request he will preach an anniversary sermon in his church Sunday morning, Feb. 16. Arrangements for both events are being made by a committee headed by George W. Elkins, president of the Board of Trustees. Dr. Keigwin came here from the pastorate of the Park Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Church Mission of Help, an organization of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, will take the form of a luncheon Tuesday at 1 o'clock in the Hotel Astor. The speakers will be Bishop William T. Manning, founder of the philanthropy; Chief Justice Frederick Kernochan of the City of New York; Mrs. John M. Glenn, president of the National Council, Church Mission of Help; Frank Ferguson, representing the Episcopal Actors' Guild. The presiding officer will be the Rev. Dr. J. Wilson Sutton, vicar of Trinity Chapel, who is president of the New York branch.

Members of the Carroll Club, at 120 Madison Avenue, will attend the 9 o'clock mass tomorrow morning in St. Patrick's Cathedral and receive communion. At 10:30 o'clock the annual communion breakfast will be held at the Hotel Astor. Mrs. Nicholas F. Frady, founder and sponsor of the club, who donated its clubhouse as a memorial to her mother, Mrs. Mary Carroll, will be the guest of honor. Speakers will include the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, Mrs. Christopher Wyatt, Theodore Maynard and Miss Rose McHugh. The toastmaster will be Miss E. Irene Whitewick, new director of the club.

The Rev. Dr. George Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who will complete sixty years in the ministry on Monday, was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Men's Club Thursday evening in the parish house of the church at Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street. A set of the first library edition of Robert Burns, which was published in Edinburgh, was presented to him. The Presbytery of New York at its meeting Monday in the parish house of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church adopted unanimously a resolution of felicitation to Dr. Alexander, who is its oldest active pastor in years and in his length of service.

The new organ recently installed in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Chapel, Trinity Parish, Broadway, between Fulton and Vesey Streets, will be dedicated Tuesday at noon. There will be an organ recital and a brief service. The opening numbers will be by Herbert Ralph Ward, the new organist and choirmaster, after which Channing Lefebvre, organist of Trinity Church, and others will play. The old mahogany case with its fine carving, a replica of the one in Gloucester Cathedral, has been preserved.

The annual public meeting of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in America will be held Monday at 2 o'clock in the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street. There will be addresses by Miss Alice B. Van Doren, a missionary in India, and Mrs. Induk P. Kim, a missionary in Korea. A reception to eleven missionaries on furlough will follow.

"The Church and the Newspaper" will be discussed at a meeting in the Advertising Club, 23 Park Avenue, on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Speakers will be Julian S. Mason, editor of The New York Evening Post, and Louis Wiley, general manager of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The Bronx division of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, comprising 130 pastors, will hold its fourth annual meeting Tuesday evening in the Morrisania Presbyterian Church, Washington Avenue and East 168th Street. The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, who is the president, will speak on "Linking the Churches for World Service." A pageant entitled "A Church Overcoming With Love" will be presented by members of the church.

St. Hilda's Guild, Inc., will hold its sixteenth annual exhibition of church vestments, ecclesiastical embroidery and altar linen at the guild headquarters, 131 East Forty-seventh Street, Wednesday to Saturday, from 10 to 6 o'clock.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

The Duncan Sisters.

IT'S A GREAT LIFE, with Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, Lawrence Gray, Jed Prouty and Benny Rubin, based on a story by Byron Morgan and Alfred Block, directed by Sam Wood; "Land and Syncopation," staged and devised by Arthur Knorr, with the Caligary Brothers, Sally and Ted, Serge Flash and others. At the Capitol Theatre.

The Duncan sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, are to be seen at the Capitol in an alternately cheery and mournful talking and singing film known as "It's a Great Life." The plot of this affair may not be widely different from other back-stage tales, but it is set forth interestingly and with no little ingenuity. It is virtually the same bag of tricks as was used in Moran and Mack's "Why Bring That Up?" and while the ending in this current offering virtually is identical with that of its predecessor, it is accomplished here in an imaginative fashion.

For the first time on the screen there is an impressive conception of a stage girl's delirious dream. This is wrought in Technicolor with modernistic settings, with action that is right down clever. Just before this dream comes to the screen one sees Casey Hogan (Rosetta) and Babe Hogan (Vivian) in each other's arms. Babe is delirious and does not recognize her sister, and the ensuing scenes are the sick girl's dream of her stage hopes. This brightly arranged stretch also gives the director a chance to save the spectator several minutes' anguish and at the same time permits him to entertain the audience with performances of the merry sisters as Babe dreams of their act.

Even the lachrymose incidents are so adroitly acted that they have more than a veneer of truth. The bickering and recrimination that go on between Jimmy Dean (Lawrence Gray) and Casey are not without humor, and just as Casey's humor is the meat of the act, so the frolicking in this picture, more than anything else, causes it to be a corking good entertainment despite its stereotyped narrative.

Besides the dream sequence there is another passage in natural colors, one concerned with a stage performance. It is rather confusing, however, to look at the same background first in rainbow hues and then in plain black and white, for only half of this chapter is in pastel shades.

The vocalized screen serves the Duncan sisters well, for they are without a doubt infinitely more successful in this present affair than they were in their silent shadow production, "Topsy and Eva." Sam Wood, the director of "It's a Great Life," runs his story at a fast pace and makes the most of the talents of the Duncan sisters. There is also good singing and tuneful music in this film, "Following You" being one of the catchy melodies that is rendered several times.

The opening scenes are far from conventional. The Hogan sisters, with a word or two about a purse, are perceived darting down the front steps of a house and then tearing through the streets. Their haste arouses the curiosity of a policeman and the sight of a minion of the law running stirs up the interest of hundreds of idle pedestrians. The shame-faced bluecoat eventually learns that he was pursuing two shopgirls who were five or ten minutes late for work.

The glimpses inside Mandelbaum's department store provoke plenty of mirth, for such a place of business is a fertile field for the vivacious Duncans, and when they are subsequently beheld back-stage and before the footlights, these sisters naturally are in their element, and the fact that they are so familiar with the life of a stage performer is perhaps one reason why this production is so much more pleasing than the usual run of such yarns.

Mr. Gray does well in the part of the ignoramus, Jimmy Dean, a piano player, who finds Casey Hogan one too many for him. He also sings pleasingly. Jed Prouty gives a sympathetic portrayal as a love-smitten store manager and Benny Friedman appears to advantage in the minor part of booking agent.

On the surrounding program is a stage contribution called "Land of Syncopation," devised and staged by Arthur Knorr. One of the best numbers in it is the work of the Caligary brothers, European acrobatic comedians.

The Lout.

BEHIND THE MAKEUP, with Hal Skelly, William Powell, Fay Wray, Kay Francis, E. H. Calvert, Paul Lukas and Agostino Borgato, based on a story by Mildred Cram, directed by Robert Milton; "Jazz Preferred," staged by Louis M. McDermott, with Harry Richman, Yvette Rugel, Smith and Hadley, Caperton and Fiddle and others; Jesse Crawford, organist. At the Paramount Theatre.

An ably directed and cleverly acted audible pictorial story of a stage lout, a pretty girl and a brilliant performer is now on view at the Paramount. It was directed by Robert Milton and Dorothy Arzner, who share alternately in screen credit for their dual direction. In the case of this present production, known as "Behind the Makeup," Mr. Milton enjoys the distinction of having his name appended to it.

The characters are quite well delineated, but the story is rather limp and disappointing. Hal Skelly, William Powell and Fay Wray are the principals in this film, which opens promisingly and continues to hold the interest until Hap Brown becomes a trifle too eager to shield Gardoni, his colleague, who steals Marie, the girl he loves, and who also makes capital out of Hap's ideas.

Hap is a dolt, a comedian without imagination. His doctrine is hokum. He finds Gardoni faint through lack of food. He befriends the foreign performer, who has failed on the stage because his efforts are over the heads of his audiences. Hap and Gardoni come to the conclusion that if they team together they may strike a happy medium and be successful. They try out their scheme, but it fails, an awesome stillness greeting their work before the footlights.

The partnership is severed and Hap goes to work as a dishwasher in the little New Orleans restaurant where he was in the habit of taking his meals and chatting with Marie.

Hap and Marie go to the theatre together and Hap is amazed to see Gardoni on the stage entertaining the audience with a suggestion he (Hap) had made to the foreigner. Marie and Hap go backstage to see Gardoni and quite abruptly Marie becomes fascinated by the glib foreigner. It isn't long before they are married and Hap, downhearted, consents to team up again with Gardoni. This time the act proves to be successful, more so that when Gardoni was acting alone.

The morose Hap worships Marie, but when he discovers Gardoni's infidelity, he keeps the matter to himself. Gardoni supplies funds to an adventuress, who has a jolly time gambling.

Mr. Milton finally gets rid of Gardoni by letting it be known that he has committed suicide by jumping in the river. Still the hapless Hap considers it his duty to whitewash Gardoni's character, but all's well that ends well, for in the end there is an appreciative smile on Marie's charming countenance as she sits in a theatre gazing upon Hap's successful performance.

The lighting of the scenes and the movements of the players are effectively done. The voices are especially well recorded. William Powell as Gardoni speaks with an Italian accent. Sometimes he utters whole sentences in Italian, and his performance throughout is excellent. Miss Wray is pleasing as Marie. Mr. Skelly goes about his part with earnestness and intelligence. Kay Francis does nicely as the adventuress.

NEW RUSSIAN FILM SHOWN.

DEMON OF THE STEPPES, with Oxana Podelsnaya, Nikolai Saltykov, Natasha Sokolova, Eugen Nadevin; directed by Leo Scheffer; based on the novel by B. Lavrenev; "Cheating Mothers"; "Soviet Newsreel"; "Saturday Afternoon", with Harry Langdon. At the Film Guild Cinema.

Still another portrait of the October days in the land of the Soviets is at the Film Guild Cinema, where "Demon of the Steppes" is the feature attraction. Dramatic as these episodes were bound to have been and memorable as they are no doubt, to most Russians, they are, nevertheless, rapidly taking their place with such strata of nostalgic cinema art as backstage stories and underworld melodrama.

In 'D'emon of the Steppes," much of the technique is modeled after that commendable effort, "Potemkin." There are the cruisers, the sea fighting, the battling in the public squares, the admirable assembling of scenes and the rest, but in the latter half of this film a woman bandit leader and her troupe of cavalry are introduced to create a raison d'être for the film.

This romantic interest, if a woman who shoots men in cold blood may be called that, is rather beside the point, for the Red revolt is the thematic score too obviously led up to for the spectator to be misled.

However, the story concerns one Vassily, a seaman, who became a Soviet Field Marshal and who takes with him Lelka, a woman bandit leader. She causes a good deal of trouble and finally kills the commander, a comrade of Vassily. Then she and her outlaw gang are shot to atoms for the act.

The last scene, in which the new leader offers himself to his men for his mistake in having placed too much faith in a woman, is rather touching and well handled, but the picture is poorly photographed and for the most part negligible. Its purpose, if any, is confusing, being a curious mixture of historical incident and a series of partly developed character studies of the two main rôles.

'AFTER THE VERDICT' SEEN.

British Silent Film Exhibited at Little Picture House.

AFTER THE VERDICT, with Olga Tschechova, Warwick Ward, directed by Henrik Galeen from the story by Robert Hichens; Fox Movietone News; "Granada to Toledo"; "The Opry House," a Mickey Mouse cartoon. At the Little Picture House.

"After the Verdict," a British silent production at the Little Picture House, not only features a murder but also introduces a mysterious character who stalks through the yarn and finally comes to the rescue of the hero by confessing the truth.

One suspects from the start, despite the shroud of mystery, who was responsible and how the tale will end. There is little suspense, for it is simply a case of waiting until the right person shows up in time. Until that moment a court room scene, views of newsboys shouting of the murder and various other tricks are employed by the director.

FIRST BELGIAN TALKIE GIVEN

"La Famille Klepkens" Has Gala Premiere in Brussels.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—The first Belgian talkie, "La Famille Klepkens," which was produced here in the French language, had a gala première performance tonight. National pride in this film by Belgian producers was evidenced by the presence of the first regiment of guardsmen at the theatre. The military band gave the opening concert.

The picture is a comedy, depicting what happened to a middle class Brussels family after moving to Paris. It was very favorably received by the audience tonight.

The introductory program comprised Hindemith's quartet in C and Richard Strauss's sonata, both of which Mr. Lange had performed in Europe with the composers, and, in conclusion, the piano quartet in E flat, op. 87, of Dvorak.

The New Brunnhilde.

Siegfried	Rudolf Laubenthal
Gunther	Friedrich Schorr
Hagen	Michael Bohnen
Alberich	Gustav Schuetzendorf
Bruennhilde	Elisabeth Ohms (debut)
Gutrune	Editha Fleischer
Waltraute	Karin Branzell
Rhine Maidens	Editha Fleischer, Phradie Wells, Marion Telva
Three Norns	Marion Telva, Henriette Wakefield, Dorothee Manski
Two Men	Max Bloch, Arnold Gabor

Conductor, Artur Bodanzky.

The new Brünnhilde of the present Metropolitan season, Elisabeth Ohms, made her New York début last night. The occasion was also the first performance of Wagner's "Götterdämmerung" this season. The performance as a whole, aside from its special feature of interest, gave token of fresh study and careful preparation, and was one of the best "Götterdämmerungs" of recent seasons.

Mme. Ohms, whose European career has been described in American newspapers, has a large following and a high reputation in Germany. These things are due, no doubt, to the inherent quality of a fine voice, to her sincerity as an artist, and her earnest studies in interpretation. There were impressive moments last night when the nobility of the music and drama were upon her. She has an essential bigness of conception. It is probable also that the precise outlines of her Brünnhilde are not known to us. Mme. Ohms was singing for the first time in an immense theatre, before a new and exacting audience. Nevertheless she must be added to the long list of Wagnerian sopranos who do violence to the voice nature gave them. Mme. Ohms's voice in the lower part of its scale was frequently inaudible, which, of course, interfered with dramatic effect. The upper tones were not always steady and there were other mannerisms which militated against finished and expressive delivery, such as the indecisive attack and the scoop and a general lack of controlled and varied color. It will be interesting to hear this singer again in this and in other Wagnerian rôles. She chose one of the most difficult for her début. The audience was cordially disposed toward Mme. Ohms and gave her a warm and friendly reception.

As regards other individual parts, this performance does not call for extended comment, since nearly all the artists who participated are familiar to Metropolitan audiences, in their rôles. The most unfamiliar of these was Miss Fleischer's Gutrune, which is a very considerable improvement over the impersonation of a previous incumbent. Gutrune was transformed by Miss Fleischer into a human being, even, for an exception, into a figure of dramatic importance. There was perhaps a tendency to exaggeration and assertiveness, but as a whole there was a great expressive gain. And Miss Fleischer is a well schooled singer.

Miss Branzell's scene of Waltraute began rather indifferently, but the climax of the recital of Wotan's despair and the plea for Brünnhilde's aid was a high light of the performance. Mr. Laubenthal's Siegfried of "Götterdammerung" again is much better sung than his "Tristan." He is a comely and sufficiently romantic figure on the stage, which is not true of all Siegfrieds, even some who have appeared in recent Metropolitan seasons. The foil to the blond Siegfried is the black and ominous Hagen of Mr. Bohnen. He seemed in especially good voice and gave a telling performance. There are times when this exceptionally gifted artist indulges in mannerisms or unnecessary effects. His individuality, in any event, would cause details of his conceptions to differ with the ideas of other people. This is Mr. Bohnen's right, when that right does not degenerate into extravagance. The total effect of his performance was highly impressive, dramatic and sinister.

These various features of the performance harmonized well. Mr. Bodanzky seems now to be putting more earnestness and warmth than has been his wont into his conducting. Dryness of color and hardness of tone were infrequent last night, although there were technical faults in the orchestral playing. The performance had an unusual degree of unity and sweep, and when this spirit is present it gives every individual artist a better opportunity and better setting for his special task.

The score also benefited by the restoration of a number of cuts. The first act is now entire save for two short excisions, one in the Norn scene and one at the beginning of Waltraute's scene. The second act remained last night as it had been, but the third was extended, in the scene of Siegfried with the Rhine-Maidens and in the Gutrune scene after the death of Siegfried. The dialogue between Brünnhilde and Gutrune has always been omitted by Mr. Bodanzky, but the whole of "Götterdammerung, "uncut, will soon be heard as part of the special Wagner matinee cycle. Mr. Bodanzky was probably looking toward this complete presentation in the restorations that he made last night. He should feel encouraged by the results. The opera was not materially lengthened, but it gave an impression of greater completeness, coherency, logic of development, than before.

"NINE-FIFTEEN REVUE" FOR THE MUSIC BOX

The Music Box Theatre will house "The Nine-Fifteen Revue," which will open here some time during the week of Feb. 10, it was definitely learned last night. The show is being produced by Ruth Selwyn, wife of Edgar Selwyn, who is currently represented by "Strike Up the Band," and will have its first performance in New Haven next Tuesday night. After New Haven, the revue will go to Boston on Jan. 27 for a two weeks' engagement before coming to New York.

Although "The Nine-Fifteen Revue" is described as an intimate show, it is said that it has already cost its sponsors approximately $70,000. Most of its sketches and songs have been contributed by well-known playwrights and composers. Among the chief players will be Ruth Etting, Fred Keating, Oscar Ragland, Marguerite Namara, Paul Kelly, Charles Lawrence, Harry McNaughton and Demaris Doree.

Another musical show, Lew Leslie's "International Revue," is also listed to open during the week of Feb. 10, at a theatre yet to be designated.

KERR D. MACMILLAN,
President, Wells College,
Aurora, N. Y.

When I first subscribed to The New York Times—more than twenty-five years ago—it was one of the good American dailies, with, as I then thought, the best foreign service of any of them. Since then it has become one of the good daily newspapers of the world, keeping pace, as was right, with the change in America's participation in foreign affairs and with the unification of the whole world, occasioned by our modern discoveries and inventions.

It is a matter of pride as well as of solid satisfaction that we have in our midst one of the really few good dailies to which we may turn with confidence, knowing that we will find the news of the world well sifted by a staff of men widely and variously informed in regard to the history of our civilization, interested in all that pertains to the higher interests of humanity and expressing themselves in graceful and correct English prose.

KAHN ACTS TO SAVE AMERICAN OPERA CO.

He Sends Check to Aid Group Threatened With Disbanding After Four Seasons.

PRAISES ITS "FINE ZEAL"

Responds to Plea by Mme. Marcella Sembrich, Who Calls the Project Necessary to American Culture.

Threatened with disbanding after four seasons, the American Opera Company, which leaves this city tonight for a final fortnight's tour in the South in its repertory of English opera sung by native artists, has received in its fourth brief New York engagement the unexpected encouragement of letters, accompanied in some instances by checks.

Two of the letter-writers, as made known last night by Howard Taylor, the company's president, were Mme. Marcella Sembrich, singer, and Otto H. Kahn, chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Mr. Kahn sent a check, but its amount was not revealed.

Mr. Kahn's gift made him one of seventy-five persons guaranteeing the company's recent season in sums of $1,000 and upward. Among other large contributors this year were Mr. and Mrs. William T. Carrington of New York, Mrs. Dudley Blossom of Cleveland and Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago.

Mme. Sembrich first wrote to Mr. Kahn on behalf of the young singers who, like certain of the art theatre groups of recent years, are seeking to establish a national opera. The plan has frankly looked to the spread of municipal opera companies in many cities and to the future writing of music dramas around such striking figures in American history as Lafayette, Burr, Nathan Hale, John Brown, Edgar Allan Poe, the ancient Montezuma, or the actual Toussaint l'Ouverture, whose counterpart appeared in the play "The Emperor Jones."

Calls Project Necessary.

"This past week," Mme. Sembrich wrote to Mr. Kahn, "I have been to four performances of the American Opera Company and the work this organization is doing and their improvement in these two Winters has greatly impressed me. I feel it is a necessary thing for the cultural development of this country and in particular for the talented young singers of today and of the days to come.

"America is the only great country where there is no opera given in the language of the people and employing its own artists. The efforts to establish this American opera company have received enthusiastic appreciation in the many towns where it has been heard, proving it a valuable part in the development of this country.

"But, as is true of all things pertaining to American development, there must be people having vision and belief in American talent, who will give financial backing to this splendid enterprise.

"I hope this young movement which can mean so much that is beautiful and stimulating in the future of American life, will appeal to your ever generous spirit."

Mr. Kahn did not make public his reply to the former Metropolitan star, but in response to Mme. Sembrich's plea he wrote directly to the management of the American Opera Company, and a copy of his note was also sent to Mme. Sembrich.

"It has become increasingly the fashion," declared Mr. Kahn, "to belittle opera as a form of art. Without discussing the validity of that appraisal, I would say that, roughly, the test of any form of musical art is whether it has power effectively to convey to the mind and the emotions of the listener the call of beauty and inspiration.

"By that test opera, with its wide and potent popular appeal, stands amply vindicated. Indeed, when looking at the paucity of inspirational effects which the stage and screen offer to the people (and the multiplicity of the reverse), it seems to me that the claim of opera to be encouraged and supported cannot be rightly contested.

Great Need for Opportunity.

"Moreover, America produces annually a crop of young people eagerly devoted to the art of singing. Most of them are serious and sincere, and assiduous in their striving; some of them are greatly gifted. With the regrettable, but unmistakable, decline of the opportunities available in the field of concertizing (owing largely to the advent of the raio and the talkies) the need for the operatic stage in order to enable American artists to make a career in their own country and to come into direct instead of mechanized contact with the public becomes increasingly great."

Opera in America, he said, ought to be sung in English, "as a general rule," and by American artists, and American composers "ought to have their innings."

Mr. Kahn declared he had derived "great enjoyment" from productions by the American Opera Company which he had attended and said he regretted that the company was in financial straits. He concluded:

"It would be a sad reflection upon our readiness to support worthy movements in the cause of American art, and a grievous discouragement to those who, with fine zeal and with disregard of material considerations personal to themselves, have given to the American Opera Company the best that is in them, if that organization were compelled to discontinue its meritorious and highly promising activities.

"I hope very sincerely that the financial support which the company requires to insure its existence, will be forthcoming without delay. Personally, I am very glad to enlist myself among the patrons and well-wishers of the American Opera Company by sending the enclosed check."

Hedwig Browde Gives Recital.

Hedwig Browde, mezzo-soprano, gave her first public performance in this city last night in Steinway Hall. An audience that filled the auditorium applauded the young singer in a long and exacting program that comprised airs by Pergolesi, Haydn and Jensen; songs in German by Schumann and Franz, an aria from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba" and songs in French and English by Carpenter, Fauré, Holmès, Chaminade, Maria Grever and David Guion. Eleanor Mangum was the accompanist.

Iturbi Sails for European Tour.

Among the musicians and singers who sailed last night for Europe on the French liner Ile de France were José Iturbi, Spanish pianist, who has just ended his first American concert tour; Florence Austral, dramatic soprano, and her husband, John Amadio flutist. Señor Iturbi goes to fulfill concert engagements in Holland, Germany and Central Europe, and the other two artists are to appear in London.

Made Prisoner Behind Bars That He Helped to Install.

Arthur Gally, 30 years old, of 152 West Forty-ninth Street, was in familiar surroundings yesterday when he was brought into Police Headquarters on a charge of grand larceny. As a welder a few years ago he helped to fasten the bars in the windows of the lower floors of the building.

Gally is accused of having taken $710 in traveler's check from Peter Den Hartog, a Hollander stopping at the Hotel Breslin. Mr. Den Hartog said he missed the checks after a visit last Saturday to the Hot Feet Club, a lower west side cabaret. When Gally was arrested Thursday night traveler's checks for $560 were found on him, the police said. The case will come up in Essex Market Court on Monday.

MME. GALLI-CURCI QUITS OPERA HERE

Will Begin a Two-Years' Tour of World in Concert and Opera This Spring.

IN ENGLAND IN AUTUMN

Metropolitan Cancels Her Next Year's Contract to Permit a Concert Tour of America.

Mme. Galli-Curci has asked and received from the Metropolitan Opera management a release from her contract for next season, which would be her tenth in the local company, and thus leave her free for a two years' tour of the world. Her husband, Homer Samuels, in confirming the report last night, said that the prima donna is to appear this Spring in concert and opera on her first Continental tour of Europe. She will sing next Fall in England and the following Spring of 1931 in Australia, making the trip by way of America.

Mr. Gatti-Casazza was asked to cancel a remaining year of the singer's Metropolitan engagement, in order that she may make a brief concert tour among her more general American public before going to the Antipodes. Mme. Galli-Curci first appeared with the Metropolitan in 1921, when she opened the season in "La Traviata." She has just reappeared in "Barber of Seville," "Rigoletto" and "Lucia" and is singing in "Romeo et Juliette" today.

The prima donna's concert managers, Evans & Salter, first made known her wish to retire in a measure from operatic engagements. She has devoted a part of each year to opera since her sensational début with the Chicago Opera, repeated when she came with that company to the Lexington Opera House here, singing "Dinorah" on Jan. 28, 1918.

She plans to sing in opera as guest abroad during her coming concert tour, sailing from here in February, and to return for at least three months in concerts in the United States next Winter.

N. MEDTNER RETURNS IN OWN COMPOSITIONS

Russian Composer and Pianist Accompanies Mme. Koshetz in Carnegie Hall Recital.

Nicholas Medtner, a distinguished representative as composer and pianist of the Russia of the old régime, made his reappearance in this city last night before a brilliant audience in Carnegie Hall. With the assistance of Mme. Nina Koshetz, soprano, he offered a program of his works which included typical examples of his genius. It is as a writer for the piano and the voice that this composer is best known, and the works heard last night were happily chosen to reveal the characteristic traits of both his early and recent creative periods.

The opening group of short pieces comprised the recent "Two Hymns in Praise of Toil," Op. 49; the poignant fragment, "Tragédie," and three of the "Contes" so often heard on recital programs.

Superficially interpreted some of them might seem but slight and graceful salon pieces; but the composer played them last night with a simple dignity, depth of feeling, and on occasion with a delicate play of humor that brought out their true significance.

The major instrumental work on the program was the "Sonata-Ballade," Op. 27, which, in form and spirit successfully represents the essential characteristics of the composer, who in following the classic models is not bound too closely by formal standards.

Mme. Koshetz sang with her customary authority and vocal brilliancy two groups of the composer's songs, the first in Russian and the second in German and French. One of the former, a "Serenade," dedicated to the soprano, was sung for the first time.

MARGARET TILLY'S RECITAL.

Pianist Gives Proof of Fine Imagination and Individuality.

Margaret Tilly, an English pianist heard here several seasons ago, and who has been a resident of San Francisco since then, gave a recital of extraordinary breadth and variety at the Town Hall yesterday.

At once poetic and powerful, a specialist in many styles, she played Bach's fifth French suite and the Brahms-Handel variations as the ripe fruits of her study with Harold Samuel and Harold Bauer, while four Chopin preludes at the start and a Chopin encore at the matinee's close recalled equally her training with Philipp in Paris.

Miss Tilly ranged from Mozart to Debussy and Scriabine with individuality and imagination that mark her as one of the more serious and sensitive artists of the piano today.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Intercollegiate Glee Clubs are to hold their annual contest in Witherspoon Hall, Philadelphia, on Feb. 27.

Marion Nugent, violinist, is to give a recital in Carnegie Hall on the evening of Feb. 1 for the benefit of the American Association for Better Photoplays.

Lawrence Tibbett will make his final appearance of the season this afternoon in "Romeo and Juliet." He leaves Sunday for a concert tour to California and back and will rejoin the opera for its tour in mid-April.

STATE'S LEGAL LIST OF BONDS ISSUED

ADVICE GIVEN TO TRUSTEES

Conditions Affecting Securities Change, Broderick Says, and Officials Must Watch Them.

State Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick made public yesterday the official list of bonds which will be legal for investment by savings banks in this State. The list comprises State and municipal, railroad and public utility bonds prepared by the State Banking Department in accordance with the provisions of Section 52 of the banking law.

"The trustees of savings banks are not, because of this list, relieved of the duty of making a careful investigation on their own part into the legality of their investments," said Superintendent Broderick in a formal statement. "Conditions vary so from time to time that securities which were legal investments on the date they were placed upon the list may even now be disqualified. Vice versa, securities which are not included may now be found to be legal.

"An important provision of the law requires that certain municipalities shall have power to levy taxes on the taxable real property therein for the payment of their obligations without limitation of rate or amount. Municipalities to which this provision applies are specified. However, it must be left to the trustees of the savings banks to satisfy themselves that the securities comply with the law on the question of unlimited taxes."

As the cost of preparing the list is assessed upon the savings banks of this State, only a limited number of copies have been printed.

Something of unsettlement appeared in several markets yesterday. Money rates on Wall Street were unchanged, but sterling and franc exchange lost ground fractionally, both reaching the lowest level since the middle of October. Wheat fell to $1.20¾ for the March delivery, the lowest price since Nov. 13, when it went momentarily to $1.17½ in connection with that day's disturbing collapse on the Stock Exchange. It sold for $1.33⅞ at the opening of this month. In a still different quarter, the recovery of silver bullion was abruptly checked and the price fell in London nearly a halfpenny per ounce, leaving it less than ½ penny above the low price of Jan. 8.

On the Stock Exchange, where the day's business was slightly smaller than on Thursday, pretty much all the market ended lower, and there were two or three declines of noticeable proportions, affecting again the higher grade of shares. As a rule, however, losses were little more than fractional, and transactions were not large in the stocks which declined most considerably. It was not easy to trace the particular source of pressure, but it seemed to be largely professional sales for the decline, coming on a market where little resistance was encountered. The bond market again displayed no definite trend; its slight changes of price were divided between advances and declines.

Taken altogether, the day was one in which public apathy and professional uncertainty combined to promote moderate downward reaction. The day's movements in all the markets reflected mostly obscurity in the immediate prospect. Some such unsettlement is not unusual in the early midwinter period, when a convincing basis for judging the probable next turn of things is never easy to obtain. It may perhaps be described as reversion to the typical January market—almost forgotten in Wall Street, in view of the several years which have begun under the full momentum of speculative excitement. The Bank of England took in something over $2,400,000 more gold yesterday, again in British coin consigned from distant markets. This should have brought the Bank's total gold stock within $15,000,000 of what it held a year ago.

The mercantile agencies are again conservatively cheerful in their week-end summaries. Dun's Review describes the evidences of trade revival as "becoming more numerous" although "by no means general," and it expresses the judgment that, since "this is a transition period, it is scarcely to be expected that gains will come otherwise than slowly or irregularly." Business failures appear to have been less this week than the week before or in the same week of 1928, but about 9 per cent more numerous than in 1929. Bradstreet merely describes trade as "moving forward cautiously, pending a clearer view of the outlook" for the next few months, and reports, out of eighty-six commodities, a decline for the week in twenty-one and a rise in eight.

THORNTON HAS INFECTION.

Head of Canadian Railways Kept Indoors Here by Leg Injury.

Sir Henry Worth Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, is confined to the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles Delavan Wetmore, at 8 West Fifty-third Street, with a slight infection of the leg, it was learned yesterday. The infection is clearing up rapidly, however, his physician declared, and Sir Henry is expected to return to Montreal tomorrow or Monday.

The infection is the result of a bruise received last Monday in Baltimore where Sir Henry had gone to attend a diner in honor of Daniel Willard's twentieth anniversary as president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Infection set in upon his return to New York and the railroad president's physician ordered him to remain off his feet as a precautionary measure. As a result Sir Henry was forced to cancel an engagement to speak at the annual dinner of the Silk Association of America at the Hotel Astor last Thursday.

BROKERS' STEEL HOLDINGS.

Holdings of common stock of the United States Steel Corporation in the hands of brokers decreased 309,062 shares between Sept. 30 last and Dec. 31, or from 2,034,512 to 1,725,450 shares. The brokers' holdings at the end of the year were 21.21 per cent of the 8,132,840 shares outstanding, while those on Sept. 30 were 25.25 per cent. This compares with 24.15 per cent in the hands of brokers on Dec. 31, 1928.

The brokers' holdings leave 6,407,390 shares, or 78.79 per cent of the total, in the hands of investors on Dec. 31, 1929, against 6,022,315 shares, or 74.75 per cent on Sept. 30, 1929, and 5,397,979 shares, or 75.85 per cent, on Dec. 31, 1928.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Yesterday's stock market was a nervous, erratic affair, without possession of a definite trend and subject to spasms of selling that drove it considerably lower from time to time. It closed in the midst of a brisk rally, but final quotations reflected a confusing mixture of gains and losses, with the latter predominating. Rather acute weakness developed in high-priced public utility issues and in the communication stocks, with heavy pressure on Western Union. United States Steel's loss on the day was 1½ points, and losses of from a point to more than 3 points were scattered through a long list of issues. Most of the copper shares exhibited recurring weakness, due to reports from the West that operating companies had shut down important units, but in some cases recovery developed near the close and the day's loss was but fractional. On the other hand, there were a number of strong spots. The day's fluctuations were about as confusing as on any trading day this week, because of the quick changes of direction. The market appears to blow hot and cold, not only by days, but several times in each day.

Volume Again Declines.

The turnover on the Stock Exchange, having established a new year's record on the previous day, above 3,000,000 shares, slipped back into the 2,500,000 class yesterday. The volume was 2,679,470 shares, and probably 90 per cent of it might be classed as strictly professional.

Tail End of Bear Market.

One of the erstwhile market leaders from whom nothing much has been heard for several months, permitted himself the luxury of an interview yesterday. He expressed the opinion that "we are on the tail end of a bear market, there is no doubt of that and the public is being educated to sell stocks just as it was being induced to buy them at the peak of the movement when the distribution was in progress. There is a campaign in progress to convince the public that we are going to have a very serious business depression and that stocks have not as yet discounted it. A careful appraisal of the situation shows that the limit of contraction in most lines has probably been reached or will be reached in the early future and that present prices have fully discounted any further retrogression in general business that may develop. No one can tell at present when the upturn is coming in the market but it will come very quickly if the public is not led astray by pessimism as it was by over-optimism."

Utility Progress Shown.

Complete statistics for November for both the gas and electric light and power industries show marked increases over the same months of 1928, although less than normal gains were indicated, the earlier months of 1929 having shown more considerable increases. Power and gas officials take the position that continued increases month by month, compared with the same month of the previous year, are to be expected throughout 1930, even if industrial activity continues the downward movement which the November figures evidenced. A decline in industrial production in no way entails a comparable decline in industrial consumption of power, it is pointed out, and revenues from industrial takings of power would fall on an even slower scale in view of the gradual cheapening of rates effective as consumption increases.

Entry on Legal List.

The action of the Wabash Railway management in seeking to have senior securities placed on the New York "legal" list was said in railroad circles yesterday to be indicative of the advance of the railroads in recent years. While railroads provide a substantial amount of the securities on the list, there are still many railroad bonds that do not meet the State's requirements for investments. It was suggested that as time went on and the present trend in the enhancement of railroad credit continued, the list would be further swelled.

The Increase in Bond Commissions.

Effective yesterday, commissions on bond transactions on the Stock Exchange were increased to $2.50 a $1,000 bond for non-members and $1.25 for member houses, and with the "give-up" 75 cents a $1,000 bond for members. This increase comes at a time when some Stock Exchange houses are agitating the reduction of the minimum charge on stock transactions. In the case of bonds, the increase is to compensate brokers for the smaller transactions in the last few months, but in the case of stocks, the theory is that reduced charges will serve to stimulate trading.

Trusts in Better Demand.

Investment trust issues have been in better demand since the beginning of the year, according to reports received by bankers. The publication of many year-end statements which showed that nearly every trust stock is selling several points below its liquidating or asset value has stimulated substantial investment buying of well-sponsored issues, it is reported. Few trust issues have appreciated much in value, however, and it is therefore still possible for the managers of many trusts to purchase their stock in the open market and, by retiring blocks of it, to increase the asset value of the remaining shares. If investment buying should continue at the present rate, the bankers predict, a foundation will be laid for a renewal of speculative activity in a selected group of investment trust stocks during the Spring.

An Unexpected Concession.

Withdrawal of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia's opposition to inclusion of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh in the Baltimore & Ohio System aroused interested discussion. The Taplins, who formerly controlled the P. & W. Va., were not averse to opposing the merger plans both of the B. & O. and the Chesapeake & Ohio. Similarly, the Pennsylvania interests have as yet shown no disposition to aid these plans. Yet the P. & W. Va., which is now controlled by the Pennroad Corporation, apparently showed by yesterday's action that it is not to continue a policy of all-inclusive opposition to the merger proponents.

MONEY.

Conditions and rates in all classes of the money market were unchanged. On the Stock Exchange more than ample supplies were offered at the lending table, but demand continued light. Standing loans went at 4½, followed by 4, for new money around midday, and 3½ in the Street market. Time money was 4½@4¾ per cent for all dates, but turnover was small. Commercial paper and acceptances were moderately active, but here discounts showed no variation from Thursday.

NEW HAVEN ASSAILS VALUATION BY I. C. C.

Some Factors Stressed by Court in That Case Ignored by the Commission, It Is Held.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad issued yesterday a statement in which it contended that the valuation of the line announced recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission was at least $130,000,000 too low. It held that the discrepancy would be even greater if consideration were given to investments made since 1915, and that the commission's findings "do not reflect present-day conditions or values which the Supreme Court in its recent decision on the O'Fallon case stated must be taken into consideration in finding values."

The commission valued the New Haven as of June 30, 1915, at $404,604,213. This valuation represented operated system owned and leased, including non-carrier physical property, but, according to the New Haven, did not include investments in steamship companies, railroads, such as the Boston & Maine, the New York, Ontario & Western and the Rutland, electric, street car and omnibus companies and the New Haven's interest in terminals at New York and Boston.

Quotes Eastman's Dissent.

The New Haven in its statement said:

"The final valuation reports recently issued by the commission have generally stated that the discrepancy of the basic cost of reproduction upon 1914 level of prices would be removed when the final valuations reported were adjusted to later dates in accordance with the requirements of the valuation act. No such statement appears to be made in the final valuation covering the New Haven, although it shows that Commissioner Eastman dissents to the report for the same reasons as those indicated in the first paragraph of his dissenting opinion in the New York Central final valuation, wherein he said: 'The decision of the Supreme Court on May 20, 1929, in St. Louis & O'Fallon Railway Company vs. United States makes it desirable, I believe, for us to review our methods of valuation and consider whether they are consistent in all respects with the views expressed by the court.'

"The Interstate Commerce Commission's final valuation as of June 30, 1915, for the New Haven Railroad System is $404,604,213, of which $309,894,585 represents owned property, including the Harlem River & Port Chester Railroad, merged with the New Haven since valuation date, and $94,709,628 leased property.

"The commission's final valuation exceeds the book investment less depreciation accrued on the books as of June 30, 1915, in similar property, by $43,364,823 for owned property, and $39,995,040 additional for leased property.

"These figures include non-carrier real estate and buildings, but do not include steamship lines, investments in other railroads, such as Boston & Maine, Ontario & Western, Rutland, &c., electric, trolley and motor-coach properties carried on the books of the New Haven at $166,628,010; nor do they include the New Haven's ownership in the valuable passenger terminals at New York and Boston, amounting to over $70,000,000, and the Central New England Railway, which has been merged with the New Haven since valuation date.

Values on Road's Books.

"As the commission's figures are of a date over fourteen years ago, same must be brought down nearer to date to picture the situation as it exists today.

"Including the Central New England Railway and adding net expenditures for additions and betterments, together with increase in cash and materials and supplies, from valuation date to Nov. 30, 1929, to the commission's final valuation above stated, gives a figure of $414,220,012 for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad owned property and $106,783,052 for leased line property.

"This compares with investment in road and equipment adjusted for depreciation accrued on the books at valuation date to make same comparable with the final valuation, carried on the New Haven's books Nov. 30, 1929, of $372,612,011 for owned property and $70,192,729 for leased property which is carried on the books of the leased lines such as the Old Colony, Boston & Providence, Providence & Worcester, &c.

"Valuation of the rail properties alone is not comparable with stock and outstanding bonds shown by the New Haven's balance sheet because part of such stocks and bonds were issued to acquire other properties or an interest in other properties whose valuation is not included in the foregoing figures.

"The steamship lines and other railroad property are under Federal valuation, while the trolley and electric properties are under separate valuation, and the final values for any of these companies has not yet been ascertained.

"Until the final valuations of all properties represented by the investment are ascertained it is impossible to say definitely just how the total book investment in these outside properties compares with the present value.

"It is certain that the valuations of some of the properties will exceed the figure at which they are carried on the New Haven's books, while it is equally certain that others will fall below the book figures. However, the officers of the New Haven feel certain that, based on present information, it may safely be said that the stock and indebtedness of the New Haven company are more than supported by physical property embraced in the New Haven and the value of other properties in which it has investments."

Bankers to Study Problems At Philadelphia Conference

Under joint auspices of the Commission on Banking Practices and Clearing House Functions of the American Bankers Association and the State bankers' associations of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, a conference on the problems of bank management will be held in Philadelphia on March 14 and 15.

"The central theme of the conference will be bank management," according to Hal Y. Lemon, chairman of the Commission on Banking Practices, "and will have for its objectives satisfactory profits for the bank, complete protection for the depositor and adequate service for the community."

OFFERS TO DEVELOP ST. LAWRENCE POWER

Asserting that the problem is purely a business one, Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, in a summary of the view he expressed recently before the committee considering revision of the public service law, says that his company is prepared to settle the problem of developing the water-power of the St. Lawrence River with the primary object of serving the best interests of the consumers of electricity and the State itself.

"There is no legal ownership in the Federal or State governments of the rights to use water for power purposes, such rights being largely in our company," Mr. Carlisle asserted. "A treaty between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is probably necessary to permit a dam to be built across the river. The State of New York probably owns the land under water to the centre of the river, but this ownership gives no water-power rights. The dam, when built, should serve both power purposes and uses for canals.

"There is possible a development of 1,000,000 electrical horsepower on the American side. The great benefit to the State in this development will be taxes it can levy upon the new industries created to use the power and the added wealth and payrolls made available by such industries. The company desires to see the water-power developed as quickly as possible and put to use. While it would itself undertake such development upon fair and generous terms, yet it will consider any and all other plans, particularly that of having the development made by a State-owned corporation, the power to be marketed under contract by our operating companies."

Lower household and farm rates for power cannot be created by new laws or methods of regulations, Mr. Carlisle said, but are dependent almost entirely on able management of the operating companies. Such efficiency is obtainable only by very large sales to industrial users, he held, declaring that Niagara Hudson's average rates, with only 15 per cent of its power going to small users, are the lowest of any large company or group in the United States.

Mr. Carlisle also defended holding companies as having been the effective means of providing the tremendous amounts of new capital annually needed for the expansion of utilities. Legislation limiting the would, he contended, limit the free flow of capital into the utilities and very soon result in curtailment of expansion, poorer service and higher rates.

Mr. Carlisle declared that the managements of public utilities owe as great a degree of trusteeship to their customers as to their stockholders, because of the public rights which they enjoy. He advocated full publicity on all transactions affecting rates, customers and the public.

SHIPPERS HEAR RISE IN ACTIVITY IS NEAR

AIR LINES HELD NECESSARY

Greater activity in transportatin of freight and passengers by railroads and the growth of air transportation were predicted yesterday by speakers at the annual meeting of the Atlantic States Shippers' Advisory Board at the Hotel Commodore.

R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, speaking at the luncheon which closed the conference, saw "the country going sanely, with business as usual, in spite of what happened in lower Broadway here two or three months ago." His address was heard by seven railroad presidents and other prominent transportation executives.

"The availability of money and low rates of interest, while they beneficially affect, do not by any means solve the problem which underlies capital expenditures," said Mr. Aishton, "for in order to secure the money for essential purposes, including improvements and betterments, the railroads must have adequate credit.

Cites Requirements for Credit.

"To secure it they must maintain and improve their service, must operate with greater economy, with the greatest measure of efficiency, and in addition must obtain revenues as compensation for their services sufficient to meet interest and dividend requirements and to pay their notes when due."

Mr. Aishton said that net revenues had improved, but not because of rates, which had "consistently dropped." In 1921, he said, the rate was 1.275 cents a ton mile and in 1928 it was 1.08.

He commended the shippers for their cooperation with the railroads. He saw a greater understanding on both sides and said that the last ten years had seen the greatest development in railroad transportation since the beginning and that the next five years would surpass that record.

At the morning session T. B. Clement, general traffic manager of the Transcontinental Air Transport, asserted that air transportation lines now give a service which can be universally adopted. This, he said, was the point of the recent reduction in rates on his company's lines. He asserted that air transportation, like the telephone and electric light, had become a public necessity, no longer being a costly luxury.

"It is our firm conviction," he said, "that air transportation is no longer a thing of luxury and a plaything of the well-to-do. Rather, we believe, air transportation has become, like the telephone, the electric light and the telegraph, a public necessity. Viewed in that light, it is our duty to place air transportation within the financial reach of every one."

Mr. Clement said there were now thirty-two established air lines flying more than 50,000 miles daily and serving directly 152 communities in the United States.

O. E. West, chief of yards and terminals of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, described to the 500 members present the advantages of the "hump" switching over flat switching. He said the former type, in which cars are allowed to coast into a particular position, was "four-to-one" safer to the freight that "flat" switching, in which cars are moved by locomotives.

J. N. Haines, superintendent of transportation of the Lehigh Valley, described a device known as an impact recorder, the use of which enables operators to determine at just what point an impact great enough to damage freight occurred. The recorder, he said, has helped in reducing damage claims. The device has been in use two years and train crews are not told of the instrument's presence on their trains in advance. Damage claims in 1920, he said, were $120,000,000 and last year were reduced to $30,000,000.

Rise in Car Loadings.

According to reports furnished at the meeting, 782,712 cars will be required to move basic commodities during the first three months this year, whereas the actual shipments made during the same period last year totalled 775,569 cars. Although the increase is only 0.9 per cent, it was regarded as indicative of better business conditions throughout the year. Setbacks are expected, according to the report, in the movement of iron and steel, brick, slate, clay products, automobile parts, roofing material and salt, while an increase in the shipment of fresh vegetables, poultry and dairy products, coal and coke, petroleum and its products, sugar, leather and canned goods is expected.

H. E. Stringer, president of the Hydraulic Pressed Brick Company of Washington, D. C., was re-elected general chairman of the board and E. V. Hilleary, general traffic manager of the F. W. Woolworth Company, was named first alternate chairman. F. E. Paulson, vice president of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company of Allentown, Pa., was chosen second alternate chairman; P. W. Moore of the Queensborough Chamber of Commerce, general secretary, and W. B. Einstein of New York City, executive secretary.

The next regular meeting of the board will be held on April 2 and 3 at Allentown, Pa.

Among those at the speakers' table at the luncheon, besides the officers of the advisory board, were M. J. Gormley, executive vice president of the American Railway Association; J. M. Davis, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; C. E. Denney, president of the Erie Railroad; E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley; J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; A. C. Needles, president of the Norfolk & Western; W. T. Noonan, president of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh; M. Rutherford, president of the Lehigh & Hudson, and J. W. Roberts, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

URGES AN INQUIRY INTO 75 COMPANIES

BROADER SCOPE SOUGHT

Pennsylvanian Says Proposed Investigation Should Go Beyond Rail Holding Companies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Representative Wyant of Pennsylvania today submitted in the House a list of seventy-five holding, trading and investment organizations which he suggested should be investigated under the terms of the proposed resolution directing a Congressional inquiry of railroad-security holding companies.

Mr. Wynant predicted his move on the forecast that the resolution will come before the House early next week and will be passed.

He contended that there are other companies with large holdings of railroad securities which, "either consciously or unconsciously, exercise a tremendous influence in the management of railroads," and said he favored the investigation of these also.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Gilt-edge securities were firmer today on steady investment buying. The war loan advanced ⅛ to £100⅞, but victory bonds reacted. Internationals mostly were lower, led by His Master's Voice Gramophone, which declined ½ to £4½, and Columbia Graphophone, which fell 3-32 to £5¾. Hydroelectric slumped ⅞ to $42⅞, while International Nickel was ⅝ lower at $35⅝.

Textiles were dull, British Celanese falling below £1 to 27-32, and Courtaulds weakening 1-32 to £2¾. Imperial Chemicals also was unsteady at 27s 4½d. Royal Mail stiffened to 33s.

Buying of rubber stocks followed news that restriction plans are being discussed with Dutch producers. Oils were flat, however, Royal Dutch falling ⅛ to £32¾, as a result of a decline in American crude oil prices. Among the Rhodesians Bwana advanced 1½d to 23s 9d, while Congo touched £8⅛ on New York buying.

Money was plentiful in Lombard Street, where the overnight loan rate fell to 3½ per cent. Discounts weakened to 4 1-16 per cent for three-month bills. Sterling slumped to $4.86 11-16. The Bank of England received 500,000 sovereigns from Australia and bought £2,600 of bar gold.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—A tendency to consolidate the market's recent gains was manifested on the Bourse today. Heaviness of New York and European stock exchanges had an inevitable psychological effect on the market here, but the realizing movement was checked in time to prevent a serious scaling down of prices.

With the success of The Hague conference seemingly assured, it is believed that the prospects for early stimulation of trading on the Bourse are bright.

It is pointed out that the collection of German reparations will facilitate the payment of France's war debts to the United States and Great Britain and certainly will strengthen the country's position in international finance.

French rentes were generally stronger today, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 88; 1918 4s, 98.95; 1920 amortizable 5s, 136; 1928 5s, 103.55; 1920 6s, 103.10; 1927 amortizable 6s, 109.80.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—The downward movement continued at today's session of the Boerse and prices sagged slightly, but soon after the official opening the selling movement subsided and most issues were able to regain most of the day's losses.

Nervousness over the internal political situation, lack of purchasing orders and danger of a possible Reichstag crisis in connection with the Socialist attack on Dr. Schacht are mentioned as depressing factors. The unusually favorable Reichsbank report and optimistic views regarding the international money market caused later recovery, although trading became quiet.

Czechoslovak Trade Balance.

PRAGUE, Jan. 17 (AP).—The foreign trade figures for Czechoslovakia for 1929 show a favorable balance of only $12,000,000, against a $59,000,000 in 1928. The shrinkage is believed due to decreased sugar sales owing to foreign competition.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 17.—Abitibi Power and Paper common and preferred stocks were weak today in the newsprint group on the Montreal Stock Exchange. In answer to queries regarding the company's preferred dividend, L. R. OKLAHOMA OIL MEN PROTEST PRICE CUTS

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 17.—Some 500 leading oil operators of Oklahoma, meeting here yesterday and today, have declared themselves in opposition to the pipe line companies and their price cuts.

Indignation against the Humble Oil and Refining Company of Texas and the Carter Oil Company of Oklahoma and Kansas, both subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in inaugurating price reductions ranging from 17 cents to 41 cents a barrel on crude oil, was expressed by E. B. Reeser, president of the Barnsdall Corporation and of the American Petroleum Institute; Thomas B. Slick, Charles J. Wrightsman, Wirt Franklin, W. G. Skelly, president, and C. C. Herndon, vice president, of the Skelly Oil Company, and others.

Already operators of the Oklahoma City field, after two closed meetings ending at noon today, announced that they were ready to curtail production in that field to 25 per cent of its potential yield and suggested the East Earlsboro pool be reduced 66 2-3 per cent of its potential flow and all other fields of the State curbed at least 30 per cent. East Earlsboro pool operators will meet here tomorrow morning to formulate plans for the drastic reduction.

High Market Price Demanded.

"Sell crude oil only to those purchasing agencies which will sustain a high market price," and "shut in our wells, stop drilling and reduce crude oil production below the needs of the pipe line companies, so that the oil producers will be in control of a sellers' market," were the sentiments unanimously expressed by the oil operators.

The reduction in midcontinent oil prices yesterday was termed unjustified "in view of the spirit of cooperation that has prevailed in the three oil States for the last year," and a resolution to that effect was read to the gathering by Mr. Reeser and endorsed enthusiastically.

The price cut in Oklahoma alone reduced the income of State oil operators more than $200,000 a day, although the producers of the State have held production down to a level well within refinery requirements at this period of low consumption and despite the fact that Oklahoma has a potential oil production estimated at well above 1,000,000 barrels a day.

Other purchasing agencies were asked to disregard the action of the Humble and Carter companies in cutting prices in the resolution adopted. Assurance was given the operators by several other major pipe line companies that they would not reduce prices "unless they were forced to." The Prairie Pipe Line Company and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company indicated through unofficial channels—their executives are in Los Angeles negotiating a merger—that they would maintain the higher price schedule for crude if production was further prorated.

Agreement to Increase Proration.

Oklahoma oil operators in agreeing to increase proration in that field to 75 per cent for an indefinite period did more than signify their willingness to reduce their monetary incomes to 25 per cent. Earlsboro operators are to follow their example at a meeting here tomorrow, curbing their production to one-third of its "potential."

A general meeting is expected to be called within the next few days by Ray M. Collins, proration umpire for the State, at which Oklahoma's production in all flush fields will be prorated 30 per cent instead of 20 per cent as at present. During November 5,000,000 barrels of crude oil were drawn from storage stocks to meet the demands of refiners, who, the producers charge, are "running wild." In December the withdrawal from storage is believed to have amounted to equally as much. Producers of the midcontinent field argue, consequently, that overproduction does not exist, and their determination further to reduce production in the five oil States making up this field is expected to have an immediate effect upon the crude oil price structure.

SINCLAIR RETAILING IN EAST SEEN AT END

Merger Under Way, It Is Said, Will Give Standard Oil of California Outlets Here.

MORE CHANGES IN PROSPECT

Plan Expected to Result in Sinclair-Prairie Expanding as Producers and Exporters.

The Standard Oil Company of California is planning to invade the retail market of the Eastern and Atlantic seaboard sections of the country by obtaining the sales outlets of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, it was reported in oil circles here yesterday. It was added that the move would result from the projected merger of the Sinclair company with the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the acquisition by the merged companies of the Rio Grande Oil Company, a deal that is understood to be pending.

The merger and expansion plans are expected to result in the sale of Sinclair's Eastern marketing facilities to Standard of California, the retirement of the Sinclair-Prairie companies from domestic marketing and the expansion of the organizations as producers and exporters of crude petroleum.

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of Sinclair Consolidated, is on the Pacific Coast conferring with Western oil officials regarding the merger plans and subsequent developments, it was reported yesterday.

The Richfield Oil Company of California and other Western refiners have entered Eastern markets on a large scale in the last year, lending color to the predictions that California Standard would follow suit.

New York's Oil Output Jumps.

OIL CITY, Pa., Jan. 17 (AP).—The Derrick tomorrow will say the runs of crude oil from wells in the Allegany (N.Y.) field to all pipe lines for 1929 totaled 2,951,992 barrels, against 2,093,385 in 1928 and 1,715,354 in 1927. Daily average runs for 1929 were 41 per cent greater than for 1928. The increased production, the paper will say, is the result of water pressure on wells applied through the five-spot drilling method.

Charges Breach of Faith.

Charging that the reductions in crude oil prices announced by the subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey constituted a "distinct breach of faith with the industry," J. Edward Jones of 342 Madison Avenue, operator in Mid-Continent oil royalties, issued a formal statement last night, saying that no justification whatever existed for such reductions.

Meets Oklahoma Oil Cuts.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17 (AP).—The Magnolia Petroleum Company announced today it had reduced its prices on Oklahoma crude oil, meeting the price cut announced yesterday by the Carter Oil Company. The Magnolia Company reduced prices yesterday on Texas oil. The new minimum price for low grade Oklahoma crude is 60 cents a barrel.

FRANKLIN HONORED BY ADVERTISING MEN

Called Founder and the Earliest Exponent of the Profession—Public Service Lauded.

Advertising men and members of associated trades and professions attended a luncheon yesterday at the Advertising Club, 23 Park Avenue, to celebrate the 224th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, who was described as the founder and earliest exponent of advertising in America. James Wright Brown, president of the club, presided.

John Clyde Oswald, founder of the International Benjamin Franklin Association, described how Franklin had risen from humble origins to attain success not only as a publisher and advertiser, but as a statesman, diplomat, writer, inventor and philosopher. He praised the public service of Franklin and his use of the printed word for public cause.

Dr. John H. Finley said that the only man to compare with Franklin in the variety of his talents and accomplishments was Leonardo da Vinci. Confining his talk to Franklin's activities as a publisher and advertiser, Dr. Finley read extracts from the "Word Book" of Franklin while he was publisher of The Pennsylvania Gazette, from 1759 to 1765. The book which was recently donated to the New York Public Library by Mrs. Edward Harkness, contains many curious items of advertising, such as lotteries, uncalled for letters and notices for the sale or apprehension of slaves or apprentices.

Among those who attended the luncheon were:

ASK BAN ON BILLBOARDS THROUGHOUT NATION

Resolutions calling for abolishing billboards and similar outdoor advertisements throughout the United States except for limited areas to be set aside for the purpose have been adopted by the board of directors of the American Institute of Architects, it was announced yesterday by C. Herrick Hammond of Chicago, president of the institute.

Frank C. Baldwin of Washington, secretary of the institute, is credited with initiating the movement, according to Mr. Hammond. In raising the issue, Mr. Baldwin charged billboards with "destruction of the natural beauty of the face of the earth, with its secondary but equally disastrous effect upon the sensibilities of the people of the United States."

"This selfish desecration of the landscape," the resolution of the board of directors read, "has aroused the antagonism of those whose journeys by boat, train and automobile are rendered disagreeable and dangerous by such blatant and obtrusive ugliness."

The resolution states the conviction that billboards are objectionable to the majority, and calls the situation to the attention of civic organizations, legislative bodies, press and public. It concludes:

"The board earnestly urges that those agencies which are properly concerned with the cultural and spiritual welfare of the American people, as well as those concerned with their material well-being and safety, take vigorous action through the various means at their command to bring about by regulation, legislation or the force of public opinion the complete removal of billboards, signboards and related structures from the roads, highways and boulevards of the country, except in such limited areas as may be set aside for such advertising by direct action of the proper authorities."

NEW OFFERINGS FEW IN MUNICIPAL BONDS

Total of Only $12,567,250 Is Set for Next Week, Led by $2,900,000 of Yonkers.

PRICES TENDING TO SLIDE

Light financing is scheduled for the municipal bond market next week, when issues aggregating $12,5657,250 will come up for award. This compares with this week's revised total of $20,123,914 and with the weekly average for the year to date of $30,499,160. Additions made during the week to the list of issues to be awarded on subsequent dates were few.

The largest issue for next week is that of $2,900,000 City of Yonkers (N. Y.) school, water and building bonds, which will be offered on Wednesday. On the same day Jackson County, Mo., will offer $2,000,000 bonds. The only other large issue will be that of $1,850,000 city of Allentown (Pa.) 4½ per cent various improvement bonds, set for Tuesday.

The lull in new financing this week enabled municipal dealers to give their attention to the heavy issues brought out in recent weeks, of which several large blocks remain unsold. The $29,050,000 State of Tennessee bonds and notes formally offered on Monday have been sold down to less than $8,000,000. Several large blocks of the recent offering of New York City bonds were reported sold during the week.

Two Large Issues on Way.

Only two issues of any considerable size are on the horizon, the issue of $9,000,000 city of St. Louis (Mo.) public building and improvement bonds on Jan. 30 and that of $18,000,000 State of Arkansas long-term highway bonds, the sale date on which has been changed from Feb. 11 to Feb. 12.

Although municipal bond prices have held firm since the first of the year, some evidence of a slight relaxation appeared at the end this week, evidenced by bids by dealers on new issues rather than through changes in prices named on issues carried on their lists. The general attitude in the trade is that if new issues are held to a minimum in the next fortnight the market can be squared away to absorbed sizable new issues without difficulty.

Demand for short-term bonds has been satiated to a certain extent, so that such issues offered soon are not expected to receive bids as high as they would have had a few weeks ago. A case in point yesterday was the failure of Cook County, Ill., to receive bids on its $7,000,000 6 per cent six months' notes.

Award of a new issue of $320,000 Amherst (N. Y.) Central High School District bonds, due on Jan. 1, 1953 to 1958, has been made to Lehman Brothers and the Manufacturers and Traders-Peoples Trust Company of Buffalo at their joint bid of 100.2696 for the bonds as 4¾s.

Cook County Gets No Bids For $7,000,000 Tax Notes

Cook County, Ill., which includes the city of Chicago, failed to receive any bids yesterday on its issue of $7,000,000 6 per cent corporate tax notes, according to private advices received here. The issue was dated Jan. 2, 1930, and matures on July 1, 1931, callable on and after May 1, 1931.

Municipal bankers here said yesterday that they had refrained from bidding because of the slackening of the demand for short-term notes. Only a few weeks ago dealers were unable to procure sufficient short-term obligations to meet the demand.

Yesterday was the second time that Cook County had endeavored to sell the issue. The first attempt was made on Dec. 23 last.

SEES NEED FOR CAUTION IN MUNICIPAL LOANS

H. L. Shepherd Jr. Urges Care in Offerings for Projects When Return on Outlay Is Uncertain.

That municipalities should proceed with great caution in marketing bonds for projects in which the return on the outlay may not always be computable is the theory put forward by Henry L. Shepherd Jr. in an article in the current issue of The National Municipal Review, the official publication of the National Municipal League. Mr. Shepherd calls attention to the fact that about one-fourth of municipal expenditures are for what are known as primary functions, meaning protection of life and property and maintenance of law and order. Three-fourths are expenses under the head of secondary functions, which include the long list of social projects.

"The ratio of secondary to primary," according to Mr. Shepherd, "has increased greatly in the last decade, and it is safe to predict that activities which once were considered as optional are now or will in large part be looked on soon as necessities of an advanced state. When we see that secondary and optional outlays have increased greatly in American municipalities we must see also that so have the incomes of their citizens."

Mr. Shepherd listed the following as criteria of a municipality's prosperity: City's assessed valuation of real property, bank transactions, postal receipts, value of manufactured products, estimated value of proposed buildings for which permits have been issued, and wages. He stresses the point that the assessed value of real property is the foremost index.

APPROVE COMBINING PORT AND TUBE BODIES

Approval of Governor Roosevelt's suggestion for the consolidation of the Bridge and Tunnel Commission and the Port of New York Authority to build a new vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River was expressed yesterday by John Knight, majority leader of the State Senate, in a statement issued through the Republican State Committee. Senator Knight added that any plan must be approved by the New Jersey authorities and announced that the Republican legislative leaders already had taken steps to call a conference with representatives of New Jersey.

Governor Morgan F. Larson of New Jersey also declared in favor of consolidation in an interview at Perth Amboy, saying that consolidation might be advantageous to both States and expedite construction.

"If Governor Roosevelt gets the support of the New York Legislature for combining the commissions we will be prepared for action in New Jersey," Governor Larson said.

"I note the recent speech of Governor Roosevelt in regard to a new tunnel," Senator Knight said. "It is time to begin planning for an additional tunnel connecting New York and New Jersey. Bills have been introduced to initiate such construction. One provides for Vehicular Tunnel Commission construction and another provides for Port Authority construction."

ENGINEERS INSPECT WORK ON BRIDGES

The new Hudson River bridge between 179th Street and Fort Lee and the bridge at Kill van Kull being built by the Port of New York Authority were inspected yesterday by several hundred members of the American Society of Civil Engineers who are attending its annual meeting.

The visitors were taken on a municipal ferry first to the Kill van Kull bridge and viewed it in passing. At Edgewater the ferry stopped and many of the engineers went ashore to board buses for the trip to the bridge structure at Fort Lee. They found that about 15,000 wires, or 15 per cent of the cables of the bridge, had been strung across the river.

The Port Authority announced that the approach piers for the Kill van Kull bridge between Bayonne and Port Richmond have been completed and that erection of the steel arch is proceeding rapidly. About 12 per cent of the arch steel has been erected.

$293,398,000 BONDS OFFERED THIS WEEK

UTILITIES GROUP IN LEAD

Success of Telephone Financing Causes Marketing of Other Major Issues.

The week's bond financing aggregated $293,398,000, exclusive of real estate mortgage bonds, the heaviest total since the week ended Feb. 4, 1927, when new issues of bonds aggregating $300,309,000 were placed on the market. This week's real estate financing was headed by an issue of $12,500,000 Forty Wall Street Corporation bonds to finance construction of the Manhattan Company Building.

Last week new offerings of bonds in the amount of $46,882,000 were made. The high record of new offerings in 1929 was for the week ended Friday, Dec. 20, when a total of $227,479,000 were marketed.

A preponderance of public utility issues this week dwarfed the rather large totals of railroad and municipal financing. The list of public utility offerings was headed by the issue of $150,000,000 American Telephone and Telegraph debenture 5s, the largest single offering of bonds in recent years. The banking group, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., announced the closing of subscription books shortly after they were opened on Monday, with orders in hand aggregating $551,000,000.

The success of the telephone issue influenced investment bankers to place other major issues on the market, the largest of which, $35,088,000 Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company 4½s, was quickly sold. The quick sale of the issue of $25,000,000 North American Edison Company 5s by a group headed by Dillon, Read & Co. was also announced, and the bulk of a new issue of $30,000,000 Associated Gas and Electric Company 5s was sold by a group headed by Harris, Forbes & Co.

The principal municipal issue of the week was that of $29,050,000 State of Tennessee 4½ and 4¾ per cent bonds and notes, brought out by a syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers. More than $22,000,000 of the bonds have already been sold.

Offerings by groups of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public utility	$219,300,000	$31,000,000
State and municipal	34,902,000	5,882,000
Foreign	3,358,000	10,000,000

Several important public utility and railroad issues and at least one important industrial issue are being prepared for early offering. Although the bulk of this week's new issues was quickly taken by investors, it was not accomplished without a certain amount of switching from old issues, as the irregular prices in the listed bond market testified.

A table of bonds offered this week, compiled by THE NEW YORK TIMES, appears on this page.

New Bond Trading Rates Begin.

Revised bond commissions for transactions on the New York Stock Exchange went into effect yesterday. The new rate for non-members is $2.50 for each $1,000, compared with $2 previously. For members clearances are now $1.25 instead of 80 cents, as formerly, and member give-ups are 75 cents instead of 50 cents.

CHANGES IN R. C. A. BOARDS.

Owen D. Young Made Chairman of New Executive Committee.

Owen D. Young, who recently resigned as chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, was named yesterday as chairman of the newly formed executive committee of the corporation. Other members of the committee are General James G. Harbord, who succeeded Mr. Young as chairman of the board; David Sarnoff, president; Gordon Abbott, Edward W. Harden, Andrew W. Robertson, James R. Sheffield, Frederick Strauss and Gerard Swope.

The board of directors of the R. C. A. Communications, Inc., yesterday elected General Harbord chairman of the board of directors, and made David Sarnoff president, which post was formerly filled by General Harbord.

STATE BOND PERMIT SOUGHT BY WABASH

Road Will Apply to Have Issues Declared Legal for Savings Banks.

POINTS TO ITS EARNINGS

Wall Street Talks of Possible Additional Financing for Fifth Trunk Line.

The Wabash Railway will make application to the New York Banking Department to have its bonds declared legal for investment by savings banks and fiduciary organizations, it was said yesterday by William H. Williams, chairman. He said that the department had been notified of the intention of the company and that exhibits for presentation were being compiled.

"The Wabash earnings are now at a point where they meet the requirements of the New York regulations," said Mr. Williams. He pointed out that placing of the bonds on the legal list would increase their marketability, but he did not indicate any immediate possibility of a new bond issue by the railroad.

However, it was noted in railroad circles that this action by the Wabash came at a time when the bond market was reviving and any enhancement of the marketability of its securities would be of service in its plans for a fifth trunk line.

Among the Wabash bond issues are $1,600,000 Des Moines division first mortgage 4s, due 1939; $2,047,000 Detroit & Chicago extension first mortgage 5s, due 1941; $33,891,000 first gold 5s, due 1939; $3,555,000 first lien terminal gold 4s, due 1954; $3,173,000 Omaha division first mortgage 3½s, due 1941; $3,000,000 Toledo & Chicago division first mortgage 4s, 1941; $13,993,000 second gold 5s, due 1939; $12,500,000 refunding and general mortgage gold 5½s, due 1975; $15,500,000 refunding and general mortgage gold 5s, due 1976, and $17,867,000 refunding and general mortgage 4½s, due 1978.

Tally Heads United Verde Copper.

R. E. Tally has been elected president of the United Verde Copper Company to take the place of C. W. Clark, who became chairman of the board, a newly created office. J. H. Hall Jr. was elected secretary.

Investment Trust Omits Dividend.

The Intercontinental Investing Company passed yesterday the dividend on the common stock due at this time. The last payment was 25 cents quarterly on Oct. 1, 1929.

FOREIGN BONDS RISE AS HOME ISSUES SAG

RAILS SHOW IRREGULARITY

Public Utilities Divided in Trends—French 7½s and 7s Touch New High Marks.

A slight depression in domestic bonds, while foreign issues moved moderately higher, characterized trading in a sluggish bond market yesterday, with marked declines appearing in several favorite convertible issues. Atlantic Telephone and Telegraph and International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s receded, reflecting weakness in the stock market.

Railroad bonds were mixed. Some inactive issues showed good gains, while the more active of the group moved fractionally higher or lower, with the majority slightly firmer on balance.

Public utility bonds were also divided in trend, with gas issues moving slightly lower as a group. The industrial group was little changed for the most part, Hudson Coal 5s being a strong exception.

United States Government bonds were quiet and irregular. Fourth Liberty 4¼s gained 4-32 and First Liberty 4¼s declined 2-32.

French 7½s reached a new high before meeting profit taking, and French 7s equaled their former high. Mexican Government and railway bonds were firm.

WIDER STOCK PLAN FOR MOTORS CHIEFS

Will Be Extended to Twice the Present Total of Eighty Executives Eligible.

NEW ORGANIZATION IN VIEW

To Replace Present Managers' Securities Company and Buy 1,000,000 Shares of Corporation.

The stock participation plan by which the General Motors Corporation made it possible for about eighty of its chief executives to add largely to their incomes and wealth through the purchase of its shares is to be scrapped. It will be replaced by a plan of much broader scope, should the stockholders vote approval, and it will include about double the number of its present participants from the ranks of General Motors' leading executives.

The corporation announced yesterday that it had acquired more than 1,000,000 shares of its common stock at a cost of about $35,000,000 and would sell these shares to a second Managers' Securities Company to be formed in accordance with a plan approved by the stockholders in 1927 to take the place of the present similar company. It is expected that the Managers' Securities Company will obtain funds for the purchase of stock which the General Motors Corporation is ready to sell to it through a bond isue, which may be publicly offered through a banking syndicate.

The plan by which eighty of the chief executives of the corporation became wealthy men through the appreciation in General Motors shares over the period of years when the corporation was gaining a foothold as one of the leaders of the automotive industry, is said to be the country's outstanding example of employe ownership. The eighty men were stock owners before the long advance started in General Motors shares, and the corporation aided materially by paying to the Managers' Securities Company 5 per cent of the General Motors Company's excess net earnings over and above the 7 per cent of net capital employed.

The original plan was evolved and the Managers' Security Company was formed in 1923, with the purpose in view of permitting important executives to share with stockholders in the profits of the company. The life of the present company does not expire until 1931, but it is planned to terminate it sooner and form the second company, of which the details have not yet been worked out. Directors of the General Motors Corporation will meet in the near future to formulate the details for the new company and subsequently stockholders will be asked to ratify the plan.

Rumors regarding the formation of the new Managers' Securities Company have given rise to recent reports in Wall Street with respect to new financing by the General Motors Corporation. No other financing, it is said, with the exception of a possible bond sale for the new Managers' Securities Company, is under consideration.

Rudolph Spreckels was chosen president of the Sugar Institute, Inc., to succeed Earl D. Babst, at the annual meeting yesterday. Mr. Babst, who declined re-election, was made honorary president.

Other officers elected to serve in 1930 were James H. Post, chairman of the board; W. Edward Foster, vice chairman; H. E. Worcester, vice president; M. E. Goetzinger, secretary; M. E. Rionda, treasurer; James H. Post, chairman of the executive committee; W. Edward Foster, vice chairman of the executive committee, and Fred G. Taylor, acting executive secretary.

MARTIN E. GOETZINGER and J. P. CODY, Arbuckle Brothers.

In reviewing the work of its third year, the institute officials said that it has in effect a code of ethics, the cardinal principle of which is that "sugar should be sold by refiners upon open prices and terms publicly announced and without discrimination between buyers." The statement added:

"It is apparent after two years of operation under this principle that the industry has been greatly benefited, and that the idea has received the general approval of the trade and the public. Among the other activities of the Sugar Institute have been those of research and advertising, the latter having been conducted as a national campaign of an educational character.

"This campaign is being extended and continued with the assistance of professional and scientific agencies and the cooperation of related industries. The research effort, devoted to the nutritional value and dietetic significance of sugar, is also being continued."

In bank and trust company shares, declines were marked in New York Trust, Brooklyn, Bank of United States, City, Corn Exchange, Chase, Central Hanover, Title Guarantee and Trust, Central National, Equitable, Manhattan, Bankers and Irving Trust. A better tone marked Chemical Bank and Trust.

DESULTORY WOOL MARKET.

Prices Only Steady, Foreign Prices Favor Buyers.

BOSTON, Jan. 17 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow: "There has been some desultory business in the local wool market this week at prices which have been fairly steady on the whole. There is a disposition to wait a bit, however, to see what the London sales do Tuesday. Manufacturers, moreover, are between seasons, more or less, although cheerful regarding the outlook.

MILL BUYERS ENCOURAGED

2,000 Americans in Liverpool's 10,000 Bales Spot Sales, Lowest Ratio in Years.

Prices on the Cotton Exchange recovered 6 to 11 points yesterday, the best quotations being made in the final trading. Professional operators sold early after a break in wheat below the Farm Board's lending figure, but a sharp rally in grain influenced cotton sentiment. With the spot month in New York corresponding to the Farm Board's lending figure in Southern markets, selling pressure diminished, while mills were encouraged to fix prices on raw material following the recent decline of a quarter cent.

Liverpool cables put spot sales at 10,000 bales, of which only 2,000 were American, the smallest turnover of American-grown compared with foreign-grown cotton on record. Spot sales so far this month have amounted to 84,000 bales, of which 40,000 were American, compared with 158,000, of which 115,000 were American, from Jan. 2 to 17, 1928. While sales of American staple this year were only 35 per cent of those in the similar period two years ago, sales of foreign-grown cotton amounted to 44,000 bales against 43,000 in 1928. With the marketing of India's new crop, supplies are reaching England and the Continent in increasing quantity.

The week-end figures showed an increase in the general visible supply of 11,000 bales, against a decrease of 120,000 at this time last year. The world's visible of all kinds aggregates 8,151,000 bales, or 400,000 in excess of a year ago. Spinners have taken 430,000 fewer bales than at this date last season, while the into-sight figures show the South has marketed 175,000 bales more than at this time last season.

FARM BOARD TO STUDY COOPERATIVES IN EAST

Survey in New York and 11 Other States Aims to Extend Marketing Act's Benefits.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A survey of 700 local agricultural cooperatives in New York and eleven other Eastern States, aimed at providing a basis for the establishment of sound regional cooperatives in these States, will be conducted by the Federal Farm Board in cooperation with State agricultural colleges, experiment stations, extension workers and State departments of agriculture, Charles S. Wilson, New York member of the board, announced today.

Most of the local cooperattives in the States named are not eligible under the Farm Board marketing act to take advantage of its benefits. The survey was determined upon to enable them to make them eligible.

In a letter to State Governors, heads of the colleges and others Chairman Legge and Commissioner Wilson said the aim of the survey also was to obtain detailed information concerning volume of business, financial condition and costs of operation of each cooperative.

The project was proposed at a conference of agricultural college heads with Commissioner Wilson at Chicago Nov. 4 and was worked out recently by their representatives and officials of the board.

The survey will start as soon as possible and be completely under way by July 1. The entire task is expected to last until July 1, 1931. The survey will be made in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland and West Virginia and New York.

PLAN RUBBER ASSOCIATION.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 17.—Dutch rubber growers met today at The Hague with three delegates from the British growers, Messrs. Bingley, Mathewson and Daukes. They decided to found an association to study the rubber problem.

Announcement of their decision resulted in a demand for rubber shares on the Stock Exchange, where stock was several points higher.

CANADIAN DENIALS END WHEAT'S BREAK

CORN ALSO IS DOWN AND UP

Finish in Oats Is Irregular—Rye Goes to New Lows for Season on Heavy Selling.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Liquidation was general in wheat early today. May broke 2 cents and touched $1.24¾, the lowest figures since Nov. 12. Stop-loss orders were caught and many scattered longs went out of their holdings, with the local element decidedly bearish. Weakness in Winnipeg, where prices were off more than 4 cents, had some effect on values, as did a break of as much as 5 cents in rye here and 8½ cents in Winnipeg.

A heavily oversold condition developed and the surplus was absorbed by a leading Eastern professional, with heavy buying by commission houses and shorts. A rally of 2½ cents followed, with the finish ⅛ cent lower to ¾ cent higher.

A denial that the Canadian pool had been liquidating and messages saying that Canadian banks had not requested holders to sell out had some effect, as did the steady buying of country-run grain by cooperatives at the Farm Board loan figures in Minneeapolis, Duluth and Omaha. The cooperatives have arranged for storage room for 3,000,000 bushels of grain in Duluth. Winnipeg rallied faster than did Chicago and finished ⅜ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, with May there going to 5⅞ cents over Chicago, against 5⅜ cents at the finish yesterday.

Liverpool was weak and 2¾ to 3 pence lower, while Buenos Aires closed 1⅜ to 1½ cents lower. Export demand was active as the result of the break in futures, with sales of 600,000 bushels reported.

The basis at the Gulf was firmer, with No. 2 hard sold at 1 cent over Chicago May and No. 1 hard for first half of February at 4½ cents over the future.

The Department of Agriculture said the outlook for cash wheat prices in January and February had not changed materially, and indications are still for some improvement.

Primary receipts were 487,000 bushels; a week ago, 650,000, and a year ago, 727,000. Shipments were 582,000 bushels; a week ago, 506,000, and a year ago, 740,000.

March and July corn sold early at a new low on the crop, but soon a rally carried prices up around 1½ cents from the low, making the finish firm, with net gains of ½ to ¾ cent. Weather conditions were unfavorable for the movement and Kansas City reported that cooperatives had purchased 100,000 bushels or more cash corn there and had sent it to store, having arranged for storage room for 500,000 bushels of grain. Purchases of the cash were said to have been hedged by sales of futures. The spot basis was steady to ½ cent lower. Country offerings remained small. Buenos Aires closed 1¼ to 2¼ cents lower.

Primary receipts were 749,000 bushels; a week ago, 1,168,000, and a year ago, 1,272,000. Shipments were 647,000 bushels; a week ago, 654,000, and a year ago, 556,000.

Trade was heavy in rye, with selling headed by local professionals who have been decidedly bearish. Prices dropped to a new low for the season on all deliveries. Leading holders were credited with having sold March and bought deferred deliveries. The close was on a rally, though at net losses of 1½ to 2 cents.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

WHOLESALE PRICES EBBED IN DECEMBER

COTTON AND METALS DOWN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The wholesale price level for 1929 stands at 96.5, as compared with 97.7 for 1928 and a base level of 100 in 1926, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor announced today in its review of prices for December and the year just closed. Information collected by the bureau in leading markets showed a minor decrease in the general level of wholesale prices from November to December.

The weighted index number, compared with 100 in 1926, stands at 94.2 for December, 1929, compared with 94.4 for November, a decrease of one-fifth of 1 per cent. The December average was the lowest in seven years. Compared with the index number of 96.7 in December, 1928, a decrease of more than 2½ per cent is shown. Based on these figures the purchasing power of the dollar in December last was 106.2, compared with 100 in 1926.

Farm products in December showed a slight advance over November prices. Foods showed little change. Prices of cotton goods, raw silk and woolen and worsted goods all averaged lower than in the preceding month. In the group of metals and metal products there were slight price declines in steel billets, steel scrap, concrete reinforcement bars and roofing tin, also in pig lead, pig tin, lead pipe, bar silver and slab zinc. Agricultural implements and automobiles showed no change in price.

Raw material, considered as a whole, averaged somewhat higher than in November, while semi-manufactured articles and finished products were lower. Non-agricultural commodities, also, as a group, declined in price.

Of the 550 commodities or price series for which comparable information for November and December was collected, increases were shown in 86 instances and decreases in 162 instances. In 302 instances no change in price was reported.

Comparing prices in December with those a year ago, as measured by changes in the index numbers, hide and leather products, textile products, fuel and lighting materials and chemicals and drugs were appreciably lower, while farm products, metals and metal products, building materials and articles in the group of miscellaneous commodities were somewhat lower. Minor price increases are shown for foods and house furnishing goods.

The December index numbers for the principal groups of commodities are compared with those for November, 1929, and December, 1928, in the following table. The percentages are based on the monthly average of 1926 taken as 100:

REVIVAL OF TRADE SEEN, THOUGH SLOW

Uncertainty of the Weather Throughout United States Has Had Some Effect.

DUN AND BRADSTREET VIEWS

Increase in Steel Operations Noted—Consumption and Output Are Being Balanced.

Although business shows few distinctive departures from the generally quiet conditions that ruled when the year opened, evidences of business revival, although by no means general, are becoming more numerous, according to the weekly business reviews. Reasons for this may be found in retail trade in the wide variety of weather conditions throughout the country, even allowing for its being a midwinter period, while in the wholesale and jobbing trades and in industry the tendency has been to move forward cautiously pending a clearer view of the outlook for the remainder of the Winter and the earlier Spring months.

Bradstreet's says in part:

"Heavy snows from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Coast, with equally heavy rains and their concomitants of swollen streams and broken river levees in some central valleys, and unseasonably warm weather, with rains and fogs east of the Alleghanies early, tended to retard retail buying, notwithstanding a general disposition to feature reduction 'sales' designed to clear up unsold stocks of Winter goods. Among particular points worth noting might be mentioned the heaviest snows in years from Washington to Central California, with cold rains further south.

"In purely industrial zones a further stepping up of steel mill capacity to 65 to 70 per cent, against 85 per cent a year ago, a better demand for pig iron and further liberal buying of rails contrast with a considerable amount of ease in finished lines of steel, particularly plates, shapes, sheets, strips, nails and barb wire. Soft coal has been in liberal supply, as a result of active production, with some complaint resulting as to prices."

"The present process of recuperation from the effects of the late financial unsettlement is chiefly visible now in the quarter where it had been confidently looked for, and the further rise of steel production is especially encouraging when such a trend is helpful to sentiment. The distinct turn for the better in that field reflects a similar change in some allied industries, including automobile manufacture, and the increased number of buyers in dry goods centres is viewed as another hopeful sign.

"Distribution of merchandise not unnaturally has receded from the best previous records, yet remains heavy in the aggregate, and purchasing for replenishment has been more of a factor since annual inventories were completed. Various statistical measurements of trade disclose the contraction of activities in recent months, yet these indices reveal past conditions and there is promise of improvement to follow.

"The balancing of outputs with actual consumption is being accomplished without disorder, but profit margins on many individual transactions are affected by the downward course of commodity prices."

LIVE STOCK TREATY SIGNED.

Mexico Agrees to Border and Port Inspection Against Disease.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Ratifications of the convention between the United States and Mexico to safeguard more effectually the live-stock interests of both countries by preventing the introduction of infectious and contagious diseases, signed March 16, 1928, were exchanged today by Joseph P. Cotton, acting Secretary of State, and Señor Don Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican Ambassador.

The treaty provides for the maintenance at designated border points and seaports authorized for the importation of animals, of an adequate live stock sanitary and veterinary police service for the inspection of animals, animal by-products, forage and commodities that may be carriers of infectious and contagious diseases, with quarantine stations for the detention and observation of animals. It prescribes the adoption of measures by the two countries to prevent infection and contagion among live stock.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Continued small receipts of hogs for this season of the year, with a good shipping demand, today advanced prices 10 to 25 cents, with light weights showing most strength. The top was 15 cents higher at $10.05, while the day's average was up a like amount to $9.70. Most sales were at $9.50 to $9.90, with 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.25 to $9.75, 200 to 250 pound kinds, $9.50 to $10; 160 to 200 pound averages, $9.70 to $10.15, and packing sows $8.15 to $9. Packers bought 21,900 and shippers 13,000, with 2,000 left over. Receipts were 22,000, with 12,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Demand for cattle was slow, but the market was steady at the recent decline. Quality was lacking, with the bulk of the sales at $11 to $13. Receipts were 2,500.

Larger offerings of lambs caused a decline of 35 to 50 cents, with most sales at $13.35 to $13.50 and the top $13.90. Sheep were weak at $5.50 to $6.75. Receipts were 18,000.

Coffee Exchange Amends Rules.

Members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange have voted to amend the by-laws in regard to licensed graders and classifiers so that they shall constitute separate boards under the A, D and F contracts. A second amendment adopted provides that at any time within twelve months of the date of the original certificate of grade issued for coffee under A or D contracts, a verified duplicate may be issued to buyer or seller upon payment of $1 for each copy.

THE CUSTOMS COURT.

Inside Diameter of Metal Pipe Held to Govern Duty.

Where the diameter of imported metal pipes or tubes governs the amount of duty to be assessed, measurements of the inside diameter should be taken, the United States Customs Court ruled yesterday. The decision affirmed the action of customs officials in using the inside diameter as the basis of duty assessed on iron pipe imported by the M. Barde & Sons Steel and Machinery Company of Seattle, Wash.

Wire netting used for poultry fencing and for reinforcing concrete is dutiable at 40 per cent ad valorem as a manufacture of metal not specifically provided for, the court held in another decision. The Du Val Kirk Company of San Francisco, plaintiff in the action, contended that the merchandise should be assessed as woven-wire cloth at 25 per cent ad valorem.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

The sugar futures market was weak yesterday. Prices opened 2 to 5 points lower and closed 2 to 8 points lower, with near positions showing the greatest decline. There was heavy trade selling, liquidation by Wall Street and stop loss selling. Trade houses and interests with Cuban connections were buyers on a scale down.

In the raw market sales are reported of about 10,000 tons of Cubas ex-warehouse at 3.71, equal to 1 15-16. The market closed with further offerings at that basis and with buyers interested at 3.67. Rumors were current on Thursday, prior to the report from Washington that the Senate had voted to retain the present sugar duty, the Cuban single seller sold a block of Cubas at 2 1-16 c. i. f.

Refined sugar was unchanged, with no new business.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday 5 to 5¼ per cent for the best names.
Thursday, 5 to 5¼ per cent for the best names.
The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

More Retail Optimism Noted.

While retailers are still in a cautious frame of mind, it is noteworthy that merchants in the market here during the week displayed a great deal more optimism than had been anticipated. Playing no small part in bolstering up their confidence, it was pointed out here yesterday, is the good turnover experienced at retail during most of this month. The sales figures for more than a few stores are substantially better than was expected at the end of 1929. The view is gaining ground that the first quarter of the year may not prove nearly as bad as it was painted in advance forecasts.

Jewelry Failures Rose Slightly.

Failures in the jewelry trade increased only 26 during 1929, as compared with the previous year, Secretary B. L. Shinn of the National Jewelers Board of Trade reported to the annual meeting of that organization here on Thursday. The figures were released yesterday. The 1929 total of failures was 657, of which 436 occurred in the retail trade. Seventy-five wholesalers and 44 manufacturers passed out during the year. Fifty-five instalment houses also failed. The credit ratings of 82½ per cent of the concerns that failed were "limited" or "unsatisfactory."

Shoe Buying Off Somewhat.

Contrary to expectations, buying of leather footwear by retailers in this market for "at once" delivery was not so active during the first half of this month as it might have been. Wholesalers' volume is keeping up fairly well, but principally because of the orders placed for February and March shipment. The lateness of Easter this year may hold back Spring purchasing in the main, however. Business in rubber footwear has been fairly active. The low stocks in the hands of most retailers—and many wholesalers—is causing speculation as to what the new prices on this merchandise will be when they are made at the end of the month.

Nashua Blanket Prices Reduced.

The last of the important lines of blankets for the 1930 season was priced here yesterday, when Amory, Browne & Co. quoted on Nashua all-cotton and part-wool numbers. The new prices were not given out for publication, but the all-cotton lines were said by an executive of the firm to be about 5 per cent under the opening 1929 prices. Quotations on the part-wool goods show reductions from last year's opening that range from 5 to 10 per cent. The new prices were said to be well received by the jobbing trade. Buying throughout the market was better yesterday than earlier in the week, and a considerable volume of business was placed from all accounts.

Furniture Sales Less Popular.

A trend away from special and semi-annual home furnishings sales has been manifesting itself during the past year, according to a statement made public yesterday by the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc. The fact that customers have waited for the semi-annual and cut-price events to do their buying has been responsible for the change in sentiment, it is claimed. As a substitute for the sales, the company points out, many department stores now offer only a few special values and devote their principal attention to offering well-styled home furnishings without emphasis on price reductions.

Rayon Orders Now Gaining.

Gains in orders for rayon are reported for this month by leading rayon producers. A degree of stabilization has been reached and less is now heard of price changes in the near future. The business is well diversified as to types of yarns, with both bright and dull finished varieties sharing in the bookings. The underwear trade was said to be covering its needs quite actively and a substantial increase has been noted in orders from the cotton goods mills. The latter were credited with holding back their business for some weeks owing to the price uncertainty toward the end of last year.

Kitchen Pottery Trade Active.

Requests for higher priced lines of kitchen pottery constituted a surprisingly large part of the early Spring orders placed with sales agents this week. Similar reports were retailed to the trade here from the trade showing in progress in Pittsburgh. Orders in this market for products of German manufacture were in lager volume than a year ago. The majority specified May delivery. Green led in color preference, with yellow second and blue next. The demand for English pottery, especially teapots, was also above normal.

Await Auto Call for Plate Glass.

With the movement of plate glass in about mid-January volume, producers are awaiting the opening up of activities in the automobile industry, The American Glass Review will say today. Distribution of window glass is far from animated and no very pronounced improvement in buying is looked for during the remainder of the month. Production is being held at a comparatively low figure. Factory operations in the rough rolled and wire glass fields are reported to be on a fairly active basis. The market in these products is showing marked signs of stability.

Industry Using More Coal.

Industrial consumption of bituminous coal has increased since the first of the year, especially in the steel industry, where increased operations have resulted in heavy orders for fuel, Saward's Journal will say today. Unseasonable weather cut into the sale of bituminous coal for heating requirements. The weather had a more adverse effect upon the anthracite market. There the demand for fuel fell off sharply with the rise in temperature. In the prepared coal sizes, chestnut is reported selling in better volume at present. A slight increase in the demand for egg coal was also noticed.

Gray Goods Inquiries Improve.

Better inquiry was reported in the local gray goods market yesterday, but no material gain in buying was reported. Business in printcloths was done at prices ranging from 5¾ cents for 38½-inch 60-48s to 9⅝ cents for 93-inch 80-squares. Buyers of drills paid 7¾ cents for 37-inch 3.95s. In sheetings there was buying of 40-inch 2.85s at 9⅞ cents, of 38-inch three-yard goods at 9⅝ cents and of 36-inch 5.50s at 5½ cents. "Quick" shipments of 72-80 pajama checks were sold at 8⅓ cents.

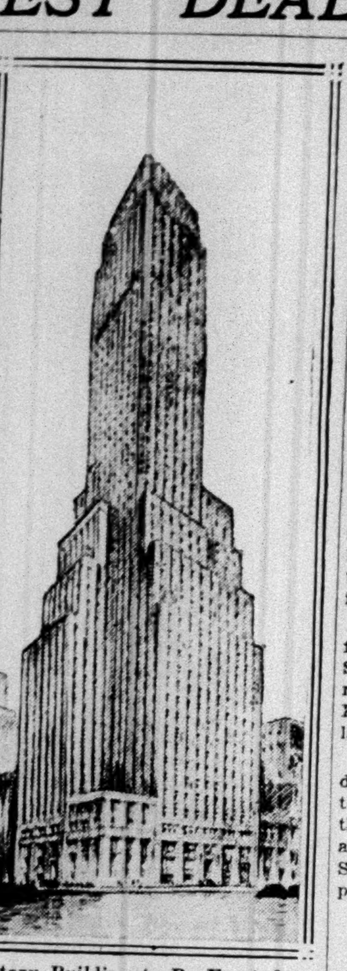
Owner Provides for Possible Change to Office Use of Structure Intended for Garment Trade.



45-Story Building to Be Erected on 7th Av. at 34th St.

A dual purpose skyscraper of forty-five stories, rising to a height of 575 feet and dominating the skyline in the Pennsylvania area, is to be erected on the west side of Seventh Avenue, with frontages also on West Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Streets, it was announced yesterday by H. Craig Severance, Inc., the architect.

The site surrounds a building being erected for the National City Bank at the northwest corner of Thirty-fourth Street and is opposite the buildings in Seventh Avenue acquired several months ago by R. H. Macy & Co. The Pennsylvania Station is one block to the south.

The land for the building was assembled during the last four years by Julius Nelson, dress manufacturer and builder, operating as the 450 Seventh Avenue Corporation. While the structure is being prepared for rental to the farment industry for workrooms, showrooms and offices, Mr. Nelson believes that within ten years the character of the district will become more diversified and is having the building designed for conversion into general office space.

It is expected that the skyscraper will be completed next December. A contract for the general construction work has been awarded to the Joseph E. Gilbert Company, Inc., according to Brown's Letters, Inc., Construction Reports. The Prudence Company has made a $4,000,000 building and permanent loan to finance the project, the mortgage being arranged by the R. F. Brooks Company, Inc.

The structure as planned by Mr. Severance will cover 19,850 square feet, including 203 to 211 West Thirty-fourth Street, 446 to 460 Seventh Avenue and 208 West Thirty-fifth Street. In conformity with building regulations it has setbacks at various levels to the twenty-ninth floor, from which a fifteen-story tower rises, each floor having an area of about 5,000 square feet.

The design is modernized Greek, according to Mr. Severance. The major portion of the façade will be of white brick, with the lower five stories of limestone. There will be an arcade from Thirty-fourth Street to Seventh Avenue and a service traffic corridor for freight. The basement is to be arranged for a restaurant.

To provide for additional vertical transportation if the building is converted to office uses as forecast by Mr. Nelson, the freight elevators will have place to care for extra passenger traffic. The sprinkler system will rise to twenty-one floors.

In addition to assembling the site Mr. Nelson has leased air rights over the adjoining properties, assuring light protection to the proposed structure.

The tallest structure in the garment centre at present is the forty-four-story Navarre Mercantile Building, 565 feet high, at the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. The Hotel New Yorker, on the Eighth Avenue blockfront between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Streets, comprises forty stories, with a height of 443 feet.

The two-story taxpayers on a plot 40 by 100 feet at the northwest corner of Roosvelt Avenue and Eighty-first Street, Jackson Heights, have been acquired by a Manhattan investor from the Holis 209 Place Corporation and F. H. Pralle. The selling price was $135,000, establishing a new value of more than $3,400 a front foot in the section, according to Frank O'Hara, the broker.

Men given jobs must for at least 2 weeks work on straight commission basis that is very liberal, and when given a crew will be expected to work hours his men want to work, which may be as late as 7 or 8 P. M.

This is an opportunity that will be given to only neat appearing, energetic men desirous of advancing themselves.

Applicants need only to write for an interview; it will not be necessary to say anything in this letter other than "I am interested and would like to be given an interview."

Every letter will be given consideration and we will take the trouble to talk to every writer; if you have any doubt as to your ability to manage young men, please do not take the trouble and our time.

BROWN ASKS BIDS ON SEA MAIL ROUTES

FOUR IN NORTH ATLANTIC

$175,000,000 Outlay by Operators Is Involved and $8,000,000 in Annual Subsidies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Postmaster General Brown today called for bids, returnable between Feb. 25 and March 31, on mail contracts on twelve ocean trade routes, including four in the North Atlantic, a program which would require the construction of thirty vessels aggregating about 300,000 gross tons, and costing more than $175,000,000.

He was confident that the first of the vessels would be laid down next Fall. An additional $8,000,000 in annual mail subsidies will be required for the routes.

The contracts include the routes between New York, the Channel ports and Hamburg, now operated by the United States Lines, and a new service connecting Baltimore, Hampton Roads and Hamburg.

Among the vessels would be two 28-knot 45,000-ton super-liners of the Bremen class for the fast North Atlantic passenger service between New York, Cherbourg and Southampton, which must be completed in the Spring of 1934, and two 20-knot 20,000-ton cabin liners, costing $10,000,000 each, for the New York-Hamburg service.

A contract for the New York-London route, now operated by the American Merchant Line, will run for only five years, but it contains a provision permitting extension for five more years if two new or reconditioned 18-knot cabin boats are added to the operator's fleet.

The contracts specify that the North Atlantic service, now operated by the United States Lines with the Leviathan, shall be operated sixteen trips yearly with a 24-knot vessel.

Weekly service will be required on the New York-Hamburg run with 16 and 18 knot vessels until the new cabin liners are provided, while weekly service will be called for on the New York-London route.

After overruling the protest of the United States Lines against the inclusion of the Baltimore-Hamburg service, Mr. Brown specified that this line be operated weekly with 16-knot vessels, with possible replacement by two 18-knot vessels after five years. Bids on the North Atlantic routes were made returnable Feb. 25.

The New York-Valparaiso service now operated by the Grace Line, with an additional 18-knot 8,000-ton passenger and cargo ship, will be provided for through an extension of the present contract from a biweekly to a weekly service.

Mr. Brown said that at least three of the present operators, the Grace Line, the United Fruit Company, and the Colombian Steamship Company, were prepared to lay down the new ships for their routes immediately after the contracts are awarded, and that this would assure a considerable amount of tonnage under construction before the end of 1930.

The bids will be subject to legislation by Congress before the award of contracts. The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee is now considering various measures aimed at granting preference in mail contracts to the present operators of government fleets, and to bar the award of contracts to American companies operating vessels under foreign registry.

Other routes for which bids will be received up to noon Feb. 25, the present operators, the specifications for service and requirements in new constructions are:

Route 19—New York to Puerto Colombia (Colombian Steamship Company); weekly service, with 10½-knot vessels; three new 16-knot 5,000-ton ships to be provided within five years.

Route 37—San Francisco to Puerto Colombia (Panama Mail Line); 26 trips a year with 13-knot vessels; two new 18-knot 4,000-ton vessels to be provided within three years.

Route 38—Tacoma to Valparaiso (Grace Line); 17 trips a year with 10-knot vessels; one 18-knot 8,000-ton vessel to be provided within three years.

Route 39—San Francisco to Puerto Armuelias (Grace Line); weekly service with 11½-knot vessels; three 16-knot 5,000-ton vessels to be provided within three years.

Route 40—New York to Port Limon (United Fruit Company); weekly service with 13-knot vessels; three 16-knot 7,000-ton vessels to be provided within three years.

Route 41—New Orleans to Puerto Colombia (Likes Brothers & Co.); weekly service with 11½-knot vessels; two 16-knot 5,000-ton vessels to be provided within five years.

The bids on the following routes will be opened at noon March 31:

Route 35—New Orleans to Rio Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Bahia Blanca (Mississippi Shipping Company); not less than 36 nor more than 52 trips a year with 10-knot vessels; four 13-knot 4,900-ton vessels to be provided within two years, and two additional vessels of the same class within seven years.

Route 45—New Orleans to West Mediterranean ports (Gulf West Mediterranean Line); 32 trips a year with 10-knot vessels; two 18-knot 5,000-ton vessels to be completed within 10 years.

ADDS TWO WINTER CRUISES.

Two more Winter cruises to the West Indies, bringing the total to four, will be made by the liner Republic, it was announced yesterday by Owen A. Smyth, passenger traffic manager of the United States Lines. The ship is now on the first of the two cruises originally scheduled and will return to Philadelphia Jan. 26. She will sail again Jan. 28 on her second sixteen-day trip and will depart from Philadelphia Feb. 15 and March 5 on the newly scheduled trips.

Shipping circles were surprised by the announcement, as ship lines have felt the market decline to the extent that bookings have been canceled and ships have gone to vacation places with extremely small passenger lists. Mr. Smyth said yesterday that demands for accommodations on the first two cruises were so heavy that two more cruises were necessary to accommodate the applicants.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17.—A disturbance that developed over the North Central States during Thursday night is now centred over Northern Michigan, with a trough extending southward to the Alabama coast. Pressure remains abnormally low over Southern Greenland and it is low and falling rapidly from the Hudson Bay region southwestward to the Dakotas.

Another disturbance is approaching the North Pacific Coast, and still another is approaching the Aleutian Islands. An area of high pressure is advancing eastward over the Northeastern States and another is moving rapidly southeastward with centre over Oklahoma and Northern Texas. Pressure remains quite high from Eastern Alaska southeastward to Idaho and Western Wyoming.

The Michigan disturbance will advance eastward and it will be attended by precipitation mostly in the form of snow Saturday in the Eastern and Southeastern States. Following the passage of this disturbance the western area of high pressure and lower temperature will overspread the entire Washington forecast district.

The temperature wil begin to fall in the Middle States late Saturday afternoon. Cold wave warnings have been issued for Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Northern Florida and portions of Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina.

On Sunday the weather will be fair almost generally with rapidly rising temperature as far east as the Appalachian region and rising temperature Sunday afternoon in the Atlantic States except New England and Florida.

URGE HOUSING RULES TO CUT FIRE HAZARD

WANT SAFE BOILER ROOMS

Would Make Them Fireproof and Bar Gas Meters From Them—Alarm Plan to Be Studied.

Several regulations designed to reduce fire and accident hazards in New York's apartment houses were approved yesterday by Mayor Walker's committee studying revision of the new multiple dwelling law, and were forwarded to Arthur J. W. Hilly, Corporation Counsel, for inclusion among the proposed amendments to be presented to the State Legislature.

The recommendations included a requirement for fireproof enclosures for boiler rooms, with no cellar stair rooms and no gas meters permitted in the room.

Another change would prohibit the installation of gas meters in the halls of apartment buildings hereafter erected; and still another would prohibit the existence of a frame building on the same lot with a dwelling hereafter converted into an apartment house.

To reduce the danger from carbon monoxide gases, ample ventilation, including an opening near the floor, would be mandatory in small garages on the rear of lots.

A separate passageway to a rear business building on the same lot with an apartment house, and at least one room opening on a court or street in cellar apartments would be required under the committee's recommendations. Single entrance and vestibule doors would have to be at least three feet wide. As a safety measure, required height for stair or fire-tower rails would be 2 feet 9 inches. Every apartment not heated from a central plant would be required to have a flue for every fireplace or stove connection.

Landlords would be required to maintain a water supply on every floor of an apartment building. Any increase in the number of apartments in frame buildings would be prohibited.

Discussion of the advisability of requiring a central gong for fire alarm in every apartment house ended with the appointment of a committee to suggest some suitable method of warning all tenants in case of fire or accident. A committee was named also to report on the proposal to allow schools and places of public assembly in residential buildings if shut off entirely from the part of the structure used for living purposes.

A recommendation of Tenement House Commissioner Deegan that no new multiple dwellings for four families be permitted in unsewered streets, a question of particular interest in Queens, was held over for the next conference of the committee, set for next Tuesday.

BOY BURGLAR TURNS WOMAN TO SOCIAL AID

Mrs. Olmstead, Taking as First Case Youth Who Tried to Rob Her, Plans Welfare Career.

Andrew Batchelor, 19 years old, who failed as a burglar when, armed with a toy pistol, he broke into the apartment of Mrs. Henry Marshall Olmstead, Prospect Towers, Tudor City, on Wednesday, has nevertheless achieved his purpose of aiding his family, for he acquired a friend and benefactor in the person of his contemplated victim.

Devoting the last two days to the cause of saving young Batchelor from the consequences of his deed and contemplating ways and means to help the boy to a new start in life, Mrs. Olmstead discovered, she said, a vocation which more than anything else will suit her temperament and personality. She announced her decision to devote herself henceforth to the cause of young people in trouble.

Her announcement followed a day of efforts to raise bail for the young man, who is in the Tombs held for the grand jury. Although she failed to find bondsmen to put up the $5,000 set in the Fourth District court, where the young man was arraigned, she succeeded in making proper contacts to save the boy from the stigma of jail, she announced yesterday.

Mrs. Olmstead declined to reveal the nature of her efforts, announcing, however, that she would do everything in her power to obtain young Batchelor's release. She said that satisfactory arrangements were under way to get employment for the youth if he is freed.

"I believe," she said, "that sentence should be suspended, considering the circumstances and the fact that he is a first offender. A suspended sentence, to my mind, will be quite effective in keeping the boy out of mischief in the future."

Mrs. Olmstead investigated the circumstances of the Batchelor family, she said, adding that her findings had strengthened her desire to be helpful. The family is in dire poverty, aggravated by illness of the parents. At the time of the attempted burglary a young sister of the boy was the only supporting member of the family.

"Aside from my deep sympathy for their plight," Mrs. Olmstead declared yesterday, "it was the memory of the unfailing courtesy and willingness to serve exhibited by the boy during his employment as an elevator boy in Prospect Towers which persuaded me to help him."

WOMAN HELD IN KILLING.

Mrs. Ambrosio Gets Hearing Monday—Admitted Brooklyn Shooting.

Mrs. Agnes Ambrosio of 235 Elton Street, Brooklyn, was arraigned in the Homicide Court in Brooklyn yesterday on an affidavit charging homicide and possession of a pistol. She was held without bail by Magistrate Healy for a hearing Monday.

Mrs. Ambrosio is alleged to have killed Andrew Inguglia, 21 years old, at 2:30 A. M. Thursday. She admitted the killing, but said that she and her father-in-law had received several blackhand letters threatening them with death unless they paid $5,000. She was awakened by a man climbing in the window, she said, and she shot at him in self defense.

A chauffeur's license found in the pockets of the dead man gave his address as 6,613 Eleventh Avenue. According to Assistant District Attorney Hyman Barshaw, who is prosecuting the case, the address given was that of a fish store conducted by Vincent Nuzatoli, who said that Inguglia had worked for him for four and a half years and quit last December. He said the man's parents lived in Italy.

T. A. KECK WINS SUIT OVER ALIMONY CLAIM

Thomas A. Keck, wealthy member of the Manhattan, New York Yacht and Yale clubs, need not pay alimony in a suit brought by Mrs. Helene B. Keck to compel him to support her on the ground that they lived as husband and wife since 1912 and were not wedded by a ceremony because Mr. Keck did not believe in it. The Appellate Division yesterday upheld Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel in denying alimony because "it does not appear that there is any reasonable probability of the plaintiff succeeding on the trial."

Mrs. Keck, who admitted that she and the husband used the names of "Dupree" while they were together, asked for $3,000 a month alimony and $25,000 counsel fees on the ground that the defendant is worth $3,000,000 and has an income of $50,000 a year. Mr. Keck replied that he is worth less than $1,000,000 and has an income of $35,000. He insisted that the plaintiff was never more than his paramour and submitted an affidavit by Charles Browne of Princeton, New Jersey Public Utilities Commissioner, that he had been a friend of Mr. Keck for twenty years and had heard the plaintiff plead with the defendant to wed her.

Madrid Commerce Chamber Warns Government of Condition.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Jan. 17.—The Chamber of Industry and Commerce of Madrid today petitioned the government to adopt the gold money standard in order to improve the country's conditions, which were described as embarrassing. The petition warned that any further decline in the value of the peseta would paralyze business.

It also suggested the curtailment of bank credit to keep money on hand and advised no government interference with business. This is entirely contrary to the policy of the government heretofore.

HOLDUP VICTIM DIES, FAMILY IN WANT

YOUTH HELD FOR MURDER

Paul Bohrer, 40 years old, of 160 Stephen Street, Belleville, N. J., a garage man and the father of four children, died yesterday morning in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, the second victim of the bullets of a young gunman who tried to elude a posse of citizens after robbing an A. and P. grocery store at Cortlandt and Holmes Streets, Belleville, on Thursday afternoon.

Bohrer's family is in such straitened circumstances that his wife, who was at his bedside in the hospital to the last, has only money enough in her possession to bury the body. A relief fund was begun yesterday by the Newark Star-Eagle, the publisher of which, Paul Bloch, started the fund with a contribution of $250. While this relief fund is principally for the Bohrer family, some of it will be donated also to the family of Edward W. Maurer, 19 years old, of 151 Stephens Street, Belleville, a butcher's assistant, who was also killed by the gunman, William Gimbel, 20 years old, of 46 New Street, Belleville, the police said. Gimbel and Maurer were schoolmates.

Double Murder Charge Made.

The death of Bohrer, who was hit in the abdomen, caused a double murder charge to be brought against Gimbel at his arraignment in Belleville last night before Magistrate George Fitzimmons. Magistrate Fitzimmons held the prisoner without bail for the action of the grand jury and immediately after the arraignment Gimbel was transferred to the Essex County jail in Newark. It was said that the case against Gimbel will be pressed with all possible dispatch.

Gimbel is alleged to have obtained $40 from the cash register of the grocery store, and to have taken $6 and a wrist watch from the store manager, Edward Dennis, at the point of a pistol. After the robbery, a posse of citizens, including Bohrer and Maurer, gave chase. Gimbel was later captured by a World War veteran, Peter Lewis, of 277 Stephens Street.

Friends and relatives of Bohrer's grief-stricken widow came to her assistance yesterday. Her children, who did not know of their father's death until several hours afterwards, are Olive, 11 years old; Paul Jr., 9 years old; Doris, 5 years old, and June, 3 years old.

The father worked as an automobile mechanic in a garage next door to his home. For three weeks before Christmas, he was a juryman, and had to lose time from his work. He had lived in Belleville for ten years.

Maurer Popular in Community.

Maurer was one of the most popular young men in the community. His mother, Mrs. Frederick Stammer, it was reported yesterday, is almost prostrated as a result of the tragedy. Besides his mother, the young man is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Robert Braun of 96 Cedar Hill Avenue, Edna, 14 years old; Florence, 12 years old, and Dorothy, 7 years old.

Residents of Belleville said yesterday that they were prepared to give their active support to the relief fund started by The Newark Star-Eagle.

Police Chief Michael Flynn of Belleville said yesterday that Gimbel, a former employe of a paper cup manufacturing company in Newark, had served in the National Guard and won three medals for marksmanship at the National Guard camp at Plattsburg, N. Y.

TAKES UP OWEN CONTEST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Arguments for William C. Lawson, who is contesting the seat of Representative Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida on the ground that through her marriage in 1910 to Reginald A. Owen, a British Army officer, she had lost her American citizenship, were presented to the House Elections Committee today by Noah C. Bainum, counsel for Mr. Lawson. Mrs. Owen has employed no attorney and is handling her own case.

Mr. Bainum declared that Mrs. Owen had not lived in the United States for the required seven years since the death of her husband. He held that the voters of the Fourth Florida District had been informed of this and that she was not eligible to the seat in the House. He cited a case in Wisconsin in which a candidate for Attorney General had received a majority of the vote, although he had fallen from a bridge two days before and had been killed.

Life on the water holds so many new sensations for you, your wife, your youngsters. It stirs the blood, quickens the pulse. The growing child gets so much more out of life if there's a boat in the family—fishing, swimming, camping, adventure! And grown-ups find rest for tired bodies, fagged minds—new scenes, new freedom, new life!

Today a motorboat is well within the reach of everyone. It is possible to secure a fine boat at moderate cost. Its upkeep and operation amounts to little, and there's hardly any depreciation because a boat lasts for years. From the viewpoint of expense, there's no reason why you should deny yourself this fascinating recreation.
